FOSTER'S WEATHER BULLETIN

Washington, D.C., Nov. 20.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 23 to 27, warm wave 23 to 26, cool wave 26 to 29. This was expected to bring a high temperature wave that will move swiftly eastward and be followed by a cold wave in the south. That cold wave and cool wave will bring lower temperatures that will again occur for some days to come, and will be followed by a long period of unusually warm weather.

Unusually severe winter storms will accompany that disturbance and as I cannot now point out on what part of the continent these will be most severe the best advice I can give is for all to prepare. The severe storm forces will cluster around the five days, Nov. 23 to 27. On 27 the earth will pass immediately between the sun and moon. This is called the eclipse node. Mars, Saturn and Mercury will be in magnetic contact with the earth and the moon at a position long known to the old tars that manage sailing ships as one of the surest causes of great storms. Those who study earthquakes say that when the moon is at new or full and is at the same time at its node and perigee earthquakes often occur. Watch weather Nov. 23 to 27.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 29, cross Pacific slope by close of 30, great central valleys Dec. 1 to 3, eastern states and provinces 4. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about 29, great central valleys Dec. 1, eastern states and provinces 3. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about Dec. 2, great central valleys 4, eastern states and provinces 6.

The most interesting feature of this disturbance will be the great rise in temperatures it will bring and continuous warm weather that will follow, covering nearly all the first half of December.

It will be cold enough about Christmas time but the month will average unusually warm, causing a rank growth of winter wheat, and other winter grains. These winter grains are now in good condition and probably remain so to the end of December, starting into January with a heavy growth.

Comets.

Planets do not cross each others orbits or paths around the sun, but comets cross the orbits of all the planets. Most comets go off into space never to return, but comparatively few belonging to the solar system. Jupiter has captured about 30 comets that constantly revolve around the sun and around that planet. I am of the opinion that our moon and all the moons of other planets were once comets.

BORN NEAR HERE

Edward Currie, Prominent Resident of Staten Island, is Dead.

New York, Nov. 18.—Edward Curry, until two years ago the Secretary and Treasurer of the States Island Ferry and Railway Company, died at his Staten Island home on Wednesday, in his 67th year.

Mr. Curry was born near Peterborough, Canada, in 1843, and early in life became connected with the Grand Trunk railroad as a telegraph operator and clerk. In 1860 he entered the service of the Montreal Telegraph Company at Cobourg in the capacity of assistant manager of the office, and was soon promoted to the managership. Later, he associated himself with Orrin S. Wood, Professor Frost's first pupil, and was soon placed in charge of the Northwestern Telegraph Company's office at St. Paul. While in charge of this office Mr. Curry made a record for rapid telegraphy. In 1871 he was promoted to assistant secretary and accountant of the Northwestern Telegraph Company. Twenty-five years ago Mr. Curry came east and settled on Staten Island, where he organized the Staten Island Ferry and Railway Company, of which he became Secretary and Treasurer. On account of ill-health he retired from the active business of the Company two years ago. He is survived by a widow and four sons.

A GOOD SEASON

Wedlocks Found an Increase in the Popularity of Their Summer Resort

Wedlock's steam launch will be beached on Monday for the winter after a very successful summer. The pretty summer resort near the lake enjoyed more than its usual share of patronage during the entire year. The launch is greatly appreciated by the guests and the evening trips across the lake always proved delightful. Wedlocks have gained a reputation for themselves that will swell the number of their visitors every year and next summer should find it more popular than ever. Peterborough launch owners are, in many cases, accustomed to a Sunday morning run to Wedlock's for dinner, continuing on to the lake and returning home in good time.

HASTINGS TO HAVE A NEW CREAMERY

Former Cheese Factory Will Likely Be Replaced in This Way.

At the meeting of the patrons of Ormonde Factory on Saturday Messrs. Southworth, who have creameries at Cannington and Harwood, were heard and it is likely that Hastings is to have a creamery in the near future, instead of a cheese factory.

Messrs. Southworth are prepared to erect a creamery at once and commence operations provided they have the support of the dairying public in this section. In stating his case Mr. Southworth pointed out that the cost of manufacture was practically the same, 4c per lb., for butter against 2c per lb. for cheese. The farmers have their sweet separated milk at home for feed, which is no small item; the cream need only be sent two or three times a week instead of every morning, and many other incidental expenses were cut out.

The majority of the meeting were in favor of a creamery instead of the cheese factory and as soon as Messrs. Southworth make a personal canvass of the territory it is likely that the creamery will go ahead. So confident are they that all they ask is that the patrons agree to send to the creamery one year and they will greet the factory on this guarantee alone.—Hastings Star.

HASTINGS COUNTY HAS EVERYTHING

Has a Little of the Good and Bad of the Best Things in Life.

When you come to think it over, Hastings County is a wonderful region. Pretty near anything can be found within its confines. All sorts of minerals; marble which rivals the best found in Italy; fruits of all kinds nearly not excepting the succulent peanut; in animals we have nearly all varieties seen in America outside of a circus, from bears, wolves and wildcats down to Mary's little lamb. But, perhaps, after all the most striking feature of Hastings County is her people—she has some of the best living people in the world and some of the worst, as witness this deplorable case from Tyendinaga and others which are told of in more northern parts of the County, barbarism, pure and simple, Julius Caesar, when he invaded Britain, found no worse conditions.—Belleville Intelligencer.

WHAT RELATION IS HE TO HIMSELF?

A Tangle Resulting From Marriage Not Often Heard Of.

St. Louis, Nov. 18.—When Harry Hooper, of Jerseyville, Ill., made Mrs. Bertha Gisy his wife he, as nearly as it can be figured out, became his daughter-in-law's stepfather and Mrs. Gisy became her son-in-law's stepmother. Henry Hooper, jr., is now his wife's stepbrother, and the other grown children of the two families are brothers and sisters-in-law, as well as step-brothers and sisters.

This is because Henry Hooper, jr., married Hattie Gisy eight years ago. They have children, who are doubly the grandchildren of the older couple. Henry Hooper, Sr., is seventy-one years old and his bride is sixty-five. He has two grown sons and two grown daughters, and she has two grown sons and one grown daughter. He is a prosperous farmer and his bride was, before the marriage, a widow of Otter Creek.

THE MYSTERIOUS NERVES
How like electricity is the mysterious nerve force which courses through the body, controlling the movement of every muscle and the working of every organ. The secret of keeping the marvellous nervous system in health and vigour is found in the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative.

FISHING POOR

The Past Summer Was a Decided Disappointment to Many.

That the summer of 1909 was a failure as far as good fishing in this district is concerned is now testified to by practically all the lovers of the game in the vicinity of Peterborough. The Otonabee river and Rice Lake did not provide the sport of other years and although there were a number of good catches made they were paltry compared with the fortune of the sport in previous years. One man who resides near the river and who is on the lake as often as the next person stated to-day that he caught only five lunge. He worked harder and with less success than ever before. No one seems to be able to give a reason for the condition. "It just happened," as he stated, "but let us hope that it will not occur again."

SIR NIGEL

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Sir Robert Knolles had served in Brittany before, and he marshaled his men on the march with the skill and caution of the veteran soldier, the man who leaves as little as possible to chance, having too steadfast a mind to heed the fool who may think him overcautious. He had recruited a number of bowmen and men-at-arms at Dinan; so that his following was now close upon five hundred men. In front under his own leadership were fifty mounted lancers, fully armed and ready for any sudden attack. Behind them on foot came the archers, and a second body of mounted men closed up the rear. Out upon either flank moved small bodies of cavalry, and a dozen scouts, spread fanwise, probed every gorge and dingle in front of the column. So for three days he moved slowly down the Southern Road.

Sir Thomas Percy and Sir James Astley had ridden to the head of the column, and Knolles conferred with them as they marched concerning the plan of their campaign. Percy and Astley were young and hot-headed with wild visions of dashing deeds and knight errantry, but Knolles with cold, clear brain and purpose of iron held ever his object in view.

"By the holy Dunstan and all the saints of Lindisfarne!" cried the fiery Borderer, "it goes to my heart to ride forward when there are such honorable chances on either side of us. Have I not heard that the French are at Evran beyond the river, and is it not sooth that yonder castle, the towers of which I see above the woods, is in the hands of a traitor, who is false to his liege lord of Montford? There is little profit to be gained upon this road, for the folk seem to have no heart for war. Had we ventured as far over the marches of Scotland as we now are in Brittany, we should not have lacked some honorable venture or chance of winning worship."

"You say truth, Thomas," cried Astley, a red-faced and choleric young man. "It is well certain that the French will not come to us, and surely it is the more needful that we go to them. In sooth, any soldier who sees us would smile that we should creep for three days along this road as though a thousand dangers lay before us, when we have but poor broken peasants to deal with."

But Robert Knolles shook his head. "We know not what are in these woods, or behind these hills," said he, "and when I know nothing it is my wont to prepare for the worst which may befall. It is but prudence so to do."

"Your enemies might find some harsher name for it," said Astley with a sneer. "Nay, you need not think to scare me by glaring at me, Sir Robert, nor will your ill-pleasure change my thoughts. I have faced fiercer eyes than thine, and I have not feared."

"Your speech, Sir James, is neither courteous nor good," said Knolles. "and if I were a free man I would cram your words down your throat with the point of my dagger. But I am here to lead these men in profit and honor, not to quarrel with every fool who has not the wit to understand how soldiers should be led. Can you not see that if I make attempts here and there, as you would have me do, I shall have weakened my strength before I come to that part where is can best be spent?"

"And where is that?" asked Percy.

"Fore God, Astley, it is in my mind that we ride with one who knows more of war than you or I, and that we would be wise to be guided by his rede. Tell us then what is in your mind."

"Thirty miles from here," said Knolles, "there is, as I am told, a fortalice named Ploermel, and within it is one Bambro, an Englishman, with a good garrison. No great distance from him is the Castle of Josselin where dwells Robert of Beaumanoir with a great following of Bretons. It is my intention that we should join Bambro, and so be in such strength that we may throw ourselves upon Josselin, and by taking it become the masters of all mid-Brittany, and able to make head against the Frenchmen in the south."

"Indeed I think that you can do no better," said Percy heartily, "and I swear to you on jeopardy of my soul that I will stand by you in the matter! I doubt not that when we come deep into their land they will draw together and do what they may to make head against us; but up to now I swear by all the saints of Lindisfarne that I should have seen more war in a summer's day in Liddesdale or at the Forest of Jedburgh than any that Brittany has shown us. But see, yonder horsemen are riding in. They are our own hobblers, are they not? And who are these who are lashed to their stirrups?"

A small troop of mounted bowmen had ridden out of an oak grove upon the left of the road. They trotted up to where the three knights had halted. Two wretched peasants whose wrists had been tied to their leathers came leaping and straining beside the horses in their effort not to be dragged off their feet. One was a tall, gaunt, yellow-haired man, the other short and swarthy, but both so crusted with dirt, so matted and tangled and ragged, that they were more like beasts of the wood than human beings.

"What is this?" asked Knolles. "Have I not ordered you to leave the countryfolk at peace?"

The leader of the archers, old Wat of Carlisle, held up a sword, a girdle and a dagger. "If it please you, fair sir," said he, "I saw the glint of these, and I thought them no fit tools for hands which were made for the spade and the plow. But when we had ridden them down and taken them, there was the Bentley cross upon each, and we knew that they had belonged to yonder dead Englishman upon the road. Surely then, these are two of the villains who have slain him, and it is right that we do justice upon them."

Sure enough, upon sword, girdle and dagger shone the silver Molene cross which had gleamed on the dead man's armor. Knolles looked at them and then at the prisoners with a face of stone. At the sight of those fell eyes they had dropped with inarticulate howls upon their knees, screaming out their protests in a tongue which none could understand.

"We must have the roads safe for wandering Englishmen," said Knolles. "These men must surely die. Hang them to yonder tree."

He pointed to a live-oak by the roadside, and rode onward upon his way in converse with his fellow-knights. But the old bowman had ridden after him.

"If it please you, Sir Robert, the bowmen would fain put these men to death in their own fashion," said he.

"So that they die, I care not how," Knolles answered carelessly, and looked back no more.

Human life was cheap in those stern days when the footmen of a stricken army or the crew of a captured ship were slain without any question or thought of mercy by the victors. War was a rude game with death for the stake, and the forfeit was always claimed on the one side and paid on the other without doubt or hesitation. Only the knight might be spared, since his ransom made him worth more alive than dead. To men trained in such a school, with death forever hanging over their own heads, it may be well believed that the slaying of two peasant murderers was a small matter.

And yet there was special reason why upon this occasion the bowmen wished to keep the deed in their own hands. Ever since their dispute aboard the Basilisk, there had been ill-feeling betwixt Bartholomew the old bald-headed bowyer, and long Ned Widdington the Dalesman, which had ended in a conflict at Dinan, in which not only they, but a dozen of their friends had been laid upon the cobble-stones. The dispute raged round their respective knowledge and skill with the bow, and now some quick wit amongst the soldiers had suggested a grim fashion in which it should be put to the proof, once for all, which could draw the surer shaft.

A thick wood lay two hundred paces from the road upon which the archers stood. A stretch of smooth grassy sward lay between. The two peasants were led out fifty yards from the road, with their faces toward the wood. There they stood, held on a leash, and casting many a wondering frightened glance over their shoulders at the preparations which were being made behind them.

Old Bartholomew and the big Yorkshire man had stepped out of the ranks and stood side by side each with his strung bow in his left hand and a single arrow in his right. With care they had drawn on and greased their shooting-gloves and fastened their bracers. They plucked and cast up a few blades of grass to measure the wind, examined every small point of their tackle, turned their sides to the mark, and widened their feet in a firmer stance. From all sides came chaff and counsel from their comrades.

"A three-quarter wind, bowyer!" cried one. "Aim a body's breadth to the right!"

"But not thy body's breadth, bowyer, laughed another. Else may you be overwide."

"Nay, this wind will scarce turn a well-drawn shaft," said a third. 'Shoot dead upon him and you will be clap in the clout."

"Loose easy and prick low, or I am five crowns the poorer man."

"A week's pay on Bartholomew!" shouted another. "Now, old fat-pate, fail me not!"

"Enough, enough! Stint your talk!" cried the old bowyer, Wat of Carlisle. "Were your shafts as quick as your tongues there would be no facing you. Do you shoot upon the little one, Bartholomew, and you, Ned, upon the other. Give them law until I cry the word then loose in your own fashion and at your own time. Are you ready! Hola, there, Hayward, Beddington, let them run!"

The leashes were torn away, and the two men, stooping their heads, ran madly for the shelter of the wood amid such a howl from the archers as beaters may give when the hare starts from its form. The two bowmen, each with his arrow drawn to the pile, stood like russet statues, menacing, motionless, their eager eyes fixed upon the fugitives, their bow-staves rising slowly as the distance between them lengthened. The Bretons were half-way to the wood, and still Old Wat was silent. It may have been mercy or it may have been mischief, but at least the chase should have a fair chance of life. At six paces he turned his grizzled head at last.

"Loose!" he cried.

At the word the Yorkshireman's bow-string twanged. It was not for nothing that he had earned the name of being one of the deadliest archers of the North and had twice borne away the silver arrow of Selby. Swift and true flew the fatal shaft and buried itself to the feather in the curved back of the long yellow-haired peasant. Without a sound he fell upon his face and lay stone-dead upon the grass, the one short white plume between his dark shoulders to mark were Death had smote him.

The Yorkshireman threw his bow-stave into the air and danced in triumph, whilst his comrades roared their fierce delight in a shout of applause, which changed suddenly into a tempest of hooting and of laughter.

The smaller peasant, more cunning than his comrade, had run more slowly, but with many a backward glance. He had marked his companion's fate and had waited with keen eyes until he saw the bowyer loose his string. At the moment he had thrown himself flat upon the grass and had heard the arrow scream above him, and seen it quiver in the turf beyond. Instantly he had sprung to his feet again and amid wild whoops and halloos from the bowmen had made for the shelter of the wood. Now he had reached it, and ten score good paces separated him from the nearest of his persecuters. Surely they could not reach him here. With the tangled brushwood behind him he was as safe as a rabbit at the mouth of his burrow. In the joy of his heart he must needs dance in derision and snap his fingers at the foolish men who had let him slip. He threw back his head, howling at them like a dog, and at the instant an arrow struck him full in the throat and laid him dead among the bracken. There was a hush of surprised silence and then a loud cheer burst from the archers.

"By the rood of Beverley!" cried old Wat, "I have not seen a finer roving shaft this many a year. In my own best day I could not have bettered it. Which of you loosed it?"

"It was Aylward of Tilford—Rankin Aylward," cried a score of voices, and the bowman, flushed at his own fame, was pushed to the front.

"Indeed I would that it had been at a nobler mark," said he. "He might have gone free for me, but I could not keep my fingers from the string when he turned to jeer at us."

"I see well that you are indeed a master-bowman," said old Wat, "and it is comfort to my soul to think that if I fall I leave such a man behind me to hold high the credit of our craft. Now gather your shafts and oh, for Sir Robert awaits us on the brow of the hill."

All day Knolles and his men marched through the same wild and deserted country, inhabited only by these furtive creatures, hares to the strong and wolves to the weak, who hovered in the shadows of the wood. Ever and anon upon the top of the hills they caught a glimpse of horsemen who watched them from a distance and vanished when approached. Sometimes bells rang an alarm from villages amongst the hills, and twice they passed castles which drew up their drawbridges at their approach and lined their walls with hooting soldiers as they passed. The Englishmen gathered a few oxen and sheep from the pastures of each, but Knolles had no mind to break his strength upon stone walls, and so he went upon his way.

Once at St. Meen they passed a great nunnery, girt with a high gray lichened wall, an oasis of peace in this desert of war, the black-robed nuns basking in the sun or working in the gardens, with the strong gentle hand of Holy Church shielding them ever from evil. The archers doffed caps to them as they passed, for the boldest and roughest dared not cross that line guarded by the dire ban and blight which was the one only force in the whole steel-ridden earth which could stand betwixt the weakling and the spoiler.

The little army halted at St. Meen and cooked its midday meal. It had gathered into its ranks again and was about to start, when Knolles drew Nigel to one side.

"Nigel," said he, "it seems to me that I have seldom set eyes upon a horse which hath more power and promise of speed than this great beast of thine."

"It is indeed a noble steed, fair sir," said Nigel. Betwixt him and his young leader there had sprung up great affection and respect since the day that they set foot in the Basilisk.

"It will be the better if you stretch his limbs, for he grows overheavy," said the knight. "Now mark me, Nigel! Yonder betwixt the ash-tree and the red rock what do you see on the side of the far hill?"

"There is a white dot upon it. Surely it is a horse."

"I have marked it all morning, Nigel. This horseman has kept ever upon our flank, spying upon us or waiting to make some attempt upon us. Now I should be right glad to have a prisoner, for it is my wish to know something of this country-side, and these peasants can speak neither French nor English. I would have you linger here in hiding when we go forward. This man will still follow us. When he does so, yonder wood will lie betwixt you and him. Do you ride round it and come upon him from behind. There is broad plain upon his left, and we will cut him off upon the right. If your horse be indeed the swifter, then you cannot fail to take him."

Nigel had already sprung down and was tightening Pommers' girth.

"Nay, there is no need of haste, for you cannot start until we are two miles upon our way. And above all I pray you, Nigel, none of your knight-errant ways. It is this man that I want, him and the news that he can bring me. Think little of your own advancement and much of the needs of the army. When you get him, ride westwards upon the sun, and you cannot fail to find the road."

Nigel waited with Pommers under the shadow of the nunnery wall, horse and man chafing with impatience, whilst above them six round-eyed innocent nun-faces looked down on this strange and disturbing vision from the outer world. At last the long column wound itself out of sight round a curve of the road, and the white dot was gone from the bare green flank of the hill. Nigel bowed his steel head to the nuns, gave his bridle a shake, and bounded off upon his welcome mission. The round-eyed sisters saw yellow horse and twinkling man sweep round the skirt of the wood, caught a last glimmer of him through the tree-trunks, and paced slowly back to their pruning and their planting, their minds filled with the beauty and the terror of that outer world beyond the high gray lichen-mottled wall.

Everything fell out even as Knolles had planned. As Nigel rounded the oak forest, there upon the farther side of it, with only good greensward between, was the rider upon the white horse. Already he was so near that Nigel could see him clearly, a young cavalier, proud in his bearing, clad in purple silk tunic with a red curling feather in his low black cap. He wore no armor, but his sword gleamed at his side. He rode easily and carelessly, as one who cares for no man, and his eyes were forever fixed upon the English soldiers on the road. So intent was he upon them that he gave no thought to his own safety, and it was only when the low thunder of the great horse's hoofs broke upon his ears that he turned in his saddle, looked very coolly and steadily at Nigel, then gave his own bridle a shake and darted off, swift as a hawk, toward the hills upon the left.

Fifteen Years of Agony

"Fruit-a-tives" Promptly Cured Him After Doctors Had Failed To Give Relief.

CHARLES BARRETT, Esq.

Harbor au Bouche,
Antigonish Co., N.S., March 24, 1909.

"I wish to express my sincere appreciation of the great benefit I received from taking "Fruit-a-tives." I suffered from Biliousness and Dyspepsia for fifteen years and I consulted physicians and took many kinds of ordinary medicine, but got no relief. I was in miserable health all the time and nothing did me any good. I read the testimonial of Archibald McKechnie, of Ottawa, and I decided to try "Fruit-a-tives." I have taken a number of boxes of "Fruit-a-tives," but before I had taken one box I felt better and now am entirely well.

"I am thankful to be well after fifteen years suffering, and I am willing to have this statement published for the sake of other sufferers, and to them I strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives."

Was Weak and Nervous.

Heart Would Stop Beating.

Mr. Paul Poull, Cascapedia, Que., writes:—"About five years ago I gave up all hope of getting better of heart trouble. I would nearly choke, and then my heart would stop beating. I could not lie on my left side, and became so nervous and weak I could not work. A friend told me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and before the first box was taken I was almost well, and the second box completed the cure. I have advised many others to try them, and they have all been cured of the same trouble. I have offered to pay for a box for anybody they do not cure."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are a specific for all diseases or disorders arising from the heart or nerve system. They make the weak heart strong and the shaky nerves firm by imparting a strengthening and restorative influence to every organ and tissue of the body and curing palpitation of the heart, dizziness, sleeplessness, anaemia, twitching of the muscles, sensation of "pins and needles," general debility, lack of vitality, etc.

Price, 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Answer This Question

When thousands of women say that they have been cured of their ailments by a certain remedy, does this not prove the merit of that remedy?

Thousands of women have written the story of their suffering, and have told how they were freed from it by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—for thirty years these reports have been published all over America.

Without great merit this medicine could never have gained the largest sale of any remedy for woman's ills—never could have become known and prized in nearly every country in the world.

Can any woman let prejudice stand between her and that which will restore her health? If you believe those who have tried it you know this medicine does cure.

Read this letter from a grateful woman, then make up your mind to give Mrs. Pinkham's medicine a chance to cure you.

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. Letitia Blair, Canifton, Ontario.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

A WEST POINT HAZING

SINGING HIS OWN PRAISES.

He Was Kept at It to His Own Mortification and the Delight of the Upper Class Men—A Clipping From His Home Paper Started the Trouble.

Hazing at the United States Military academy, West Point, has in the past ten years been so frequently followed by punishment and otherwise discountenanced that it has practically become a thing of the past. A third of a century ago the modes of hazing were varied and many of them unique. A certain graduate who hailed from south of Mason and Dixon's line and from west of the Alleghany mountains told this story of his own experience:

He was a tall, rawboned fellow when he entered the academy as a "plebe" and had been assigned to a room with a bright little chap, with whom he soon became very friendly and confidential. Several weeks after he had entered the academy he received a letter from his good mother, in which she had inclosed a clipping from their county newspaper.

The article mentioned the fact that young Mr. —— had received an appointment to West Point and had left for that place several days before; that, whereas they extended congratulations to the young man, the United States government was to be much more greatly congratulated upon obtaining as one of its embryo soldiers a man from their community, the son of such a noble sire, whose sire and great-sires had been equally noble, a young man above reproach, of great intellect and bound to make his mark in any calling he might elect, etc.

This article inspired its recipient with pride and pleasure. He found it impossible to refrain from showing it to his roommate and an hour after having done so was accosted while going downstairs by an upper class man who had been drilling him and had been very severe. At this meeting the upper class man, who was about half his size, looked at him solemnly, removed his cap and said: "Mr. ——, I humbly beg your pardon for having been so stern with you. I did not know until a few moments ago what a distinguished and intellectual young man you were. You honor us by becoming one of us."

The pleased "plebe," never for a moment scenting mischief, grinningly replied: "That's all right, Mr. ——. I forgive you."

That evening while the "plebe" and his roommate were engaged in study there was a knock at their door, and there entered the upper class man who had accosted and apologized to the "plebe" on the stairs, he being accompanied by a dozen other upper class men. He thus addressed the "plebe:" "Mr. ——, here are a number of your brother cadets who are desirous of knowing what a, particularly distinguished man they have among them. You will therefore kindly read what your newspaper says of you."

The "plebe" was inclined to demur, but the determined manner and steely eye of the little upper class man compelled obedience. Embarrassed, he stumblingly read the whole article, at the conclusion of which the little upper class man stated that the reader had mumbled in parts, had failed to enunciate distinctly and required the poor "plebe" to read it again. This having been done, all shook hands with him in an apparently most deferential manner, after which the little upper class man stated that they would call the next evening augmented by other cadets and that in the meantime the "plebe" would commit the article to memory and be in readiness to repeat it when they called.

His manner brooked no disobedience. The call was made the next evening, the number of cadets being nearly double that of the previous evening, and he repeated the article, being prompted by the little upper class man, before the departure of his visitors he was informed that he would be visited the next evening by a still greater number of cadets, and he was

A Family Necessity

Is a remedy capable of affording immediate relief to the hundred and one ailments that constantly arise. It may be a cold, perhaps toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back—use Polson's Nerviline, it's penetrating, pain-subduing, and powerful.

NERVILINE

is at least five times stronger than ordinary remedies and its worth in any household can't be overestimated. For man or beast, Nerviline is a panacea for all pain.

"Not If It Cost Ten Dollars

A bottle, would I be without Polson's Nerviline," writes J. A. Ruth, a farmer living near Trenton, Ont. "Nerviline is the best household liniment I know. We use it for stomach troubles, indigestion, headache, and Summer complaint. I know of nothing better to take in hot water to break up a cold, or to rub on for rheumatism or neuralgia." Every farmer should keep a few bottles of Nerviline handy, and have smaller doctor bills.

Nerviline is a protection and safeguard against the pains and aches of the entire family, and cures rheumatism, neuralgia, toothache, etc. 25 cents for a large bottle.

observed to be prepared to declaim the article depicting his virtues.

The visit was made and the declamation rendered. He was then informed that he would be again visited the following evening and would prepare himself so as to be able to render the article in song. This visit was made, the room being fairly packed with cadets, and the poor "plebe" was required to stand on a table and howl the article from start to finish, for he had not the faintest understanding of how to sing or turn a tune. In after years he said that if he had ever had any egotism in his composition it was completely knocked out of him by having to handle that article as he had to handle it.—J. W. Duncan in Lippincott's.

The Same Stock.

People who knew the Huntley family, "root and branch," always said that there could be only one other person in the world as blunt and tactless as James Huntley, and that was his cousin William. James lived in New York and William in Boston. One day James appeared at William's home just at dinner time.

"Well, this is a surprise!" said William. "You're the last person in the world I should have expected to see tonight! Got tired of home?"

"You wouldn't have seen me if I could have got through my business in time to catch the 3 o'clock train," said James. "I tried hard enough."

The cousins looked cheerfully at each other and were quite unaware of the frantic efforts made by Mrs. William to guide the conversation into a smooth channel. Seated at last at the dinner table and attacking the roast beef, the host said:

"If I'd known you were going to drop in on us this way, without warning, I'd have ordered a better dinner."

"Don't trouble about that," said James heartily. "It does well enough, and next time I'll be sure to let you know beforehand."—Youth's Companion.

Proposals in Holland.

A very nice girl made me her confidences concerning Dutch youth. She was not engaged—no, and for an excellent reason. There had been no ice for two years. The canals never once had frozen over—ergo, there had been no chance for the engagements, which in Holland are made on the ice, where suddenly no stiff conventions exist and girls and young men are free to mingle as we do. Her sister had become a young lady in a fortunate but very cold year, and her engagement had taken place at once, and she now lived in America. I saw her once. Her hair had been loosened to a brave pompadour, she wore her waist long and loose, and she had joined a woman's club. My friend, the unmarried one, had once done an awful thing. It had nearly upset the family. She had walked alone a square with a very "old man of forty" whom she had met many times at her grandmother's!—Harper's Bazar.

SWALLOWS.

When daylight fades, and sunset colors dim,
The meadow-land is sweet with evening scent;
And there where flows the brook in calm content,
The cattle wander, grazing by the brim.
Then, joyously the swallows lightly skim
No longer far up in the firmament,
But, low along the brook, with one consent
Fly back and forth, and oft beneath the rim
Bend darting wing. With twitter soft and sweet,
Up stream and down they go in sheer delight.
So late they linger, dipping thus below
The gleaming surface, they would fain repeat
The joy of that day's gladness in their sight
By bathing in the very sunset glow.

NORTHCLIFFE IN THE WEST.

How Harmsworth Conducted an Interrogatory Regarding Canada.

Western newspapers and western railwaymen have an idea that they are hustlers, but they readily yield the palm to the great English journalist who is now touring the West, and whom they admit is the livest wire that ever struck the prairie provinces. He is making a flying trip through the West and it is safe to say when he has returned he will know more about Western Canada from a social, economic, political, or any other old standpoint than the oldest old-timer west of the great lakes. No reporter was ever more of a walking interrogation point than Lord Northcliffe. He can interview more people and secure more information in the shortest possible time than any other man the West has ever seen. The West takes off its hat to Lord Northcliffe. He can beat it at its own game.

Many are the stories which are drifting in from the West of Lord Northcliffe's methods of securing first-hand information, and of his keen powers of observation. W. P. Hinton, general passenger agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific, accompanied Lord Northcliffe over the new road as far as Edmonton.

"There was no chance to point out or explain anything to Lord Northcliffe," said Mr. Hinton in recounting his experiences. "Why he saw a thing and had it all sized up before you realized that he had noticed it at all. He wanted his information at first hand and he got it. Wherever he stopped he walked right up to the nearest man and pumped him full of questions that soon emptied him of everything that he knew about the country. He walked right into stores and talked to the men behind the counter as well as to the proprietors.

"In one town he walked into the newspaper office, shook hands with the editor and then walked into the composing room. One glance at the printer and he hailed him: 'What part of Kent are you from?' And before the printer had recovered from his astonishment he had told all about himself and his family and their experiences in the world."

During his trip to Edmonton Lord Northcliffe made several short excursions out into the country. He visited the farms, talked with the farmers and their wives, and in a brief few minutes had their whole life's story.

THE RIDDLE OF SLEEP

A Mystery That the Mind of Man is Unable to Penetrate.

THE CAVERN OF MORPHEUS.

It Is Pitch Black as Far as Human Understanding Goes, For We Know No More About It Than We Do About Its Twin Mystery, Death.

When all is written, how little we know of sleep! It is a closing of the eyes, a disappearance, a wondering return. In uneasy slumber, in dreamless dead rest, in horrid nightmare or in contagion of somnolent fancies the eyes are blinded, the body is abandoned, while the inner essence is we know not where. We have no other knowledge of sleep than we have of death. In delirium or coma or trance, no less than in normal sleep and in dissolution, the soul is gone. In these it returns, in that it does not come again, or so we ignorantly think.

Yet when I reflect on my death I forget that I have encountered it many times already and find myself none the worse. I forget that I sleep. The fly has no shorter existence than man's. We bustle about for a few years with ludicrous importance, as bottleflies buzz at the window panes. They, too, may imagine themselves of infinite moment in this universe we share with them. But this is to take no account of the pragnostics of sleep. There is something hidden, something secret, some unfathomed mystery whose presence we feel, but cannot verify; some permeative thought insistently moving in our hearts, some phosphorescence that glows we know not whence through our shadowy atoms.

Neither sleep itself nor half its promises nor mysteries have been plumbed. It is the mother of superstitions and of miracles. In dreams we may search the surface powers of the freed soul. Visions in the night are not all hallucinations; voices in the night are not all mocking. There is a prophet dwells within the mind—not of the mind, but deeper throned in obscurity.

The brain cannot know of this holy presence nor of its life in sleep. The brain is mortal and untrustworthy, a phonograph and a camera for audible and palpable existence. Strike it a blow in childhood so that it ceases its labors and awake it by surgery after forty years and it will repeat the infantile action or word it last recorded and will take up its task on the instant, making no account of the intermediate years. They are nonexistent to it. Yet to that hidden memory those diseased years are not blank. It knows, it has recorded, though the brain has slept. And in hypnotic or psychic trance, when that wonderful ruler is released from the prison of the body, it can speak through the atom blent machinery of the flesh and tell of things man himself could not know because of his paralyzed brain. This ruler is not asleep in sleep, nor in delirium is it delirious, and in death is it dead? Through all the ages it has been our sphinx, which we have interrogated in vain. It joins not in our laughter nor our tears. We have fancied it with immobile, brooding features of utmost knowledge and wisdom and sorrow. It has asked us but one question, nor from the day of Oedipus unto today have we answered rightly, so that we die of our ignorance. It is Osiris living in us. It is the unknown God to whom we erect our altars, the fire in the tabernacle, the presence behind the veil. Not in normal wakefulness at least will it answer our queries, but in sleep sometimes it will speak. And it may possibly be that at last, after all these centuries, we are learning how to question it and in hypnotic trance and in the fearful law of suggestion are discovering somewhat of its mystery and how to employ it for our worldly good. Yet to its essential secret we are no closer than our forefathers were.

We may define dreams and nightmare, coma and swoon and trance with what terms we will, search their physical reasons and learn to guide and guard, yet we know no more of them than of electricity. We may begin to suspect that telepathy and clairvoyance and occult forces of the soul are not superstitious fancies, and we may even empirically classify and study and direct them. Yet the soul itself is no nearer our inquisition.

Though we should know of its reality, though our finite minds should fathom the infinitude, of what benefit would it be? Would it modify our beliefs or our hopes or our faiths? Would it dictate one action to our passionate lives? There would be no change in human nature and no reforms of the world. We are the children of our fathers, and our children will tread the prehistoric paths. Dreams are our life, whether we wake or sleep. We drowse through existence, awaking and dying and being reborn daily, ever torpescent and unamazed, and our thousand slumberous deaths we call restorative sleep—sleep that restores our physical being, building up where we have torn down, recreating what we destroy.

Black—pitch black, indeed—is the cavern of Morpheus. Faith peoples it with varied legions and builds its chaos into myriad forms. Nightly we enter it and drain the Lethean stir and forget, and daily we return with rejoicings, babbling of dreams that were not dreamed, and finally we enter for the last time and drain somewhat more deeply the essence of ecstasy and awake no more and no more return to the autumn dyed skies of the dawn. And yet we shall dream.—Atlantic Monthly.

Many a young man starts in to work fired with a noble ambition. Then the ambition evaporates, and he gets fired.—Chicago News.

A CITY OF ELEVATORS

City at the Head of the Great Lakes Now Has a Vast Storage Capacity and There Seems to Be No Limit to Its Growth—First Elevator Was Built In 1883, and Only Held a Half Million Bushels.

It is when the first of the new wheat crop arrives at the head of the lakes, that Fort William's status in the British Empire must, in at least one respect, surpass that of any other city in the King's domain. Wheat, and as system of terminal elevators, unsurpassed in this or any other country, has caused Fort William's fame to spread in districts where this cereal is grown for a livelihood and in those in which a stalk of wheat would be a source of wonderment. It is scarcely forty years ago that there was not sufficient wheat grown on the North American continent to fill the huge elevators now completed and under construction at the head of Canadian lake navigation. Here, where the first little wooden elevator was constructed by the Canadian Pacific Railway 26 years ago, can be stored, when the three elevators under construction are completed a few weeks hence, sufficient wheat to feed every man, woman and child in the Dominion for nearly a year.

Fort William's elevators, where the ripening crop of the west will be housed while on its way to the markets of the world, are not only numerous, but a number of them are the most modern that human skill can devise. With nearly a million bushels of wheat pouring into Fort William daily during the autumn months, nothing can deal with the grain traffic but the most efficient and rapid systems of caring for and disposing of the wheat when it arrives. And it is the necessity for speed in handling that has developed the great elevator systems, where there will be available this fall a storage capacity of approximately 27,000,000 bushels, including the Canadian Northern elevator at Port Arthur, or almost sufficient to house one-third of the export wheat grown in the broad fields of the western provinces last season. Like everything else in connection with the grain trade of western Canada, including the growing of wheat, the present system of grain handling is one of gradual growth, and represents in comparison with the methods of fifty years ago, the same advance that there has been in transportation and harvesting.

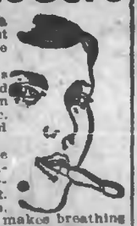
It was in 1883 that the first elevator was built here. The capacity—500,000 bushels—was considered sufficient to handle the grain of the west for many years to come. The crop of the following year gave the railway company some idea of the possibilities of the prairie provinces under good conditions, and it quickly added two more wooden houses to its equipment on the banks of the Kaministiquia river, these three being known as A, B and C, having a combined capacity of 4,300,000 bushels. The general principle upon which the elevators are built must remain the same, the operation being one of merely raising the grain by endless belts and buckets to the highest portion of the house, whence it is conveyed by carrying belts to any desired portion. When it is desired to move the contents of any particular bin, they are allowed to flow from the bottom upon a similar set of belts, and the grain is carried again to the "legs," in which it is elevated and taken to another portion of the house or the shipping bins.

The modern elevators are built of steel, reinforced concrete or tile. The first crude attempt at steel tank storage was made by the Canadian Pacific Railway when its fourth elevator, D, was built, consisting of flat-bottomed tanks, holding 1,500,000 bushels, which gave ample storage but offered no facilities for handling with any degree of speed. This style was soon superseded by the more modern tanks, with hopper bottoms on a concrete foundation, with ample room in the lower story or basement for handling and equipment. This method of handling wheat at the head of the lakes has been followed by all the new houses, the only variation being the material of which they are constructed.

Another steel elevator is that of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. Canadian Pacific elevator B, the Empire elevator and that of the Consolidated Elevator Co., the latter two owned by western concerns, all are of tile, reinforced by steel bands. Four new elevators, including that of the Grand Trunk Pacific Co., which is the first unit of a 40,000,000 bushel plant, the largest in the world, have been under construction all summer and some will be ready for storage this fall.

One concrete evidence of the great growth in the elevator business at Fort William is the fact that more than twenty-five times as many steamers now load grain here as took out cargoes twenty years ago. There are upwards of twenty steamers which carry grain to Montreal alone.

When Your Throat is Sore



It may be only a slight cold now—just a tickling in the throat.

But little colds soon grow large and dangerous. Often they become chronic, develop catarrh and end in consumption.

Catarrhozone is the remedy. It draws inflammation and soreness out of the throat. Relieves the cough, cuts out the phlegm, makes breathing easy, kills any germs lodged in the mucous lining of the throat or lungs.

CATARRHOZONE

Catarrhozone inhaler can be carried in the vest pocket ready for use any time. Two months' treatment, only $1.00; medium size 50c; trial size, 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingstone, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

The Lake He Was On.

A reader sends us the following, which appeared in a newspaper twenty years ago, says The Wiarton Canadian:

"An ignorant, conceited fellow got aboard a steamer on Lake Huron. After standing on deck awhile among the crowd and seeing the captain approach, he inquired: 'What is the name of this lake?' 'The Lake Huron.' 'Yes, sir,' replied the man. But the captain going no further, the stranger said, 'Well, what is the name of the lake?' 'The Lake Huron,' answered the captain. 'I want to know what lake I'm on. What's its name?' 'Well, sir,' said the captain, 'the name of the lake you're on is the Lake Huron. Does that satisfy you?' The crowd were now smiling quite audibly, and the man walked on, muttering low to himself: 'The lake I'm on is the lake I'm on. That's a polite captain, that is.'"

A Judicial Reproof.

A mellow old lawyer who used to live on the banks of the Androscoggin was famous for his fine distinctions. But often after the shades of night had fallen the squire might have been seen struggling home so boozy that he apparently could not split a shingle, to say nothing of a hair. One night when he was drunker than usual he staggered completely out of his course and could not find it. Realizing that he was lost and drifting into unfamiliar regions, he called at a house to ask for information. "Madam," he gravely said to the lady who came to the door, candle in hand, "can you tell (hic) me where Squire Blank lives?"

"Certainly," she said and gave him full directions. But as she talked and looked and as her candle gradually brought out the features of the man before her a puzzled expression came into her face, and she finally said, "But isn't this Squire Blank?"

Resist Melancholy.

Never give way to melancholy. Resist it steadily, for the habit will encroach. I once gave a lady two and twenty recipes against melancholy—one was a bright fire; another to remember all the pleasant things said to and of her; another to keep a box of sugar plums on the chimney piece and a kettle simmering on the hob. I thought this mere trifling at the moment, but have in after life discovered how true it is that these little pleasures often banish melancholy better than higher or more exalted objects; that no means ought to be thought too trifling which can oppose it either in ourselves or others.—Sydney Smith.

Whetstones and Hones.

The particular classes of stone used in sharpening edge tools, such as razors, knives, scythes, etc., are hard, compact and so very siliceous that they readily wear down the hardest steel. They are varieties of slate derived from agrillaceous schists of the paleozoic. These stones are found in Turkey, Bohemia, Persia and the Harz mountains, in Styria, in the United States, Spain, Peru and Siberia. One of the best American stones for hones comes from Arkansas.

Getting a Renewal.

Little Dorothy was playing "house" with her small friend Elizabeth, when suddenly she said, "I guess I'll have to go home."

"What for?" asked Betty, with a good deal of concern.

"To get my mamma if I can turn back again," answered Dorothy.

ADVICE ON EXERCISE.

Good Points For Fat and Thin Women to Note.

With moyen age and other ancient style revivals forever before her eyes it is only a blind woman who fails to think sometimes about her own figure and to consider methods of making it over into fashionable outline.

She who would acquire grace cannot accomplish everything by compression if she is stout. Neither can she do it all by padding when she is thin, for, while the heavy woman compresses, she spoils her complexion and her walk, and, although the thin girl puts on curves, she looks limp and bent.

Good health and vitality are required to carry present styles with distinction. A weak back allows the body to stoop forward from the waist line, flattens the chest and robs the finest princess dress or smartest tailored suit of every vestige of style.

Now, it is a curious fact that the exercises which help the thin to build up also help the stout to reduce. But fatness and thinness are both abnormal, and exercise tends to restore perfect physical conditions.

A very simple exercise will prove most beneficial if followed with persistence and regularity. It can be practiced night and morning, either in gown, kimono, gym or bathing suit.

The first position for this exercise is to rest flat upon the floor, face down, toes stretched back and palms down in a line between the bust and waist.

Then while the body is stiff and tense, with knees unbending, it is raised up from the floor to the length of the arms. Thus the body will touch the floor only at the palms and the top of the feet and will make a hypotenuse of a right angled triangle, of which the arms and the floor are the sides.

The reverse of this exercise is to rest flat upon the back and raise the stiffened arms full length between heels and palms.

Though apparently so simple an exercise, it will be impossible for a beginner to repeat the experiment more than once or twice. Ten or twelve repetitions constitute a morning's practice for an expert.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

If the seams near the collar of your shirt waists scratch the neck and feel uncomfortable it is because the edges are raw. All shoulders particularly should be French seamed.

Cluny is at last making beautiful the nightgowns that are perfect dreams to behold. Rows of this pretty insertion, besides edging of about an inch and a half in width, are used in combination. Cluny sounds burden some on a nightgown, but it is charming.

A cushion made of extremely coarse square meshed burlap was finished with a spider web pattern of dark red raffia held in place with red silkateen. It was durable enough and had just enough color to look attractive among other cushions. The raffia ends can be thrust through the material, thus hiding rough points.

The home seamstress will find it much easier to make her own petticoats, both white and flannel, if she buys the ready made circular yokes which come in all sizes at low cost. These yokes are doubled and so arranged by curves that they fit over the hips without wrinkling. The petticoat is sewed between the two thicknesses of the yoke, and all unnecessary fullness is overcome.

Something useful can be made of a cocoa or baking powder box. Cut out the bottom of the box and cover the cylinder with cretonne, ribbon or wall paper to match the room decorations. Run a ribbon through it to make a hanger, and fasten one end with a circular piece of material. Cover a disk for the opposite side and hinge it on with ribbon. It can be pinned in place or left without the little lid. This makes a useful hair receiver. Cut one end off a small pasteboard box and cover with any desired material to make a neat hair receiver. The box can be hung with ribbons from one corner. A pretty way to make a hair receiver of this kind is to cut the box, then finish with baby ribbon and tie with a ribbon string and rosette. Toothbrush holders can be made of tall baking powder boxes. They look pretty when covered with heavy wall paper, in leather or tapestry effects.

A Rag Shower.

A clever surprise got up for a bride to be was a "rag shower." The so called rags were bags for all kinds of housekeeping—dishcloths, dusters and every other thing of the kind that the neatest of young housekeepers might wish for. There were dish towels neatly hemmed and of different sizes for glasses, silver and dishes; floor cloths, chamois for windows and iron holders. Among the bags were laundry bags, pudding bags, a shoe bag and others that looked like it to hang on the inside of a door for dust brushes and the like to go into. Then there were work bags and bags for dainty waists and even sachet bags. The individual articles are not expensive, and they should be most acceptable.

Why, Certainly!

Departing Passenger—Oh, conductor, won't you please give me a transfer of some other color? This one doesn't match my gown at all!—Puck.

Have you ever noticed that you no sooner get one trouble off your hands that another comes along?—Atchison Globe.

Nasty Hacking Cough Cured.

Mrs. John Pelch, Windsor, Ont. writes: "I was troubled with a nasty hacking cough for the past six months and used a lot of different remedies but they did me no good. At last I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and with the first few doses I found great relief and to-day my hacking cough has entirely disappeared and I am never without Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup in the house."

The price of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is 25 cents per bottle. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, so be sure and accept none of the many substitutes of the original "Norway Pine Syrup."

Colonel John Sneed's Conversations on Domestic Problems

Copyright, 1909, by C. B. Yost.

III.—How to Keep Young.

YOUNG Mrs. Rollins was dressed for the opera when Colonel Sneed, her father, entered. The old gentleman threw up his hands in mock astonishment and chuckled with delight.

"My, my, my, child," he exclaimed, "you look as fine as the queen of Sheba! And I'll bet," he added, "you're a doggone sight prettier. Turn around, honey, and let me get a sort of panoramic view of you."

With an indulgent smile Mrs. Rollins revolved.

"The more I look the better I like it," said the colonel. "But the wrappin' isn't any too good for what's inside of it. And that reminds me that I haven't kissed you yet. You dazzled me so I plum forgot. Kind of turn your cheek up to one side so I won't muss anything. There, now. But—but"—

The colonel was running the end of his tongue over his lips, and there was a puzzled expression on his face.

"What's the matter, papa?" asked Mrs. Rollins, with twinkling eyes.

"The brand don't seem quite familiar," he answered. "What is it, honey?"

"DON'T SEEM QUITE FAMILIAR."

"Oh, it's just a little touch of rouge, daddy; that's all."

"Huh!" grunted the colonel. "I thought so. Beginnin' to paint the lily already, are you? Well, I don't take much stock in artificial colors, but I reckon the principle's all right. You see—but, by the way, where's William? Dressin', eh? Just got home? I'm afraid that boy is workin' too hard. Think I'll sit down and chat with you anyhow until he comes down.

"As I was goin' to remark, little girl," resumed the colonel after he had arranged himself comfortably in the big armchair, "I've got some rather peculiar notions about keepin' young. I'm a long ways from being an old man yet, but I've been around here a considerable time, and maybe I can give you some pointers on what every woman wants to know.

"I reckon you've heard that old song about a woman bein' as old as she looks, while a man's just as old as he feels. Well, there's some truth in the distinction, for looks have a whole lot more to do with a woman than a man; but, all the same, it's the feelin' that counts in the long run, and it counts just as much for one sex as it does for the other. You're goin' to be young, honey, just as long as you feel young, and if you feel young the looks will take care of themselves. Now, there's a good deal more in that statement than I can work out for you while William's gettin' into his dress shirt, but it all simmers down to this—that the way to keep young is to quit growin' old. That's what they call a

"Of course you understand I'm not talkin' about years; I'm talkin' about looks and feelin's. I've got to admit that time has some influence, but it's only relative. I know a fellow downtown who's thirty-five years old and he acts like he was about ten. There's such a thing as keepin' too doggone young, you know. I've seen women that way too. Then there's another fellow I know who ain't over forty and he's dyin' of old age right now. So you see, honey, the calendar don't count in the game as much as people imagine. It's the looks and feelin's, but principally the feelin's, that make you old or keep you young.

"And you need just two things, little girl, to keep you feelin' young. I've been keepin' them a secret, savin' them for you. One of them is what is called a stiff upper lip; the other's a straight back. One is a mental attitude toward life; the other's a physical condition. A man or a woman with a stiff upper lip don't get discouraged, don't get the blues, don't worry about trifles. When a black cloud comes along she grabs it and turns it around so the silver linin' will show; she finds out what her duty is and does it without kickin' up any fuss about it; she don't make mountains out of molehills nor cross bridges until she gets to them, and if there's any fun goin' on in her neighborhood she's goin' to have her share of it without makin' a fool of herself.

"Now, did you ever see anybody with a straight back who was really old—I mean old in heart and mind? No, siree, you never did. Keep your backbone straight, honey, whatever you do. The minute it begins to sag or bend that very minute old age starts down the road to meet you. It's easy enough to keep it straight now, while your years are few, but after awhile you'll begin to feel like lettin' your shoulders droop, and if you let them do it, why, pretty soon your chest will go in, and your stomach will push out, and the wrinkles 'll begin to multiply. You'll look old, and, what's more, honey, you'll feel old. The backbone was made to support your head, and when the support begins to get wabbly you can't brace up the superstructure with toilet creams.

"MOUNTAINS OUT OF MOLEHILLS."

"Not that I'm against toilet creams; bless your life, no. I believe in a woman lookin' as handsome as she can as long as she can, and when I see one of sixty, as I do every day or so over home, massagin' her neck and rubbin' goose grease, or whatever it is, into her cheeks, why, I glory in her spunk. But—and I want you to get this straight in your mind, honey—if she didn't have a straight back and a stiff upper lip she wouldn't be doin' that sort of thing. When your spinal column begins to droop you begin to quit carin' much about your looks. If you haven't got enough ambition to hold your shoulders back you're not goin' to have enough to rub the crow's feet from the corners of your eyes, and the only thing you can do is to get some red and white paint and cover up the cracks. But paint, my dear, won't keep you young. It's all right in an emergency. I believe every woman ought to have a little paint on her toilet table for use when there are dark circles around her eyes and no color in her cheeks and she's compelled to go out in company—when she's sick, in fact, and don't want to show it; then I think it's all right to put up a good straight bluff. But, honey, don't you get the notion in your head that you've got to swab around with a paint brush every time you go out. No man ever put a color in a jar that was anywhere near as fine as the tints that nature puts in a woman's face, and if she don't keep 'em buried under artificial pigments they'll stay with her as long as she holds herself erect with face to the front and gets all the joy she can out of life. A straight back and a stiff upper lip, little girl, beat all the cosmetics on earth."

"I GLORY IN HER SPUNK."

Going to Church.

There's a million excuses for sleepin' late on Sunday mornin', and none of them's any account. It's just laziness—pure unadulterated laziness. That's what it is. We're all of us lazy, more or less, mostly more, and it's a powerful temptation to loaf in bed until the church bells quit ringin'; but, all the same, children, it's a bad habit to get into.

I ain't a pillar of the church, and I reckon if they was to send out a search party after new deacons I'd be about the last man they'd pick, but I come to the conclusion a long time ago that the church is a mighty good thing to hitch on to, whether you're figurin' on happiness in this world or the next. I don't mean to say that the church 'll carry a man into heaven. Not by a long jump. Anybody can join the church, but gettin' through the pearly gates is a different proposition. Some of the meanest, no 'countest people I ever had any dealin's with belong to the church, and if I thought they had through tickets to the green fields of Eden I'd want to go the other way. But I know they haven't. I know they'll all be brushed off when they try to come under the wire at the finish, and so the things they do and the things they say don't bother me a little bit.

On the other hand, I believe a man or a woman, if they've got the right kind of a disposition and the necessary stiffness of backbone, can worry along through life and get satisfactorily settled in the hereafter without any help from the church. But—and I can't make that "but" too strong—it's only one in a thousand who can do that. The other 999 need some help to keep 'em from wanderin' off the straight-away track that leads to happiness and peace and everything else that's worth having.—Colonel John Sneed.

BOGUS PICTURES.

Counterfeit Antiques Openly Manufactured in Italy.

Speaking of the manufacture of counterfeit paintings in Italy, a writer in the National Review says that sometimes genuine old pictures are really discovered in peasants' houses, but rarely in good condition.

The peasants have a disastrous trick of rubbing pictures with onions to clean them. By so doing they take off not only the varnish, but the precious patina and certain colors, in many cases leaving only the mere gold background (supposing the picture is of that date) and the more deeply incised lines. These wrecks are eagerly bought for a trifle by art dealers, who employ skilled experts to restore or rather to remake them on the basis of the original outlines.

Pictures of the early period with gold backgrounds and quaint draftsmanship are regularly manufactured, especially at Siena, where the panels can be seen openly drying before the shop doors. Their foundation is a panel properly worm eaten and chemically aged, painted on the gesso ground that was the basis for all pictures of that epoch and to which they owe their luminous qualities.

Such pictures are often made up out of a number of really old but ruined pictures and are an ingenious puzzle that require dexterity, taste and knowledge to construct.

No Time For Little Boys.

An Edinburgh gentleman died the other day, and a small boy, open eyed and silent, watched while the coffin was placed in the hearse.

"Have you said your prayers, Willie?" said his mother, after tucking him into bed that night.

"No, mamma," said Willie.

"Well, say them now."

"I'm not going to say any prayers tonight," replied Willie, with the air of one who had fully made up his mind.

"But you must."

"No, not tonight," Willie persisted.

"Why not?" asked the mother in astonishment.

"It's no use," said Willie. "They will be so busy in heaven tonight unpacking Mr. Jones that they will have no time to listen to the prayers of little boys."—Edinburgh Dispatch.

The DAY of the DUEL

CODE OR LAW?

(A TRUE STORY)

"UNCLE FURG, I'M SORRY FOR YOU," HE SAID.

"YOU are a Kentuckian, sir?" asked the gentleman from Monterey, after a dignified halt in the aisle beside Johnston's desk.

"I have that honor," returned the young legislator, smiling up at the heavily frowning face of the questioner. The gentleman from Monterey puffed like a winded runner and glared disapprovingly.

"Then I may say, sir, that—er—you seem to have forgotten the best and most sacred traditions of that noble State," he declaimed. "Without the desire to attach a reproach to your motives, I find it necessary to remonstrate against your introduction of this—er—most lamentable bill, as I shall also find it necessary to oppose it to the best of my ability."

"You mean my anti-duelling measure?"

"The same, sir," said the gentleman from Monterey, severely. "You seek to attack the exalted tribunal of honor, sanctified, sir, by tradition and justified by the sentiment and approval of—er—the greatest sons of your native soil. For a Kentuckian, sir, your action is reprehensible, extremely so. Do I make myself plain?"

"Perfectly," said Johnston, with his amiable smile. "I can see your point of view perfectly, Major Sweat. I should have thought it strange if you had taken any other attitude. But I absolutely refuse to allow you to draw me into a personal controversy, both because of my high regard for yourself and because, as the professed man of peace, I should have to invoke my own bill for my protection."

The gentleman from Monterey snorted and puffed still more vigorously, but Johnston's manner was disarming and the little compliment soothing. He contented himself with waving a stout finger warningly and delivering one more pronouncement.

"Mark my words, sir. Race will tell. It is not permitted that a man, sir, bred from the blood and hope of heroes, in the home of chivalry and honor, should so lightly divest himself of the—er—spirit of Kentucky. It is unthinkable, sir, quite unthinkable."

And the gentlemen from Monterey stalked ponderously away down the aisle to his own seat in the chamber of the California Assembly.

An hour later George Pendleton Johnston, the author and principal supporter of the anti-duelling bill, rose to speak. He was known as a fluent and impassioned orator, and there was no tendency among the gentlemen in attendance to seek surcease and refreshment in the outer regions when he was accorded the floor. He did not expect much opposition. The bill was not a party measure and was regarded merely as a part of the "introducing record" legitimately belonging to any Assemblyman. There was a constitutional provision against duelling, but it had never been other than a dead letter. Johnston's plea was that his bill would make the inhibition effective.

The Code and the Law.

He took the occasion to "spread himself," as his admiring colleagues phrased it, and ran through the recent history of the code in California with ready anecdote and nimble tongue, calling upon the Legislature to remove the reproach that had been fastened upon the State by the prevalence of "affairs of honor."

"That is what they call these primitive struggles between man and man, 'affairs of honor,'" he said. "How shall a private conception of personal honor stand between society at large and society's firm and righteous wish for law and order? If we had two Mexicans knifing each other in the street we are prompt to arrest and punish them. Yet they could as truly urge that their quarrel was an 'affair of honor,' and therefore none of our business. The fact that the code prescribes certain formalities does not make a recognized duel more dignified or less criminal."

He paused a moment to glance at the empurpled face and pursing lips of the gentleman from Monterey.

"It has been suggested to me by an honorable member of this body," he went on, "that as a native son of Kentucky I must feel an inborn sympathy with the practice of duelling that, should the impulse arise, I myself would appeal to its barbarous code. I reply by inviting that honorable member to smite me on the right cheek if he so desires. I shall promptly turn the left and then proceed against him by the legal civil and criminal machinery."

After the laughter had subsided he continued in a more serious vein to explain the necessity for his bill. He finally resumed his seat amid applause. The bill was passed with few dissenting votes, among them that of the gentleman from Monterey. The Senate made no fight on the measure, and two weeks later it became a law by the signature of the Governor.

One result of the bill, hardly unsuspected at its passage by his confrères, was to bring Johnston prominently to public notice. The term "Anti Dueller" recommended him to citizens who had become weary of the slaughter invoked in the name of honor and lifted him for a moment above the heads of party leaders and partisan legislators. He was quick to take his opportunity, and his good presence and ardent oratory became familiar to political gatherings in many parts of the State. He possessed real ability and with the favorable impression created by his advocacy of order in the wild chaos of the new West was able to make influential friends. The upshot was an appointment as United States Court Commissioner, in which position he was called upon to decide the case of the negro "Archie," which became historically famous.

California in the 50's rocked and trembled under the preliminary vibrations of the slavery upheaval. Every incident that had a bearing upon the great issue of the day came within the full glare of publicity and formed material for violent discussion. When Johnston, a Southerner, rendered a decision favorable to the negro under one application of the fugitive slave law he found himself as heartily supported and condemned as any official could have wished.

The decision was the more remarkable because of his affiliation with the democratic party. He had been a warm adherent of the Lecompton wing of the organization, which upheld the Southern slave holding oligarchy, and a friend of Dr. William Gwin and Judge David S. Terry. His loyalty was either too real or too valuable, for he was not visited with the wrath of his associates following the "Archie" case, and he was able to continue as an active opponent to David C. Broderick and the anti-Lecompton wing, which folowed Stephen A. Douglas. In an interval of the political struggle he was made clerk of the United States Circuit Court in San Francisco.

The Know Nothings.

The year 1855 saw the mushroom rise of the American, or "Know Nothing," party to power in California. This movement, ostensibly based upon religious antagonism and jealous guardianship of the franchise, was in fact an attempt to divert attention from the pressing slavery issue. It brought, however, some few remarkable men toward the centre of the public stage. Among them was William I. Furgeson, who was elected to the State Senate.

Furgeson, a native of Pennsylvania, was the son of a carpenter. Having removed to Springfield, Ill., as a young man, he studied law under Colonel E. D. Baker and came to the Bar, where one of his associates was Abraham Lincoln. After his arrival in California he became one of the leading criminal lawyers of the State and soon pushed his way into politics. He was a brilliant and talented speaker, and the spasmodic impetus supplied by the brief popularity of the Know Nothings gave him the only aid he needed.

Local struggles centred about the choice of the United States Senators, and were carried on with unexampled bitterness and ferocity. In the exciting legislative session of 1855-56 Furgeson was himself a candidate, but withdrew when the caucus of his party nominated General Henry S. Foote. Toward the end of the session it became apparent that the Know Nothings had a scant majority on a joint ballot. The situation began to tighten, with a Know Nothing victory the probable outcome. The Lecompton democrats first and always opposed to the ambition of Broderick, looked complacently upon their own probable defeat. They were the more content with the situation by the fact that their relations with the Know Nothings were close. Both factions were determined that Broderick never should win the toga.

Scenes of turmoil attended the final desperate attempt of the Know Nothings to wrest victory from the three-sided conflict. Furgeson was prominent during the fight and was regarded as a pillar of strength by his confrères. The issue was forced—and something gave. That something was Wilson Flint, one of the holdover Senators from San Francisco. Without warning, without apparent reason, he suddenly announced that he would not vote for General Foote. A shrieking, gesticulating crowd jammed about his desk in the Senate Chamber, fifty yokes at once demanding to know who had bought him, what had induced his about face. Pale, frightened, but determined, Flint held them at bay and refused to yield. And his refusal was the end of the Know Nothing party in California. The session ended with the Senatorial prize still to be won.

Furgeson's speech in denunciation of the "recreant" was a masterpiece of eloquent invective. It served to bring him into sharper relief against the whirling confusion of political figures. Suddenly he renounced the Know Nothings root and branch, declaring that the party's usefulness had passed and that the electorate could no longer look to it for competent service. Certain of his constituents immediately demanded his resignation. He complied and announced his independent candidacy, letting it be known that he would henceforth throw in his fortunes with the anti-Lecomptonites, whose leader was Broderick. By a campaign remarkable even in those days for the intensity of feeling it engendered he won his re-election. In the session of 1857 Broderick gained the coveted United States Senatorship.

There was a seething throng in the old Bank Exchange saloon, in Montgomery street, on the night following the victory of Broderick. It subsequently proved a barren and a fatal victory to the leader himself, and a prophetic eye might have read the tragedy of that remarkable man's career in the wild excitement and unbridled hostility caused by his success.

Broderick Denounced.

In one of the many groups that formed and broke and reformed again in the famous political rendezvous was George Pendleton Johnston. His companions were Gwin followers, and feeling raged high over the all absorbing news of the day. Johnston was not backward in voicing his opinions.

"The State is polluted, sir!" he shouted, making himself heard above the uproar with difficulty and addressing a stout man who vehemently nodded his approval. "It is polluted and shamed before the country. This man Broderick is a trickster, a sly rascal who learned his game of low politics in the employ of Tammany Hall and has now played it in our new, clean West. But let him look to his honors! Let him look to them, I say. We will not tolerate him long."

"But it occurs to me that one incident in Broderick's advance has not received the attention it deserves. Treacherous he has always been, and treachery is his natural method. Do you recall the defection of Furgeson from the Know Nothings?" His hearer intimated that he did remember, and Johnston, firmly in the saddle, boomed along in his best oratorical manner.

"I doubt that you have gained the full significance of that defection. In the session before this Wilson Flint prevented the election of a Know Nothing Senator by shifting his vote at the last moment. That act saved the day temporarily for Broderick.

"Furgeson immediately after that session deserted his party and became a henchman of Broderick. Do you see what I mean?"

The stout man, in spite of sundry tappings upon his chest, confessed himself still in the dark. The drinkers within earshot of Johnston had fallen silent, under that mysterious, inexplicable influence that leads men to listen to a dangerous remark in a heated moment.

"Why, what could it mean but that Furgeson sold out to Broderick?" continued Johnston. "Sold out his party first and himself to top the bargain. No one could ever say what made Flint change his vote. I can, and will. Furgeson used Flint as the tool to check the Know Nothings until Broderick could muster strength for the next session. There you have it. And the proof is in Furgeson's own actions and in the election of the unspeakable Broderick at last."

The sentiment, sharply antagonistic to the one against whom all were particularly inflamed, seemed to please the stout man, but it met with no applause beyond his nod.

"You're wrong, Johnston," said one of those near him, bluntly. "You better take water in your drinks for a time. I don't like Broderick any more'n you. But nobody that knows Furgeson will say he was crooked for a minute. You're barkin' up the wrong tree there, m' son. However Broderick got it, he couldn't have used Uncle Furg any such way as that."

The speaker had expressed the conviction of the group, apparently, for his words were received with murmurs of approbation. Johnston, aware that he had struck a false note, made no reply. On sober reflection he saw the recklessness and improbability of such an accusation against a man of high record and character like Furgeson. Next morning, after the fever and passion of the night, he regretted his folly.

Passing the Affront.

He knew that a dozen men among those in the saloon would be only too willing to carry his remarks to Furgeson. When he passed the State Senator in the street a few days later, however, he could not detect from the other's manner that he had heard of the incident. The two men, who were slightly acquainted, exchanged courteous salutes. But Johnston did not know, because he did not glance back, that Furgeson stopped and looked thoughtfully after him for some minutes.

Drinking in California during early days was "part of the day's work" in the view of the hard living, high playing, quick shooting pioneers. There was no priggishness in the public attitude toward drunkenness. Electors thought none the less of their representatives for the want of official dignity when the glasses clinked. Furgeson, honored, respected and acknowledged to be one of the ablest men in public life, lost not a whit of his influence or his popularity through his frequent roistering. California smiled, dubbed him "Yip—see—Doodle," and let it go at that.

It was on the night of August 16, 1858, that Furgeson and Johnston found themselves, together in the Bank Exchange saloon for the first time since the victory of Broderick. The former had been drinking and was standing against the bar with flushed, vaguely smiling face when Johnston entered. Furgeson turned, recognized the Court Clerk and straightened up. Johnston nodded to him and ordered a drink.

Furgeson's companions noticed that he had fallen strangely silent, but set the change down to the vagaries of alcohol and made no comment. Closer observers might have said that the State Senator seemed to have shed his appearance of intoxication like a loose garment.

When he made some casual friendly remark to Johnston a moment later his speech was clear and his manner reserved. The Court Clerk, a little surprised, responded in kind and the two men conversed for some time. Soon they were exchanging the role of host, and gradually, from this fresh start, Furgeson lapsed once more into his boisterous vein. Again a close observer might have said that the State Senator seemed to be advancing to a deliberate purpose.

"Know some friends of yours, Johnston," he said, jovially. "Know—some lady friends. Ha, ha, you're the boy with the ladies."

Johnston replied coolly and sought to turn the subject. But Furgeson would not be denied. "Now, there's Kittie Chattel. Always liked Kittie. Fine girl, but queer, damned queer. In fact, always called her Kittie Cattle. Ha, ha! 'Member that, don't you, Johnston? All women 're kittle cattle, Kittie most of all."

Johnston's face from scarlet had gone pale. He thrust out an impulsive hand and caught Furgeson's arm, swinging him half around.

"No gentleman would mention the name you refer to in such a place, at such a time or in such a way," he said, tensely.

Again the cloak of intoxication dropped from Furgeson's appearance. He faced Johnston with equal fury.

"No gentleman, eh?" he answered, with clenched teeth, and his hand fell to his hip pocket. Johnston, the "anti-duellist," was as quick as he, and the sharp glitter of weapons emptied the saloon of half its customers. Before either could whip up to a level men who knew them both sprang upon them and bore them back. They were hustled out separately and quiet was restored.

One of those who accompanied Furgeson to his home remonstrated with him for making such a scene and in such a manner.

"You're lit up, but not drunk, Uncle Furg," he said. "What made you go at him that way?"

"It suited me," was Furgeson's enigmatic answer. Only a few of the men who were closest to him understood that the State Senator had taken this as the only possible means of forcing Johnston to answer for the public insult put upon him on the night of Broderick's election without seeming to take cognisance of the incident.

Johnston walked with his friend, W. P. Dameron, after leaving the saloon, and asked him to act as his representative in the affair.

"Then you will fight?" Dameron inquired, curiously.

"Of course," said Johnston, shortly. "Why do you ask?"

"Why—I only thought"—— began Dameron, embarrassed. "I was thinking of your bill, you know, when you were a member of the Assembly."

"Oh," said Johnston. "Don't let that bother you. I was theorising then. The code supersedes the law."

Dameron visited Furgeson the following day and, in the name of Johnston, demanded an apology or satisfaction in the usual way. Furgeson refused to apologise and named his seconds, Eugene L. Sullivan and J. N. Estill. At a conference later in the afternoon the terms of the meeting were agreed upon. The men were to fight at thirty feet with duelling pistols. It was first decided that the affair should take place near Sausalito, but word of the plans having been passed to other persons the time and place were changed.

At five o'clock on Saturday afternoon, August 21, 1858, the opposing parties, with about fifty spectators, were gathered on Angel Island, in San Francisco Bay. The ground selected was in a secluded glen on the east side of the island. The preliminaries were carried out with the utmost care and coolness. Both of the adversaries were calm and confident, and there were none of the scenes that sometimes try the nerve of the most experienced duellists. A further discussion among the seconds ended in the agreement that three exchanges should be the limit of the affair. Dameron stood forward to give the signal. Johnston and Furgeson, erect at their respective marks, faced each other with lowered weapons.

"Are you ready?" asked Dameron.

"Ready," they answered.

"Fire! One!"

The pistols cracked together at the word and the spectators started forward eagerly, peering through the smoke. Neither of the men faltered. The seconds took the pistols and reloaded them. Then Dameron, after a brief conversation with his principal, suggested that the distance be shortened. Furgeson was willing, and each combatant was moved forward a foot. Once more the question was asked and answered, the word was given and the weapons spoke. Both had missed again.

By mutual consent the distance was decreased two more feet. For the third time the signal rang out, punctuated by the sharp explosion. For the third time the shots went wild.

Then Sullivan, Furgeson's second, called a halt. He pointed out that the men had amply proved their courage and that satisfaction had been given on both sides. It was fitting that the principals should declare their quarrel at an end and shake hands. Furgeson made no comment, but stood waiting for Johnston to take the initiative. When the suggestion was carried to the Court Clerk he objected.

"Let Mr. Furgeson apologize for what he said," was his answer. "If he will not withdraw his offensive remark, I demand that we continue."

The State Senator thereupon refused to take the desired step, and preparations for a renewal of the fight went forward. It was decided that they should bring the distance down to twenty feet for the fourth exchange.

The Duel.

The strain had told upon the duellists, though they faced each other as firmly as before. Furgeson was pale. Johnston twitched at his coat and examined the priming of his weapon solicitously.

"Are you ready, gentlemen?" asked Dameron.

"Ready."

"Fire! One—two—three."

Each man had reserved his fire, waiting for the other, but at the third count brought up his arm and discharged his pistol. Johnston took a step backward and grasped his left wrist with his right hand. Furgeson remained erect for a moment, then sank back into the arms of his seconds. His right thigh had been shattered. Johnston was urged to leave the ground.

"May I speak to him first?" he asked.

When Dameron carried this request to Furgeson the wounded man replied in a steady voice that he was in the hands of his seconds. They assented and Johnston approached, dropping to one knee beside the prostrate figure.

"Uncle Furg, I'm sorry for you," he said, brokenly.

"That's all right," nodded the other, returning the hand clasp.

Furgeson lingered in great pain until September 14, when he died under an operation. The public services over his body took place in the Senate Chamber at Sacramento, where Colonel E. D. Baker, carrying out the last request of his former pupil, pronounced the funeral oration.

Warned that Furgeson's death was imminent, Johnston left San Francisco several days before it occurred on the W. L. Marcy, United States revenue cutter. Feeling was high against him and he was indicted by the San Francisco Grand Jury and the Grand Jury of Marin county, a question of jurisdiction being involved. The proceedings in both counties were carried on under the Anti-Dueling act, of which Johnston had been the author and which he had supported so eloquently.

When this became known Major Sweat, formerly the gentleman from Monterey, joined no little jeer, and none of his friends was permitted to forget that he "had, sir, foreseen this event when Johnston overlooked his Kentucky breeding years before."

The situation was cleared suddenly by the unexpected return of Johnston. He appeared in Marin county and gave himself up to the authorities. His trial took place before the Court of Sessions at San Rafael. His defence was that Furgeson's wound had not been necessarily fatal and that if an operation had taken place earlier he would have recovered. It was a bitter fight, but it ended in Johnston's acquittal.

For years after these events George Pendleton Johnston was a familiar and an honored figure in San Francisco, but all who came in contact with him knew that the shadow of Furgeson's death lay heavily about him. He never ceased to regret it, and September 14, the anniversary of the duel, was ever a day of despair and remorse. He became an earnest and a powerful opponent of the practice of duelling, regarding it as a duty to preach the supremacy of law.

WOMEN WILL GIVE LIVES

Famous Leader of the Militant Suffragettes Addresses Big Gatherings—Hunger Strikes Are Terrible Things For the Women, But If One Ever Dies British Voter Will Wake Up, She Says.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—"Every one of those women has in her heart the fixed determination that if the sacrifice of her life is demanded she is quite willing to make it. We know that this last weapon we have used, the hunger strike, is a terrible thing for us, but it is equally terrible for the Government. If one of these women slips through their fingers, and goes out into the great beyond, the slow-going British voter will wake up and make it very uncomfortable for the Government." This was a comment made by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the leader of the British militant suffragettes, in one of her addresses on Saturday on the latest phase of the fight for the enfranchisement of women in the old land. A slight, intellectual-looking woman, of splendid voice, and possessing remarkable power as a speaker, she made her audiences understand how far her followers were prepared to go in the belief that by refusing to take food when imprisoned, they were assisting to make their cause a political issue. Mrs. Pankhurst defended the tactics of the militant suffragettes on the ground that constitutional methods had either failed or been denied them.

Repeatedly she pointed out that man had only obtained the extension of the franchise after the commission of acts of violence, and even the taking of life. "We women do not want to take life," she said, and quietly added, "We know the cost of it, but we know that men cannot bear ridicule, and if by making them ridiculous we can force this question to the forefront of practical politics we don't mind being laughed at."

Mrs. Pankhurst's two audiences were widely dissimilar in character. At noon she addressed the members of the Canadian Club, while in the evening Massey Hall was crowded by an audience practically of women.

Dynamite Kills Two.

Victoria Harbor, Ont., Nov. 22.—A double fatality occurred near here yesterday, when Phil Drolet was blown to pieces by dynamite, and Fred Doe was drowned.

The two men belonged to this place, and were in a rowboat some miles up the bay, at McRae's Lake.

Drolet had a quantity of dynamite in the boat, presumably for fishing purposes, and while he was leaning over the box containing the dynamite, an explosion occurred and he was blown to pieces. Doe was thrown into the water, and, unable to swim, was drowned.

Both men were married and leave wives and large families.

Insult to Madonna.

Rome, Nov. 22.—An anti-clerical butcher at Potenza violated a shrine of the Madonna recently and forced his dog to lick the image. The butcher fell senseless and assumed the rigidity of death.

He was conveyed to a hospital where he recovered but he was mad. He barks like a dog.

The inhabitants of Potenza are convinced that a miracle was performed and are flocking in pilgrimage to the shrine, where solemn functions in reparation of the outrage are being held.

Fined For Frequenting Saloons.

Galt, Nov. 22.—A Preston "Indian" lister was fined $10 for frequenting barrooms, though no liquor was supplied him. The hotelkeeper was fined the same for permitting the "lister" to loaf on the premises.

TWENTY MINERS RESCUED FROM ST. PAUL MINE

Had Been Buried Seven Days and Subsisted on Bark—Hope for Others Has Been Given Up—Dead Bodies are Now Being Brought to the Surface.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 22.—Hope aroused Saturday by the rescue alive of twenty entombed men from the St. Paul mine, just one week after the starting of the fatal fire, was crushed yesterday, or at least deferred in fulfilment, for not one more of the 310 men caught by the fire was found alive yesterday.

The day was spent in removing bodies from the mine and in burying the corpses heretofore recovered. Last night the records showed that of the 310 men left in the mine Saturday night 198 were still missing, while 92 bodies have been found and twenty men rescued alive.

Fire that broke out afresh Saturday night was smothered yesterday to such an extent that explorers were able to work in the mine, but black damp in one of the galleries defied the men, as did cave-ins and other debris.

It was not even discovered whether there are more men alive in the mine galleries, although the explorers, urged by the extreme condition in which the twenty men saved on Saturday were found, work with almost superhuman strength and rapidity.

The finding of 37 bodies and their removal were the only visible results of yesterday's endeavors.

All day long the tolling of church bells resounded in Cherry and Spring Valley. Eighteen bodies were buried in a field south of Cherry

Services for the dead were held outside the churches, into which Coroner Malm deemed it inadvisable that the bodies be taken.

Among those who still hope for the rescue of living miners is Richard Newsam, president of the Illinois board of mine inspectors.

"Scotchmen are the most resourceful miners in the world. I can see no reason why others should not have found some refuge just as did those who were found alive yesterday," he said.

Dawn broke Saturday with the bearers of stretchers moving from the pit mouth to the tent which served as a morgue with bodies swollen and scorched almost beyond human semblance. Forty of them had been brought up and most of them identified when the marvelous report shot through the prostrate community: "They've found them alive—they've found them alive."

In a moment the crowd, fairly insane with great hope rushed to the pit.

It took six hours to bring the survivors to the surface.

It was discovered that the men after eating up all the food in their dinner pails had subsisted mostly on bark torn off pine posts used to support the mine walls.

"Some of the men can hardly gasp," said Inspector Crawford, of the state board of health. "They are unable to take any solid food and such artificial stimulants are being administered as our small force permits."

William Cleland, one of the survivors, after drinking a bowl of soup appeared none the worse for his experience.

"We made the most of our situation," he said, sitting in the car, and surrounded by nurses. "How the time went we don't know. We must have been unconscious part of the time.

"I remember soon after we were shut in, drinking great quantities of seepage from the gutter. After that some of us pulled off the bark and chewed it.

"We did not realize how serious was our position. After the seepage had run dry, we began pounding the wall to cause more to drop down. Soon after we heard voices and the digging on the other side. Most of us thought we had been in mine only about 24 hours."

Of the 21 men found in the south gallery, twelve were too weak to brave sudden exposure to the air. Food was taken down to them.

William Cleland's wife and baby brought to him at the car were greeted with a grin expressive of gratitude. He was calm and his first bequest was to a fireman for a cigarette.

"Never mind the eats, but slip me the makings, kid," said Cleland.

WAS NOT A SUICIDE

Mr. Dennis of Wyoming and His Sister Arrived in Uxbridge to Be Present at Finish of Inquest — Miss Dennis Thinks Her Letters to Her Sister Were Intercepted by McLaughlin, the Prisoner.

Uxbridge, Nov. 22.—Although not summoned to appear at the session of the McLaughlin inquest to-night, Mr. Dennis of Wyoming, brother of the late Mrs. McLaughlin, arrived in town Saturday evening, with the hope of being permitted to hear the remaining witnesses to be examined. These will be Prof. Ellis, Dr. J. A. McClintock, Dr. W. C. Shier, Mrs. T. G. Gold, a neighbor; Miss Dennis, and a Mr. Creighton of Hamilton, a commercial traveler, to whom McLaughlin, after telling him that he had been given notice to leave, owing to certain rumors that were going around town, had made the remark "that he would give them something to talk about before the week was out." This conversation took place the Tuesday before the fire.

Mr. Dennis is staying at the Bascom House. When asked if his deceased sister or any other member of the family had ever suffered from mental trouble or melancholia, he simply hooted the idea.

He had never heard of his sister ever talking about taking her own life, and considered the story a myth; she would be the last person to do such a thing.

When Miss Dennis was visiting her sister here in August, Mrs. McLaughlin told her that if it had not been for the children, she would have left her husband then, as they were not getting on very well together. According to the brother's statement, this state of affairs had existed during the last four years.

Since returning home after her short visit here, Miss Dennis never received a letter from her sister nor as far as can be ascertained, did Mrs. Laughlin get any from her, although several had been sent. Becoming a little uneasy because no word had been received from her sister, Miss Dennis had decided to wait until Monday, when if she got no word she would telephone, but the fire took place early Saturday morning.

Miss Dennis will be at the inquest to-night to tell her story.

Mr. Dennis inspected the ruined home and said he thought the fire had started under the stairs, and possibly in the bedroom next to the one where Mrs. McLaughlin and the two sons slept.

Little Monta, McLaughlin's daughter, was pleased to see her uncle and showed no signs of crying and worrying for her father, as has been reported. She believes he is gone away for a few days, when he will return to her. She plays with children every day and seems to be quite contented.

She was up to the burned house Saturday and picked up her mother's Bible and a few playthings. Feeling a little sad and lonesome, she remarked that "she wished she was with mother and Harold and Gordon." The citizens generally have much sympathy for the little tot.

The final session of the inquest should prove very interesting, and the citizens are very much excited over it.

Electric Trust on Carpet.

New York, Nov. 22.—A Washington special to The World says: The Department of Justice in its investigation of the so-called Electric Trust has gathered records which, to the minds of the investigators, show that the General Electric Co. and the Westinghouse Co. have agreed to end competition. It is searching for documents that are expected to establish that the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. which has just absorbed the Western Union was being made a party in interest along with the so-called Electric Street Railway Trust.

Naples Firemen Mutiny.

Naples, Italy, Nov. 22.—The firemen of Naples mutinied Saturday night. They barricaded their barracks, expelled their officers and hissed the mayor, who attempted to quell the trouble.

The agitation was provoked by discontent. The barracks were surrounded by troops and the firemen were disarmed and arrested.

Meanwhile the corporation has requested the navy to provide a contingent of firemen.

1,000 Feet High In Aeroplane.

Mourmolon le Grand, Nov. 22.—M. Paulhan made a spectacular flight Saturday in his biplane to Chalons and return, a distance of 60 kilometres (37 miles) in 55 minutes. He reached an altitude of nearly 1,000 feet, and stopped his motor when about 750 feet in the air, making the descent by means of the planes.

C.P.R. Employes Appeal.

Kenora, Nov. 22.—Capt. S. A. C. Machin, M.P.P., has left for Toronto, to represent the interests of the C.P.R. employes of this town regarding the question of income tax of the province, which comes before a special Parliamentary committee on the 3rd. The C.P.R. employes claim they are taxed unjustly.

Found Body In River.

Brantford, Nov. 22.—The body of William Hasle, missing since Monday last, was found yesterday about thirty feet below the railway bridge in a deep hole in the Grand River. There was a cut on Hazle's face, and an inquest may be held.

Lepine Still Lives.

Winnipeg, Nov. 22.—The report of the death of Ambrose Lepine was incorrect. It was his granddaughter who died. His condition is critical and twice within the past week or so has his obituary been printed.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—An effort is being made to induce Senator N. A. Belcourt, former Speaker at the Commons, to run in the Liberal interests at the bye-election in Ottawa.

Ship Repairers Strike.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 22.—Employes of the Victoria Machinery Depot Co., who are repairing the C.P.R. steamer Amur, struck on Saturday for higher pay. The company officials deny that there is any strike.

Editor Will Go to Jail.

Fredericton, N.B., Nov. 22.—The Supreme Court of New Brunswick has confirmed the conviction of Bruce McDougall, the editor of Free Speech, a weekly that used to be published at Moncton and was prohibited by the mails and later seized by the police as immoral reading matter when offered for sale in cities and towns. McDougall was charged with criminal libel on several counts, and will be sentenced this week at St. John.

Derailment at Galt.

Galt, Nov. 22.—The C.P.R. auxiliary outfit from West Toronto in charge of Supt. Edwin Walden arrived here at 3.30 p.m. yesterday in response to a call to clear wreckage, due to a run-off on the switch at the stone road crossing. Two cars of a construction train had been derailed and upset owing to the break of a coupling pin. In less than an hour things were set to rights.

Will Share His Hardships Among Labrador Fishermen

Dr. Wilfrid T. Grenfell Married in Chicago—Finis of a Romance Begun in One of the Doctor's Trips Abroad for Assistance in His Work.

HIS STRENUOUS LIFE

Chicago, Nov. 20.—A wedding in which the whole conteinent was interested because of the picturesqueness of the main actors, occurred Thursday night, when Dr. Wilfrid T. Grenfell, the noted Labrador missionary, married Miss Anna E. MacClanahan, daughter of Mrs. Edmund Burke MacClanahan, of 2141 Calumet avenue. The ceremony took place in Grace Episcopal Church, Rev. W. O. Waters, rector of the church, performing the ceremony.

Dr. Grenfell has an international reputation, having been decorated by King Edward as a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St George, and was the first individual ever to receive such honors as the reward for missiinary work. The story of his accomplishments in Labrador attracted the attention and won the praise of the English-speaking world.

TO RESIDE AT ST. ANTHONY

The engagement of the couple was the result of an acquantance formed while Miss MacClanahan was traveling abroad, where she met Dr. Grenfell while he was carrying on his negotiations for the support of his Labrador project. After an extended wedding journey, Dr. Grenfell and his bfido will probably reside at St. Anthony, in far northern Newfoundland. Dr. Grenfell will first deliver one or two more lectures in the United States.

"A Labrador Honeymoon" sounds like the title of a musical comedy. And incidentally, if Miss MacClanahan escapes being dramatized, she will be lucky). But the bride says it isn't like that a bit.

"Why," she asked, when the scribe wanted her to say something about her intrepid spirit, or her high devotion or something like that, "why should there be anything out of the ordinary in my going to Labrador with Dr. Grenfell- His work is there. I am to be his wife. What else could I do?"

What, indeed? One can't get an interview in the face of that sort of logic.

Miss MacClanahan at the time was at her library table completely surrounded by a mass of wedding invitations which she was addressing assiduously, stopping from time to time to remind "Willfrid" that he simply mustn't be late for his engagement to speak at a down-town luncheon. There was nothing of the martyr missionary preparing to give her life to the heathen about her.

A COLLEGE GRADUATE

Miss MacClanahan is a graduate of Bryn-Mawr College in the class of 1906. Of course it goes without saying that she is attractive—this slender little woman with a big, inspiring romance. She knows perfectly well what she is facing. The steady brown eyes tell you what. She knows that there won't be any pink teas and automobiles and that shopping facilities will be limited chiefly to cut rates on sugar and bargains in occasional shipments of bacon. Furs and ivory, to be sure, will be cheap enough to stir the heart of any woman, but you can't do much with an uncarved walrus tusk, and what'a the use of having furs if your washerwoman uses them to wrap the clothes in? No, Miss MacClanahan is prepared—and she thinks it's fine.

A GREAT HOMECOMING

What a homecoming will Dr. Grenfell have when he returns to Labrador with his bride! Perched on a wind-swept point at the entrance to a ford is a group of little frame buildings that seem to be occupied chiefly in watching for gales and hanging on for dear life. Probably there are lonelier places than Battle Harbour, but according to those who have been there its rivals as the original Lonesomeburst are neither numerous nor important. Nevertheless this same village is to be the scene of a brilad homecoming such as seldom happens outside the historical novels. All the population of the coast—men, women and children—will be out to line the shores, greet the returned wanderer and celebrate his honeymoon. No feudal baron bringing home his newly wedded wife from one of the neighbouring marches ever got a more royal welcome than this which is being planned for the missionary extraordinary to the deep sea fisharmen of the Labrador coast.

WILL STILL BE STRENUOUS

The doctor is family physician to some 30,000 people, pretty well scattered. Turning out at night to look after a patient sixty miles away over the ice is no uncommon occurrence. On several occasions Dr. Grenfell has taken short cuts across drifting ice, the result being that he was out loose on a floe half the size of a dining table and drifted about in the open sea for a day or two. The scribe spoke of that to the missionary. Would he be more careful now that he was to be married? "My dear sir," he said, "I must get to my patients."

He treats ward cases received aboard his ship, the Strathcona, between hospital points. He navigates his steamer, for he is his own pilot. He attends to patients found in the different harbours or on the fishing vessels, pulling teeth, performing minor operations, diagnosing, and dispensing. He holds religious meetings every evening. He responds to medical calls wherever they come. He writes a daily diary for a score of newspapers to swell the mission funds. He conducts Sunday services the year round. He arranges for supplies of wood for his ship's furnace (there is no coal in Labrador).

He settles disputes between fisherfolk as an unpaid magistrate. He provides clothes and food for those that need them, nets and gear for fishermen who have had hard luck, wooden legs and arms for the crippled. He baptises, marries, and buries where no cleryman ever goes. He tows off wrecked vessels after every great storm, carrying the wrecked crews southward to the mail boat. He sounds for reefs, explores harbours, and discovers new cod banks for the trawlers. He manages hospitals, stores, libraries, workshops, fox farms, angora goat herds, a farm at St Anthony, a sawmill at Roddickton, and the reindeer herd.

And when he is not busy he will be at home with his wife!

MOODY INSPIRED HIM

It was a short, stocky man from America that suggested Dr. Grenfell's career as a medical missionary. Soon after he founded the old Chicago Avenue Church. Dwight L. Moody went to London to preach and here Grenfell as a student, heard the evangelist, and decided he wanted to do somthing for his fellowmen. So Chicago is rather interested in Wilfrid T. Grenfell. A Chicago man helped start his work. Now a Chicago girl is going to help finish it.

Dr. Grenfell is 44 years old.

ST. LUKE'S A.Y.P.A.

Rev. H. J. Keith, the Speaker at Regular Meeting Friday Night.

The regular meeting of the A.Y.P.A. of St. Luke's church was held Friday night and a large attendance was present. The rector, Dr. Langfeldt, occupied the chair at the request of the president, Miss Ethel Packenham. The principal feature of the evening was a missionary address by Rev. H. J. Keith, of Knox church. Previous to the address, Miss Ethel Walton gave an instrumental solo and Mr. Kenneth Shook a vocal solo. In introducing Mr. Keith, Dr. Langfeldt spoke of the friendship existing between them and experienced his great pjleasure of having Mr. Keith present. The address dealt with the position of women in the heathen world as compared with what Christianity has done for them in bringing them to the proper place, which woman as the equal of man should hold. After the lecture Miss Alice Neil gave an instrumental solo, followed by a few words from the rector, thanking Mr. Keith for the able and instructive address which he had given. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The next meeting will be held on Friday, Dec 3.

30 Tons Pressure on a Bar of Soap

¶ Every bar of Taylor's Borax Soap is put under a pressure of thirty tons to drive out the moisture.

¶ We use only the purest cocoanut oil from the Isle of Ceylon. Then we boil it doubly long and mix in the borax. While boiling we run thousands of gallons of clean water through the soap which carries away all impurities.

¶ Twenty-one days are required to make a single cake. The labor of more than 200 people is represented in the cake.

¶ We put "every" bar through an ageing process equal to six months in your pantry. You don't have to age this soap.

¶ The bar is hard and firm. It wears much longer. The borax softens the water which also reduces the amount of soap by almost half that ordinarily required.

A NIGHT OF WEEPING

PASTOR RUSSELL PREACHES ON THE RELIEF FROM MISERY.

Text: "Weeping May Endue For the Night But Joy Cometh in the Morning" (Psalm xxx, 5.)—No Book So Helpful In the Matter of Suffering as Is the Bible—Curse of Death Over the World.

Sunday, Nov. 21.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle, preached to-day to a crowded house from Psalm xxx, 5, "Weeping may endure for the night, but joy cometh in the morning." He said:

No other book treats the matter of human woe and sorrow in the wise, tender, sympathetic, helpful manner of the Bible. It assures us that however cold, heartless and disappointing the world may be and our friends may be, or those from whom we may have expected better things, we have, nevertheless, a God of sympathy—a God of love. No heathen religion knows anything of such a God. With them God's attributes are merely more or less of ferocity. Their gods are to be placated and worshipped from fear of what they otherwise would do to their creatures. The God of the Bible assures us of his love, his sympathy, in all of our distresses—his interest in our affairs and his provision for the ultimate welfare of all those who will come into the attitude of loving righteousness and hating iniquity—the only proper attitude of heart, the only one which he can approve and bless with everlasting life.

The Scriptures point out to us what we recognize to be the truth—that the world has been under a pall and blight and curse of death for six thousand years. Appropriately our text describes this period as a dark time of hard, blighting experiences, a night of weeping—of sorrow. In harmony with this figure it declares that "darkness covers the (civilized) earth and gross darkness the heathen."

Not alone does this condition affect those who are in alienation from God through ignorance and superstition and the power of sin, but it affects also those who have accepted the grace of God, who have turned their backs upon sin and who are seeking to walk in the narrow way, in the footsteps of Jesus. Well does the Apostle say, "The whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now. And not only they, but ourselves also, which have the first-fruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption; to wit, the redemption of our Body,"—the Body of which Jesus is the Head or Chief and we are symbolical members or an under-priesthood (Romans viii, 22, 23).

There is a difference, however, between the Church and the world in this groaning, as suggested by the Apostle's words. The world groans aloud without alleviation, and even its waiting for the manifestation of the sons of God is a waiting in ignorance; for, being out of touch with the Eternal One, they know not of his gracious purposes and arrangements—for these are kept secret from all except his sanctified ones. "The secret of the Lord is with them that fear (reverence) him and he will show them his Covenant" (Psalm xxv, 14). These who possess the secret of the Lord "sorrow not as others who have no hope" (I. Thessalonians iv, 13). They "groan inwardly" and wait for the glorification of themselves and all the brethren, members of the symbolical Body of Christ, by participation in the First Resurrection. The hopes of these must be realized first, before the blessing can come to the "groaning creation" in general. The latter are waiting for the manifestation of the sons of God; namely, the Church in glory.

The Bible represents itself as being the candle of the Lord, the lamp of Divine Truth and enlightenment. But it tells us that its light is not for the world—either now or at any time future. Its light is only for those who by faith and obedience unto consecration seek to walk in the footsteps of Jesus. They need the light. God provides it for them. These are represented by the Prophet as saying to the Lord, "Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path" (footsteps). (Psalm cxix, 105). This light evidently does not shine far into the future, but enough for each onward step as it becomes due.

St. Peter amplifies the same thought, after telling us of the assurance which he himself and his associates had upon the Mount of Transfiguration when they beheld "the vision" Matthew xvii, 1-9 of the Lord miraculously transformed and with him Moses and Elijah and heard the voice from heaven, it was forceful to their minds as teaching the coming of our Lord in glory, in due time. Nevertheless, says the Apostle, honoring the Bible above any vision, "We have a more sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day star arise" (II. Peter i, 9), indicating that the morning is at hand and that the Sun of Righteousness will soon fulfill its mission of blessing all the families of the earth.

Why does God permit the reign of sin and death, injustice, unrighteousness, sorrow, trouble, pain heartaches, etc.? Why does he not deal with humanity graciously, kindly, lovingly, as a Father—as he deals with the angelic sons of God? Is it just or loving on the part of our Creator to bring forth millions of his creatures under these admittedly unfavorable conditions — beset by weaknesses and sinwardness from their birth and surrounded by others similarly weak, and beset by Satan and his minions—wicked spirits? Is it just that we should thus be in an unequal fight subjected to weaknesses and dying and imperfect conditions on account of the sin of our first parents and then, on the same account, be in danger of an eternity of torture with nine-hundred and ninety-nine chances out of a thousand against us?

No, thank God, that thought of eternal torture which came down to us from the dark ages, and which we for a time supposed to be Biblical, we find now is quite unscriptural, when judged in the light of the Bible's own testimony. The eternal torment doctrine assuredly is not of God, not of the Bible, but, as St. Paul declares, one of the "doctrines of devils."

The inheritance of weaknesses, blemishes, sorrows, pains and trouble, to which we were born, is quite sufficient and, according to the Scriptures, these are all part of death, and all reach their culmination in death, which is the real penalty for sin prescribed by our Creator. The fact that these blemishes still continue with the race proves that their sins are not yet blotted out, and to this agree the Scriptures which point us to the on-coming glorious day of blessing a thousand years long, the Millennium, in which Divine blessing will be bestowed upon every member of Adam's race. The merit of Christ's sacrifice, the ransom-price for sinners which he laid down will by that time be made available "for the sins of the whole world."

The merit of that sacrifice has already been applied to the Church—"The household of faith"—since Pentecost. It has brought to this class very special privileges, though very different ones from those it will bring to the world during the Millennium. The willing and obedient of the world will then get restitution gradually (Acts iii, 20), back to human perfection and a world-wide Edenic home. The blessing upon the Church is different. The promise now made to those who can and will walk by faith and not by sight is a heavenly one. They are to have a heavenly or spiritual reward and in their resurrection become partakers of the Divine Nature and have no share thereafter in human nature. The conditions of the present time are severe, proportionately to the greatness and grandeur of their heavenly calling. The terms of acceptance to the divine nature include not only faith and love, but a self-sacrificing will. These sacrifice their earthly restitution rights and privileges for the privilege of suffering with Christ, that they may reign with him in his Millennial Kingdom.

The same thought is elsewhere expressed. Only those who hear his voice and obey him as the Teacher sent of God will be successful in their endeavor to become members of the "Royal Priesthood," now being selected from the world. Only those who, during the Millennial Age, will hear and obey will there receive this great blessing of eternal salvation—eternal life under Divine favor, free from the curse. The reward to the world in the close of the Millennium and the reward to the Church in the close of this Gospel Age will each be eternal salvation; but the Church's reward will include eternal glory, heavenly glory and joint-heirship with the Redeemer himself in his great work of administering God's blessings to the world of mankind, as Mediator of the New Covenant between God and men—the world.

It seemed wise to our Heavenly Father that our Lord Jesus should learn obedience through sufferings and be tested in respect to his willingness to endure suffering for righteousness' sake. How appropriate it is that the same Father should make similar arrangements for all of the Church, whom he will receive from amongst the race of Adam to be members of the Royal Priesthood under Jesus, the High Priest of our order. We see a necessity for this, not only as respects our own testings and a thorough proof of our own heart-loyalty to the Lord, but additionally we see a wisdom in God's part in thus preparing a priesthood of the future. The term priest as recognized amongst the Jews was not merely one who offered sacrifices, although every priest was of necessity a sacrificer. The special mission of the priestly tribe amongst the other tribes was that of instructing, helping, healing teaching. And so God is preparing a Royal Priesthood for the Millennial Age to bless, to heal, to teach, to uplift all the willing and obedient of humanity.

The royalty of the priesthood signifies that it will no longer be a sacrificing class, for all sacrificing will be at an end. It will be a glorious class, royal, of the divine nature, and representatives with our Lord Jesus of the Divine power. As priests who will have to do with judging and chastening, healing and helping humanity, how much sympathy do we suppose that these Royal Priests should have? Are they not to be on the Divine plane of glory, "members of the Body" of Messiah, the great kingly priest after the order of Melchisedec? And of him has not the Apostle written that he must be a faithful and merciful High Priest, able also to sympathize with the people in their infirmities? Does he not declare that it was for this reason that our Lord was touched with a feeling for humanity's infirmities? And is it not in perfect keeping with this that all those accepted as "members of his Body" should have such experiences in this sacrificing time as would demonstrate their loyalty to the Lord and guarantee their deep sympathetic interest in the world, then committed to their care? To such will be committed the work of human restitution, uplift out of sin and death conditions—mental, moral and physical?

How glad we should be that our Heavenly Father's sympathy for us will provide "a morning of joy" to be ushered in, in his "due time!" Additionally he sympathizes with us to the extent that he has given us in advance a message and Revelation and explanation to comfort us, to sustain us in the way! We have already seen that this Revelation is only for those who have the eyes of faith and the ears of faith at the present time. "Blessed are your eyes, for they see; and your ears, for they hear." "He that hath an ear let him hear."

We recognize the wisdom of God in withholding the secret of his plan from the world in general. We recognize that for the world to know the deep things of God at the present time would be injurious rather than helpful to them. It might possibly work an interference with the Divine Program. Nevertheless we are bound to sympathize with the poor groaning creation in its blindness and ignorance. The poor world knows not why it came into being. In an animal fashion, eating and drinking, etc., it seeks to use the opportunities of present life and, after a few short years full of trouble, it goes down into the tomb, ignorant of the purposes of its creation, and usually considerably enthralled by fear respecting the future beyond the portals of death.

How we may rejoice in spirit as we perceive the length and breadth and height and depth of the Divine Program for the future and the blessings which it will bring to this "groaning creation!" How we long for the time to come when the Church shall be made ready through the sufferings of this present time for the glories of the future—of the Kingdom! No wonder the Apostle declares, "He that hath this hope in him purifieth himself even as he (the Lord) is pure" (I John iii, 3). He is our exemplar, our pattern. We seek to copy him. Although we cannot hope to be like him in the flesh, we can be like him in the spirit of our minds and thus be of the character-likeness which the Father will be pleased to honor with a share in the "First Resurrection." By that glorious "change" we shall be made like him actually and see him as he is and share his glory.

The morning of joy, the Millennial Morning, of course, cannot be ushered in until the rising of the Sun of Righteousness. Its beams of grace and Truth will flood the earth with the light of the knowledge of the glory of God to such a degree that it will drive out, expel, all ignorance, superstition and sin, which have worked such havoc in our race.

But what is this Sun of Righteousness? Whence comes it? The Bible answers the question by telling us that it symbolically represents the Lord himself and the elect Church of this Gospel Age. The Sun of Righteousness is a synonym for the Seed of Abraham, of whom it is written, "In thee shall all the families of the earth be blessed." The Mystery hidden for a time from many is the fact that the Church is to share with her Lord in every feature of his glorious work, not only in suffering, but also in reigning. Thus we have St. Paul's assurance that the overcomers will be members of the Seed of Abraham (Galatians iii, 29). And we have our Lord's own word that this faithful class will be represented in the great Sun of Righteousness, the great Messiah, the great Prophet, Priest, King and Mediator between God and men (Matthew xiii, 43).

St. Peter, in viewing the prospects of the Church, inquires as to "what manner of persons we ought to be in all manner of holy living and godliness." He refers to us, who know that the present order of things is the reign of sin and death from which our Lord died to deliver us. What manner of persons ought we to be, who have heard the Lord's invitation to joint-heirship in his Kingdom, and who know that we are now on trial to determine by our voluntary course our worthiness or unworthiness of that glorious position to which we have been called by God's favor! How paltry, how insignificant, do all the affairs of the world appear in comparison to this great prize set before us in the gospel!

And what should be our attitude towards the world, seeing from this inside standpoint of Divine Revelation the real condition of the world and God's sympathy for it. Its ignorance should make us very sympathetic, and very much disposed to lend a helping hand of relief in every possible manner. We should be ever ready to remove the scales of blindness from the mental vision of all who give indication of a desire for God—any who seem to be "feeling after God, if haply they might find him" (Acts xvii, 27). Only such will be ready for the Kingdom, fit for the Royal Priesthood, every member of which must be "touched with a feeling" for earth's infirmities.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman.

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOHN G. MOLDAN, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

Wellington's Self Control.

One of the best stories of self control is told of the Duke of Wellington, who in the peninsular campaign was sitting at breakfast with Picton and other officers just before the engagement. Orderlies were riding up to the tent every few minutes with news of the steady approach of the enemy. The duke did and said nothing, but by the knitting of his brows was supposed to be deep in thought. Presently he turned to his companions and said: "Was your egg well cooked, Picton?" Mine was abominable." The "Iron Duke" was not careless of the issue of the battle about to be fought, but had made his arrangements long before and knew exactly how the enemy would advance and how to counteract it.

The Fighting Parson.

When the great-grandfather of the Duke of Norfolk was engaged in any of his electioneering contests he was always attended by his chaplain, an athletic man, one who had made such good use of his hands on several occasions that he acquired the name of "the fighting parson." Mr. Dauncey, an eminent counsel, having once to examine him as a witness during a trial, asked whether he was not the gentleman called "the fighting parson." "I believe I am, sir," the divine replied, "but if you require any more positive proof and will do me the favor to step out of court I will give it to you under my own hand." No further evidence was taken.—Bailey's Magazine.

Do you know that every drop of your blood goes to the kidneys hundreds of times every day? Do you know why?

To be filtered and purified from its impurities. That is the great work the kidneys have to do. They filter the blood. Then these impurities go to the bladder and are passed out of the body along with the urine.

Do you think it possible for you to be well, unless the kidneys do this work thoroughly?

It is these impurities—this unfiltered blood—that causes backaches, headaches, rheumatism, diabetes, Bright's disease, etc. They poison and interfere with the whole system.

If you have any kidney trouble let Doan's Kidney Pills do for you what they have done for thousands of others. They cure all forms of kidney trouble, and they cure them to stay cured.

Mrs. Maurice Doiron, Charlottetown, P.E.I., writes:—"I was troubled with my kidneys for five years. They were so bad at times that I could not cross the floor for the pain. I went to a doctor, but he did me no good at all. I sent to the druggist and got five boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, and I am glad to say that after taking them I was cured. I have had no trouble for nearly three years now."

Price 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co. Limited, Toronto, Ont.

In ordering specify "Doan's."

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many positively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these disgusting examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.,—take the advice received and be well.

Simplified Oratories.

The new minister was consulting the organist as to the music to be sung on his first Sunday.

"And besides the hymn tunes," said the organist, whose daily occupation was that of plumber and iceman for the village, "we always have two selections from the choir, from real classical music, generally from one of Handel's or Haydn's oratorios."

"Why, that is good news," said the minister, who was no mean musician and had a cultivated taste and ear. "But don't you find the music rather difficult for untrained singers?"

"Well, they aren't untrained, for I train 'em," said the organist with some resentment. "And, besides that, where the music's difficult I alter it for 'em. I strike out all the cadenzas and trills and things of that kind, and where the tune runs too low or too high I either set it up or down an octave, or if I can't do that I just have 'em quit singing, and I put on the vox humana stop and play the tune till it gets into their range again. It's easy enough when you know how to do it."

The Steady Man.

We'd like to write a little rhyme about the steady man, who keeps on pegging all the time and does the best he can; the man who early goes to work and doesn't get home late, who never tries to shirk in order to be great. There are some fellows who will try to do their business tricks and have a finger in the pie of city politics. They try to put on lots of style and play a heavy role, and in a little bit o' while you find them in a hole. I like the man of steady pace; his system I admire. He has no wild desire to place more irons in the fire!—Los Angeles Express.

Tommy—You would, eh? Well, gran'ma's got ahead of you. Don't you see the prints of her'n all around the edges?—Boston Courier.

Colonel John Sneed's Conversations on Domestic Problems

Copyright, 1909, by C. B. Yost.

IV.—Making a Man of the Boy

COLONEL SNEED watched with sparkling eyes and swelling chest the efforts of his infant grandson to swallow a very small but very chubby foot.

"There is no use a-talkin', honey," he observed to his daughter, Mrs. William Rollins—"there's no use a-talkin', but that's a remarkable child, a most remarkable child. He knows what he wants and he's goin' to get it or break his neck a-tryin'. Just notice how he hangs on to that foot. He's got a grip like a country politician, and he's as dead set as Jim Robinson's old mule. Did I ever tell you about that mule, honey?"

"No, papa, but all babies suck their toes if they're given a chance."

"Huh! Maybe they do, maybe they do, but they don't all do it the same way. Every human walks on two legs, yet it's easy to tell a man from a mollycoddle by the way he steps. When it comes to readin' character there ain't many can get ahead of your old daddy, and I don't need a telescope to see that this young un is an extraordinary child. He's got the makin' of a man in him, and he'll make one, too, if you don't let tomfoolishness head him off."

"THE MAKIN' OF A MAN."

"Why, papa, what on earth do you mean?"

"Just what I say, honey. There's a whole lot of people in trousers loafin' around this town who'd 'a' been real men perhaps if their mothers had let 'em alone. The main point in raisin' boys is in knowin' where to stop. There's too many mothers—and they're good mothers, too; I ain't sayin' anything against their intentions, but there's too many of them—that's got the idea that they ain't doin' their whole duty unless they make little angels out of their boys. Some of them succeed, too, but the product don't stay on earth very long. Little angels are all right in heaven, no doubt, but they don't seem to fit into the plan of things down here. As old Bill Swift's always sayin', they're kind of de trop. What we need in this vale of tears is men, just plain men, and the sooner you get that fixed in your noggin, honey, the better it'll be for William Matrimitoe there.' Just look at the little rascal kick. I never saw such an extraordinary child. Honest, I never did.

"But, as I was sayin', honey, the main thing in raisin' boys is knowin' when to let 'em alone. And boys, I want to tell you, can stand a whole lot of lettin' alone and be all the better for it. If you let that youngster get the notion that he's boss of the shop, and I see signs of it already; if you jump and run every time he hollers and fetch and carry whenever he commands; if, when he gets old enough to understand, you talk about how sweet he is and how smart he is right before his face; if you pet him and coddle him all the time and feed him things he's got no business to eat just because he wants them, he's pretty certain to turn out a prig that'll have as many friends as a sheep stealin' cur and be about as much use to society. Maybe you've wondered why the woods are full of just such people. Well, that's the reason. If I had a chance to be born again and was given my choice between that kind of a mother and no mother at all I'd say, give me an orphan asylum. Yet some of the sweetest and best women God ever made make that very mistake, and the funny part about it is that they don't know it and their boys don't know it. But everybody else does.

"POP'S SHOT AT HIM."

"There's another way of not lettin' 'em alone, and that's hoppin' around all the time, like a hen on a hot griddle, hollerin' 'don't.' That's the mother with the overheated conscience who's got a stern duty to perform and raises her boys with a plumb line and a hammer. She believes, like the poet, in bewin' to the line no matter where the chips fall, but the trouble is that most of the chips hit the boy. She's got her eagle eye fixed on him every minute of the day, and every time he turns around there's a 'don't' shot at him until he's afraid to do anything at all. And the chances are that he never will do anything worth mentionin', for if the habit once gets fixed it's pretty apt to stay through life. I know lots of men who don't amount to a row of pins because they're afraid of makin' a mistake, and I'll bet a white lot that most of them owe their dispositions to the way their mothers trained them.

"No, little girl, if you want to make a man of that boy give him a fightin' chance to develop accordin' to nature's plans and specifications. You've heard the old sayin' that the Lord takes care of drunken men and little children. I have my doubts about the drunken men; I think it's another party that looks after them. But there's no mistake about the children, and if I was goin' to write a prescription for the makin' of a man I'd put down twenty parts good example, ten parts good advice, twenty parts love and fifty parts trust in Providence. If you're ridin' a thoroughbred horse you don't want to use spurs or whip, and you don't need to touch the rein except to guide him. It's the same way with that youngster there. He's got good blood in him, and all you've got to do is to keep him in the middle of the road, and nature 'll do the rest. You and William have got first to set the right kind of an example. You can't be much of a guide unless you know the route; you can't expect him to be truthful if you tell fibs; you can't expect him to be honest if you look out the car window when the conductor comes by; you can't expect him to be honorable unless you are honorable, not only in your dealin's with him, but with others. It takes a mighty little preachin', but a whole lot of practicin', to raise a boy right.

"You'll have to remember, honey, that the boy don't know the road. Once in awhile you'll have to give the rein a little pull to the right or the left to keep him from straying off at the forks, and now and then you'll need to check him up from goin' into mudholes or stumbin' on rocks, but that's about all. You're his guide, you must understand, not his driver. About every so often he'll come to a fork where the left hand road 'll look to him lots more attractive than the right hand one, and then you'll have to explain the difference. You'll have to show him that the main thing to know about a road is where it's goin' to wind up. Put it up to his intelligence and he'll go the right way nine times out of ten, but if you try to club him into goin' that way it's ten chances to one that he jumps the track and cuts across the fields.

"That's about the long and short of it, little girl. It's an easy matter to make a man of a boy if you just keep him headed the right way and let him develop as the good Lord wills. Look at him now, will you? Makin' goo-goo eyes at his granddaddy. Most remarkable child I ever saw."

Eiffel Tower That Failed.

Wembley Park (Eng.), where there was some interesting displays of model aeroplane flying the other day, and where Londoners and others will have an opportunity of watching several aerial contests in the latter part of this month, has an interesting history.

About eighteen years ago, Wembley Park was acquired by a company whose intention was to carry out the scheme of Sir Edward Watkin, the "Railway King," for the construction of a tower that should rival the Eiffel Tower in Paris. The estimated cost was to be $1,750,000, and the height, when finished, 1,150 feet.

The work of construction was carried on for eighteen months. Concrete foundations of 1,800 tons were laid, and slowly a structure of steel weighing 2,700 tons was raised.

But when $500,000 had been expended funds gave out, and the work was abandoned.

Only in 1907 was the 155 feet structure demolished, by an explosive known as "roburite," and the work of demolition occupied over a year. Although so much time and money had been spent on the work of erection the same engineers who carried out the construction had to be paid $6,000 and given the materials for pulling it down.

On Whit Monday last Wembley Park became a pleasure-ground for the citizens of London, and it is hoped to transform it into a summer resort, combining the attractions of Earl's Court and the White City with rural beauty.

The War Office has accepted the use of forty-five acres for the training of London Territorials.

Fighting Terry.

The popular actor, Mr. Fred Terry, tells an amusing story of his school days. He was sent to a school in France, and before going promised his mother that he would not quarrel or fight. This promise he kept so faithfully that for some time his life was made a misery by the boys, who, finding he would not hit back, punched him on every possible occasion. At last he could stand it no longer, and wrote to be allowed to break his promise about not fighting. His father replied to the effect that he had better fight if it was necessary for his happiness, but to "get in the first hit, and hit hard." That was enough for young Terry. The next boy who interfered with him had to stay in bed for a few days to recover from the effects of "too much Terry." "In the course of the next few days," says the actor, "I fought four pitched battles, and after that I was quite happy."

Lieut. Shackleton's Shilling.

"Since I was fifteen years of age I have worked for my living—at a shilling a month to begin with," Lieut. Shackleton stated while distributing prizes at the Browning Settlement, Walworth, Eng. "When I was a little more than sixteen I was shovelling coals at that price off the coast of South America."

To-day the whole world resounds with the fame of Shackleton, whose thrilling dash for the South Pole will go down in history. Of such stuff are true men made. They are afraid of nothing in the shape of work.

New Decoration Established.

The King's police and fire medal is a new medal which has been instituted by His Majesty to be awarded to members of the constabulary forces and fire departments throughout the Empire in recognition of special and exceptional services, heroism or devotion to duty. The medal, which is to be of silver, will be awarded annually on the recommendation of Ministers of Governments. Not more than 30 will be awarded in the dominions beyond the seas in any one year, 50 in India and 40 in the United Kingdom.

Alpiners' Home.

The Alpine Club of Canada has now a beautiful club house at Banff, where the members gather before and after their yearly camp for mountain climbing. Anyone who visits this part of Canada may easily become convinced that the Alpine Club has already a strong national influence. There is in mountain climbing a union of high emprise, good fellowship and the testing of mind and body which makes it a spiritual as well as physical recreation.

To Be DYSPEPTIC Is To Be MISERABLE.

Dyspepsia is the prevailing malady of civilized life. It is largely due to gross errors in diet, over-eating, too free indulgence in stimulants and over-taxing the stomach with indigestible food, eating too rapidly without chewing the food sufficiently, indulging in hot breads, pastry, pickles, confectionery, etc.

Burdock Blood Bitters has an established reputation, extending over thirty-four years, as a positive cure for dyspepsia in all its forms, and from all diseases arising from it.

Can Eat Anything Now.

Mrs. Herman Dickenson, Benton, N.B., writes: "I have used Burdock Blood Bitters and find that few medicines can give such relief in dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was troubled for a number of years with dyspepsia and could get no relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters. I took three bottles and became cured and I can now eat anything without it hurting me. I will highly recommend it to all who are troubled with stomach trouble."

addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed, "Tender for additions and alterations to the General Post Office Building, Toronto, Ontario," will be received at this office until 5.00 p.m., on Monday, November 29, 1909, for the work mentioned.

Plans, specifications and forms of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and on application to Mr. Thomas Hastings, Clerk of Works, Customs Building, Toronto.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, with their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,

NAPOLEON TESSIER,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, October 29, 1909.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

DUTIES.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

N.B.—Unauthorized publications of this advertisement will not be paid for.

BUDGET DEBATE.

Lords Will Discuss Lloyd-George's Measure To-day.

London, Nov. 22.—The United Kingdom is more absorbed in politics now than for many years, and the coming week will see the culmination of the fierce warfare which has been carried on over the budget.

The House of Lords is expected to vote on Lord Lansdowne's resolution, calling for the rejection of the budget, on Thursday. Before then most of the big guns in the Upper House will speak on the question. Lord Rosebery's effort for the Conservatives, and that of the Earl of Halsbury for the Liberals, are awaited with the most interest.

Probably the largest number of Lords will be mustered for the vote since the rejection of home rule. About 450, many of whom practically are strangers to Parliament, are likely to be assembled, and not more than one-quarter of these will support the budget. Most of the politicians predict that when the question goes before the people at the general elections in January, it will be impossible to wipe out the great Liberal majority, and that the Liberal Government will be returned, but with comparatively small majority. The betting at Lloyds is 3 to 1 in favor of the Liberals.

The Liberal leaders declare that the issue is whether the hereditary chamber shall rule the country.

The Conservatives argue that the House of Commons has no mandate from the people to introduce new forms of taxation, and that the House of Lords is fulfilling its function as a balance on the Commons by forcing resort to a referendum. Conservative gains will be acclaimed as victories for protection.

The uncertainty of the country's financial policy is paralyzing the stock exchange, and the possibility that the Government will have to raise a large loan to meet current expenses makes the money market too uncertain for extensive private enterprises.

Alarm In France.

Paris, Nov. 22.—The gravity of the political situation in England is fully appreciated in France. The trend of feeling here is distinctly gloomy. Official circles express regret to see Great Britain entering on an international crisis when the situation abroad demands all her attention. The advanced Republican organ, Le Journal, declares that if the Liberals win in the struggle England will enter on an era of upheavals that will not stop at the frontier, but will upset the present balance of power in Europe.

Aristide Briand, the Premier, refrains from expressing any opinion on the domestic crisis in England, but states that all European statesmen are awaiting the struggle with great anxiety, for it will be one of the most tragic in history, and its consequences will be momentous for France and for Europe.

Proudest Work of France.

Paris, Nov. 22.—Premier Briand, in the Chamber of Deputies Saturday, indirectly replied to the address of the Pope, made on Thursday last before a body of French pilgrims, in which the Pope declared that France was making war against the church with the aim of undermining the basis of Christianity.

The Premier warned the Republicans not to be alarmed by the disorder the church was attempting to stir up in the face of the coming elections.

"The country," said M. Briand, "will never permit the destruction of the public school system, which is the proudest work of the republic."

The Premier characterized the Catholic appeals as "violent, passionate and unjust," intimating that the Government possessed documents, and could, if it so desired, make embarrassing revelations regarding conditions in the confessional schools.

Turning to the Catholics, he declared that the persecution of which they complained was purely imaginary.

Bad Fire at Souris, P.E.I.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Nov. 22.—The people of Souris feared on Saturday morning that the whole town, with a population of 2,000, would be wiped out by fire, but they escaped with the loss of three or four large business places. The fine residence of Dr. McLean, and the Methodist Church, with a total loss of about $50,000. The fire broke out at 8 a.m. in the warehouse of J. J. Hughes & Co., the largest building in the town, in which they conducted a general store. The blaze made rapid headway and spread to the establishments of Paquet Brothers, grocers, and M. Callagran, tailor, and A. A. Acorn. The fire department is composed of volunteers, and a call for help was telephoned to Charlottetown, about 50 miles distant, and without delay a special train was rushed off with an engine and company of firemen.

Souris is the chief town in the eastern portion of Prince Edward Island. Rose Coghlan, the actress, for many years made Souris her summer home.

Royalists Will Join the Pope.

Paris, Nov. 22.—The royalists yesterday issued a manifesto announcing their intention to unite with the Catholics at the coming general election in opposition to those candidates who are not in sympathy with the church's attitude regarding the public school.

Steamer India Safe.

Port Colborne, Nov. 22.—The steamer India, owned by the Calvin Co., Ltd., of Kingston, arrived here safely Saturday night at 7 o'clock. Great anxiety had been felt for her safety, as the steamer Wasaga, which arrived here Friday morning, reported passing the India this side of Long Point. Capt. Coons of the India reports that he was forced to take shelter under Long Point.

Burned to Death In His Home.

St. Thomas, Nov. 22.—John McIntyre, aged 70, who lived alone in a house on the 13th concession of Yarmouth, was burned to a crisp in a fire which destroyed his house at an early hour Saturday morning. He was a widower, and two daughters reside in St. Thomas. The body of a man named Alfred Hastings was found in the stables of the Franklin House, Port Stanley.

Negro Shoots Marshal; is Lynched.

Vicksburg, Miss., Nov. 22.—After he had shot and fatally wounded City Marshal W. Nichols, and was in turn shot by Nichols, James Estes, a negro, was hanged by a mob at Delhi, La., Saturday night. Nichols was attempting to arrest the negro on a minor charge when shot. Estes was practically in a dying condition when he was lynched.

Nicaraguan Troops Deserting.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, Nov. 22.—(Especial wireless, via Colon, Nov. 21.)—One hundred men of Zelaya's troops, with rifles, came into Gen. Estrada's camp at El Bolo Friday night and surrendered to the leader of the revolution. They were in a starving condition and were poorly clad and without shoes. The men said that the balance of Zelaya's forces in the Bama district have little or nothing to eat, and are anxious to join Gen. Estrada.

Citizenship for Jews.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 22.—During the last hours of its recent session the Diet of Finland, by a vote of 115 to 43, adopted a law of Jewish rights, which confers citizenship upon Jews who are natives or have been residents of the country for ten years.

It places Jews on an equal footing with other foreigners, abolishing mediaeval restrictions which confined them to three towns within which they might reside and conduct business.

Two and a Half Years for Abduction.

Belleville, Nov. 22.—Jefferson Davis, an unmarried man, of this city, was charged with abducting a girl under 14. He took the child and kept her in his room, away from her mother, for two days.

Magistrate Masson on Saturday found the charge of abduction proven, and sentenced Davis to two and a half years in the penitentiary.

Taxicab Stock

The Story of the Dollars

The ideal way of earning money is to make your dollars work for you. Make your dollar work where it will earn the most by seeking for the investment that will pay the best.

The dollar that earns but 2 or 3 per cent. is almost as bad as the idle dollar which earns nothing. We advise Taxicab Stock at $6 per share, par value $5.00, for beginning January 1910, it can pay a dividend of 10% per annum or 2½% quarterly.

The Idle Dollar

The dollar that is tied up in bad investments—

—the dollar that is invested in (conservative) low interest bearing securities, usually sold at a high premium—

—the dollar that is not invested anywhere, reposing in the old stocking under the mattress, or in the tin teapot on the pantry shelf—

—the dollar that buys the things that you would be better without—

—this is the idle dollar.

The Busy Dollar

The dollar that is working for you all the time—

—the dollar that brings you big percentages of returns—

—the dollar that is invested in good commercial stocks or industrial enterprises and earns away above the ordinary bank interest—

—the dollar that by quick turns and clear-cut sight doubles, trebles and quadruples itself—

—this is the busy dollar.

To keep your dollar busy make it work for you and earn big returns.

An investment in Taxicab Stock will prove the best known medium.

The Ideal Investment

An industry that fills a long felt want, which supplies an insistant and growing demand, which has possibilities of great future expansion, is the ideal investment.

Such a one is Toronto's system of Taxicabs, for in barely six months it has proved its big earning capacity.

What it may do in the future, with an outfit increased many times, you can only surmise.

Taxicab Stock has a great future, and the time to buy Taxicab Stock is now.

SUBSCRIPTIONS will be accepted up to 100 shares in the order received at this office.

THE BODIES OF INFANTS WILL NOT BE EXHUMED BY CROWN

Will Proceed Against Archie McLaughlin on One Charge Only---Official Report of the Provincial Analyst Has Been Received by the Attorney General.

The report of Prof. W. H. Ellis, the Provincial Analyst, who conducted the analysis of the contents of the stomach of the dead wife of Archie McLaughlin, under arrest for murder at Uxbridge, was received by the Attorney-General's Department on Saturday afternoon. As had been already intimated, the report chronicled the discovery in the stomach of a large quantity of strychnine---more, in fact, than was at first anticipated.

The report was forwarded at once to Crown Attorney Farewell at Whitby in order that he might have opportunity for reviewing it before the resumption of the inquest to-night.

Inspector Wm. Greer of the Provincial force, who has charge of the case, leaves this morning for Uxbridge. He will attend the inquest to-night and remain probably for some days, conducting investigations. It is the intention of the Crown to ask the attendance to-night of the younger lady with whom, it is alleged, McLaughlin was desirous of keeping company, in the hope that she may be able to throw some additional light on the circumstances surrounding the tragedy.

The bodies of the two children, found with that of their mother in the burned house, will not be exhumed. The Crown will proceed on the one charge, having decided that it can make itself no stronger by multiplying the cases by further analyses.

Woman Buried Alive In A Thoroughfare In Paris

Roadway Opened Suddenly and Swallowed Victim---The Body Was Not Recovered---Many Others Had Narrow Escapes in the Same Way.

Paris, France, Nov. 20.—A most startling accident has occurred in one of the streets of Paris, which suddenly opened and swallowed a poor woman, who was literally buried alive. Twenty-four hours after the terrible accident there is no certainty as to what has become of her. The accident happened in the Rue Tourlagne, near the corner of the Rue Damremont, at Montmartre. The houses here are built on a rather sharp slope facing the Cemetery of Montmartre, and that part of the ground, it seems, is completely undermined by old diggings for gypsum, which in certain places are only superficially covered. The houses on each side have their foundations laid very deep on piles and concrete, but the street surface naturally is left unpropped. Underground current of water carry away the earth and sand, and from time to time the street level suddenly sinks 10 feet or 20 feet. Such an accident happened two years, when two boys were nearly killed.

A DEEP HOLE

Yesterday evening, shortly after six o'clock, the worst caving-in yet known took place. Many work people were going home, and suddenly they felt the earth give way under their feet. They all managed to run away in time except one man and one woman, who were in the midst of it, and who disappeared with the sinking mass of earth, stones and sand. A deep, yawning hole was soon formed for a distance of about 150 feet, over the whole width of the street and about 20 feet or 30 feet deep. As they were sinking together the woman cried to the man and begged him, for the sake of her children to save her. He caught hold of her hand, and held her for a while. But she was being sucked down in the sand, first up to her waist, then to her neck, and finally she disappeared altogether.

MAN HAD HARD WORK

The man himself was rapidly sinking, and could hardly save himself. Two policemen tried to approach him but the ground gave way under their feet. At last they entered a house and from one of the windows they threw him a rope, to which he clung desperately, and by means of which he was finally rescued. The inhabitants of three houses facing that part of the street had to leave the buildings at once, as there was fear of their falling in.

The firemen worked all night and all morning, in the hope of finding the missing woman, but without success. She is married, and lived in the neighbourhood. Her husband and little daughter were soon on the spot, and remained all night expecting to see her rescued. There is now, however no hope of recovering her alive. The sinking of the ground was caused by strong underground passages of water, which had removed the subsoil for a consietable distance.

Mr. Lastar Wants Chance To State His Position

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—After my challenge against the speakers of local option has been ignored and as their own challenge of last Saturday's paper, under the heading of Public Men vs. Liquor Traffic, which says "Do you know of any prominent man who is willing to stand up and support it," and as I have asked permission to ask a question from the Chairman, and it was not permitted, and as they claim in their editorials as well as by their speakers, that they stand for what is the truth, I therefore challenge them again, and I will give $50 for the floor of Peterborough if I will not be able to prove on the platform that some of their imported speakers have made some statements absolutely false and untrue. I also claim to prove by facts, not by jokes, or sad stories, that some of their speakers have disgraced the citizens of Peterborough in their speeches. I will prove that local option at the present time and under the present circumstances is not only beneficial here in Peterborough, but it will injure more morally and financially, and would deprive hundreds of people directly and indirectly of their making an honest living. I will also prove that no individual clergyman has any right to mix in the church the most sacred thing we possess, as a hall, and hide themselves behind the church as a hall. I can further prove that wherever an individual churchman is beginning to interfere in public affairs it is bringing trouble to the city and anger even to the nations and especially to the great English nation, at the present time. If they think that I am not prominent enough for them, although they say behind my back that they know too much about me, let me tell them that they don't know me yet. A long time ago when I was only a boy of eighteen there was a time that a Government was willing to spend more money to stop my tongue and pen than some of these noble preachers are getting paid in a year, so that they need not be ashamed of discussing on the same platform with me.

Fred Simpson Finished Strong And Second, As Usual

"That boy is a whole lot better than he was last year," said Tom O'Rourke at Excelsior Roller Rink last night, as he watched Henry Jackson, of Midland, better known as Red Hawk, decisively defeat Fred Simpson, Tom Eck's Marathoner, in a 12-mile race last night. "He has improved 30 per cent. in a season," remarked Tom Flanagan, the starter. "He is a dangerous man right now for Alf. Shrubb, Meadows, Holmes, or any of them, at 12 to 15 miles."

Eight hundred people saw the race and it was a good one. Simpson jumped away in the lead, but at a mile Red Hawk pulled up and shot by. They dingdonged for a mile, and then the Mississauga broke away from his Ojibway rival. At four miles Hawk lapped Simpson, and at six miles he spurted again and took another lap. He repeated at 8 miles.

At ten miles the Ojibway made a game effort to break away and get some of the loss back, but though he gained half a lap in his spurt, Jackson was too strong, and catching him again won by three and a quarter laps. The time was good. The time by miles:

REV. DR. O'BRIEN APPPOINTED TO NEW PARISH RESIGNS HIS POSITION WITH ST. PETER'S T.A.S.

Announcement of His Promotion Made by Bishop O'Connor Yesterday---Is in Charge of the People Among Whom He Was Brought Up as a Boy and Young Man---Duties Necessitate Resignation as Spiritual Adviser of the T. A. S.

One of the pleasant surprises in connection with the opening of the Church of the Sacred Heart was the Bishop's announcement that he had appointed Rev. Dr. O'Brien to the position of priest in charge of the new parish.

It had been stated generally that the church would be supplied for the time being from St. Peter's staff, and that a parish priest would not be appointed for some time, and this rumour had contributed largely to the surprise of His Lordship's notification. He said yesterday morning that he had deemed it advisable to appoint at once an assistant priest, and he had chosen one who had lived among the people of the south end, and who well deserved the promotion. He knew from Dr. O'Brien's past career that he would do honour to the parish and would continue to strive earnestly and devotedly for the spiritual welfare of the people of the new parish. Bishop O'Connor thanked the architect, contractors, and all those who had in any way assisted in the building of the new church. He expressed his gratitude to those who had generously made contributions to the work, not only members of the congregation, but also those donors other than Catholics.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien thanked the Bishop for the confidence he had placed in him, and the honour and duty entrusted to him. It was the climax of many kindnesses during the past ten years, and although the work was hard at times, the priests had the industry and untiring efforts of the Bishop as an example to them. Dr. O'Brien said he would endeavour to prove himself worthy of the position given him. He would devote himself to the spiritual and the temporal welfare, as far as it lay in his power, of the people of the new parish.

The masses at the new church next Sunday will be at 8:30 and 10:30 a.m.

The bell of the Church pealed forth for the first time at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The general opinion was it is very similar in tone to that of St. Peter's. The dignity conferred upon Rev. Dr. O'Brien is a source of gratification to all his friends and particularly those of the south end, where he was born and spent his early youth. He is still a young man and is known personally to practically every person in his parish, and with their cooperation should meet with the success anticipated.

REV. DR. O'BRIEN,

At T. A. S. Meeting.

The regular meeting of St. Peter's T. A. S. was held yesterday afternoon in St. Peter's school hall with a very large attendance. Forty-six new members were received, an evidence of the special effort that is being made. Rev. Dr. O'Brien received the congratulations of the members, but his announcement that the duties of parish priest of the Church of the Sacred Heart necessitated his resigning from the office of Spiritual Adviser of the society, was received with great regret by all. He reviewed the history of St. Peter's T.A.S. from the time of its organization by Rev. Fr. O'Sullivan ten years ago. The society had slowly progressed for a time and then began to make rapid strides. Not many years ago there was a debt against the society, but this had been wiped off and the society has prospered in every respect. Dr. O'Brien regretted the fact that he had to give up the active position of Spiritual Adviser. He will remain in the membership and until after the 10th anniversary celebration and banquet there would be no division of the society. It is understood that after that a Total Abstinence Society will be formed for the southern parish, which Rev. Dr. O'Brien will take charge of. Rev. Fr. McColl succeeds Rev. Dr. O'Brien as Spiritual Adviser of St. Peter's T.A. S., and under his care the society should continue to grow.

Father O'Brien said his first mass in the new church this morning. Mass will be said every morning during the week at 7.30 o'clock. Arrangements are being made to secure a residence for the parish priest of the church of the Sacred Heart.

WAS INJURED IN A BAD FALL

NOW IN THE HOSPITAL

Edward Condon, who resides with his sister on Rogers street, East City, and who is employed at the Quaker Oats Co. mill, met with a painful accident there this morning, suffering a severe fracture to the clavicle.

Mr. Condon was in that part of the factory, where the puffed rice is made, and in making a misstep fell down a "shoot," a distance of eight feet.

Dr. McNulty was called and ordered the injured man removed to St. Joseph's hospital, where he was attended.

TREAT FOR LOCAL THEATRE PATRONS

Guelph, Nov. 20th, 1909.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, Peterborough, Ont:—

Gentlemen,—I believe you play "Two Women and That Man" at an early date. If so, I will say that you are getting the finest show of that kind, I have ever seen. Scenery, company and show wonderful. Away ahead of "The Wolf." The storm scene in the third act is marvellous. Dont' let your public think that they are getting a cheap drama. Any coost you can give this show the public will thank you very sincerely.—Yours truly, JOHN C. GREEN.

ELECTED OFFICERS

At a meeting of the West End Athletic Club in the club rooms on Saturday night a very enthusiastic crowd of young men met for the purpose of discussing the prospects for the coming season and the election of officers. The officers chosen are men of experience and judgment and the confidence of the club is back of them.

The object of the club is for the advancement of all branches of athletics and promoting good fellowship among the members. The club has excellent rooms over the Royal Bank which are sufficiently large enough to accommodate at least fifty members. Officers chosen were:

Hon. President—H. A. Young.
Hon. Vice-President—Geo. Paxman.
Vice-President—L. Dobson.
President—E. Hurtubise.
Sec.-Treas.—G. Hooey.
Manager—J. Oldham.
Patrons and Patronesses — Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. L. Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. R. Neil, Mrs and Mrs. E. S. Clarty

PILLS WERE POISONED

Boxes Were Sent to Many Austrian Officers and One Died After Taking Some of Them.

MYSTERIOUS CASE

Vienna, Nov. 21.—An extraordinary attempt at wholesale poisoning among military officers here has caused a sensation. A large number of officers, just promoted to be captains in the general staff, have received through the mails sample boxes of pills. These were accompanied by a circular recommending them for nervous debility. One of the officers, Capt. Mader, took some of the pills, and died almost immediately. An autopsy revealed the presence of cyanide of potassium, and that death had been caused by this poison.

A further investigation showed that all the pills contained cyanide of potassium in large quantities, and also that many of the first lieutenants attached to the staff, but not promoted, had not received pills. The circulars were signed "Charles Francis," and bore a false address.

All attempts so far to unravel the mystery have failed, and it is suggested that the poison may have been sent out by some disappointed officer or that the poisoning is an Anarchist outrage.

SERIOUSLY INJURED

Mr. Charlie Dennis, Bond street, fireman on G. T. R. engine 211, was seriously injured through a fall from the tender of his engine while placing water in the tank at the Peterborough yards last night. Mr. Dennis had just returned to the railway after being off for some months owing to illness, being engaged at the Fiavelle Milling Company throughout the summer months, and returned to the G. T. R. road a few months ago. While on the G.T.R. system he was engaged as a brakesman, but afterwards became a fireman.

At the time of the accident he was returning from a trip to Belleville, and was knocked off the rear end of the tender by a sudden jolt of the engine. He fell sideways, head foremost, striking his head and shoulder The engines ran on to Lindsay, arriving somewhat late. It is reported the injured man is doing nicely today. His body was badly bruised as a result of the accident.—Lindsay Post.

TENDERS RECEIVED

The Property Committee Opened Figures for Heating, Lighting, Etc., of the New Public Library.

CONTRACTORS' TENDERS

The Property committee met on Saturday afternoon and opened the tenders for the plumbing, heating, tiling and electric wiring of the new Public Library. In all there were seven tenders from local firms for the heating, the prices running from $1563 to $1896, while there were six for the plumbing and tiling and two for the wiring. Messrs. Macgregor and Reid's figures for plumbing, heating and tiling were the lowest, the total amount being $3519, and they also put in a bulk tender for the three at $3500, which the committee decided to recommend to the Council.

F. E. J. MacPherson and Company's tender for the wiring was also the lowest and will be recommended. The contract cannot be let until the Council meets.

The tenders were as follows:

WAS SHOOTING AFFAIR AFTER DANCE AN ACCIDENTAL AFFAIR?

Oakwood Young Men in Some Kind of a Happening Now Said to Have Been an Accident---Buffet in Young Fraser and Has Not Been Located---Rumours are Rife

Examiner Special.

Lindsay, Nov. 22.—Simon Ferguson, a young farmer 27 years of age, who resides north of Oakwood, was shot in the shoulder early this morning, while returning from a dance which was held at the home of Mr. Wm. Rodd's, near the village of Oakwood.

Why or by whom Ferguson was shot, it could not be learned, but it is alleged that a young man who resides in Mariposa, is guilty of the serious offence.

From what information could be secured it appears that a free scrap ensued among the party on the roadside while on the way home, with the result that the young man who had the revolver shot Ferguson in the shoulder.

Ferguson was at once taken to his home, where a physician was called, but was unable to locate the bullet. The unfortunate young man was removed to the Ross Hospital, Lindsay, where he now lies.

No arrests have been made as yet, but it is expected the accused will be taken into custody this evening.

The bullet had not been located at the time of going to press, and the young man is in a dangerous condition.

Lindsay, Nov. 22nd.

Later.—Fraser has been taken to Woodville, where his wound will be examined by a powerful X-ray machine, owned by Dr. Gould. The bullet has not yet been located. Percy Brown is the name of the young man who it is alleged was in possession of the revolver. No arrests have been made and the explanation of the affair is that it was an accident. Other rumours giving a different colour to the happening are rife here to-day. The police may make an arrest for unlawfully carrying firearms.

IS THE GOVERNMENT'S NAVAL POLICY "GOING! GOING! GONE?"

Conservative Club Passes a "Fleet Unit" Resolution at "Epoch Making" Conference on Saturday.

ELOQUENT SPEECHES

"Going! Going! Gone!"

In these or equally suitable words did Mr. J. H. Gardiner refer to the Government's Naval policy at the epoch making meeting of the Conservative Club on Saturday night.

Mr. Gardiner's speech was one of the features of the conference, which terminated in the following resolution, moved by J. H. Burnham, and seconded by D. N. Marshall.

That, whereas the British Admiralty representing the British nation did recommend at the great naval and military conference called by it to meet in London last July that Canada provide as her contribution to the defence of the Empire a "naval unit" of the one Imperial fleet rather than an independent fleet acting independently of the central authority, and that whereas the policy now before the Canadian Parliament for consideration is in direct defiance of that request and provides for a separate Canadian navy not at all times ready to join in defence of Empire, but only when Parliament may see fit and whereas the time has come for Canada to make good its profession of loyalty in the manner requested by the Admiralty and as Australia, New Zealand, etc., are doing; therefore be it resolved that Canada's contribution be a "fleet unit," as requested by Great Britain and that a copy of this resolution be sent to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden."

Kap Karsen's policy, referred to at length in Saturday's Examiner, was not endorsed by the meeting. It was felt perhaps that while Canada should contribute a "fleet unit" the "Hey!-Ed." was needed too badly at home to be sent out to protect Britain's shores.

PETERBOROUGH BOYS IN GAME

Several of Them Will be on the Line-up of Chicago League Team This Year.

A number of Peterborough boys in Chicago just now are breaking into the sporting limelight. Among them are the Foley brothers, who played with the Colonials and High Lifes, and Jack Calnan, who was also a member of the Colonials. The Chicago-American says.

The Sepoy Hockey Club has organized for the coming season. Frank Hennessey has been elected Manager, Harry Campbell, Captain, and J. McLeod, Secretary-Treasurer. White McGee trainer, Vance Wilson rubber.

The Sepoys will join the Chicago Hockey League, which will soon be formed, and expect to have a championship team on the ice. The members are all Canadians and experienced players. The following compose the squad:

Goal, Hyslop; defence, Hennessey, Corbett, Rouille and Ed. Stewart; forwards, Campbell, Foley brothers, Calnan, Stuart brothers and McLeod.

The club has several games booked with college teams outside of Chicago.

CRYSTAL HAS FIVE PIECE ORCHESTRA

The dramatic was pictures entitled "Briton and Boer," which were received so favourably on Saturday at the Crystal theatre, will be repeated to-night. In addition an orchestra of five pieces have been engaged including Mr. Rennie Clarke, of the Royal Alexandra theatre orchestra, Toronto. The bill is an exceptionally good one and should be seen by crowds. The music will be a special feature.

FOR THE PUBLIC
New Formula Cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Hoarseness in Five Hours.
Much is being done in these days to stop the ravages of consumption, but probably nothing has been so effective as teaching the public how to break up a cold and cure coughs, bronchitis, tonsilitis, etc., with simple home-mixed medicine. A laxative cough syrup, free from whiskey is the prime need. A cough indicates inflammation and congestion, and these in turn are due to an excess of waste and poisons in the system. A tonic laxative cough syrup rids the system of congestion, while relieving the painful coughing. Get the following and mix at home: Get one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol, and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Shake the bottle and take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times daily. Give children less, according to age. Cut this out and save it for some friend.

RUGBY

Dear Henry's gone! No more we'll see
Him speeding o'er the chalk marked lea,
No more he'll buck the line and punt
And do his wondrous hurdling stunt.
No more he'll dodge and twist and fight,
And, unobserved, discretely bite,
He had his faults, ah, yes, but who
Could tackle, lad, the same as you?
And so they broke his head.

Dear Frank's departed! Nevermore
He'll equal quite alone, the score
Of all the team opposed. In vain
We'll cast him on the Bloodstained plain,
No more he'll lay the runner low
And give, unseen, the stinging blow,
He had his faults, ah, yes, but when
Was quite his equal on the run—
And so they broke his back.

Dear William's left! He's gone to shores
Where naught is known of football scores
His last touchdown is made, and we Shall nevermore such tackling see.
He's kicked his final goal, alas!
And made his final forward pass,
He had his faults, ah, yes, but then
He's kicked as none will kick again—
And so they broke his back.

THE BODIES OF INFANTS WILL NOT BE EXHUMED BY CROWN

Will Proceed Against Archie McLaughlin on One Charge Only---Official Report of the Provincial Analyst Has Been Received by the Attorney General.

The report of Prof. W. H. Ellis, the Provincial Analyst, who conducted the analysis of the contents of the stomach of the dead wife of Archie McLaughlin, under arrest for murder at Uxbridge, was received by the Attorney-General's Department on Saturday afternoon. As had been already intimated, the report chronicled the discovery in the stomach of a large quantity of strychnine—more, in fact, than was at first anticipated.

The report was forwarded at once to Crown Attorney Farewell at Whitby in order that he might have opportunity for reviewing it before the resumption of the inquest to-night.

Inspector Wm. Greer of the Provincial force, who has charge of the case, leaves this morning for Uxbridge. He will attend the inquest to-night and remain probably for some days, conducting investigations. It is the intention of the Crown to ask the attendance to-night of the younger lady with whom, it is alleged, McLaughlin was desirous of keeping company, in the hope that she may be able to throw some additional light on the circumstances surrounding the tragedy.

The bodies of the two children, found with that of their mother in the burned house, will not be exhumed. The Crown will proceed on the one charge, having decided that it can make itself no stronger by multiplying the cases by further analyses.

Woman Buried Alive In A Thoroughfare In Paris

Roadway Opened Suddenly and Swallowed Victim---The Body Was Not Recovered---Many Others Had Narrow Escapes in the Same Way.

Paris, France, Nov. 20.—A most startling accident has occurred in one of the streets of Paris, which suddenly opened and swallowed a poor woman, who was literally buried alive. Twenty-four hours after the terrible accident there is no certainty as to what has become of her. The accident happened in the Rue Tourlagne, near the corner of the Rue Damremont, at Montmartre. The houses here are built on a rather sharp slope facing the Cemetery of Montmartre, and that part of the ground, it seems, is completely undermined by old diggings for gypsum, which in certain places are only superficially covered. The houses on each side have their foundations laid very deep on piles and concrete, but the street surface naturally is left unpropped. Underground currents of water carry away the earth and sand, and from time to time the street level suddenly sinks 10 feet or 20 feet. Such an accident happened two years, when two boys were nearly killed.

A DEEP HOLE

Yesterday evening, shortly after six o'clock, the worst caving-in yet known took place. Many work people were going home, and suddenly they felt the earth give way under their feet. They all managed to run away in time except one man and one woman, who were in the midst of it, and who disappeared with the sinking mass of earth, stones and sand. A deep, yawning hole was soon formed for a distance of about 150 feet, over the whole width of the street and about 20 feet or 30 feet deep. As they were sinking together the woman cried to the man and begged him, for the sake of her children to save her. He caught hold of her hand, and held her for a while. But she was being sucked down in the sand, first up to her waist, then to her neck, and finally she disappeared altogether.

MAN HAD HARD WORK

The man himself was rapidly sinking, and could hardly save himself. Two policemen tried to approach him but the ground gave way under their feet. At last they entered a house and from one of the windows they threw him a rope, to which he clung desperately, and by means of which he was finally rescued. The inhabitants of three houses facing that part of the street had to leave the buildings at once, as there was fear of their falling in.

The firemen worked all night and all morning, in the hope of finding the missing woman, but without success. She is married, and lived in the neighbourhood. Her husband and little daughter were soon on the spot, and remained all night expecting to see her rescued. There is now, however no hope of recovering her alive. The sinking of the ground was caused by strong underground passages of water, which had removed the subsoil for a considerable distance.

Mr. Lastar Wants Chance To State His Position

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—After my challenge against the speakers of local option has been ignored and as their own challenge of last Saturday's paper, under the heading of Public Men vs. Liquor Traffic, which says "Do you know of any prominent man who is willing to stand up and support it," and as I have asked permission to ask a question from the Chairman, and it was not permitted, and as they claim in their editorials as well as by their speakers, that they stand for what is the truth, I therefore challenge them again, and I will give $50 for the poor of Peterborough if I will not be able to prove on the platform that some of their imported speakers have made some statements absolutely false and untrue. I also claim to prove by facts, not by jokes, or sad stories, that some of their speakers have disgraced the citizens of Peterborough in their speeches. I will prove that local option at the present time and under the present circumstances is not only beneficial here in Peterborough, but it will injure more morally and financially, and would deprive hundreds of people directly and indirectly of their making an honest living. I will also prove that no individual clergyman has any right to mix in the church the most sacred thing we possess, as a hall, and hide themselves behind the church as a hall. I can further prove that wherever an individual churchman is beginning to interfere in public affairs it is bringing trouble to the city and ander even to the nations and especially to the great English nation, at the present time. If they think that I am not prominent enough for them, although they say behind my back that they know too much about me, let me tell them that they don't know me yet. He will remain in the membership and until after the 10th anniversary celebration and banquet there would be no division of the society. It is understood that after that a Total Abstinence Society will be formed for the southern parish, which Rev. Dr. O'Brien will take charge of. Rev. Fr. McColl succeeds Rev. Dr. O'Brien as Spiritual Adviser of St. Peter's T.A.S., and under his care the society should continue to grow.

Father O'Brien said his first mass in the new church this morning. Mass will be said every morning during the week at 7.30 o'clock. Arrangements are being made to secure a residence for the parish priest of the church of the Sacred Heart.

WAS SHOOTING AFFAIR AFTER DANCE AN ACCIDENTAL AFFAIR?

Oakwood Young Men in Some Kind of a Happening Now Said to Have Been an Accident---Bullet in Young Fraser and Has Not Been Located---Rumours are Rife

Examiner Special.

Lindsay, Nov. 22.—Simon Ferguson, a young farmer 27 years of age, who resides north of Oakwood, was shot in the shoulder early this morning, while returning from a dance which was held at the home of Mr. Wm. Rodd's, near the village of Oakwood.

Why or by whom Ferguson was shot, it could not be learned, but it is alleged that a young man who resides in Mariposa, is guilty of the serious offence.

From what information could be secured it appears that a free scrap ensued among the party on the roadside while on the way home, with the result that the young man who had the revolver shot Ferguson in the shoulder.

Ferguson was at once taken to his home, where a physician was called, but was unable to locate the bullet. The unfortunate young man was removed to the Ross Hospital, Lindsay, where he now lies.

No arrests have been made as yet, but it is expected the accused will be taken into custody this evening.

The bullet had not been located at the time of going to press, and the young man is in a dangerous condition.

Lindsay, Nov. 22nd.

Later.—Fraser has been taken to Woodville, where his wound will be examined by a powerful X-ray machine, owned by Dr. Grant. The bullet has not yet been located. Percy Brown is the name of the young man who it is alleged was in possession of the revolver. No arrests have been made and the explanation of the affair is that it was an accident. Other rumours giving a different colour to the happening are rife here to-day. The police may make an arrest for unlawfully carrying firearms.

IS THE GOVERNMENT'S NAVAL POLICY "GOING! GOING! GONE?"

Conservative Club Passes a "Fleet Unit" Resolution at "Epoch Making" Conference on Saturday.

ELOQUENT SPEECHES

"Going! Going! Gone!"

In these or equally suitable words did Mr. J. H. Gardiner refer to the Government's Naval policy at the epoch making meeting of the Conservative Club on Saturday night.

Mr. Gardiner's speech was one of the features of the conference, which terminated in the following resolution, moved by J. H. Burnham, and seconded by D. N. Marshall.

That, whereas the British Admiralty representing the British nation did recommend at the great naval and military conference called by it to meet in London last July that Canada provide as her contribution to the defence of the Empire a "naval unit" of the one Imperial fleet rather than an independent fleet acting independently of the central authority, and that whereas the policy now before the Canadian Parliament for consideration is in direct defiance of that request and provides for a separate Canadian navy not at all times ready to join in defence of Empire, but only when Parliament may see fit and whereas the time has come for Canada to make good its profession of loyalty in the manner requested by the Admiralty and as Australia, New Zealand, etc., are doing; therefore be it resolved that Canada's contribution be a "fleet unit," as requested by Great Britain and that a copy of this resolution be sent to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden."

Kap Karson's policy, referred to at length in Saturday's Examiner, was not endorsed by the meeting. It was felt perhaps that while Canada should contribute a "fleet unit" the "Hey-Ed." was needed too badly at home to be sent out to protect Britain's shores.

WAS INJURED IN A BAD FALL

NOW IN THE HOSPITAL

Edward Condon, who resides with his sister on Rogers street, East City, and who is employed at the Quaker Oats Co. mill, met with a painful accident there this morning, suffering a severe fracture to the clavicle.

Mr. Condon was in that part of the factory, where the puffed rice is made, and in making a misstep fell down a "shoot," a distance of eight feet.

Dr. McNulty was called and ordered the injured man removed to St. Joseph's hospital, where he was attended.

TREAT FOR LOCAL THEATRE PATRONS

Guelph, Nov. 20th, 1909.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, Peterborough, Ont:—

Gentlemen,—I believe you play "Two Women and That Man" at an early date. If so, I will say that you are getting the finest show of that kind, I have ever seen. Scenery, company and show wonderful. Away ahead of "The Wolf." The storm scene in the third act is marvellous. Dont' let your public think that they are getting a cheap drama. Any coost you can give this show the public will thank you very sincerely.—Yours truly, JOHN C. GREEN.

ELECTED OFFICERS

At a meeting of the West End Athletic Club in the club rooms on Saturday night a very enthusiastic crowd of young men met for the purpose of discussing the prospects for the coming season and the election of officers. The officers chosen are men of experience and judgment and the confidence of the club is back of them.

The object of the club is for the advancement of all branches of athletics and promoting good fellowship among the members. The club has excellent rooms over the Royal Bank which are sufficiently large enough to accommodate at least fifty members. Officers chosen were:

Hon. President—H. A. Young.
Hon. Vice-President—Geo. Paxman.
Vice-President—L. Dobson.
President—E. Hurtubise.
Sec.-Treas.—G. Hooey.
Manager—J. Oldham.
Patrons and Patronesses.—Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. L. Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. R. Neil, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Clarry

PILLS WERE POISONED

Boxes Were Sent to Many Austrian Officers and One Died After Taking Some of Them.

MYSTERIOUS CASE

Vienna, Nov. 21.—An extraordinary attempt at wholesale poisoning among military officers here has caused a sensation. A large number of officers, just promoted to be captains in the general staff, have received through the mails sample boxes of pills. These were accompanied by a circular recommending them for nervous debility. One of the officers, Capt. Mader, took some of the pills, and died almost immediately. An autopsy revealed the presence of cyanide of potassium, and that death had been caused by this poison.

A further investigation showed that all the pills contained cyanide of potassium in large quantities, and also that many of the first lieutenants attached to the staff, but not promoted, had not received pills. The circulars were signed "Charles Francis," and bore a false address.

All attempts so far to unravel the mystery have failed, and it is suggested that the poison may have been sent out by some disappointed officer or that the poisoning is an Anarchist outrage.

SERIOUSLY INJURED

Mr. Charlie Dennis, Pond street, fireman on G. T. R. engine 211, was seriously injured through a fall from the tender of his engine while placing water in the tank at the Peterborough yards last night. Mr. Dennis had just returned to the railway after being off for some months owing to illness, being engaged at the Fiavelle Milling Company throughout the summer months, and returned to the G. T. R. road a few months ago. While on the G.T.R. system he was engaged as a brakesman, but afterwards became a fireman.

At the time of the accident he was returning from a trip to Belleville, and was knocked off the rear end of the tender by a sudden jolt of the engine. He fell sideways, head foremost, striking his head and shoulder The engines ran on to Lindsay, arriving somewhat late. It is reported the injured man is doing nicely today. His body was badly bruised as a result of the accident.—Lindsay Post.

PETERBOROUGH BOYS IN GAME

Several of Them Will be on the Line-up of Chicago League Team This Year.

A number of Peterborough boys in Chicago just now are breaking into the sporting limelight. Among them are the Foley brothers, who played with the Colonials and High Lifes, and Jack Calnan, who was also a member of the Colonials. The Chicago-American says.

The Sepoy Hockey Club has organized for the coming season. Frank Hennessey has been elected Manager, Harry Compbell, Captain, and J. McLeod, Secretary-Treasurer. White McGee trainer, Vance Wilson rubber.

The Sepoys will join the Chicago Hockey League, which will soon be formed, and expect to have a championship team on the ice. The members are all Canadians and experienced players. The following compose the squad:

Goal, Hyalop; defence, Hennessey, Corbett, Rouille and Ed Stewart; forwards, Campbell, Foley brothers, Calnan, Stuart brothers and McLeod.

The club has several games booked with college teams outside of Chicago.

CRYSTAL HAS FIVE PIECE ORCHESTRA

The dramatic, was pictures entitled "Briton and Boer," which were received so favourably on Saturday at the Crystal theatre, will be repeated to-night. In addition an orchestra of five pieces have been engaged including Mr. Rennie Clarke, of the Royal Alexandra theatre orchestra, Toronto. The bill is an exceptionally good one and should be seen by crowds. The music will be a special feature.

FOR THE PUBLIC

New Formula Cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Hoarseness in Five Hours.

Much is being done in these days to stop the ravages of consumption, but probably nothing has been so effective as teaching the public how to break up a cold and cure coughs, bronchitis, tonsilitis, etc., with simple home-mixed medicine. A laxative cough syrup, free from whiskey is the prime need. A cough indicates inflammation and congestion, and these in turn are due to an excess of waste and poisons in the system. A tonic laxative cough syrup rids the system of congestion, while relieveing the painful coughing. Get the following and mix at home: Get one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol, and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Shake the bottle and take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times daily. Give children less, according to age. Cut this out and save it for some friend.

RUGBY

Dear Henry's gone! No more we'll see
Him speeding o'er the chalk marked lea,
No more he'll buck the line and punt
And do his wondrous hurdling stunt.
No more he'll dodge and twist and fight,
And, unobserved, discreetly bite,
He had his faults, ah, yes, but who
Could tackle, had, the same as you?
And so they broke his head.

Dear Frank's departed! Nevermore
He'll equal quite alone, the score
Of all the team opposed. In vain
We'll wait him on the blindfield plain,
No more he'll lay the rusher low
And give, unseen, the mighty blow,
He had his faults, ah, yes, but mine
Was quite his equal on the run—
And so they broke his neck.

Dear William's left! He's gone to shores
Where naught is known of football scores
His last touchdown is made, and we
Shall nevermore such tackling see.
He's kicked his final goal, alas!
And made his final forward pass,
He had his faults, ah, yes, but then
He kicked as none will kick again—
And so they broke his back.

William Wallace Whitelock.

VOICE OF A GREAT NEED

The resolution which was unanimously carried by the City Council, Board of Trade and representative Citizens' meeting, November 9th, is as follows:

Moved by Mr. Daniel O'Connell, seconded by Mr. D. Hughes Charles:

WHEREAS the present rapid development of Canada must necessarily result in increasing the number and magnitude of the manufacturing industries of the Province of Ontario; and

WHEREAS it is apparent that it is only such municipalities as adopt energetic and effective means of bringing their advantages to the notice of the manufacturing public, that are likely to procure their proper share of such industries; and

WHEREAS the City of Peterborough possesses in an exceptionally high degree, local and natural advantages, resulting from its geographical position, railway facilities and water power; and

WHEREAS it is imperative, in the best interests of the city, and necessary for its future progress, that proper and effective means be adopted, at once, to lead to a comprehensive and clear understanding of the extent and value of these advantages, and to have them utilized in such a way, as will tend to promote the future industrial development of the city;

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, at this meeting of the citizens of Peterborough, called at the instance of the Board of Trade that it is the opinion of this meeting, that effective and energetic means should be forthwith taken by the Municipal Council of the City of Peterborough to promote the industrial interests of this city, and that the services of a competent and efficient officer be procured, who will devote his whole time and energy in acquiring knowledge of the peculiar advantages possessed by this city in consulting and advising with the Municipal Council respecting the same, and in promoting and in advancing the industrial welfare and interests of the city generally, and that proper funds be placed at his disposal for efficiently carrying out the objects of his appointment, and for the purpose of defraying his salary and expenses, provision be made by such additional levy as may be necessary, which in our opinion would be covered by half a mill on the dollar.

CONGRATULATIONS.

The dedication of the Church of the Sacred Heart in the southern part of the city yesterday is a subject for all-round congratulations. In the first place, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, the first priest of the new parish of which the new church is the spiritual centre, is to be congratulated upon receiving an honour and mark of confidence, apparently well deserved. It must be a matter of satisfaction and modest pride to him, that a son of the south ward, born and reared there, should be elevated to the care of the parish; to be the spiritual leader of his old friends and neighbours, who have seen him grow up amongst them and develop into the earnest and zealous priest, whose earnestness and zeal have been so practically recognized. Rev. Dr. O'Brien has, in the words of Holy Scripture, "been faithful over a few things," and has been made "ruler over many things." His faithful ecerdotal work in St. Peter's parish has not been the full measure of his usefulness. The notable and noble work he has done in promoting the sobriety of the people coming within the range of his duty, while, in a sense, supererogatory, gives evidence of an inclusive spirit of charity, which, combined with other qualifications, marks him as well fitted to discharge the duties of his new responsibility.

The dedication of the new church is a subject of congratulation to his Lordship Bishop O'Connor, under whose pastoral care his flock has so grown that it became necessary to provide another fold. It is also a matter of congratulation to the people generally, as indicating the great growth of the city—especially southward, which has made necessary within a few years the building of five new church buildings, three completed and two in course of erection, all evidence of popular aspiration to the righteousness that exalteth a nation.

A CHEERFUL STATEMENT.

The October statement of the chartered banks of Canada shows three records. Bank deposits, bank note circulation, and bank assets are the highest the country has known. The banks have taken advantage of the new legislation prmitting an expansion of their note issues, during the season of crop-moving. Their circulation exceeds their paid-up capital for the first time, and showed an increase of $10,000,000 last month. This extra issue will, of course, be speedily retired under the provisions of the act. Bank assets at the end of October were $1,133,986,960, an increase of $26,614,990. The deposits reached the imposing total of $731,806,062. The figures of deposits for ten-year periods are instructive:

July—
1869	$ 30,418,250
1879	63,183,000
1889	123,233,210
1899	261,124,323
1909	666,893,565

There could be no more trustworthy index of the growing wealth of Canada. It is remarkable evidence also of the recuperative powers of the country, remembering the money stringency of two years ago.

WE ARE USED TO IT.

The delegates to the 29th annual convention of the of the American Federation of Labour, which has been sitting in Toronto, will return to the United States, with modified opinions of the correctness of the grandiloquent boasts the United States people are fond of making, to the effect that their country is the only free country on earth. At near the end of the convention the following resolution was unanimously passed:

"The freedom of speech which we have exercised, without judicial restraint based on super-constitutional and self-arrogated authority, has been more in conformity with the fundamental principles of a free and self-governing country than is possible at present in the United States of America."

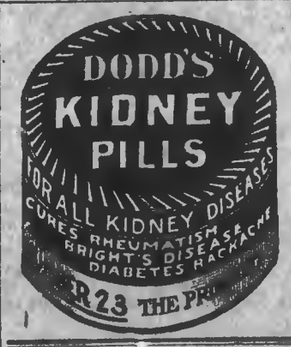
We Canadians are so much accustomed to the enjoyment of freedom of speech to the fact that in this free country a man can speak the thing he thinks—that it comes as a surprise that it should be mentioned as a phenomenon.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"Fifty days till Christmans! During that time," says the Toronto World, "about five hundred people will die in Ontario of tuberculosis. If it were stated that 500 horses would die of glanders or 500 hogs of cholera, the Government would have an army of men at work. It is only people who are going to die of this preventible disease, and most of us are apathetic." This applies especially to Sir James Whitney who turns a cold-blooded cold shoulder towards a movement for the saner and kindlier treatment of the army of sufferers from tuberculosis.

In discussing a civic contract the other day, says the Hamilton Times, Ald. McMurrich, of Toronto, according to the Telegram, remarked: "We can't break through it." Ald. Church was not to be obstructed by a little thing like that. "The Legislature," he said, "can pass a special act to override any agreement." Without pausing to characterize the morality of such a proposition, it may be said that Mr. Whitney's contempt for ethical obligations, as shown in some of his recent legislation, appears to be having its degrading influence in Toronto the Hypocritical.

Some of the tariff reformers, says the New York Journal of Commerce, are much less modest than this. They even propose to carry out a larger programme of social development than the Liberal Government, but always at the expense of the foreigners. In other words, they propose to devise customs duties which will neither prevent foreign goods entering the country nor raise the price of them after they have entered. The fact seems to be forgotten that if the foreigner is really to pay the tax, the home market will be protected, and tariff reform will have failed to fill the pockets of the men who are financing the movement. Nevertheless, it is declared in all seriousness that the true Unionist alternative to the Lloyd-George Budget is tariff reform which is expected to perform the remarkable feat of taxing the foreigner and blocking him out of the British market.



KEEP DEFENCE OUT OF POLITICS.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

The estimates presented to the House of Commons on Thursday provide for the expenditure of practically ten million dollars upon the defensive features of the Government of the country. Three millions of this is assigned to the navy and nearly seven millions to the militia.

This is quite a big sum for a country like Canada to pay out of its current revenue, and it seems to us that the time has come when it would be advisable for the House of Commons to see whetehr it is not possible to lift both of these branches of the public service out of the arena of politics.

Why should not the estimates of these two branches of the public service be referred to a special committee of the House to be composed of the Premier and the two Ministers responsible for the expenditures, with Mr. R. L. Borden and the chief military critic on the Opposition side as members?

Such a committee could thrash out all the details of the various expenditures involved and present a report to the House which would satisfy everybody.

It would at onec life the defence of the country from the political arena and would convince the people that Parliament wants to deal with the question of national defence outside of politics and would enable the average man to sleep peacefully at night without the fear that this important question was made a football of partizanship.

The only way to keep the navy out of politics is to start right, and inasmuch as we are committed to a navy now, we might just as well start right,

Such a committee would prevent "graft," no matter which party might be in power, and would give the man on the street convincing evidence of the fact that the politicians consider the question of defence as a national rather than as a party issue.

FOUNDED IN HONOUR

No doubt you have seen in the papers such announcements as this concerning some medicine or other: "If, on trial, you write that this medicine has done you no good we will refund your money." Now, we have never had reason to speak in that way concerning the remedy named in this article. In a trade extending throughout the world, nobody has ever complained that our medicine has failed, or asked for the return of his money. The public never grumbles at honestly and skillfully-made bread, or at a medicine which really and actually does what it was made to do. The foundation of is laid in sincerity and honour, the knowledge of which, on the part of the people, explains its popularity and success. There is nothing to disguise and conceal. It was not dreamed out, or discovered by accident; it was studied out, on the solid principles of applied medical science. It is palatable as honey and contains all the curative properties of pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. This remedy is praised by all who have employed it in any of the diseases it is recommended to relieve and cure, and is effective from the first dose. In Anemia, Scrofula, Nervous and General Debility, Influenza, La Grippe, and Throat and Lung Troubles, it is a specific. It is precisely what it is said to be, and has won the confidence of the public on that basis. You may resort to it with a faith and hope that arise from the history of what it has done for others. Dr. F. Gordon says: "The continued use of it in my practice convinces me that it is the most palatable, least nauseating, and best preparation now on the market." One bottle proves its intrinsic value. Sold by all chemists everywhere, and Warne Drug Co.

DANGER IN DELAY

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined, Backache headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Booth's Kidney Pills, which have cured people right here in Peterborough:

Mrs. M. J. Cook of 494 Aylmer St., Peterborough, Ont., says:

"I always find quick relief in Booth's Kidney Pills. They strengthen and relieve my back of a dull, heavy pain that settles in the small of it, and extends into my shoulders. For years I had suffered with these symptoms of kidney trouble, and could find no relief. I had frequent spells of dizziness and headaches. I was restless and weak and would often awake more tired than on going to bed. I never found relief for these painful and weakening symptoms of kidney trouble until I used Booth's Kidney Pills, obtained at McDermid & Jury's Pharmacy. I have had little trouble since as I use Booth's Kidney Pills occasionally and they keep me in the best of health."

HAD TO PAY HEAVYILY FOR A SUNDAY SPREE

Sunday sprees are expensive pleasures, and two young men learned it in the police court this morning. They pleaded guilty to having been drunk and disorderly on the public streets on the Sabbath day, and were each fined five dollars and costs, amounting to $8.85 to be paid in ten days.

Sunday drunks are too expensive for you young men to indulge in," remarked his Worship as he imposed the above fines.

Blacksmithing and Woodworking Business For Sale

The undersigned offers for sale his blacksmithing and woodworking business, situated on the side line between Peterborough and Norwood at Jermyn P. O. The blacksmith shop building is two stories, 25 x 45, with cement floor and cement large. The upper story is the full size of the blacksmith shop (22x45). Attached to the blacksmith shop is the post office building, which may be entered from the blacksmith shop. Adjoining is a first class brick dwelling, with frontage 18 and 28 feet, with kitchen. It is an L-shaped house with cement cellar. Also verandah and beautiful lawn. There is a good stable with cement floor, three stalls, with straw barn attached. The land comprises one half acre. This is one of the best blacksmith stands in the County of Peterborough. The farmers all patronize this shop. My reason for giving up business on account of having one of my legs frostered I am unable to continue the shoeing. For further particulars, write to ADVERTISE in The Examiner.

They Keep The Brakes Set

Just So Can Never Do Their Best

[illegible] men, and slow women, go [illegible] life like a train with the engine [illegible] but the brakes hard on. They [illegible] get anywhere near top speed [illegible] they are never really well.

Probably they do not even [illegible] to [illegible] that they are sick, but they [illegible] only known what it is to really [illegible] good". Always there is Headache, [illegible] that "dragged out feeling" which makes good work, either mental or physical, utterly impossible.

The most common trouble with all these people is that they have Constipation. Their systems are poisoned with the waste matter, which stays in the intestines, instead of being promptly expelled by the bowels. Harsh purgatives mean temporary relief at all, because they weaken and irritate the [illegible] instead of curing the trouble.

"Fruit-a-tives" combines the well-known laxative principles of apples, oranges, figs and prunes. So perfect is the combination, that "Fruit-a-tives" acts like the fresh fruit, by stimulating the stomach liver to supply the proper amount of bile to move the bowels regularly.

The most stubborn cases of Constipation promptly yield to the curative and corrective effects of "Fruit-a-tives".

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, [illegible] dealers or from Fruit-a-tives [illegible], Ottawa.

STOCK MARKET REVIEW

(Special). New York, November 20, 1909.—Financial problems are working their way out through a series of conflicting influences. The general unrest in trade, industry and finance is [illegible] of confidence. Business continues large in volume, and the belief in continued activity is universal. Labor is well employed, and there would be little reason for hesitancy [illegible] not for the phenomenally high level of prices whether of merchandise or securities. Complaints of the high cost of living are universal. There is good reason for many of these complaints, but the fact that they are frequently being made the subject of an excuse for advance in wages. A far more potent element in the increased cost of living than is readily admitted is the extravagance which has become a national characteristic and weakness. This tendency towards extravagance is more evident even in the home than in business or in public affairs, and its effects in the long run cannot but be injurious. Many totally unnecessary amusements and luxuries are now indulged in which were never thought of ten years ago, and the result must be a greatly diminished national saving power, out of which should come our new supplies of capital. As to what will check this upward trend in value nobody can forecast. Production has not yet outrun consumption. Combinations of all kinds are restricting competition and putting up prices. Inflation and speculation are adding fuel to the fire, and at present there is nothing in sight to check the advance except exhaustion of the purchasing power of the consumer. That too, is not in the immediate future.

Coming down to the stock market it appears to be dividing itself into two sections—the railroad and the industrial section. Railroad shares, though having undergone moderate recessions, are still upon a very high level. It is true the railroads are making large gross earnings because traffic is now as heavy as before the panic, and rates have been advanced to more profitable figures. Railroad managers are, however, concerned with a series of troublesome problems. Economies which followed the panic are now enforcing corresponding heavy outlays for betterments and enlargements, which means not only increased expenditures out of earnings, but larger applications for new capital. They are obliged to pay more for supplies, and the costs of operation are steadily increasing. Labour agitations are already confronting them. So too are the possibilities of an antagonistic Congress during the coming winter. While, therefore, the earning capacity of the railroads is promising, their outlook as investments is not especially attractive. Dividend increases are very remote owing to circumstances just alluded to, and the poor returns on present market values make railroad shares less attractive to the ordinary investor than formerly. Until a closer adjustment has been made between current rates of interest and prices of railroad shares, and until the chances of better dividends improve, purchases of the average railroad shares should be made with caution. The bond market continues very unsatisfactory, and though no important declines have been recorded, the demand for this class of investments has much declined and values show a softening tendency.

In the industrial section of the market the outlook is somewhat brighter for the better class of securities. All our leading establishments, especially those in any way connected with the steel trade, are wonderfully active. Orders are on hand which will keep them busy for months, and profits are generally satisfactory. The tariff agitation is over for the time being, and if speculation is to succeed in any direction it is likely to find the industrials the most profitable field.

All things considered the outlook warrants hopefulness and caution. Congress will very shortly open, and much depends upon its probable course towards corporations. The anti-capital spirit is only slumbering and will be easily aroused by untoward circumstances. Mr. Taft is known not to be overburdened with friendship for corporations, and although his general attitude is understood, his annual message will be looked forward to with no little interest. Another element which must not be overlooked is the agitation in England over the budget. It is now well known that the House of Lords will reject proposals of House of Commons and that in consequence an election will have to be held next January, an election that will probably excite strong antagonism and much bitterness of feeling. The bud get aims to increase taxation upon land and wealth, so that its outcome cannot but be watched here with intense interest. The British Government may thus be obliged to enter the money market as borrower upon a large scale, and the effect of this upon public opinion and the foreign security markets will be anything but favorable. Should London be obliged to sell stocks freely in order to absorb such a loan, American stocks would probably be among the first to be sacrificed owing to their high prices and foreign dislike of our recent speculation.

The copper situation here is improving inasmuch as consumption grows and producers are evidently trying to put an end to the present senseless policy of overproduction. Speculation, however, in copper and cotton and real estate continues on a scale that creates suspicion. As yet there is no positive weakness in these quarters, yet the general financial situation, while warranting a cheerful feeling, is also one that demands much discrimination and caution.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

Lived for two Years as an Indian

The Strange Quest of a College Graduate and its Remarkable Result

Nearly a century ago, Josiah Mosse, the son of well-to-do parents, had just completed the most thorough medical education which the colleges of that time offered, and was casting about for a favorable place in which to start practicing. His father, himself a physician of the old school, convinced that his son had thoroughly mastered the theory of medicine, believed that before settling down he ought to gain more practical knowledge of the science.

Rumors were afloat at the time that certain Indian tribes had discovered a remarkably successful method of treating the more common forms of illness with certain herbs and roots. The elder Mosse suggested that his son endeavor to find out from the Indians the secret of this cure.

The idea appealed strongly both to young Mosse's imagination and to his sober judgment, and he set out eagerly on the quest. Practically abandoning civilization, he made his home among the Indians for two or three years.

Reticent by nature, the sons of the forest declined at first to give him the information which he sought, though he was shown plenty of evidences of the value of the remedy which they had discovered. Month after month he lived with them, in their way. He learned their language, entered heartily into their sports, hunted, fished and ate with them. He listened attentively to their old men recounting the history and legends of their tribes, and finally won their confidence and good-will.

Then, when the Indians had come to look upon him as their white brother, they revealed their secret methods of compounding the wonderful remedy. He learned what roots and herbs they used, when and where they gathered them, and how they made them into the specific which cured most of their ailments.

Bringing with him a supply of the roots and herbs, Dr. Morse returned to civilization and started practise, using the Indian remedy with great success for many common ailments, such as biliousness, constipation, dyspepsia, liver and kidney trouble and rheumatism. For convenience he changed it from the liquid form to pills.

Comstock Brothers purchased the formula from Dr. Morse when he retired from practice, and in 1857 W. H. Comstock became sole owner. Up to this time the pills were only known locally, but Mr. Comstock, thoroughly convinced of their great value, believed that they were worth introducing to the whole world, and determined that he would do it, as far as he could.

He began in a very modest way, establishing small laboratories in Brockville, Ont., and across the St. Lawrence, on the American side in Morristown, where he compounded himself the pills which he named "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills."

Then, with a horse and wagon, he travelled through Upper and Lower Canada, from Sarnia to Montreal, and through the Maritime Provinces, placing the Pills not only in the city and town drug stores, but with every crossroads dealer.

The same W. H. Comstock is now the active head of an organization that covers the globe. In the half century since he made Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills himself, he has succeeded in introducing them into practically every likely and unlikely corner of the world. Millions of boxes are sent out every year from the laboratories at Brockville, Canada; Morristown, U.S.A.; Sydney, Australia, and Wellington, New Zealand, and the demand is steadily growing.

Medical science has made enormous strides since Dr. Morse returned from the Indian lodges with the secret of their remedy, but has not yet been able to make any improvement in his formula. From time to time experts in materia medica have studied the formula with the greatest care, but have been forced to admit that nothing better can be devised for its purposes.

Almost alone among the makers of proprietary remedies, Mr. Comstock has every process in the preparation of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills carried out in his own laboratories. The roots and herbs are bought in the crude state, and ground, prepared and made into pills under the careful supervision of the Comstock chemists. Mr. Comstock feels that only in this way can he be absolutely certain of the purity and accurate compounding of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

One of the results of this perfection both of the formula and of the making is that when the Pure Food Laws of Canada and the United States came into force not a single change was necessary in any of the ingredients or in the formula of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

The virtue of the pills lies in their extraordinary power of cleansing the body from all impurities. One of the ingredients opens up the pores of the skin; another clears the mucous membrane of lungs and air passages; a third stimulates the kidneys, while a fourth regulates the bowels. Thus the four organs that rid the body of indigestible food, worn out tissues, and all poisonous matter, are brought into healthy action, and disease driven out.

Scores of new preparations, purporting to accomplish the same result, have come and gone. Catchy names, attractive packages, and lavish advertising have been used to sell them. But Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, still put up in the original, old-fashioned chip box in which Mr. Comstock first packed them with his own hands, with the plainest of plain wrappers, registered in 1857, have gone quietly on their way, curing and gaining friends, and it may be truly be said that there is scarcely a place in Canada where medicines are sold in which you cannot get Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

HOW A WIFE MAY EDUCATE A HUSBAND

The girl who wants to make a success of marriage must not neglect the education of the husband. Many husbands are lamentable failures without realizing the fact. They fail out of thoughtlessness in 99 per cent. of cases, and the wife is very much to blame for the fact. In my own case, in the early days of matrimony, I quite acknowledge, John was spoiled. Too much adoration is not good for any man; too much "running after" would spoil the most angelic husband in existence. While a man has a right to kindly attentions, while no wife ought to grudge working hard to make her home pretty and comfortable, it is never wise to overdo things.

Husbands are a little apt to take the wife's hard work and trouble and self-sacrifice for granted. After the novelty of having a devoted little wife to fuss around them and attend to their comforts every minute of the day has worn off, the great majority of married men fail in appreciation.

Now, appreciation is the breath of life to the average woman. The girl who gets a judicious amount of praise and appreciation from the man she marries will cheerfully work her fingers to the bone for him. Married life means hard work for the wife as well as the husband; and if both are blessed with the tact that will enable them to see when the other requires sympathy and appreciation it will go far to make them "happy though married."

Particularly is it so for the woman. Man is less sensitive, less highly strung; he is the strongest vessel, physically at least, and is not so likely to be subject to "nerves." That is why sympathy and appreciation are qualities inseparable from the "model husband." When a woman is tired and irritable, or worried, the model husband gives that little word of encouragement and appreciation, which acts like magic on a depressed mind and a tired body. Of course, a man can't be continually praising and admiring his wife all day. Also, often the most reserved men, who find it difficult to express themselves, really admire their wives tremendously. But it is wonderful how a husband's bump of sympathy and appreciation can be cultivated by a clever woman.

She can tell him how much his praise means to her, how she feels encouraged and uplifted when she sees that he appreciates her efforts—which is true enough.

The next point in managing a husband, girls, is to get him into punctual ways. The ordinary bachelor is often a sadly unpunctual person. He has always suited himself as regards meals and appointments generally, especially if he has lived in lodgings or gone in for club life.

Marriage necessarily changes all that. No house can run smoothly on the happy-go-luck system of everybody doing what he likes.

When the young wife has done her best to have a tasty hot dinner ready at a specified hour, which has had to be kept waiting till it spoils, she is naturally disappointed. When this happens three or four times a week, there are two courses she generally takes. She either cries or gets cross and upbraids John in consequence.

Now, don't do anything so foolish, girls. Useless tears and tempers are useless weapons in married life. It took me two years to realize the fact, and I must have wept barrels of tears before I learned wisdom.

Man is a reasonable thing; and if you quietly and sensibly make him see how much better it will be if both are punctual in every detail it will have far more effect than tears.

Tell him that if you are to have a fair chance to manage your house capably you must be able to depend upon him to keep to time. Of course, some men's business is irregular and they cannot help the fact. In such cases it is the wife's duty to arrange matters to the best of her ability, and to accept unpunctuality occasionally with philosophy and cheerfulness. But in the ordinary household punctuality can easily be insisted upon. Many wives allow their husbands to drift into unpunctual ways and to get slipshod themselves.

In such houses there is no method, no order, and ultimately no comfort.

So begin the education of the husband early, but do it unostentatiously, tactfully. No husband likes it to be apparent that he is being "managed" at all. And yet all the clever women manage their husbands. Do not forget that sympathy is at the root of all husband management. Don't try to manage a man by bullying or nagging.

Don't forget that when he is sometimes obstinate and "difficult" a little judicious coaxing will go further than insisting on your rights.

Men like to be appealed to. Don't give them cause for grumbling. If a girl takes care to make home happy and comfortable, to cook nice meals and serve them daintily, a man is far less likely to grumble than under a daily menu of singed bacon and saltless potatoes. Above all, don't be stingy in kind words. It is wonderful how husbands and children will improve under kindness, tempered with firmness.

Vinol

For Weak, Run-Down People.

"I was run down and weak from indigestion and general debility, also suffered from vertigo. I saw a cod liver preparation called Vinol advertised and decided to give it a trial, and the results were most gratifying. After taking two bottles I regained my strength, and am now feeling unusually well." — HENRY CUNNINGHAM, Elder Baptist Church, Kingston, N.C.

Vinol contains the two most world-famed tonics—the medicinal, strengthening, body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil and Tonic Iron. Vinol contains no oil, and is by far the Best Strengthening Tonic obtainable. We return your money without question if Vinol does not accomplish all we claim for it.

COULD NOT KEEP THIS SECRET

"Six months ago I was cured of piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment," writes Mrs. G. A. Swayne, Copenhagen, Klein Co., Ont. "I had been afflicted for over thirty years and tried all sorts of treatments in vain, so I was surprised and delighted to be cured. I don't care for publicity but would like to tell every one suffering from piles about Dr. Chase's Ointment."

JOHNNY QUACK and the VAN CLUCK TWINS

1—After rubbering for some time, Johnny finally plucked up courage and got near enough to find out that the old Quackpipe contained nuts.

2—"That's a good place to hide from the Twins! Pretty dark, though. But there may be something good to eat in there! Guess I'll take a chance and die!"

3—"Wonder where he went? I saw him turn the corner!" "Do you suppose he went in there!" "Mercy, no! He's scared to death in dark places. Let's get away from here! Some wild beast might be in there!

4—Johnny had gotten all tangled up and covered with cobwebs and soot and then he lost his way. Wow, wasn't he frightened when he got out!

5—It didn't take J. Q. long to see that he had the Twins scared to a whisper, and he kept them on the move till they nearly dropped. Then he sneaked down to the old pond and took a good bath.

6—Every time the Twins tried to tell Johnny about the terrible monster Jack of the bean Johnny simply screamed, which made the Twins furious, and they went off, saying something about "No sympathy to turn."

AWAY AHEAD OF "THE WOLF"

"Two Women and That Man," the Finest Show of its Kind Ever Seen in Guelph.

Local theatre goers will be glad to learn that "The Cash Girl," the successful musical comedy, headed by the dainty little comedienne which was to have been seen here on Friday night last will be the attraction at the Grand at matinee and evening performances on Saturday of this week and the people who were counting upon attending this delightful musical show will not be disappointed after all.

It looks as if Peterborough patrons of the drama had a treat in front of them to-morrow night in the appearance here of "Two Women and That Man," the Alaskan play which under Shubert auspices is causing a sensation wherever it has appeared, and which visits the Grand to-morrow. A letter received by one of the Examiner staff from a friend who saw it last week says that the play is even more startling and interesting than "The Wolf." The writer says that he was never more thrilled by a play and never saw one in which the interest was so well sustained or the scenic investiture more complete and realistic.

IMPROVEMENTS AT ARMOURIES ARE NEARLY COMPLETED

The work of installing the interior fittings at the armouries is being rapidly completed by the contractor, Mr. Ed. Wand and a short time will see the completion of the contract. When the work is finished the local militiamen will have a splendidly equipped headquarters with nothing that would tend to the convenience and comfort of the men lost sight of.

The lockers in the company armouries have all been put in place and will be found of very great convenience. The top locker which is provided with a lock and key, contains the uniform while underneath are racks for the rifles, also provided with a lock. Running along the bottom of these is a cupboard for the storage of the Oliver equipment. Each room is provided with forty-two lockers, enough for the full strength of a company. The lockers have also been put in position in the band room and the bugle room, so that every member of the regiment will have a place in which to store his equipment.

The shooting gallery in the basement was completed some time ago and the different companies have been putting in some very profitable evenings in target practice. Two targets are used and shooting is done at the twenty five and fifty yard range. Alongside the shooting gallery but with a partition between are being laid the splendid bowling alleys which will furnish a great part of the amusement for the militiamen during the winter. There are two alleys of regulation length and construction which will be decidedly popular during the winter months. The alleys will be completed in a short time. The armouries offer to the young men of Peterborough, a splendid club that will be open all the year round complete with facilities for entertainment and amusement. There are comfortably furnished rooms for the privates of the regiment as well as mess rooms for the officers and also for the non-commissioned officers and nothing has been neglected in making the armouries a comfortable, homelike place that should always prove popular with the men.

Peterborough Cafe Proprietors Are Opening In Guelph

George Thomas and Harry Hamilton, the proprietors of the Dominion Chinese Cafe will leave some time during the coming week for Guelph, where they will open a restaurant similar to that which they have successfully conducted in Peterborough. They have secured a good location opposite the post office, and have made all preliminary arrangements. They will be ready to proceed with the equipping of their new place of business and expect to make a success of it. They will make regular trips to Peterborough in the interests of their cafe here, and with the two restaurants on their hands will likely have sufficient to attend to.

THE TEMPERANCE MEETING WAS ONE OF THE BEST IN SERIES

ATTENDANCE WAS LARGE

"The best yet" was the verdict of the largest assemblage at the Opera House Gospel temperance meeting yesterday afternoon.

The song service at 3.30 was bright and inspiring. Sheriff Hall occupied the chair, and introduced the first speaker, Mr. John A. Paterson, K.C., of Toronto. Mr. Paterson's address was unique, inasmuch as he formed the basis of his remarks on the terms of the license law itself, and showed conclusively that the law emphasized in all, 44 restrictions put on the liquor traffic that have not been put on any other line of business, viz.:

1. The liquor business is of such a nature that a license cannot be granted to a municipal councillor, or a relative or a partner.

2. The liquor store must be closed on election day.

3. It cannot seize for debt.

4. No woman can be a bar tender, etc.

"Whiskey is good for something," said Mr. Paterson. "If you want to preserve a dead man put him in whiskey; if you want to kill a living man put whiskey into him."

The great inspiration in the present campaign he contended was the fact that all over the Province the people were speaking out against this great evil and the voice of the people was the voice of God. He did not blame the saloon keeper as much as he blamed the voter. And he plainly showed the great responsibility resting upon every man who had a vote, to register it on January 3rd.

Rev. T. B. Smith.

Great interest centred in the address of Rev. T. B. Smith, M.A., of the Church of England, West Toronto. Mr. Smith has lived long enough in what is now Ward 7 of Toronto City, to speak from head and heart regarding things in that thriving section of the Queen City.

He had no harsh words for those engaged in the traffic. The business was entrenched in the license granted, but he was sure Peterborough did not want to perpetuate the treating system of the open bar, and continue the wreckage of human life and the ruin of women and children. He declared what ought to be remembered by everybody that local option was not total prohibition. When that question is placed before the electors we will have to deal with it, but the only question now before the people of the Province is that of the banishment of the saloon.

The cry that was raised regarding the loss of the license fees was the Judas cry. Judas saw the pieces of silver and he sold his Lord to get them, and there are citizens who would sell the happiness and comfort and lives of men and women for the license fees.

The most glaring exhibition of duplicity and insincerity in the history of West Toronto was seen in the action of one hotel keeper, who prophesied "blue ruin" for the town, if local option passed, and yet when it did he drew $40,000 from the bank to put it in a corner lot there.

The attitude of such large corporations as the C. P. R., the Toronto Street Railway, and the Canada Foundry, in insisting on total abstinence was remarkable and worthy of note.

The addresses of the afternoon were listened to with intense interest, and many men who doubted expressed their hearty approval of the measure.

AT ST. ANDREW'S

Mr. John A. Paterson, K. C., Gave an Address on Laymen's Missionary Movement.

Yesterday morning in St. Andrew's church, John A. Paterson, K. C., of Toronto, gave an excellent address on the Laymen's missionary movement. Mr. Paterson is an elder of the Presbyterian Church and for many years he has been identified with all departments of moral and social reform, including temperance, and the Lord's Day Alliance; he is also a member of several very important committees of the General Assembly, notably the Foreign Mission Committee.

Mr. Paterson referred to the great importance of the conference held in the Metropolitan church last week. He referred in glowing terms to the important part taken by John R. Mott, whose addresses were made all the more forceful by the fact of his long experience and wide knowledge of the whole missionary world.

Mr. Paterson referred to the responsibility resting on the Christian Church to-day and called upon Christian men to realize more fully their duty in obedience to God, and if they assumed the name of Christian to carry out in life the character, likeness and will of Christ.

MR. TODD PLEASED WITH LETTER

Nov. 22nd, 1909.

Editor of The Examiner:

In your issue of the 18th inst., Thursday evening, there appeared a letter signed "Outsider." I feel that I would be unworthy the position I hold were I not to express in behalf of the First church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough, our thanks to "Outsider" for his kind attitude towards our lecture. The kindly recognition of our lecturer, and the manly and Christly admonition to the public to attend, as well as other expressions go to show that, back of this short letter is much of the true, or real man, so clearly defined by Prof. Hering.

While we do not know who your correspondent is, we can assure him that what he said about the lecturer was fully demonstrated by the speaker, and his lucid address highly appreciated by the speakers. The respectability of the audience, the order, and searching attention given the speaker from start to finish, gave him a good impression of the City of Peterborough. While I am writing I wish to thank our business friends for so kindly exhibiting our cards in their windows. And at the same time ask the other papers, as well as yourself, to accept our thanks for their kind and liberal recognition With thanks.—Sincerely yours,

R. J. TODD.

PREVENTION IS WORTH WHILE.

When you consider the risk to life, the expense, the anxiety which is involved in an attack of appendicitis and a surgical operation, it is certainly worth while to avoid it by keeping the liver and bowels regular by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Doctors are now unanimously of the opinion that appendicitis comes from a neglect to keep the liver and bowels in a healthful condition.

Opening Ceremonies At The Church Of The Sacred Heart

Blessing of Building by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor—Sermons by Archbishop McEvay and Bishop Scollard — Impressive Occasion of First Mass in the New Church.

THE MORNING SERMON

The solemn opening and dedication of tme new church of the Sacred Heart yesterday morning, beginning, as it did, a new era in the history of the Catholic church in Peterborough was an auspicious event in more than one respect. It marked the opening of the new parish separate from that of St. Peter's, it was the occasion of the first mass in the splendid new church which has been erected for the people of that parish, the announcement was made by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor of the promotion of Rev. Dr. O'Brien as parish priest and lastly it was the signal for the assembling of a number of bishops and priests who have been connected with the staff of St. Peter's Cathedral. It was a fitting climax to the preparations that have been in progress during the past few years. It was particularly a gratification to Bishop O'Connor, who has during his episcopacy so earnestly devoted himself to the spiritual welfare of the people under his charge, not only in this parish, but throughout the entire new diocese of Peterborough.

The new church was taxed to its capacity before the services began and at the conclusion of the mass many were the expressions of pleasure upon the beauty and thoroughness of the structure. At 10.20 o'clock the ceremony of the blessing of the church was begun. This was performed by Bishop O'Connor assisted by the local clergy and Archbishop McEvay, of Toronto, Bishop Scollard, of Sault Ste. Marie, and Rev. Dr. Burke, of Toronto. The exterior was first blessed, the congregation remaining in their pews and afterwards the interior was blessed. Then begun the Pontifical high mass, the first in the new church. It was sung by His Grace, Archbishop Gauthier, of Kingston. The assistant priest was Ven. Archdeacon Casey, of Lindsay, and formerly parish priest of St. Peter's. Rev. Dr. Burke, of Toronto, was deacon, and Rev. Father McColl subdeacon. Rev. Dr. O'Brien fulfilled the duties of Master of Ceremonies. In the sanctuary were Archbishop McEvay, who at one time was a priest on the clerical staff of St. Peter's and Bishop Scollard, who was ordained in this city and spent many years of his priesthood until he was elevated to the bishopric of Sault Ste. Marie, and Bishop O'Connor.

The Sermon.

The special sermon for the day was preached by Archbishop McEvay. His text was from the 7th chap., 2nd book of Paralipomenon, "My eyes shall be open and my ears attentive to the prayer of him that shall pray in this place." The text he said, referred to the magnificent temple built by Solomon in Jerusalem. It was dedicated with a splendour never witnessed before. Thousands of victims were sacrificed and the dedication ceremony continued for a week. God had chosen it as his dwelling place and promised graces and blessings to those who adored Him there." In the temple of the new law we have those wonderful things of the son of God. When He offered up the first mass He selected the guest chamber in the temple of Jerusalem to teach us that in the holy sacrifice He expected man to give Him his best, that the best and richest that could be afforded should be given for the service of the Saviour of the world. The Catholic church in all ages has held that the best that could be produced should be given in the service of the Creator. The best in music and song, in architecture, sculpture and painting should be consecrated to his service. The good, the true and beautiful in art had always been fostered by the church." It assisted the faithful in contemplating the realm of God and stirred the mind to an earnest and livelier devotion by the suggestion of religious things. "The stations of the cross, the statues, the altar and the cross reminded us of Calvary and the name of your church reminds us one and all that our true home is in heaven. The church makes use of all those things to assist her children in the practice of their religion."

Archbishop McEvay dwelt upon the signification of the name of the new church. He emphasized the love and mercy that the heart of God had cherished for mankind and how His blood had been shed for our redemption.. It is a good thing, he said, for us to consider our Lord on earth and to recall His life here, but we lose track of Him in heaven.. "We know He is present in the Blessed Sacrament, but we forget that it is our privilege to follow Him in spirit and contemplate the beauties of the home He has prepared for us." Archbishop McEvay quoted passages of Scripture in which the grandeur and magnificence of Heaven was referred to. He referred to the scene that was enacted at the transfiguration and spoke of St. John's description of the new Jerusalem. "Surely Heaven is a beautiful place, a reward worth having. God has gone to prepare it for us and wishes that we deserve to enter and remain with Him eternally. We belong to the church militant. There is going on a constant warfare gith the world, the flesh and the devil. God has given us faith, the sacraments, the priesthood, and His divine word. We know well what we must do, the virtues to practise, the vices to avoid. There is no excuse whatever. Remembering the great love of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, surely there is no room for any man to doubt or despair. He forgave Mary Magdalen and the thief on the cross. Knowing all this the most careless and hardened sinner has a right to return to his Father's house and if truely repentant to be told to go in peace and sin no more."

Only One Choice.

In concluding his sermon Archbishop McEvay counselled the congregation to know their duty and to practise it. Pay no attention to the new religions of the day, he admonished. It makes no difference whether a man believes or does not, nor what he practises, whether he is living according to God's wishes or is living the life of a demon, there is only one choice, Heaven or Hell. Every man will have to appear on the day of general judgment before God and there will be only two lines, two eternal destinations, one on the right and the other on the left. There will be no other. Likewise there will be two sentences, the one of eternal reward, as promised, the other will be God's last words to the wicked.

Archbishop McEvay congratulated Bishop O'Connor, the clergy and laity upon the beautiful new church they had erected. He recalled with pleasure the days he spent in Peterborough and liked to remember the kindness and generosity, not only of the people of St. Peter's, but of all the citizens of Peterborough and the vicinity.

The Cathedral Choir sang the responses to the mass and vespers. The solos were taken by Misses Delaire, L. Hallihan, A. Simons, and Messrs. J. Harry Quinlan, and Ed. Keon. The ushers were Messrs. A. Letellier, John McDonald, J. Milloy, Ed. Desautel, Godfrey Coughlin, Ed. Laplante, W. Meagher, T. J. Carson, R. Desautel, and John Carson.

OBITUARY

MR. J. KERR.

The death which occurred on Saturday, November 20th, removed one of the oldest residents of South Monaghan, Mr. J. Kerr, at the age of 83 years. The deceased was a native of South Monaghan and had resided in the Township during his life. He married Miss Mary Graham, native of Ireland. His wife survives him, also four sons and four daughters—Mr. George Kerr, of Vancouver, Mr. John Kerr, of Souris, Manitoba; Mr. Robert Kerr, of Alberta; and Mr. James Kerr, Belmont, Manitoba; Mrs. Wm. Armour, Vernon, B. C., Mrs. John English, Chilliwack, B.C, and Miss Annie Kerr at home. The funeral took place from the family residence to the Methodist cemetery, South Monaghan. The pallbearers were Messrs. John Buchan, George Wood, James Dawson, W. Finley, and Robert Fisher. The late Mr. Kerr was a Conservative in politics and a stout believer in his party's principles. He was reeve of the township for many years and took a sincere interest in its affairs. He was an attendant of the local Methodist Church and was highly respected for his known integrity and friendliness.

OUT WITH CHALLENGE TO MARATHON RUNNERS

Joseph Donato, a Sicilian Matharoner, who left the shores of his birthplace, Messina, less than two weeks after the disastrous earthquake there last December, would like to get in some Marathon races with Dorando Hayes, St. Yves, or, in fact any of the other top notchers. Although he doesn't feel sure that he could show more speed than any of the cracks named, still he feels he can outgame any and out-endure any of them.

Donato, who is now in Boston, thinks it would be a good feature for the coming Winter to have a running race to a finish, and no doubt this would prove a novelty that the New York public would take to. Finish prize-fights have been frequent in which pugilists hammer at each other until one or the other succumbs, and why not a running race of that nature? Such an event would prove conclusively which of the great bunch of runners that is now performing before the public is the gamest.

Donato runs twenty or twenty-five miles over the Boston roads about once a week, to keep himself in condition. After his long jaunt he displays no signs of having undergone such a test as he shows no signs of heavy breathing.

The Sicilian, who seeks glory on these shores, is built somewhat on the same lines as Henri St. Yves, the phenomenal little Frenchman. Donato's legs are just as short, and he is but half an inch shorter than St. Yves. In facial characteristics they resemble each other, both being dark skinned and each having a neat little moustache.

While Donato does not boast of that burst of speed which figures so prominently in the Frenchman's race still he believes that he is the better of the two over the Marathon route.

Donato did his first running along the shores of Messina. All of his running was done along the beach, and consequently his legs are accustomed to the heaviest kind of going. He has run two races in the Hub since his arrival there, and has shown marvelous staying qualities.

Donato has placed himself under the management of Alec Sullivan. Any of the crack runners desirous of entering into a race with Donato can do so by addressing Mr. Sullivan at any of the Boston papers.

Your overworked stomach is on strike. It refuses to secrete pepsin enough to act upon the food. Refuses also to secrete acid enough to enable the peptic secretion to do its work.

Give to the stomach the assistance it requires—or in other words try Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which cure more weak stomachs than any other medicine you know of.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills put the kind of life into a weak stomach that enables it to digest and assimilate all kinds of food.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills

Cured Mr. William Martin, a Well-known Lumberman in Parry Sound.

"I consider that Dr. Hamilton's Pills make the best all round medicine. My stomach got disordered and all kinds of complications set in. My head grew thin, my color got pale, and had the worst kind of headaches. The food I ate all disagreed with me and was constantly bilious and suffering from acute dyspepsia. A wonderful change took place when I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they gave me appetite and strong digestion. I had no more bad dreams, no sick stomach or headaches. I was in fact like a new man, and will always recommend and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are sure to benefit at once. Try them. 25c per box, at all dealers. Be sure to insist on having only Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. In yellow boxes only.

THE LATEST NEWS OF SPORT — TOLD IN BRIEF FORM

WHEN OTTAWA AND VARSITY MET BEFORE IN TORONTO

Struggle Coming on Saturday Recalls Memorable Battle When Casey Baldwin's Team, of Which Dr. MacPherson Was a Member, Defeated the Rough Riders.

The last time that an Ottawa football team played off at Rosedale for a championship before Saturday's game was on November 25, 1905, when the Rough Rider and Toronto 'Varsity representatives clashed to decide the Canadian championship. The Ottawas had won the Quebec championship after an unbroken string of victories and went to Toronto heavy favourites in the betting. The 'Varsity team, then led by "Casey" Baldwin, he of the aeroplane fame, had also make a good showing in its games, but on account of the great strength of the Rough Riders everyone, but the 'Varsity students, predicted an Ottawa victory. Ottawa money went begging both in the Capital and at Toronto, while the Ottawa backers were forced to give big odds to get any amount of any consequence up.

Ottawa had a great scrimmage and wing line, but their back division was weak. Alf Smith was then captain of the team, he playing quarter with "Doc" Sheriff and George Kennedy of the present team and Herb Buckham in the scrimmage. Morley Walters and Pete Ferguson were the inside wings while Dick Shillington and Harvey Pulford worked the middles, Art Mooré and Ovide Lafleur occupying the outside positions. Rance Dunning was at full back with Tommie Rankin, Dick McGee and Howard Raphael on the back dvision.

'Varsity had Gordon Southam, one of the finest players that ever handled the pig skin at full back, with McPherson, Baldwin and McInnes on the back division. Montague played quarter back and the scrimmage consisted of Johnson, Burnham and Ritchie. Whit Lailey and Davidson were inside wings and Burns and Ross middles, Lash and "Babe" Reynolds, who later distinguished himself on the Montreal team in the Interprovincial being the flying wings. Ottawas, with their advantage in weight and experience tried to keep the game as close as possible while 'Varsity depended on a running, passing and kicking game. The tackling on both sides was about the best ever witnessed at Rosedale.

Ottawa outplayed the 'Varsity team in the first half, leading when the cross-over came by 7 to 5. Ottawa could not make as big an impression on the 'Varsity line as they expected, however, and when the second half started Varsity improved and had the better of it towards the end. Ottawa got two points and made it 9-5, the score being at that figure with about four minutes to play. 'Varsity finally got a free kick on Ottawa's ten yard line, the Capital city team falling back, expecting to see Baldwin boot the ball high and far. But the wily 'Varsity captain, instead of kicking the pig skin, merely touched it to his toe and plunged across the Ottawa line for a touch-down, which Ottawa disputed, but which was allowed and which presented the game to 'Varsity by 11 to 9. Ottawa has never forgiven 'Varsity for that defeat, and next Saturday's game between Ottawas and 'Varsity should be the best football battle in many years. Ottawa players are still thirsting for a chance to beat 'Varsity and wipe out the stain of that 1905 defeat. Of the present Ottawa team, four, Dick McGee, Kennedy, Ferguson and Sheriff took part in the memorable 1905 match. "Bull" Ritchie is the only remaining member of the 'Varsity squad.

Herb Molson and "Bunty" Dalton were referees on that occasion, twelve thousand people crowding into Rosedale for the match.

JUNIOR AGE LIMIT REDUCED IN SPITE OF OPPOSITION

Peterborough's Representative, Dr. MacPherson, Strongly Favoured the Amendment as in the Best Interests of Hockey in the Smaller Places.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—N. R. White's idea to cut the junior age limit from 20 years to 19 years, with a view to confining junior hockey to youngsters raised opposition, when it was introduced at the annual meeting Saturday night. Trenton objected strenuously on behalf of the smaller towns, where players are few and arrangements for this season are already made.

Dr. McPherson, Peterborough, seconded the motion. It was a radical change and required careful consideration. The change, he thought, was in the right direction. An age limit was found advantageous and a further reduction might be more so. Players were beginning younger now than formerly, especially in the smaller towns, and were handicapped only in age, weight and experience, and these are the ones who ought to be protected. Smaller towns begin to lose their boys to the cities at about eighteen years of age. It would help smaller towns, Collegiate Institutes, and town leagues.

Mr. Robertson, of Newmarket, did not think it was wise to set back the juniors. If it were necessary to protect the younger players a younger series should be opened.

Take Effect in Year.

J. Ross Robertson thought every encouragement should be given the juniors and sooner or later something of this kind would have to go into the constitution. It might be a hardship on teams who have already formed for this year and it might not be put into operation this winter.

President-elect L. B. Duff supported the amendment. It was too important to be adopted to-day. He would let it stand as a notice of motion for next year.

Rev. Mr. Barr, of Whitby, would also let it stand until next year in view of the teams being already formed for this year.

Mr. Robertson suggested that Mr. White withdraw the amendment with the understanding that he bring it up again next year and meanwhile the clubs discuss the matter during the winter.

Rev. Mr. Barr moved accordingly to leave it on the table until next year.

Francis Nelson would not let it stand as a notice of motion, but would take definite action, thus placing the matter in a better position than that of a mere notice for the future. The question would be in no better position a year from now than it is to-day, Dr. McPherson agreed.

Mr. Robertson would have the motion passed to go into effect a year from now. If it were laid on the table the matter would not be advanced any farther for next year's meeting than it is to-day. He would get a definite expression of the meeting. Mr. Barr withdrew his motion and Mr. Robertson moved that the words be added to the amendment that the rule should not go into effect until the next hockey season.

Mr. McGeachie of Trenton had no objection to this being done. If it went into effect at once it would throw his entire team into the intermediate series. He thought the age should be reduced for junior hockey.

Mr. McLachlan of Stratford, would reduce the age right now. More juniors would enter and it was no hardship for juniors to go up into the intermediate series.

Ted Marriott thought the rule was good enough as it stood. The city had eight or nine junior clubs and needed plenty of players. He would let it stand for a year.

Ed. Livingstone thought it unfair to force a junior into a wood-chopping series, as the intermediates largely is.

The amendment to reduce the age from 20 to 19 to take effect in a year was carried.

COULD NOT COME BACK

Many Pugilists, After a Term of Retirement, Were Up Against It on Their Return.

NOW ABOUT JEFF?

It is a noteworthy fact that a majority of the persons whom you ask for an opinion as to the outcome of the Jeffries-Johnson match become a bit evasive and say they don't know whether or not "Jeff" can come back. Very few of the wiser ones care to come out flatfooted and make a prediction. Most of them figure that in his prime, Jeff could have beaten Johnson as easily as he did most of the others; but it is his condition that puzzles everybody. If he can regain seventy-five per cent. of his old time form, he should be able to defeat Johnson, because, in the old days, he surely figured twenty-five per cent. better than the black man.

But, being in retirement six years, isn't going to help him any. Pretty nearly all of the great fighters tried to do what Jeffries is trying to do and if there are any cases on record where they succeeded they have been pretty generally overlooked by chronicles of ring events.

Jack McAuliffe, light weight champion, retired, U.S.A., is about the lone shining example of the truly great fighters who knew when to stop McAuliffe had a couple of narrow escapes in his last two battles, with Young Griffo and Owen Zeigler, and it didn't take very close figuring to show him he was through. Two years later he boxed an exhibition with Kid Lavigne, and publicly retired. The latter was acclaimed champion and held the title until he was beaten by Frank Erne.

EVEN JOHN L. COULDN'T DO IT

John L. Sullivan whipped Jake Kilrain in 1889, quit the ring for three years, went to Australia, boxed an exhibition or two and took things easy. He re-entered the ring in 1892 and what Corbett did to him at New Orleans was a full portion.

That good fighter, Bob Fitzsimmons, knows what it is to try to come back. After being beaten by "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien every body thought he was through. He was in retirement for a few years and, at his age, two years' idleness didn't improve his condition. He essayed to meet Johnson of Philadelphia and the old scout didn't last two full rounds.

That marvel of cleverness and shiftiness, Jim Corbett, had his lesson in rehabilitation and with sad results. After that five round skirmish with Kid McCoy at the Garden, he crept into retirement for three years. Then he boxed Jeffries in 'Frisco and his showing was mournful compared to the one he had made against Jeff a few years before at Coney Island.

Jim Hall, the famous Australian, who once knocked out Bob Fitzsimmons in four rounds, retired in 1896. He was out of the game about four years, and when he tried to reinstate himself, in fast company he was put away in three rounds by Joe Choynski. The later defeat wound up his clock.

JEFF SETTLED PETER JACKSON

Peter Jackson, who established the wonderful record of going fourteen straight years without a reverse, furnishes an excellent example of the great fighter who tried to come back and failed. After beating Paddy Slavin in London, he withdrew himself from circulation for six years. Then he fought Jeff in 'Frisco,' and his showing for the three rounds the affair lasted was pitiable.

After Sharkey was beaten by Jeffries at Coney Island, he knocked out Joe Goddard, Jim Jeffries, Jim McCormick, Tom Conroy, Joe Choynski and Fred Russell, incidentally losing to Ruhlin and Fitzsimmons both at Coney. Then came the big fuss with Ruhlin in London, Jubilee week. Ruhlin won this one, and the hero of the deep blue retired from active service. Two years later Sharkey endeavored to come back at Philadelphia with Jack Munroe, and he wasn't good enough to get an even break with a boxer of Munroe's ability.

Charlie Mitchell the English light-heavyweight, fought Sullivan that famous thirty-nine round draw at Chantilly, in 1888. After that he was practically out of the game for six years, not engaging in a regular battle in the interim. When he tried to come back in 1894 Jim Corbett taught him how to take a joke in three rounds at Jacksonville. He was far from being the Mitchell of old, and was but a toy in the hands of clever Corbett.

DEMPSEY'S ATTEMPT WAS PITIFUL

Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil, easily the best middleweight or his time until the advent of Bob Fitzsimmons was dethroned by "Ruby Robert" at New Orleans. With the exception of a bout or two he was out of the ring a trifle over four years. In 1895 they matched him to box Tommy Ryan at Coney Island. It was a most pathetic spectacle, and brought tears to the eyes of many of Dempsey's admirers who had known him when he was invincible. As an act of mercy, the unequal contest was stopped in the third round. Five months later the gallant warrior made his last appearance at a benefit tendered him at Madison Square Garden. Shortly afterwards he passed away at Portland, Ore. Some say tuberculosis; others that he died of a broken heart.

After Kid McCoy defeated Jack Twin Sullivan, at Los Angeles, in twenty rounds, he forsook the ring for four years. He always took good care of himself, but when he boxed Jim Stewart he found it was impossible to come back, and although he won by a fair margin, he was by no means the McCoy who beat Gus Ruhlin, Tommy Ryan, Peter Maher, Dan Creedon and a score of thers.

Paddy Slavin, the Sydney Cornstalk, was another who tried to come back and failed. He retired in 1902 was in retirement for five years, and though he was one of the best heavyweights of his day, was knocked out in two rounds by Nick Burley, at Victoria, B.C., when next he entered the ring. He was credited with making the hardest fight against Peter Jackson, the black champion, ever engaged in.

BRUSSELS DEFAULT TO HAVELOCK TEAM

Havelock, Nov. 19.—The Brussels-Havelock Football match, which was to have been played to-day, (Friday) at the Park and Pleasure Grounds, to prove the championship, was not played, as the westerners failed to show up. It seems they would rather bluff than come, and win out by kicking the ball. It does not seem fair to Havelock, when at the previous game here, Brussels were asked by the Referee, to play the tie off, and would not, Havelock lined up and scored a goal, why should they not be allowed the championship. But the local team would rather win out by playing the game again, and were all in readiness for Friday, and had sent to Barrie for their player, (Mr. MacPherson), who only left town last Sunday, and who came here by midnight train last night, only to return again, but disappointed. Messrs. K. McKay and T. P. Lancaster, representing the local Club, attended a meeting of the Ontario Football executive, which was held at Toronto, on Saturday last, when it was decided that Havelock play off at home, on Friday, paying all expenses, or at Toronto on Saturday, each to pay his own expenses and take chances on receipts. The locals decided to play the game here Friday afternoon at 2.00 o'clock and notified Brussels to that effect.

Brussels, at the last moment, refused to come. Championship still undecided. Why?

It was noticed in one of the Toronto papers to-day that, Brussels claimed they did not receive guarantee in time. Another paper stated that Brussels team had passed through Toronto on their way to Havelock. Funny, they haven't arrived as yet. Wonder why?

NO DYSPEPSIA OR UNDIGESTED FOOD

Heartburn, Gas, Headache and all Stomach Distress Vanishes.

There would not be a case of indigestion here if readers who are subject to Stomach trouble knew the tremendous anti-ferment and digestive virtue contained in Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort, and relieve the sourest, acid stomach in five minutes, besides overcoming all foul, nauseous odours from the breath.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on each 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily understand why this promptly cures indigestion and removes such symptoms as Heartburn, a feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, Belching of Gas and Eructations of undigested food, water brash, Nausea, Headache, Biliousness and many other bad symptoms; and, besides, you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach, liver and intestines clean and fresh.

If your Stomach is sour and full of gas or your food doesn't digest, and your meals don't seem to fit, why not get a 50-cent. case from your druggist and make life worth living? Absolute relief from Stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and besides, one can is sufficient to cure a whole family of such trouble.

Surely a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Diapepsin, which will always, either at daytime or during night, relieve your stomach misery and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.

RUGBY

The defeat of the Hamilton Tigers at the hands of the Ottawa team in the Inter-Provincial Union final on Saturday was the surprise of the year in rugby circles. Few people outside of the Capital and only a small quota there fancied the Rough Riders had a chance to win and when the news flashed across the country that Tom Clancy's Petes had won it seemed incredible to the fellows in the game. Ottawa's victory seems to have been earned. They outplayed and outtested Hamilton and won the title on their gameness and their wip will be popular on that account. Were it not for the presence of Ben Simpson on the Tiger's line-up Peterborough people would have been delighted at the result. On Saturday night you could hear the expression "I'm sorry for Ben Simpson's sake, but the Tigers have had it long enough." Seeing that it was the Peterborough boy's last year with the Tigers, and that he was captain of the team local enthusiasts would have liked to see him finish in a blaze of glory by capturing the championship. As it is Ben's last year has been the most notable of his career as he has been the mainstay of the Tigers all the way. He is still regarded as the best half back in the business and while his team was defeated Ben retires with all the individual honours that a man might expect.

FOUND GUILTY OF BIGAMY

Brantford, Nov. 23.—John Curley, a well-to-do resident of the Indian Reserve, pleaded guilty in the Police Court here yesterday of bigamy.

In view of the fact that his second wife lived with him for some time without complaining until domestic troubles arose, sentence was suspended on Curley. His wife was the complainant.

H. Lamb and F. Cunningham, street railway employes, were charged here yesterday under a section of the criminal code with allowing their car to stop on the T. H. & B. Railway crossing on Market street. Both were discharged and prosecuted by the company. Sentence was suspended, but they were warned severely.

AUTOMOBILE FALLS OFF 40 FOOT BRIDGE

Cuthbert, Ga., Nov. 23.—Horace Sheppard, who was fatally hurt Sunday night when the automobile in which he and his bride-to-be, Miss Helen Mattox, were seeking a clergyman, fell off a 40-foot bridge upon a railroad track, died yesterday. Curtis Williams, the chauffeur, was killed. Miss Mattox and James Lumley were injured. Miss Mary Mattox, a sister of the bride-elect, escaped without injury.

All the Cuthbert ministers had refused to marry the couple on account of their youth, neither of them having passed 20. The party hastily left town. Speeding along at a rate of 30 miles an hour, and while attempting to light a cigarette, Chauffeur Williams lost control of his machine.

YOUNG LADY DEAD FROM SNAKE BITE

Amsterdam, Ga., Nov. 23.—Miss Belle Jones, eighteen years old, daughter of the leading merchant here, is dead as a result of being struck by a great rattler while walking in the flower gardens at her home.

The snake was coiled under a rose bush and struck Miss Jones on the leg between the ankle and the knee and clung there. The girl ran screaming to the house, dragging the snake with her. Her father snatched the snake from her leg with his hands. The snake was seven feet long. The marks of its fangs on the girl's leg were over three inches apart. She died in terrible agony five hours later.

LETTER EXPLODED

Bresdau, Prussia, Nov. 23.—What appears to have been an attempt upon the life of Baron Albert Rothschild of Vienna is reported from "Schillersdorf," the Rothschild hunting seat in Upper Silesia.

A schoolmaster who was on the Schillersdorf was stopped by a man who courteously requested him to deliver a letter to the baron. The schoolmaster consented and had continued on his way, when the letter exploded, frightfully injuring the bearer.

Syrian Arrested for Fraud.

Fredericton, N. B., Nov. 23.—William A. Ayoup, a Syrian of Grand Falls, N.B., is under arrest, charged with having defrauded some two score firms in Canada and the United States. Ayoup and associates, it is alleged, ordered goods to the value of $25,000 on 30 days' credit. Failing to meet drafts enquiries were instituted and it was learned that goods had been shipped to various addresses.

CONFLICT IN SIGHT

Lord High Chancellor Loreburn Says That No Government Can Take Office Without Assurance That the Lords Will Behave—Aged and Decrepit Aristocrats Assemble For the Historic Debate.

London, Nov. 23.—The main interest in the historical debate yesterday in the House of Lords in the budget centered in a grave declaration of the Liberal policy which fell from Lord Loreburn, Lord High Chancellor, in the course of an eloquent peroration. Deliberately pausing and adjusting his glasses, he read slowly from a piece of paper:

"It is my opinion that it is impossible that any new Liberal Government can ever again bear the heavy burden of office unless it is secured against a repetition of treatment such as our measures have had to undergo for the last four years."

This statement had an electrical effect upon the Liberal members of the House of Commons, who surged from the public galleries into the lobbies in a state of excitement, under the conviction that they had heard the Government's last word before the general election, that Premier Asquith will make a similar declaration in the House of Commons next week, and that the long delayed campaign against the Lords has now begun in real earnest.

It was held that Lord Lereburn's statement can only mean that no Liberal leader will henceforth accept office unless he receives a pledge from the crown that sufficient peers will be appointed on the Premier's nomination to secure the House of Common against interference by the House of Lords in financial matters.

After the Earl of Crewe, Lord Privy Seal, had formally moved the second reading of the budget bill, without comment, Lord Lansdowne, leader of the Opposition, immediately moved its rejection.

He quoted precedents to show that although the House of Lords could not amend a financial bill, it had full right to discuss it and to throw it out if it so willed.

Besides, the present bill, he argued, had tacked on to it legislation, such as land taxation and increased license duties, which the House of Lords had already rejected, and which had been placed in the bill with a view to ousting the Lords from their legitimate opportunity of dealing with these measures. No self-respecting second chamber would tolerate such treatment.

Lord Loreburn replied, contending that there was nothing to the bill foreign to finance, with which the House of Commons had the exclusive right to deal.

"The attempt of the Lords to interfere," he declared, "was the beginning of a system which would lead to constitutional revolution. What was embodied in the bill was not new either in the United States or Germany, and had been approved not only by the present but the last House of Commons."

After the Lord High Chancellor many peers addressed the House, but interest waned. The Duke of Norfolk, who supported Lord Lansdowne's resolution, confessed that the Lords had a serious and anxious problem to face, but that that should not daunt them in performing their duty.

Noblemen who had never attended a Parliamentary session in their lives attended, and the pomp of England's proud peerage were on parade. Gray bearded grandfathers, so aged and feeble that they could scarcely walk, tottered to their century old places on the arms of their trusty retainers.

As aged and decrepid aristocrats rolled up to the House in carriages in answer to the urgent call of their party, the crowd alternately jeered and cheered.

Wild Storm at Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Rain and sleet driven by a wind which at times registered a velocity of 48 miles an hour, marked the storm which has raged all day over the region of the great lakes.

In the morning the Government life-saving crews from Evanston and Chicago answered an appeal for help from the crew of the freighter Boston, which was thrown rudderless upon a sandbar near Wilmette. Eight of the crew of 18 men elected to leave the vessel, which was fast in the sand.

Tolstoi's Appeal For Peace.

Geneva, Nov. 23.—At an anti-military meeting, held at Buenne, when 100 Swiss and foreign delegates were assembled, an appeal by Count Tolstoi was read amid great enthusiasm.

Count Tolstoi appeals to the good sense of the world's peoples to refuse to serve as soldiers, either voluntarily or under pressure, even if that refusal entails punishment. Killing by soldiers, he asserts, is a criminal act.

Volcanoes at Teneriffe.

Teneriffe, Nov. 23.—A fifth crater has opened and the five volcanoes are throwing out great quantities of lava. The explosions, however, have ceased and the population, which has been in terror for several days, is slightly calmer.

No Special I.C.R. Rates.

Montreal, Nov. 23.—The I.C.R. will adopt the uniform bill of lading. This means that the special rates to special shippers will be cancelled and there will be one rate for all.

MUST OWN STEAMERS.

All-Red Line to Australia Must Be State-Owned, Says Mr. Thomas.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—"I may, however, add that the representative of Australia would be instructed to urge that the steamers to be employed in the service should be owned and controlled by the several Governments concerned. The main object of the enterprise being to knit more closely scattered portions of the Empire, we are convinced that only by Government ownership can this object be attended with that maximum advantage to our respective countries."

This important declaration upon the policy of Government ownership is contained in a letter addressed by Hon. Mr. Thomas, Postmaster-General of Australia, to Dr. R. M. Coulter, who was sent to Australia and New Zealand and Great Britain by the Canadian Government early this year, to promote negotiations regarding the all-red steamship route project.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier laid on the table of the House yesterday the report of Dr. Coulter. While New Zealand agrees to name a delegate to wait on the Imperial authorities, and urge them to take such steps as will lead to the inauguration of the proposed service, nothing of a definite nature was accomplished insofar as Australia was concerned. A promise was given by Premier Fisher's Government, which has since gone out of power, that in the event of either Great Britain or Canada calling a further conference, a delegate from Australia would be named. Australia refused, however, to commit itself to any share of the cost, on the ground that the Commonwealth could not do anything until the expiration of the limitation of its expenditure fixed by the constitution.

Assessment Act Changes.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—Some important changes in the Assessment Act will be discussed by the special committee of the Ontario Legislature appointed at last session to deal with the proposed amendments to the act, which meets to-day at the Parliament buildings.

While the members elect their own chairman, it is understood that Hon. W. J. Hanna will be chosen for the office.

Of the 66 suggested amendments on the program, those which are regarded as the most contentious are the ones dealing with railway taxation, with the business assessment of retail merchants, of clubs and of express companies, and the assessment of farm lands in cities, towns and villages.

Petitions have been received from 195 municipalities asking for power to tax improvement values at a lower rate than land values. It is proposed to treat the business assessment of incomes and salaries as a tax on improvements, the difference in the rate in each case to be determined by the municipality.

Bell Company Makes Offer.

Brockville, Nov. 23.—The Rural Telephone Federation of Leeds and Grenville has a fight on with the Bell Telephone Co. The federation is made up of the different rural lines of the counties, with a central switchboard connecting all in the village of Athens. The Plum Hollow line runs into Athens, and is a competition of the Bell there. The Bell recently discontinued connection with certain of the companies because of their affiliation with Plum Hollow. It is understood the Bell has agreed to resume connections providing the Plum Hollow Co. does not increase the number of its subscribers in Athens. This proposition will be submitted to the shareholders for ratification; also an offer from the Bell to purchase the entire service of the rural in that village.

His Welcome Home.

Galt, Nov. 23.—Harry Osgood, late of Galt, went to Cobalt a year ago and returned Saturday to find the police with a warrant from Cobalt waiting his arrival. He is charged with running a "blind pig."

Heavy rain fell down all yesterday. The whole region is flooded, and the Grand River is rising to high water mark.

London Township to Vote.

London, Nov. 23.—At a meeting of the London Township Council yesterday, it was decided to submit a local option bylaw for vote at the coming elections. Eight hundred and thirty-nine names were allowed on the petition presented; seventy more than the legal requirements.

Six Sons Pallbearers.

Pembroke, Nov. 23.—At the funeral of Oliver Lefebvre, who died at the Soo, his six sons acted as pallbearers. It was the first time they had met in twenty years. Their names are: Abel, Antoine, Oliver, Jerry, Frank and Fred.

Cunningham a Dope Fiend.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—Wm. G. Cunningham was pronounced insane and a dope fiend in the Police Court yesterday, and was sent to the asylum. Posing as a doctor he had been getting morphine from a number of druggists.

Mad Dog Bites Prize Hog.

London, Ont., Nov. 23.—One of the most valuable prize hogs in the country, belonging to John Fridham of Fullerton Township, went mad Sunday afternoon as the result of being bitten by a mad dog.

Heavy Quake In California.

Salinas, Cal., Nov. 23.—The heaviest earthquake recorded here since the shock of April 18, 1906, was felt in this city early yesterday. Buildings rocked and creaked for 15 seconds, and people rushed into the streets. So far as ascertained there was no damage.

Grain Inspection.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—Trade and commerce reports show the inspection of 51,246,350 bushels at Winnipeg to Nov. 7, and of this 40,516,350 bushels were wheat. To the same date lake port shipments amounted to 29,806,989 bushels. This is about 10,000,000 bushels ahead of last year.

Church Union in China.

Kingston, Nov. 23.—Rev. Wm. C. White, bishop-elect to Honan, China, who is visiting his old home here, says he looks for church union in China under episcopal government, the laity being given a voice in the affairs of the church.

No Reduction in Kingston.

Kingston, Nov. 23.—The City Council this evening refused to grant the petition of the Moral and Social Reform League to refer the question of reducing the liquor licenses of Kingston to one for every thousand of population.

McGill Graduate Disappears.

Montreal, Nov. 23.—H. C. Reid of Sackville, N.B., is here to enquire into the mysterious disappearance of his son, Herbert Reid, a graduate of McGill University, who has not been seen or heard of by his friends since Nov. 3, when he was seen on the way to the depot, en route for home with $200, the proceeds of sales of potatoes. It is feared he met with foul play.

Smothers to Death.

London, Nov. 23.—George Howell, aged 26, was smothered in bed by rollies over on his face during the night while in a convulsion. Some time ago Howell put a pin on a car track to see it run over, and while stooping to watch the result he was struck by the steps of the car. Ever since he has had convulsions.

One Killed; One Hurt.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 23.—Andrew B. Taylor, aged 30 years, of Newcastle, Del., was killed and William M. Moore, aged 24, of Wilmington, was injured early yesterday in the wreck of Taylor's automobile. While crossing a bridge the machine swerved and dashed into a wall.

$3.50 and $5.00 Glasses for $1.00

THE ABOVE STATEMENT IS NOT TRUE

We are pleased to learn that the Citizens of Peterborough would not believe such a statement they have no right to, as it is not true. One thing we will truthfully say (and we have the confidence of the people of our city) and that is, "we will give a dollar's worth of value for every $1.00 spent with us for glasses, this we will guarantee to do. We will not lure you to our Optical Parlours for $1 Glasses and then when we get you into the store, charge you $5 or more.

We have one price for everybody, and we consider our prices for glasses very reasonable.

Our Optical Parlour is most up-to-date in every way, and all our work is positively guaranteed. We carry the very latest Eyeglass Mounts. And also a heavy stock of Optical Goods.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed, "Tender for additions and alterations to the General Post Office Building, Toronto, Ontario," will be received at this office until 5.00 p.m., on Monday, November 29, 1909, for the work mentioned.

Plans, specifications and forms of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and on application to Mr. Thomas Hastings, Clerk of Works, Customs Building, Toronto.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, with their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
NAPOLEON TESSIER,
Secretary.

SAVED BY A PANTHER.

The Fierce Brute Proved a Good Temperance Lecturer.

Governor Jennings of Indiana used to tell a story of his early electioneering days in which he said that a panther may be a good temperance lecturer. Colonel W. M. Cockrum repeats the story in his "Pioneer History of Indiana." The incident happened when Governor Jennings was traveling over the thinly settled hills of Dearborn county, electioneering for congress.

He met a man with whom he was well acquainted, by name Tom Ogiesby, who was just getting over a protracted debauch. Jennings began asking Tom about his political views. The half sober fellow looked at him and said:

"Jen, don't you think a man just out of a panther fight ought to be electioneered in a different manner from this? I am just from the grave. I was awakened a little while ago by a panther putting leaves and grass over me. It kept this up until I was entirely covered. I lay still for awhile and then raised up and found the panther gone. I knew I was in danger, so I took my gun and climbed into a tree to see what the panther intended to do.

"In a short time I heard her coming, and she had her kittens with her. Every few steps she would jump as if catching something, and the little ones would go through the same manoeuvers. She kept this up until she got near to the bed of leaves she had covered over me and then made a spring on the pile. She looked just as I felt when I found that I was covered up for dead. She then started in to investigate the cause of my disappearance, and before she located me I shot her."

Jennings, after hearing this, said:

"Well, Tom, I believe I should treat you as one from the dead and that you should begin your life from this point. We were schoolboys together. I know you are a capable civil engineer and well educated, and if you cease drinking I will see that you have a good position on the surveying corps."

Tom Ogiesby did quit drinking. Jennings was elected and kept his promise to his old friend, who became one of the well known engineers of the United States.

THERMOMETERS.

Testing Processes at the National Weather Bureau.

Each day at the weather bureau in Washington the thermometers received from various manufacturers throughout the country are put through the test of standardizing them.

The various processes through which the bulbs pass before they are labeled "accurate" are easy, inasmuch as there is practically little scientific work attached to the test. When a thermometer is first handed to the man in the testing room it is dipped into a vat filled with a compound far below the freezing point. It is thrust in at the point where it happens to be at the time and worked up and down until the degree of the compound is reached. Having then recorded the lowest temperature, the process of testing for the highest is begun. This is just as simple as testing for the low temperature. The bulb is dipped into a vat of water, first at 60 degrees. Then it is worked gradually until 130 degrees is reached. If the mercury in the bulb will indicate 180 degrees further testing is unnecessary, because that is a tolerably warm temperature and one seldom if ever reached by natural heat.

A thermometer the bulb of which contains mercury will not register lower than 38 degrees below zero—that is, mercury will freeze at that point. In this country very little use is found for thermometers showing more than 38 degrees below zero, but in the far north they are of course necessary. Such instruments, however, contain spirits in the bulbs instead of mercury, but even this fluid becomes sluggish when 40 or 50 below zero is recorded, and it will seldom show 60 below.—Harper's Weekly.

THE RAT KING.

In the early sixties of the last century the Smithsonian institution was infested with rats. Nothing in the building seemed to be rat proof. They ate skins cured with arsenical soap or table linen or the contents of Professor Henry's pantry without discrimination. Every one in the city, from Professor Henry to the bootblack, had one subject in common, and that was "rats."

As Professor Henry, who lived in the east end of the building, was listening to an account of the ruin wrought in his home during that day Professor Spencer Baird walked in and said, just as if he had been following every word of the family conversation, "I have just been told that there is a man in Philadelphia who can rid this place of rats."

Professor Henry's eyes expressed interest and incredulity at the same moment.

"I have his address here," went on the assistant secretary. "He calls himself the 'ratten konig' and won't take a cent if a rat remains and has"—

"We'll send for him if it takes our last thousand cents to do it!" said Professor Henry and laughingly predicted the repetition of the famous old tale of the Pied Piper of Hamelin.

Several days later the "rat king" appeared in Washington. He was almost as short as he was broad and wore clothes too loose for description; they had no shape. He carried a large oilcloth sack and a covered basket. His penetrating blue eyes were almost covered by shaggy eyebrows, and his blond hair had not been cut, but haggled. His manner was short and brisk, and he went straight to the point, talking to Professor Henry in German.

He declared that not a rat would be in the building three days hence if his directions were obeyed. During that time he would stay in the basement alone; every door was to be locked, and on no account was he to be disturbed until he gave them the signal. So they left him in absolute darkness and carried out his directions.

On Sunday morning the queer old man emerged from the darkness so confident of his success that he refused to accept the money which was his due then and there, but insisted that Professor Henry mail the check to him in Philadelphia the following week.

"Now you can leave your food in the basement, and it won't be touched. And I won't take a cent if you are troubled with rats," were his parting words.

Cheese and cake were directly placed about the building to tempt the rats. Morning after morning they were found as they had been left, and from that day to this the Smithsonian institution has never been seriously troubled with rats. And no one has ever found out the secret of the "rat king's" method.—Youth's Companion.

Washington's High Priced Shad.

Washington's steward was a man named Fraunces, who liked good living and with whom Washington continually quarreled about the marketing. One time he bought a shad in February, and as Washington saw it coming into the dining room he was charmed and asked what fish it was.

"It is a shad," replied the steward, "a very fine shad. It was the only one in the market, and I bought it for you."

"But what did you pay for it?" said Washington sternly.

"It is a very fine shad," continued the steward, "and it is cooked to a turn."

"But I want to know the price—the price!"

"It cost $3," stammered out Fraunces.

"Take it away," said Washington as he raised his hand; "take it away. It shall never be said that I set such an example of luxury and extravagance."

And with that he drove the steward out of the room, and the shad was eaten in the servants' kitchen.

She Liked Silk Hosiery.

Susan B. Anthony was a woman of simple taste in dress, but her close friends knew of one pretty feminine vanity that she always held to. She had a weakness for silk stockings. Being pressed on one occasion for an explanation of what most women at one time regarded as an unnecessary extravagance, she laughingly exclaimed: "Oh, I just love 'em! They are so inspiration. If I have my silk stockings on when I rise to make an address I feel just as if I am walking among the clouds. They help me to soar away on flights of eloquence. I wouldn't be without them."

Cartmell, the University of Pennsylvania runner, has announced his intention to turn professional and offers to run against Arthur Postle, the world's professional sprinter, in a series of either three or four matches at distances from 130 to 440 yards.

Shampoo.

A mid-eighteenth century traveler, who is the first person known to have made English of the word "shampoo," wrote that "shampooing is an operation not known in Europe and is peculiar to the Chinese, which I had once the curiosity to go through, and for which I paid but a trifle. However, had I not seen several Chinese merchants shampooed before me I should have been apprehensive of danger, even at the sight of all the different instruments." The original "shampoo," as this traveler's detailed account and other allusions for long after his time show, was very much what we call "massage" now. It was from India that the word really came, and it represents the imperative of a verb meaning to knead.

THE DEATH OF TENNYSON.

They tell that when his final hour drew near,
He whose fair praise the ages shall rehearse,
Whom now the living and the dead hold dear,
Our grey-haired master of immortal verse,
Call for his Shakespeare, and with touch of rue,
Turned to that page in stormy Cymbeline
That bears the dirge. Whether he read none knew,
But on the book he laid his hand serene,
And kept it there, unshaken, till there fell
The last grey change, and from before his eyes
This glorious world that Shakespeare loved so well,
Slowly, as at a book, without surprise—
Its woe, its pride, its passion and its play—
Like mists and melting shadows passed away.

—Archibald Lampman.

IN OLD YARMOUTH.

Where the Sad Remains of Peggotty's Hut May Still Be Seen.

The people of the old English town of Yarmouth are credited with an open-handed generosity. Peggotty told David Copperfield, you remember, that it was the finest place in the universe, to which the boy replied that "a mound or two might have improved it, and also that if the land had been a little more separated from the sea and the town and the tide had not been quite so much mixed up, like toast and water, it would have been much nicer."

But presently, when he got into the streets and "smelt the fish and pitch and oakum and tallow, and saw the sailors walking about and the carts jingling up and down over the stones," young Copperfield admitted that he had done Yarmouth an injustice.

The remains of Peggotty's hut may still be seen, sad and forlorn, alas! but suggestive, nevertheless, of the quaint home where David was so happy of Peggotty's jokes, of little Emily's pretty ways and of the dolefulness of Mrs. Gummidge. There are many ancient buildings that have stood the test of time better than the queer boathome of Peggotty.

Formerly Yarmouth was one of the principal ports of England and its merchant adventurers enjoyed the patronage of Queen Elizabeth. Its Tolhouse claims to be the oldest municipal building in the kingdom.

What Domesday Survey Was?

The proposal to take a new survey of landed property as a guide to alterations in taxation makes it interesting to inquire what the object and scope of the original Domesday and other surveys in this country have been. The first Domesday was ordered as a basis for assessing land for the Danegeld. This tax was imposed at the rate of six shillings per hyde, amounting on the average to one hundred acres; and until the land was brought under the plough it does not appear to have been liable to the payment. The increase of cultivation may, therefore, have been one of the causes which induced the ambitious Flambard to advise another survey, which was considered as one of the greatest grievances of the tyranny of William Rufus. Other general surveys, in the nature of Domesday, were made from time to time. Henry I. made similar inquiries, and a most curious description of Winchester is extant, resulting from the inquest of the eight-score and six burgesses impanelled before the commissioners, in which we have the particulars of every house in the city which paid "Landgable," or ground rent to the King in the days of Edward the Confessor, and at the time when the survey was made.

The Sovereign Furnace

Is Made in Separate Sections

The "Sovereign" Hot Water Boiler

Made by the

TAYLOR-FORBES Company, Limited, GUELPH, ONT.

There are five separate boiler sections in the Sovereign hot water furnace, each section being a little boiler in itself, and each contributing its share of heat to the radiating system. The first little boiler, the one directly over the fire, is larger than the other boiler sections above it. It holds one-third more water, so that a hot fire quickens circulation and increases radiation without ever causing the water to boil. The unit principle of construction and the larger first section are exclusive features with the "Sovereign."

Copyright, 1909, by C. S. Yost.

V.—Getting on in the World

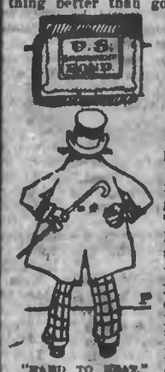
"YES, that's all right, Bill," said Colonel Sneed to his son-in-law as they smoked their after dinner cigars, "that's all right. I'm mighty glad to hear you've been promoted and got a raise. I'm mighty glad to see you climbin' up the ladder of success. I like to see a man with ambition and pluck and ginger, and I glory in your spunk, my boy; I certainly do. But you haven't been home much of evenin' lately, have you?"

"No, colonel, I haven't. Work's been pretty heavy the last few months, and it's kept me at the office almost every night. I don't like that part of it much, but a fellow's got to hustle if he gets along in the world these days."

"Uh, huh! That's about the way I'd sized it up, and, as I was just tellin' you, I like to see that kind of a spirit in a young man; but, son, if government bonds were quoted at ninety-six and a man was to go around town buyin' all he could get at a dollar ten what would you think of him?"

"I'd think he was a fool, of course."

"Uh, huh! So would I. So would everybody. I don't reckon there's anything better than government bonds.



"HARD TO BEAT."

They make the finest kind of waddin' for a safe deposit box, and as works of art they're mighty hard to beat, but any man who pays more than the market price for 'em is a bigger fool than Thompson's colt. It's a good deal the same way with this thing you call gettin' on in the world. It's fine, it's worth a whole lot, but there's such a thing as payin' too much for it. And, William, my boy, when a man gives up all or nearly all that makes life worth livin' in order to win financial success he's sellin' short on happiness with a mighty slim chance to get hold of the stock for delivery.

"Yes, I know what you'll say—you're workin' to get a start, to lay a foundation of a little fortune, to provide the right kind of a home for your wife—and I'm pattin' you on the back all the time and sayin' 'Bully boy!' That's the sort of stuff that makes men; that's the power that makes the world go round. But a man wants to be mighty careful that he don't keep on runnin' around the track after the finish, and he wants to look out that he don't lose diamonds while he's scramblin' for pearls. My old father was a country doctor, and he always carried his quinine and calomel and such like in a big pair of saddlebags. I remember one time he had to get up in the middle of the night and ride ten miles to see a patient. It was an urgent case, and the old gentleman went down the road like Satan Berrin' tanbark, his saddlebags bouncin' up and down at every jump. When he got to the place he found a strap had broke and every bit of his medicine had been scattered along the road.

"Many a man goes lopin' along the road to riches with his nose to the ground like a hound chasin' a fox. He don't see anything but the tracks of the fellows who've gone that way before him, and he's so doggone anxious to catch up with them that he don't know he's got holes in his pockets and is losin' things a lot more valuable than the one he's runnin' after. He don't know that he's dropped his wife's love here and his children's affection there and his home and his health a little further along, while his happiness has been trickling out of the hole all the time. And when at last he gets up to the front and grabs the bag of gold he finds that he's lost everything that makes its possession really worth while, and it turns to dust in his hands, for his pockets are empty and his heart is empty and his head hasn't got anything in it but stock quotations and regrets.

"It ain't just figures of speech I'm givin' you, my boy. I've seen them a time and time again, and nearly every one of them started out with just one desire—to do somethin' big and fine for the woman he loved. The purpose was all right, you see, Bill, but they let it run away with them. That's what I want you to avoid, my boy, and that's why I'm givin' you this kind of a talk now.

"You've married the sweetest little girl this side of the pearly gates, if I do say it myself, and if you want success to be worth anything when you get it, go down the long road with her arm linked in yours, and don't go so fast but what she can keep up with you. You remember the Lord said, 'It ain't good for man to be alone,' and it's a good deal worse for woman to be alone. When a man begins to leave his wife to fret out her evenin's by herself he's layin' the foundations for trouble. That old sayin' that absence makes the heart grow fonder is all poppycock. It don't do anything of the sort, and if you become so engrossed in the struggle to get on in the world that you can't get home to dinner more than once or twice a week and have to spend most of your evenin's at the office you're pretty sure to find the keen edge of love wearin' off in her heart or yours after awhile. The dullin' process may be so slow that neither one of you may know it's goin' on until it's too late, but sooner or later, sod, you'll find it out, and then you might as well shut up the shop, for no man and no woman can be really happy without love, and love won't stay long in any home unless it's fed. A woman's love will starve under neglect, and a man's love will shrivel up if he gets so full of business that he has no time to think of anything else. Gettin' on in the world is a great thing, a very great thing, if love lights the way, but if it don't—well, you take an old man's advice, my boy, and keep your ambition down to union hours. You may not get there so quick, but you'll get there all right, and when you do there'll be some satisfaction in the arrival. And now let's go out and take a look at the baby."

AN EARTHLY INFERNO.

Vulcanizing Factory Where Men Stand 212 Degrees.

The hottest place in New York is in Desbrosses street in a vulcanizing factory, where telephone wires are insulated by being coated with a preparation of rubber. In the room where this process takes place the temperature rises to 212 degrees, 100 degrees hotter than the hottest it may be outside in the sun. Man can endure no more. Actually there are some who can stand this, however—only a few, mind you, but still some. They are only the strongest and hardiest of workmen, and they can be in the room but a few brief minutes at a time. Several times daily it is their duty to enter the room to see that all goes well.

To keep from losing their skin and to protect themselves from the terrible heat these men wear heavy woolen shirts buttoned high above their necks and woolen masks and gloves. Four or five minutes at the most in the vulcanizing room is all they can stand without collapsing, and some can't even stay that long. Outside these men nobody is ever allowed to endure such a frightful heat. In fact, it is hard to convey the idea of 212 degrees. You can get the same degree of temperature by thrusting your finger into boiling water. Water boils at 212 degrees F.—New York World.

HE LOVED HER.

The Depth of His Feeling Was Revealed in His Answer.

"Do you love me?" he asked.

"Do I love you?" she repeated. "I do. I love you psychologically, sociologically, economically. From the psychologic standpoint I feel that our different organisms are so nicely differentiated as to form a properly modulated area of combined consciousness. Sociologically our individual environment has been enough in contrast to form a proper basis for a right union. Economically I feel sure that when we come to combine we shall be able to introduce into the management of our affairs the right financial balance to produce the scientific result which every well ordered and conducted business produces. And, now, how do you love me?"

The young man reached forward. He clasped her swiftly, but surely, in his arms. He hugged her long and plenty. He kissed her alabaster cheek and her ruby lips.

"How do I love you?" he replied. "My dear girl, I love you just as much as if you really knew what you were talking about."—Life.

When Lovers Watched the Corpse.

Most curious of the old time superstitions of New England was the custom of requiring lovers to watch the corpse. It associated the hopes of marriage with the silent vigil, was poetic and has only disappeared from the oldest towns within a generation. No obligation of the social conscience was more scrupulously regarded than that a dead body should never be left alone at night. In the earliest days the solemn watchers were old men and women, deacons, selectmen, but as the colonies grew bonnet lovers with sighted troths were frequently selected for these long vigils.

It Isn't Polite.

WASP WAIST TO GO.

London Modistes Agree Upon Twenty-six Inches as Correct Measure.

A twenty-six inch waist is the decree for the winter. Most modistes and corsetieres are combining with each other to give the fashionable figure additional girth, a startling change from the extreme attenuations of the recent directoire vogue.

Mrs. Elinor Temple, one of the many upper class women who have taken to trade in England, is impressing upon the society women who consult her in her capacity as a corset scientist that they must develop a twenty-six inch waist in readiness for the new winter fashions.

"This is a reasonable and satisfactory waist measurement for a woman of average size," explains Mrs. Temple. "To cultivate waist, and waist only, is, she says, an aesthetic as well as a physical mistake. Mrs. Temple's strongest lever with her feminine patrons is, however, her assurance that the Englishman has ceased to admire the wasp-like waist.

A famous modiste, Lady Duff Gordon, the Lucile of Hanover square, London, is taking an active part in the "big waist" movement. A short time ago she announced that all the models in her showrooms must have a uniform waist measurement of twenty-four and a half inches. There was an outcry from the manikins, some of whom had been brought up under the old regime when the fashionable modiste's model was required to face in to eighteen inches.

"Pad your corsets out," was Lucile's reply to this protest, and that is how the manikins at this celebrated establishment are able to show the correct waist.

Contest For Halloween.

An interesting game if the hostess wishes to introduce the prize element into a Halloween party is to have a pumpkin lantern cutting contest.

She should provide as many pumpkins as there are guests, a sharp knife apiece, sheets of red and black paper, a candle and a tin stand such as are used on birthday cakes.

A time limit should be set, and if possible each cutter should be placed so he or she could not see what the others are doing. The prizes can be awarded by the hostess, or if she prefers to shirk the responsibility the entire party can vote for the winners.

The prizes can be candy in pumpkin or cat favors, an illustrated copy of Burns' poem on Halloween or three small bags in three shades of orange silk tied together at the top with a fluffy rosette or narrow gilt braid.

Poor Little Girl.

Little Helen, who is a great talker and aged just three, was annoying her father one day by her almost endless chatter. He was endeavoring to finish some important writing, so said, "Run away, dear; daddy is very busy."

Helen toddled off and after the space of about five minutes returned and, standing beside her father's chair, laid an appealing fat hand on his arm and, looking up into his face with a most grieved air, said: "Daddy, I'm very lonely. I can't find any one to leave myself with."—Delineator.

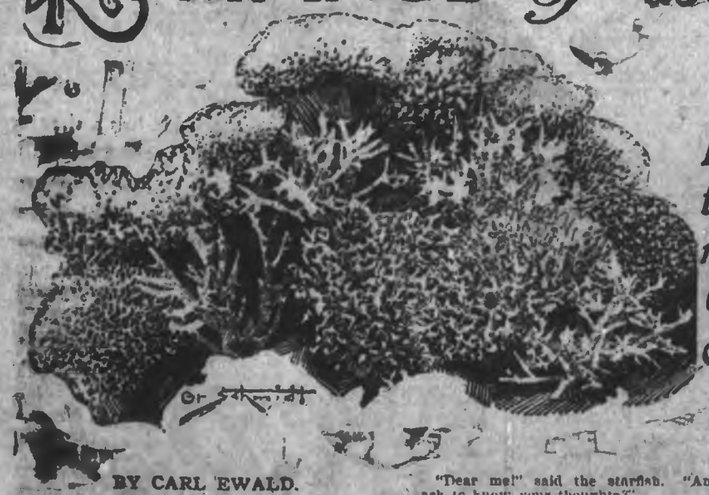
ROMANCE of the CORALS



Real Miracle Story of How the Wee Workers of the Sea, Despite the Terrific Forces of Nature, Upbuilt a Beautiful Kingdom for Man.

BY CARL EWALD.

I.

IT was once upon a time, many a long year ago, far out at sea.

But it was the real sea, which is deeper than any one can tell, and so big that the skipper can sail for many days without seeing land.

And it was the tropical sea, where the water is almost as warm as in a hot bath at home in Denmark.

But it is only on the surface, where the sun shines, that it is so warm. Deep down below the sea is as cold as ice, and, then, it is darker there than on the blackest night. And the sea is not equally deep, either, in every part, for at the bottom there are high mountains and low valleys, just as on the dry land.

Now, out there at sea there was a place where a big mountain rose from the bottom nearly to the surface. If one looked up one could see nothing on every side but water and water and just water.

But down in the water there was ever so much more to look at.

For on the mountain grew forests of seawrack which stretched for miles up and down the slopes. When the waves rolled the leaves waved in the water, just as the leaves of the trees up on land wave in the wind. But the stems of the wrack trees were not nearly so thick and stiff as those of the beech or the oak, and therefore they waved also to and fro wherever the billows drove them.

For the rest, the wrack trees were taller than any tree on the dry land, but they never grew up above the surface of the sea. For when their leaves touched the air they dried up and withered. But when the water was still they spread out and gleamed with splendid colors, red and yellow, green and brown, like the foliage of our own woods in the autumn.

And among the tops of the wrack trees a multitude of jolly fish swam from tree to tree, just as the birds fly in the wood.

But they were not such tiresome gray fellows as the cod and the pike and the eel. Many of them shone like gold and silver; one was sky blue, another scarlet. And then there was the porcupine fish, who could puff himself out into a ball and stick out his bristles on every side and make the other animals terribly frightened.

For there were many other animals in the wrack forest.

There were mussels with the most comical scales and there were snails, with big, many colored shells. There were cuttlefish, who came darting backward through the water at an incredible pace. There were great crawfish, who also swam backward and nipped with their claws, and there were wry, flat crabs, who went sidewise and got on all the same.

Sometimes there came a herd of several hundred big turtles, who grazed in the wrack forest exactly like the cows in the fields.

It would also happen that a huge whale came swimming along. Then it grew dark, as if a cloud were passing before the sun, wherever he broke through the wrack forest. And when he struck out with his powerful tail the wrack trees shook as though it were an earthquake.

Once it also happened that a ship sailed over the wrack forest. A sailor fell overboard and he was at once bolted by a big shark, who made one mouthful of him and swam on with a good conscience.

Any one can easily understand, therefore, that it was very nice and amusing in the wrack forest. But it was still, quite still; for none of the animals uttered a cry or sang.

II.

NOW, in the middle of the forest there was a cosey little open place among the tree tops, not very far from the surface. The water was warm and clear and the place was so situated that it was seldom that anybody came there.

In this place four children used to play with one another every day and chat together according to their lights.

They were all four so small as to be invisible with the naked eye. And if a man had come with a magnifying glass and discovered them he would, nevertheless, have found it difficult to make out one from the other unless he knew an awful lot of natural history.

For they were all round, transparent little things, with fine hair on them, but without heads or legs or eyes or any of the things which belong to a proper animal and which men can't very well do without, either.

And yet they were not related to one another at all. One of them was the child of a coral, the next of a jellyfish the third of a starfish. But the fourth was a real little oyster spat.

One day they were chatting about what they would be when they grew big.

"I will be a highwayman!" said the starfish-child. "I will hide in the wrack forest and rush out at the mussels and small fish and all the animals I can manage and suck them out to the last drop of their blood."

"I will swim 'round and look pretty," said the little jellyfish. "And if any one comes too near me I shall sting him."

"I am destined for something higher," said the oyster spat and looked as important as it is possible to look when one has neither face nor eyes.

"Re-ally?" said the starfish. "How do you know?"

"The best of thing is born in one," replied the oyster spat. "You must know, I am a kind of connection animal with men. It is simply incredible the vaibe they set upon me. They all cringe to me. Some of them do nothing but breed and look after and sell me; others do nothing but eat me. They build beautiful big water parks for me with sticks for me to settle on."

"Then it seems to me that it's you who are at the men's beck and call," said the little jellyfish. "However, every one to his taste. Now, I could not imagine anything more frightful than to sit fast on a stick."

"Why, not at all!" said the oyster spat. "Give me a calm and sedentary life until I come to be eaten."

Amid all this the coral child said nothing, but waved his hair in the water and listened to the others. And none of them gave him a further thought, for the coral was always the quietest of them, so they did not think that he would ever achieve anything particular. At last, however, the starfish asked:—

"Well, my little coral, what do you say? I wonder what's to become of you? Have you thought over it at all?"

"I never think of anything else," replied the coral child.

"Dear me!" said the starfish. "And might one ask to know your thoughts?"

"You would not be able to understand them if I told you," replied the coral.

"Have a try," said the starfish.

And the oyster spat and the little jellyfish said the same. Then the coral child said:—

"When I grow big I will build an island."

"A what?" they all three asked together.

"An island," said the coral again.

"You don't want much," said the starfish and laughed till the whole of his little body shook. "How do you propose to set about it?"

"I don't know yet," said the coral. "But an island I mean to build; a regular island that rises above the water and stands firm when the waves break against it."

"How you talk!" said the oyster spat.

"I shudder when I hear you speak of anything so firm as that," said the little jellyfish.

They teased him all three, but the coral child did not trouble a jot about them, went on waving his hair in the water and said, calmly:—

"It shall be a regular island, an island with palm trees and birds. Starfish and jellyfish shall swim round about in the water and the waves shall throw them up on the coast and there they shall lie and rot in the sun. And men shall live on the island—the men who eat oysters."

Then he said nothing more, and when they were tired of teasing him they all made friends again and swam around the little spot in the wrack forest and ate animals that were still smaller than themselves, and rejoiced in their youth and existence.

III.

SOME time after the four children in the wrack forest were grown up.

The oyster spat had got a shell. He sat on a rock at the bottom of the sea and yawned and let the water flow into him. The body of the starfish had shot out into five pointed arms, which stuck out in the water on every side, so that the animal looked like the star at the top of a Christmas tree. Twice a fish had come and bitten one of his arms off. But the starfish did not mind that. The arm grew again at once, and then the animal was just as good as before, crept about in the wrack trees and became a mighty highwayman, just as he had dreamed of being in his childhood days.

The little jellyfish had not fared so well. One day when he was at a children's party somewhere in the wood he was eaten by a whale, who came swimming along with his wide mouth open. There were a hundred thousand jellyfish children at the party and they all disappeared in the whale's stomach.

But when the coral child saw that he was very nearly grown up he swam away from the cosey spot where he had spent his childhood and let the waves carry him right outside the wrack forest.

The little coral drifted about for a long time and looked for a place where he would like to live. At last he found one, right at the other side of the mountain. No wrack grew there. The water was clear and pure, salt and beautifully warm, and there he settled.

He got arms like the starfish, but many more, and they were all in a wreath around his mouth. For now he had both a mouth and a stomach. He noticed gradually that he was becoming quite hard and firm below and within, and before he knew how it happened he had a proper piece of chalk inside him.

One day he put forth a bud on one side, just as the trees on dry land do. And the bud grew into the prettiest stone coral, with arms and a mouth and stomach and a piece of chalk inside him. But he hung on to the old coral and formed part of him, just as the hough forms part of the tree.

The old coral was overjoyed.

"Now we're all right," he said. "Now there are two of us."

Then he told the new coral about the island he meant to make, and the new coral agreed that that was the thing to do. And they both put forth new buds, and went on doing so until a fine coral tree was formed, with many branches, which were all full of stone corals. All day long they waved their arms in the water and drove tiny little animals into their mouths and ate them.

One day the starfish came crawling past and stopped in amazement.

"What a queer tree, with flowers on it!" he said.

"I am not a tree," said the coral. "I am a coral."

"Goodness me, is that you?" said the starfish. "It's wonderful how you've changed. Upon my word, I should never have known you."

"Nor I you," replied the coral. "But then we haven't seen each other since we were children. I'm busy now building my island."

"Are you still thinking of that nonsense?" asked the starfish, and laughed. "I imagined you had become wiser as you grew older. It seems to me, all the same, that you look as if you were quite a firm."

"So I am," said the coral. "I have put out buds and branches—all the flowers you see are coral polyps, who are partners with me in the island."

"Well, I never!" said the starfish. "You've turned yourself into a syndicate. Upon my word, that's very clever of you, for you would never have got anywhere by yourself. "Do you get on well together?"

"Excellently," replied the coral. "No better family relations can be imagined. We hold together inviolably through thick and thin. Only just think, when one of us has a good dinner all the rest enjoy it as well."

"It seems to me that's driving the partnership rather far," said the starfish. "When I have found a nice titbit for my own mouth I declare I shouldn't care for it to go into another's stomach."

"You don't understand me," said the coral.

"Goodby," said the starfish. "And good luck with the island."

But the old coral, who sat down at the root of the tree, whispered to that one of the buds who was nearest:—

Florida or West Indian Coral.

"You are I and I am you, and we can never be parted. We belong to each other and we want the same thing—we want to build the island."

The bud told the next bud, and he sent it on, until there was not a single polyp on the tree but knew all about it.

And while the tree got more and more branches the polyps also put forth buds which swam out into the water; tiny, mysterious, round things, with fine hairs on them. They enjoyed their liberty while they were children, but they all had the thought of the island in their hearts, and as soon as they were grown up they settled fast beside the old coral, put out buds and turned into trees like him.

"Now I can do no more," said the old coral one day.

Round about him grew a whole forest of stone corals. Their white branches were intertwined, and from them all shone the dearest little star flowers. They kept on shooting forth new buds and sent millions of little coral children out into the world. And while they built and built without ceasing they were always thinking of the island.

The old coral had every right to be proud of his work. For you see he was the great-great-great-great-great-grandfather of the whole business.

"Don't forget the island," he said.

Then he died. The water washed his corpse away, but where he had been there remained on the coral stem a mark like a star.

IV.

NOW many, many, many years passed.

But it made no difference. For the sea rolled its waves without ceasing, as it always had rolled them, and the sun shone and the gale blew and the tops of the wrack forest waved in the water.

True, the wrack trees among which the coral child had played had been pulled up and washed away long ago, but others had grown up where they stood. The turtles that grazed there were dead many years since; but new turtles came in their stead. The oyster was gone; the starfish was gone; the many colored fish who once swam among the trees were gone. Even the huge whale, who ate all the jellyfish children in a mouthful, had got a harpoon in his neck and been killed and boiled down to blubber.

But, though they were all gone, still their grandchildren's children were there and looked exactly like them and behaved exactly like them, so that it was impossible to see any change in the wood.

An immense number of coral trees had come, and more kept on coming. Millions of little coral children swam out into the world and came home and settled down beside their parents. Millions of the polyps died. In many of the coral trees there was not a single living polyp, but all the hard lime branches were full of stars where they had been.

And the waves had overturned the old trees and beaten them to pieces and flung them in among the others and on the top of the others. Gradually this grew into a great, strong lime reef, and it kept on growing; for the new coral children settled down on the top of the old trees and built so diligently.

"Now we have the island!" they said to one another, rejoicing. "If only our great-great-great-great-great-great-grandfather had lived to see it!"

But they had rejoiced a little too early.

For when they wished to set to and grow up above the water they could not. The small polyps could not bear the sun shining upon them, and, do what they would, they got no further.

"Now we will help you," said the waves.

And then they lifted a couple of big blocks of coral up from the bottom of the sea and threw them on the top of the other.

Now the island was there. It was not large, that is true, but white and pretty, and it shone in the sun, and round about it, as far as one could see, was nothing but water and water and just water. And every day a big white gull came and sat down upon it.

At that time it happened that the earth—the great round earth who floats through space round the sun, with the moon at her heels—was in a very bad temper. The moon was constantly teasing her and she had not yet recovered from her annoyance with the comet who went to pieces before he had finished telling what he had seen on his journey.

Now, when the earth was looking down at her stomach one day she perceived, just against the Equator, a knob which she had never seen before.

"What on earth is that, now?" asked the earth in an annoyed tone.

It was none other than the coral island. But when the earth came to know how the matter stood she was awfully angry.

"Now, upon my word, things are getting too bad!" she cried. "Not only is one made a fool of by an insolent comet and has to resign one's self to being laughed at every day of the month by a silly moon—not only do the men rummage in my inside and turn land into water and water into land and deal with me just as they please! Now, in addition, I have to submit to having a coral young, whom it takes a magnifying glass to see, messing about with my figure and building an actual island right in the middle of my stomach! A wretched mollusc like that! But we shall put a stop to that."

It was a frightful business, and no mistake!

The island disappeared in the sea and the gull who was sitting on it flew in the air with a loud scream. The blocks of coral fell over one another and smashed into a thousand pieces. Fish and crawfish and turtles fled as best they could and every leaf in the wrack wood shook.

But when all was still again in the water the coral polyps whispered to one another:—

"Remember the island!"

And then they set to work indefatigably to build again. After some time they were once more above the surface, the waves flung up huge blocks and the island lay there again.

"Well, I ——!" said the earth.

And then the bottom of the sea sank lower still.

"Remember the island!" whispered the corals.

And some time after the island lay there again.

"Can you go on like that?" asked the earth.

"That we can," replied the corals.

"Ah, then I give in!" said the earth. "For I can not!"

And the island lay there and stayed there. The corals built on incessantly, the waves flung up more and more blocks, and the island grew ever larger.

One day a big, round, brown thing came sailing and bumping against the side of it.

"Who's there?" asked the corals down in the water.

"It's me!" said the thing.

"Who's me?" asked the corals again.

"Don't you know me?" said the thing. "I am the cocoanut. I am celebrated all over the world. I am the one that prepares islands so that they make their appearance on the map and in the geography book. There have even been ballads made about me. One of them begins:—

"'A cocoanut
On the sea floats'"——

"That may be," said the corals. "But we know nothing about it. We have built an island ourselves and have never had time to sing ballads."

"Yes, it's incredible the amount of ignorance that prevails in the world," said the cocoanut. "Well, have you earth enough for me to take root in and grow into a palm?"

"Ahs!" whispered the corals to one another. "It's the palm!"

Then they asked him politely to come back later; then they would do their best to provide him with earth to grow in.

"Very well," said the cocoanut. "Then I will float about in the sea for a year. My shell is so thick that I shan't mind."

One day a great, hollow tree trunk came drifting along. When it got up on the island and lay and rotted a whole lot of grass seed fell from it and some time after the island was quite green. There were also two lizards in the tree trunk and they got children and thought the island a nice and cosey place to live upon.

And then the cocoanut came back again.

"Lift me up," he said to the waves.

He shot up and became a splendid tree. His nuts fell all around, and soon there was quite a grove of cocoa palms on the island. Birds came and built their nests in the trees; flowers came and bees and birds and butterflies.

One day a man came sailing in a boat.

His ship had been wrecked and he had drifted on the sea for many days. He was both hungry and thirsty, and when he saw the island he was quite wild with delight, went on shore, ate cocoanuts and oysters and built himself a house in which to live until a ship came that would take him back to his country.

But down in the water the corals kept on building, for they could never make the island big enough.

"Ah, if our great-great-great-great-great-great-great-great-great-grandfather could only see it!" they said to one another.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Liverpool and London cables for cattle are steady, at 12c to 12½c per lb. for live cattle, dressed weight; refrigerator beef slow, at 10c to 10½c per lb.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 78 carloads, consisting of 1416 cattle, 29 hogs, 718 sheep and lambs, 10 calves and 146 horses.

Exporters.

No exporters were sold, unless they were a few bulls, which sold at from $3.10 to $4.60.

Butchers.

Prime picked butchers, $5.25; loads of good, $4.75 to $5; medium, $4.25 to $4.75; common, $3.50 to $4.25; cows, $2.50 to $4.50.

Feeders and Stockers.

A limited number sold at about Monday quotations, but choice quality feeders are inclined to be a little firmer. Prices for best feeders range from $4 to $4.50.

Milkers and Springers.

The supply of milkers and springers was light, but prices were strong, at $45 to $60 each, Dunn & Levack selling two at the latter price.

About a dozen veal calves sold at $4 to $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts of 718 sheep and lambs sold as follows: Good export ewes sold at $3.90 to $4; culls and rams, $3.75 to $3 per cwt.; lambs, $5.75 to $6 per cwt.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Nov. 23.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Nov. 20 were 2375 cattle, 2200 sheep and lambs, 1200 hogs and 475 calves. Offerings this morning consisted of 1275 cattle, 1400 sheep and lambs, 1100 hogs and 250 calves. The feature to-day was the stronger undertone for cattle, and prices show a further advance of 12½c to 25c, attributed to the colder weather, and the surplus stock of the past two or three weeks has been all cleaned up. Buyers showed a disposition to operate more freely. The supply of really choice steers was somewhat limited, at 5½c to 5¾c per lb. Good steers sold at 4¾c to 5c; fair at 4¼c to 4½c; medium at 3½c to 4c; common at 3c to 3½c, and good bulls at 3½c to 4c per lb. Supplies of canners' stock were much smaller than usual, and prices firmer, at 2½c for bulls and at 1¾c for cows per lb. The market for sheep and lambs has also improved, and prices are fully ½c per lb. higher than a week ago. Supplies were fair, for which the demand was good from local buyers, who are still putting them away for winter requirements. Straight lots of lambs sold at 5½c to 6c; mixed lots of lambs and sheep at 5¼c to 5½c, and sheep at 5½c to 5¾c per lb. There continues to be a good demand for calves, of which supplies are none too plentiful, and prices firm at from $3 to $12 each, as to size and quality.

During the past week liberal supplies of hogs coming forward of late, prices have a lower tendency, as packers are fairly supplied for the present. The demand was only fair, and sales of selected lots were made at $6.25 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the receipts for the week ending Nov. 20 were 1,000 cattle for export or canning, and 350 cattle, 1,000 sheep and lambs, 1,200 hogs and 170 calves for local consumption, while the offerings on the market this morning amounted to 1000 cattle, 2000 sheep, 900 lambs, 400 hogs and 60 calves.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Nov. 23.—Cattle—Receipts, 4700 head; fairly active and steady; prime steers, $6.05 to $6; shipping, $5.75 to $6.50; butchers, $4.75 to $5.50; heifers, $3.75 to $5; cows, $3.25 to $5.25; bulls, $2.70 to $5; stockers and feeders, $3.50 to $5; stock heifers, $3.25 to $3.60; fresh cows and springers active and strong, $30 to $70.

Veals—Receipts, 1200 head; active and 50c lower, $5 to $6.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 11,000 head; heavy active and 10c to 15c lower; heavy, $6.20 to $6.25; mixed, $6.15 to $6.20; yorkers, $6.20 to $6.30; pigs, $5 to $6; roughs, $5.50 to $5.75; stags, $4 to $4.75.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Beeves—Receipts, 4500; choice steers steady; others slow and 10c to 15c lower; bulls steady to strong; medium and good cows slow to 15c to 25c lower; steers, $4.25 to $7.25; bulls, $3.25 to $4.75; cows, $1.50 to $4.25; few extras do. at higher figures.

Calves—Receipts, 2222; market steady to 25c lower; veals, $7 to $10; buttermilks, $4 to $6.50; culls, $4.50 to $5.50; grassers, $3.50 to $4.75; yearlings, $3.50 to $4; westerns, $5.25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 24,000; sheep steady; lambs slow and 25c to 50c lower; sheep, $3 to $4.50; culls, $2 to $2.75; lambs, $6.50 to $7.75; culls, $4 to $5; general sales, $6.75 to $7.25; yearlings, $5 to $6.50.

Canada the Gainer.

Boston, Nov. 23.—W. O. Sealey, M.P., of Wentworth, Ont., addressed the Boston Canadian Club last night on "International Trade and Commerce." Incidentally, he pointed out that Col. Gratham, president of the club, and Dr. MacPhailer, president of the New York Canadian Club, are both natives of Wentworth.

Mr. Sealey gave a splendid description of Canada's resources and progress, and made the point that while the Payne-Aldrich tariff almost entirely prohibited the import of Canadian pulpwood, and sought to add five cents a bushel on the import duty of Canadian wheat, this had only served in the one case to advertise Canada the world over and prompted British capital to invest in two large paper mill ventures, and in the other advertised the fact that the United States regarded Canadian wheat as worth more than their own.

"So you see Canada is away ahead on both counts as a result of the effect of the Payne-Aldrich bill in this particular respect," said Mr. Sealey.

Spanelli Must Hang.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—The Court of Appeal yesterday dismissed the motion of A. R. Hassard for an order directing the trial judge, Mr. Justice Riddell, to grant a stated case for Samuel Spanelli, under sentence to die at North Bay on Friday of this week for the murder of a Chinaman at Haileybury.

In handing down judgment, Chief Justice Moss said he could see no ground whatever for saying that there was any miscarriage at the trial, and that was all the court had to deal with.

"Englishman; twenty-five years old; about five feet eight inches high; indifferent build; walks a little with a bend forward; small moustache, hardly perceptible; talks through his nose; cannot pronounce the letter "s" properly, and does not know one word of Dutch."

This amusing description is translated from the warrant for the arrest of Winston Churchill issued by the Boer Government after his famous escape from Pretoria. He had gone out as a war correspondent, but was taken prisoner shortly after. Subsequent to his daring escape he both fought and wrote, which is contrary to the War Office regulations.

But Mr. Winston Churchill has always had a venturesome disposition. At twenty-one he was an officer in the 4th Queen's Own Hussars, but, obtaining leave, went off to Cuba, and fought with the Spaniards. At twenty-three he again obtain leave of absence, and joined the Malakand Field Force in India, as correspondent.

Immediately after this he joined Sir William Lockhart in the Tirah Expedition, and shortly after joined Kitchener in his advance on Khartoum and took part in the famous charge of the 21st Lancers.

How Bees Find Their Way.

How are bees able to find their way home after their long forays after honey? Gaston Bonnier of Paris has been studying their directive sense, which he thinks is like that possessed by pigeons. Bees can fly for two miles from the hive and see them able to return after gathering their supply of honey. Langstroth and others suppose that vision comes into play and that bees can see for a great distance and can also note objects on the way so as to find their path. Others, with Dujardin, suppose that the bees are guided by the sense of smell and that they can smell flowers at distances of one and a half miles. M. Bonnier has made experiments to prove that bees can return to the hive without using either sight or odor. As to sight, he took bees to a distance of one and two-tenths miles from the hive in a closed box. They always flew back to the hive when released. The same is true when their eyes were covered, so that sight was not essential.

As regards odor, experiments seem to prove that bees perceive odors at only short distances. When a needle dipped in ether is brought near the head of the bee, it shows signs of perceiving the odor, but not so when the needle is placed back of him or near other organs. Besides, when the organs of smell (antennae) are removed entirely the bees will return to the hive. M. Bonnier made the following experiment: At 600 feet from the hive he placed a supply of syrup, and the bees soon found it, proceeding to and from the hive. Such bees he marked with green colored powder. He then placed a second supply of syrup at the same distance from the hive, but spaced at twenty feet from the former. Other bees were now engaged in the to and fro movements to this point, but these were not the same individuals as the green marked ones, who were still working on the first supply, and he marked these in red. This gave two distinct sets of bees, able to distinguish two directions which formed a very acute angle. These facts M. Bonnier believes indicate a special directive sense which does not reside in the antennae, but probably in the cerebroid ganglia.

IMMENSE DAMAGE DONE TO PROPERTY BY LAST NIGHT'S RAIN AND SLEET STORM

Trees Everywhere in the City are Down — Telephone and Telegraph Services Interfered With and in Some Cases Paralyzed.

SPECTACULAR EFFECTS

"'Twas a rough night! . . . . My young remembrance cannot parallel a fellow to it."—MacBeth, scene 3; act 2.

These words of Shakspere's are particularly appropriate to the weather disturbances which reigned in Peterborough and district yesterday and last night. Few storms in recent years have done so much damage to property or caused so much trouble to the telephone, telegraph, and light and power companies, and the total damage will reach a very serious figure. Starting in with a steady cold rain that froze to wires and trees and that continued to fall all day and well into last night, the weatherman followed up his attack with reinforcements of colder weather, followed by sleet and snow, and then to complete his destructive work, ended with a heavy wind storm, which, at midnight, terminated in a blizzard.

The result is not hard to imagine. The trees, covered with ice until their branches were bowed to the ground, either broke from the weight of their frosty decorations, or later, were snapped off by the gale. All over the city this morning the traces of the storm are seen. Branches have fallen from the majority of the trees, and in some cases the tree itself has snapped off and fallen. In Central Park three or four trees were rained, smashing off a few feet from the ground, and falling across the pavement, completely blocked the traffic for a while, until Street Commissioner Evans, with a gang of men, cut away the debris. In every part of the city the conditions are the same. Trees have fallen everywhere, and the damage in this respect will be very great.

The storm had the same effect upon the poles and wires of the power and telegraph and telephone companies. Cables became coated with ice until they snapped off, and in some cases, poles were broken in two as if they were but lead pencils. Wires down everywhere, telephone connections ruined, and poles gone were the conditions the companies had to fight with to-day, and the repair squads were busier than they have been for months.

Destructive, as they proved to be, the conditions last night resulted in a most spectacular picture. The trees sheeted with a silvery covering of ice, outlined in the light of the arc lamps, or sharply defined by the bright flash of the headlights on the street cars, made a picture that the few pedestrians whose vocation called them from cosy homes, were compelled to stop to admire in spite of the downpour of rain. There were not many on the streets, Peterborough and his wife finding the fireside much more pleasant than braving the elements, even if, as in many cases, the electric light was "the light that failed."

This morning, the spectacular effects were repeated with even greater success. Over head a clear, blue sky, from which streamed down a flood of bright sun-light, added details to the stage setting that were lacking last night, and the light fall of snow which served to cover up the mud-blanketed streets, helped to increase the beauty aspect of the scene.

From the countryside comes the same reports of damage done. On every country road trees have fallen across the thoroughfare, telephone poles and wires are down and in the orchards many valuable fruit trees been ruined. A Bridgenorth resident, who was in town this mening, says that all along the road are traces of the havoc done. According to this gentleman the pines and elms have been special objects of attack by the elements and many trees in Chemong Park are down.

C. P. R. Telegraph Co.

"We had two main wires to Toronto working all the time," said a representative of the C. P. R. Telegraph Co., "and some through the storm quite fortunately. Our wires suffered here and there, and went down, but, considering the amount of damage done throughout the country this section was let off lightly. The centre of the storm was in the vicinity of London, and rages with greatest violence in Western Ontario. We were able to handle the most of the work."

No Trains From East.

The Examiner learned also from the C. P. R. station that the morning trains from Montreal had not been seen, and owing to the fact that the wires were down there had been no communication with the east since 10 o'clock last night. The nature of the conditions could, therefore, not be learned, as the wires did not extend beyond Havelock. Out of 16 only one was working and a big gang of men was at work on the breaks in this district. Traffic was not delayed to any extent from the West and telegraphic communication with Toronto was in working order. The opinion has been expressed that Peterborough was not in the storm centre. Reports from west of Toronto as far as Detroit and Buffalo, speak of very severe weather, and as there has been no definite word from the east the belief that this city

John J. Ryan of Montreal Placed Under Arrest---Said to Have Tried to Pass Worthless Cheques---Came Here a Few Days Ago With Wife and Child---Were Sent Back to Montreal at Noon To-day.

John J. Ryan who came here a few days ago witht his wife and child from Montreal was placed under arrest yesterday afternoon by P. C. Adams. When taken in charge Ryan had one arm out of his coat sleeve and tied at his side. He was going around the city under the pretence that he only had one arm. The man was also alleged to have tried to pass worthless cheques, but no cases of where he had been successful had been reported. Mr.s Ryan and her little child were in the police station this morning, Mrs. Ryan promising that they would leave on the noon train for Montreal if her husband was allowed to go. The request being granted they left town.

FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT AT FOOTBALL MATCH

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 22.—Reports reached here to-day of a free-for-all fight between Indians engaged in a football game at Yellow Hill, in Jackson county, in which one Indian was mortally wounded and another shot.

The team from the Government Indian school and that of the settlement of Cherokee Indians at Yellow Hill met to play for the championship, hundreds of Indians from all parts of the mountains being on hand. The teams were well matched,a nd soon the players went

It was impossible to restrain the Indians until they were tired.

Officers are hunting two white men, who, they say, took the part of one side. Most of the Indians have attended the Indian school and are educated, but all this training was forgotten in the excitement.

OFFER TO MARRY WIDOWS OF VICTIMS OF MINE DISASTER

Cherry, Ill., No. 22.— Means of relief for some of the women who were made widows through the mine disaster have been receeived in a rather unexpected way. Several letters have been received asking for children. Two letters have been from applicants for wives. One came to Duncan McDonald, president of the State Federation of Miners, and the other to Mayor Charles Connolly. The first was from a man who sent documentary evidence to substantiate his claim that he is a reliable citizen.

Together with his photograph came a description and a photograph of a machine shop which he owns, and data showing that he derives from it a sufficient income to support a family. The other is as follows:

"Oneida, Kan., Nov. 17.

"To the Marshal of Cherry, Ill.,

If you will pick out a widow with two or three children that are good looking and smart children and their mother is an American and she can sing, so as her children can be taught to sing and play, I would take them if she will do the work, as I have not any family and love children. I have a good house and 160 acres of land, and if she will do what is right I'll send the children to school and clothe and love her, too. I want her for company and to help me with the work. I am not particular about the ages of the children, only would like one to be 10 or 12 years old, so they could milk two or three cows. We only milk one now, but with that much family we would have to have more milk and butter. So give one of them a chance for a good home. We have an eight-room house; the dining-room is 14x20. So we would get along fine. I hope to get a favourable reply. From

THREE MEMBERS OF WEDDING PARTY KILLED IN SMASH UP

Examiner Special.

Cuthbert, Ga., Nov. 22.—Three members of a wedding party were killed and two probably fatally injured in an automobile accident here late last night.

The dead are:

Curtiss Williams, of Fort Gaines, Ga.

James Shepard, of Edison, Ga.

Horace Shepard, of Edison, Ga.

The injured are:

Miss Helene Mattox, aged 20, Coleman, Ga., and

Miss Mary Mattox, aged 16, of Coleman, Ga.

The accident occurred two miles west of this place, as the party were returning from Cuthbert to Coleman. With the purpose of being married, James Shepard and Miss Helene Mattox, accompanied by Horace Shepard, a brother of the groom, and Miss Mary Mattox, a sister of the bride-to-be, secured an automobile at Fort Gaines last evening, and were quickly driven to Cuthbert by Curtiss Williams. All the Cuthbert ministers, however, refused to marry the couple on account of their youth, neither of them having passed twenty.

Was Lighting Cigarette..

After being unable to secure the services of a minister, the party hastily left town. Speeding along at a rate of thirty miles an hour, and while attempting to light a cigarette, Chauffeur Williams lost control of his machine, crossing a thirty-foot bridge over the Central Railway and the party was dashed to the railroad tracks below. The machine fell upon Shepard and Williams. The latter's neck was broken, and death resulted instantly. The two Shepards died a few moments later.

Miss Helene Mattox was severely bruised, her face and arms were badly lacerated, and she received internal injuries. Miss Mary Mattox was also seriously injured. The ladies were removed to a neighbouring farm house.

Wants To Have Park Established At Corner Of Hunter And Mark Sts.

It is understood that there is a movement on foot among a number of residents of East City to have a park established in that section of Peterborough. The property suggested as best fitted for such a resort is that owned by the Clancy estate, at the corner of Hunter and Mark streets and the adjoining lots west as far as the brick house owned by Mr. George Lipsett. Some of the residents of the fifth ward are of the opinion that if this land was cleaned up and filled in it would make an admirable park and that it could be fixed up at a moderate expense to the city. It was recently offered for sale at a very fair price. It is intended to go before the Council at an early date with the project.

LOOK OUT FOR PNEUMONIA
Your system is in a run-down condition. You catch cold. You think it will soon pass off. It doesn't. You neglect taking any special care of yourself. Bronchitis develops and then comes pneumonia and a fight for life. A fight which is too often unsuccessful. Why not take every cold seriously and cure it promptly by using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

COLDER WEATHER IS COMING

The sleet storm last night was one of the worst seen here in years," said Mr. Walter Peters, the Meteorological Observer for Peterborough district. The rain, which froze as it fell, totalled 1 4-5 inches on the level. The highest temperature was just freezing point, and the lowest was 15 degrees. Cold weather is expected now, and if the ice does get a chance to melt soon, great damage will be done to trees should a wind blow up. About six years ago a storm very similar to that of last night caused considerable damage when it will be remembered that many telephone poles along Water street were levelled.

MORE BAD WEATHER

Yesterday's Big Storm is to be Followed Up by Other Disturbances, Says Toronto Despatch To-day.

WORSE IS IN SIGHT

A harsh variety of weather was dispensed for the people of Ontario yesterday, and while it is expected to be fine and clearing to-day, there was nothing to indicate last night that satisfactory climatic conditions would continue beyond to-night. Toronto was a storm centre yesterday, with a gale blowing forty miles an hour and heavy rains. If the weather man's forecast turns out correct there will be a spell of fine and cold weather to-day, to be followed immediately by more stormy weather which developed somewhat yesterday over the Province of Alberta and was then moving rapidly eastward.

Up to 8 o'clock last night an inch and a half of rain had fallen, the same conditions being quite general over the lake region. On Sunday the storm was centred in the southwestern States, developed rapidly, and moved in a northeasterly direction until it was centred Sunday night in the Mississippi Valley. Yesterday morning the storm was centred south of Lake Erie, and last night it was said bad weather would be the order of things to-day in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. In the Ottawa Valley there was about six inches of snow yesterday. The highest temperature in Toronto was 34 degrees, or two degrees above freezing point.

Stormy weather always means an enormous increase in the difficulties which daily come the way of the telegraph and telephone companies. Serious damage to the wires was reported from around Barrie and Collingwood and other points north and east, and at Southampton the absence of telegraph and telephone communication caused great inconvenience late yesterday afternoon and last night. The companies affected promise to have the lines in order again early to-day, repair gangs having been ordered out at daylight from several points.

RACE FOR THE KING'S CUP

"A Race for the King's Cup" is the title of a picture that attracted much favourable comment at the Princess yesterday, and that will be shown to-night for the last time. It is an Urban film picture of the feature event of the great Cowes Regatta off the Isle of Wight, and is very clear and realistic. It is an aquatic picture that all lovers of such scenes cannot afford to miss. Another good picture is being shown in a Biograph film entitled "Fools of Fate". Miss Wenlock is singing the latest Charles K. Harris' song success "The Star of Love."

FROHMAN PUFFS

Girls Appear With Bi[illegible] And All Their [illegible]

Springfield, Ohio, Nov. 23.—Wittenberg co-eds have renounced "rats" and puffs and all manner of false hair. The seniors are responsible for the movement, and presented a strange appearance when they filed into chapel this morning with their hair parted smoothly, and palpably all their own.

Miss Ora Schneider, president of the senior girls, declares it to be the expectation of the girls to start a movement among college girls to stop the use of false hair.

Already there are indications that the simplicity fad will find many enthusiastic supporters among young women of Springfield outside college circles, who say they have been waiting for somebody to return to sanity.

ROAD WAS BLOCKED

Dr. Johnston Called into Otonabee ---Had Much Difficulty in Passing Through Burnham's Wood— Danger From Trees.

BARRICADES APLENTY

Called to John Webster's, in Otonabee, Dr. Johnston had a trip last night during the worst part of the storm that he will not soon forget. Here and there along the roads stout limbs, with their hundreds of branches, almost blocked the traffic, and warning creaks sounded at intervals as other limbs swayed with a mass of ice, and threatened to cleave from the trunk. Progress was necessarily slow, owing to the fact that the fallen trees could not be seen at a distance owing to their icy coating. The real trouble commenced when the Doctor started to go through Burnham's woods. It seemed that a succession of barricades had been thrown up. In reality it was the work of the wind upon the overburdened trees. In places the obstructions had to be circled by driving into the ditch and in other places they had to be dragged off the road. All this time there was the danger of some of the other trees succumbing to the increased violence of the wind. Dr. Johnston made the journey in safety, but there were a few anxious moments along the way. It seems that the country suffered more than the city in the extent of damage to trees.

PHILOMATHEAN SOCIETY MEETS

Enjoyable Programme Given by the Collegiate Institute Students Yesterday.

The regular meeting of the P. C. I. Philomathean Society was held in the Assembly Hall last night and those taking part in the programme acted their parts very creditably. The items on the programme were as follows.—

Piano Solo—Miss Sophie Elliott, (encored).

Recitation—Miss Maisie Halpin, (encored.)

Vocal Duet—Miss E. McCabe and Miss G. Rudkins.

Dialogue on the second act fourth scene of King Henry IV., by Messrs. W. Hatrick, R. Laing, C. Armstrong, M. Carlisle, E. Langford, V. McCabe, and V. Mollot.

Essay on King Henry IV., from Act II Scene IV to the end, by Miss Mabel Patterson.

Instrumental Duet by Miss F. Routley and Miss K. Burnette.

Each number was greatly appreciated and applauded. All those who took part, without exception acted their respective parts exceedingly well.

At the finish of the last number, what proved to be a very successful meeting was brought to a cloose in the usual way by singing the National Anthem.

"TWO WOMEN AND THAT MAN"

In "Two Women and That Man," which will be seen at the Grand Opera House in Peterborough to-night, a remarkable piece of Indian character delineation is presented by Frederick R. Seaton. Mr. Seaton has the honour of standing absolutely at the head of the profession in portraying the American aborigine. No other actor has lived among the Indians as long as he has done and made a careful study of their facial and other physical peculiarities as well as of their characters.

As "Tagish Jim," a full blood Chilkat, Mr. Seaton does not speak a word English and yet his face is so expressive and his gestures are so convincing that no one in his audience can fail to catch his meaning. He knows a dozen tribal tongues and is as fluent in them as though he were a redskin himself. He believes in the Indian and portrays only the highest types.

ITALIAN WILL HANG FRIDAY IF THERE IS NO INTERFERENCE

Court of Appeal Yesterday Refused Motion for an Order Directing the Trial Judge to Grant a Stated Case--- Matter Will Now be Laid Before the Cabinet.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Unless the Minister of Justice intervenes, Samuel Spanelli will be hanged in North Bay on Friday of this week for the murder of a Chinaman in a restaurant at Haileybury.

To-day the Court of Appeal dismissed A. R. Hassard's motion for an order directing the trial judge, Mr. Justice Riddell, to grant a stated case.

"The matter was fully discussed before us," said Chief Justice Moss. "Every possible point to be argued on behalf of the prisoner was urged. Due consideration has been given, and we have perused the evidence, the charge of the learned trial judge, and his judgment on the application to him for a stated case. These furnish a conclusive answer to what was urged on the prisoner's behalf.

"I see no ground whatever for saying that there was any miscarriage at the trial, and that is all we have to deal with. I see nothing to lead to the conclusion that there was any wrong, mistake, or miscarriage in the conduct of the trial. I do not think that I need take up the grounds now, most of them were answered in the course of the argument, and all have been answered, more or less fully, by the learned judge."

"It's not all over yet," said Mr. Hassard to The Star after the Court of Appeal judgment. I shall lay before the Ottawa Cabinet the proceedings leading up to the trial. The trial judge was asked for an adjournment on the night before the trial, but refused it. This does not appear on the records."

The Spanelli matter was before the Dominion Cabinet last week. One report says that the Executive declined to interfere, but Mr. Hassard stated to day that no such word had come to him.

The Court of Appeal was asked to grant a stated case, if not a new trial, on the strength of the Blythe precedent, Mr. Hassard arguing, in effect, than Spanelli was as much entitled to consideration as Blythe and for a similar reason.

Mrs. Howard Chandler Christy Struggling For Her Child

Examiner Special.

Zanesville, Ohio, Nov. 23—Mrs. Mabelle Thompson Christy, of New York, has a suit on file in the local probate court to-day against Howard Chandler Christy, the noted artist, asking for a writ of habeas corpus to secure possession of their ten-year-old daughter Natalie. Attorneys for Christy resisted the issuing of the writ, but their objections were overruled. In the petition the wife and mother declares that Christy took the daughter by force from her in New York, on July 3, 1909, and has since held her.

Mrs. Christy came here, accompanied by H. H. Thompson, a brother, and C. F. Hall, a brother-in-law. The writ was issued and the Sheriff and a deputy went by automobile to the Summer home of the Christys, eleven miles south of the city. These Christy's parents refused to make any statement as to the whereabouts of either the father or the child. The artist had probably anticipated the action of his wife and disappeared.

The Christys have not been divorced, but have not been living together for some time. Recently a New York detective agency brought suit in the local court against Mr. Christy to recover on a claim for professional services, a part of which, according to the bill of particulars, was intimately connected with Mrs. Christy. The case is still pending.

Mr. Hall was the only member of the New York party who would consent to an interview this evening and he refused absolutely to discuss any phase of the case at present.

Moving Picture Case In Port Hope May Be Heard Again

Mr. Douglas Wark, manager of the opera house, has, through his solicitor, Mr. D. H. Chisholm, made application for a new trial in the case of Nicholls vs. Wark.

At the last sitting of the Division Court Nicholls claimed $50 damages on the grounds that the contract, which he had with Wark, had been broken. Nicholls contended that Wark could not use the Opera House more than one day or night at a time. He had, however, brought in two shows for the Fair Nights, September 28th, and 29th, and for being deprived of the latter night Nicholls asked $50 damages. No defence was offered and His Honour gave judgment in favour of the plaintiff.

Mr. Wark was of the opinion that the court was this week, and for this reason did not appear. He states that according to the lease he (Wark) reserved the right to use the Opera House when he desired to, bit agreed not to allow a stock company to use the House more than one night or day at a time. He has, however, the right to put in one night stands as often as he wishes. — Port Hope Guide.

WITNESS IN GUTHRIE CASE SWOONS IN COURT ROOM

HEATED ARGUMENT

Barrie, Nov. 23.—At the continuation yesterday morning of the investigation into the music hall block fire, Miss Jessie Montgomery testified that she had never gone under the name of Meeks, but had been with the Guthries for several years, and had lived with them ever since their arrival in Barrie except for a few weeks. She left there for Mrs. Goftons, going then to Miss Bell's. Her trunk contained her own belongings. She had seen Miss Meeks two or three weeks ago Miss Meeks was a fair, stout woman, but witness wouldn't say whether she looked like Mrs. Guthrie on not. She had not seen her in Peterborough, and knew her in Barrie only.

The trunks were produced, but witness was not certain that she had ever seen them before. If she had they must have been those left in her own room. She, Clara Guthrie, and Miss Meeks slept together, she aid. The two latter were not one and the same person.

Some of Mrs. Guthrie's quilts were in Miss Meek's trunks as well as an album bearing the words. "to my dear ister from Gordon Guthrie to Clara, December, 1907." A number of picture cards written to different members of the family were also found in the album.

"Don't you think Miss Meeks was a naughty girl to be getting away with the Guthrie property like that?" asked Mr. Creswick.

When it was suggested that the trunks should be brought into the court room, Miss Montgomery fainted.

Gordon Guthrie, aged 14, took her place in the box. He again denied having said his name was Jones to the carter, who moved the trunks before the fire, who swore to the contrary.

Charles Lowe, the Allandale baggageman, swore that a lady came to him about 2.30 with some trunks. She asked for a rig and was directed to a livery. She returned with another lady, who, Mrs. Guthrie said, was Miss Meeks. The girl beside Mrs. Guthrie in the court room was the same person.

The baggageman also identified the trunks as those delivered by Strode.

Roy Stone, express agent, also identified the two women, Mrs. Guthrie and her daughter. The former gave the addresses for the trunks, the latter paid the charges. The inspection is continuing this afternoon.

SEVERE FALL

Miss J. Menzies, 370 Sherbrooke street, sustained a severe shock from a fall on the pavement near Stock's bakery, yesterday, about noon, while returning from a purchasing errand. Dr. Cameron was sent for and found no side severely bruised, but no serious consequences are apprehended.

VOICE OF A GREAT NEED

The resolution which was unanimously carried by the City Council, Board of Trade and representative Citizens' meeting, November 9th, is as follows:

Moved by Mr. Daniel O'Connell, seconded by Mr. D. Hughes Charles:

WHEREAS the present rapid development of Canada must necessarily result in increasing the number and magnitude of the manufacturing industries of the Province of Ontario; and

WHEREAS it is apparent that it is only such municipalities as adopt energetic and effective means of bringing their advantages to the notice of the manufacturing public, that are likely to procure their proper share of such industries; and

WHEREAS the City of Peterborough possesses in an exceptionally high degree, local and natural advantages, resulting from its geographical position, railway facilities and water power; and

WHEREAS it is imperative, in the best interests of the city, and necessary for its future progress, that proper and effective means be adopted, at once, to lead to a comprehensive and clear understanding of the extent and value of these advantages, and to have them utilized in such a way, as will tend to promote the future industrial development of the city;

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, at this meeting of the citizens of Peterborough, called at the instance of the Board of Trade that it is the opinion of this meeting, that effective and energetic means should be forthwith taken by the Municipal Council of the City of Peterborough to promote the industrial interests of this city, and that the services of a competent and efficient officer be procured, who will devote his whole time and energy in acquiring knowledge of the peculiar advantages possessed by this city in connection and advising with the Municipal Council respecting the same, and in promoting and in advancing the industrial welfare and interests of the city generally, and that proper funds be placed at his disposal for efficiently carrying out the objects of his appointment, and for the purpose of defraying his salary and expenses, provision be made by such additional levy as may be necessary, which in our opinion would be covered by half a mill on the dollar.

A GREAT CRITIC.

The Review is clamouring for Government expenditure on wharves—especially in Peterborough. The Toronto News is condemning such "extravagance." If the Review will walk down to the river front and open its eyes, it will see that a splendid concrete, stone-filled wharf has been erected by the Government for the C. P. R. bridge south, to the Matthews property, at a cost of about $7,000; and this in face of the protest of the Toronto News against such waste of public money upon works, which, it claims—and rightly, too, should be done by the city itself, or the steamboat owners themselves. Peterborough has need of being saved from friends like the guiding spirit of the Review.

CANADA'S COURSE JUSTIFIED.

Too much stress, says the Ottawa Free Press, cannot be laid upon the significant facts mentioned by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his speech on Monday afternoon to show that Canada's course upon the question of naval defence has been thoroughly justified by events.

The Premier pointed out that when his Government in 1902 took the position at the Colonial Conference that it was ready to carry out its defence schemes in co-operation with the Imperial authorities and under the advice of experienced Imperial officers, it was taken to task on the ground that we should not have an organization of our own but should give a contribution to the Mother Country.

At that time the example of Australia was quoted against Canada. Australia was paying a certain proportion of its revenue to the Imperial exchequer for the purpose of aiding the Imperial navy. That contribution was in the neighbourhood of £200,000. But time has changed all that. To-day Australia has come to the Canadian policy and is no longer contributing to the Imperial treasury, but is organizing a squadron of her own in her waters.

This new service is to cost $3,750,000 a year, but Australia is only to pay $2,000,000 a year of that amount and the balance is to be paid by Great Britain. Thus, to use Sir Wilfrid's very significant words, "It is no longer Australia which contributes to the Imperial treasury, but the Imperial treasury which appeals to Australia."

Even in New Zealand there is a gradual change of opinion in favour either of a local navy or of a joint action with Australia, and public sentiment envies Canada and Australia the fleets which they are to possess, man and operate.

GREAT LAKES LOSSES.

The past season on the Great Lakes has been a disastrous one for life and property, 95 lives and $2,000,000 having been lost. The following is an estimate::

Total loss of life	95
Total monetary loss	$2,000,000
Drowned in wrecks	61
Accidental drownings	12
Accidental deaths, etc,	23
Loss in collisions	24
Number of collisions	24
Boats, total losses	$1,409,000
Number total losses	18
Total losses in gales	$ 605,000
Damage by fire	$ 106,000
Damage other causes	$ 200,000
Total starnding	83

The losses have been largely confined to the freight steamers, passenger boats being fairly free from disaster. On April 3, no less than three steamers, and a barge, representing an investment of $425,000 went down in a gale on Lake Superior, twenty lives being lost.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

We should not be surprised if the Liberals win in B. C., or rather the Opposition, which many Conservatives have joined. Mr. McBride appears to have done "some things."—Peterborough Review.

This illustrates the Review's usual brilliancy in computing political events, and further illustrates that its readers, in taking its leading, are following a guide as blind as the proverbial bat. Mr. McBride's Government will be returned by a large majority, as any one who knows the trend of political events in British Columbia can plainly see.

The Dominion analyst suggests that there should be some official standard of what is known as cream. The point is well taken, says the Ottawa itizen. In Britain real cream is known to exist that has as much as 50 per cent. of butter fat. In Canada "cream" is an elastic term which covers all alike from the bluish-white fluid that is served on the boarding house table, to that aristocratic solution of milk and cream which probably assays about 20 per cent. butter fat. This solution when not sour, is about the highest form of cream to which a properly chastened Canadian public dares aspire. There remains the chilly fear that if the Canadian cream of commerce had to qualify to a standard of 50 per cent. butter fat, the price would put it beyond the use of any but high financiers.

B. C. A. MARTYR THIS TIME.

(Lethbridge Herald.)

One of the features of Richard McBride's career as premier of the province of British Columbia has been his persistent efforts to make trouble between the province and the federal government. He has constantly tried to have the province assume the role of a martyr, being sacrificed by the tyranny of Ottawa. In the Asiatic problem, in the administration of justice, in the dealings with the Indians and in numerous other ways he has sought to make out that the actions of the federal authorities were contrary to the interests of the province and that they were being badly used because they had chosen to elect a Conservative as premier. He has taken the position of the champion of an ill-used and down-trodden people. He has sought to make political capital and personal popularity out of every possible chance to have a difference of opinion with the government at Ottawa.

The federal government has tried to consult and co-operate with the provincial government in many ways but with no success. He chose rather to be an ill-used martyr. As a result the province has not developed as rapidly as have other provinces whose governments worked in harmony with the federal government. The Oriental trouble would never have assumed the proportions it did if McBride had co-operated with the federal government. The present trouble with the Indians at Haselton is the direct outcome of the failure of the McBride government to co-operate with the Indian department in removing a tribe of Indians from a reservation and in policing that part of the province. These are but a few of the many instances that might be shown to prove that the attitude taken by McBride has militated against the development and colonization of the province.

One of the main planks of the Opposition platform led by John Oliver is that of working as far as possible in harmony with the government at Ottawa and co-operating with it for the development and colonization of the great province.

The people of British Columbia must recognize that this is by far the wiser course and that it should be endorsed.

"SATURDAY NIGHT" OUT IN NEW GARB

Toronto Saturday Night has been divided into two sections of six-enlarged to a thirty-two page paper, teen pages each. The first section will deal with manly things from a manly point of view, while the second section of sixteen pages will be devoted to women, embracing all topics of interest to womankind. A lady of experience and ability has been engaged to take charge of this section. The enlarging of the paper to thirty-two pages will admit of many new departments not hitherto incorporated in Toronto Saturday Night, while the old departments will in no wise be changed or altered, as we judge and we hope rightly rightly, that as now conducted they meet the requirements of the reading public. Both sections will be fully illustrated, while the different new departments such as "City and Country Homes," "Fashions for Women," Ideas in Dress" (for men), will be written by experts and will, like the entire paper be fully illustrated. Send for a sample copy. The subscription price is $3 per year, post paid.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

OUR OLDEST JOURNALIST.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell Has Been at Work For Seventy-Five Years.

The oldest working journalist in Canada is Sir Mackenzie Bowell, of The Belleville Intelligencer. Away back in 1834 he walked into that office and asked for a job. He got it. He was then only twelve years old. For seventy-five years Sir Mackenzie has been actively identified with The Intelligencer, and to-day, when Parliament is not in session, you can always find him at his desk in his home city. He is never idle and can pen as able and argumentative an editorial to-day as he could half a century ago. From "devil" he climbed not only to the editorship and ownership of The Intelligencer, but also to the Premiership of Canada. The veteran knight even yet, sets type occasionally by way of diversion.

When on a western trip in 1895, during the time that he was Premier, he called at the office of The Calgary Herald to see the plant and observe the working of the Mergenthaler typecasting machines, The Herald being the first office on the prairies to install them. He got talking of the improvements in printing trade as compared with half a century ago. In answer to a bantering inquiry as to whether he could stick type as well as he did when a boy, he picked up a stick and set several lines of brevier. The incident was referred to at considerable length in the columns of The Herald that evening under the heading "The Premier of Canada sets type in The Herald office." Another good story, which Sir Mackenzie loves to tell, is that, when Minister of Customs in the administration of Sir John A. Macdonald, he was on a horseback tour through the West visiting the Crow's Nest Pass country. Roughly attired for the long journey, when he got to Revelstoke he sauntered leisurely into a printing office and asked for a job, telling the proprietor, who did not recognize him, that he was a tramp printer and wanted to get a little money to go east. The boss sized him up and said rather regretfully that he had no position vacant. The Cabinet Minister thanked him and left. It was only a few hours after that the newspaper man learned of the identity of his caller. He hunted him up, and the two had a hearty laugh over the episode.

Saskatchewan's Premier.

The Premier of Saskatchewan, Hon. Walter Scott, began life as a printer's "devil" in the early days of Regina when it was a small town and its only claim to note lay in being the headquarters of the Territorial Government. Young Scott applied for a job one day and got it. He swept the floor, pulled proofs, washed rollers and lighted fires in the office of a country weekly. He did the work faithfully and had ambition. No one in that early period, however, dreamed that one day he would be the chief adviser of His Majesty in a great Canadian province.

To find the secret of his success one must know the man. If asked to name the qualities that have led to his advancement, his friends would say that courage and stick-to-it-iveness, along with an affable disposition, are his predominant characteristics. He is a vigorous campaign speaker, and never hits below the belt. He is not a man to trifle with on the platform as many an interrupter knows to his sorrow.

During the last provincial campaign he was speaking at Lumsden, where some opposition was in evidence. As Mr. Scott was talking a heckler yelled, "Rats." Quick as a flash came the retort:

"Has my young friend over there got them in his pocket or in his head?"

No further interjections were heard after the laughter had subsided, and the meeting went on peacefully until a late hour.

Animal Life.

Pheasants sometimes live fifteen years.

A pig has lived 160 days without food.

A camel has twice the carrying power of an ox.

Kangaroos will, it is declared, soon be extinct.

Large elephants weigh six tons; large whales, 150 tons.

Train and Track.

Eleven persons are killed or injured on the railways of India every twenty-four hours.

It is figured that it will take $112,000,000 to build the subways necessary to take care of the street traffic in the city of Chicago.

After Jan. 1 the national railroad of Mexico will begin an annual expenditure of about $6,000,000 gold in general repairing of the lines, installing heavier rails and where necessary adding rolling stock.

ADVERTISE in The Examiner.

WHAT every cook should know is, which wheat makes the best flour, and why.

Winter wheat is put into the ground in the fall, but does not ripen until the following July. It matures slowly, is soft and very starchy.

Spring wheat is sown in April or May, and ripens in August. It's a flinty, translucent wheat, rich in gluten and contains nearly twice as much nutriment as winter wheat.

Royal Household Flour

is made entirely from the hard, nutritious spring wheat, carefully selected from all the wheat of this kind grown in Canada.

Royal Household is fine, light and pure—milled by the most improved methods—in a mill as clean as your own kitchen.

Ask your grocer for Ogilvie's Royal Household — just enough to try. You won't mind the slight advance in cost when you see the results in your bread and pastry. 21

When Is A Cigar A Drug And When Only A Pleasant Smoke?

Interesting Question Raised in Toronto Court—Conviction for Sunday Sale Quashed on Ground That Cigars are a Drug—May be for Pleasure Also.

POINTS BROUGHT OUT

Toronto, Nov. 23.—"Can I ask you to go back to the first time you smoked a cigar and tell us what sort of effect it had, your Worship," asked Curry.

"I remember it very well, and my first smoke was a cigar," the Judge replied.

"Was it pleasant?"

"I decline to answer. I will say however, that it was my last cigar, and that was several years ago."

The above discussion arose in Judge Morson's Chambers yesterday morning in the appeal against Magistrate Kingsford's judgment against Mr. W. H. Lee, the druggist, for selling cigars on Sunday. The Crown had no counsel there to handle the case, and so his Worship followed the French custom, and did the cross-examining for the Crown.

Dr. Graham Chambers, lecturer and demonstrator on medicine at the General Hospital, was the first witness called. He said that cigars had a medicinal value and were prescribed for habitual constipation, asthma, and as a nerve sedative. A cigar is a drug.

"Can it be used as anything else than a drug?" asked his Honour.

"Do you use it as a drug?" replied the witness.

"You answer my question first," said the Judge.

Drug Qualities.

"I cannot get rid of its drug qualities," was Dr. Chambers' reply to the original question. "I use it as a habit, and if it didn't have the drug qualities I wouldn't have acquired the habit."

"Is the tobacco habit a bad habit?" asked Judge Morson.

"It is to some people; when it is injurious it is because it is a drug. It is bad for the heart and the stomach."

"If you use it in moderation has it the drug effect? I use cigarettes only, and about one a day, and I use them for the pleasurable effect."

"You get the pleasurable effect because of the drug," replied the witness.

"Is it necessary for a druggist to keep it as a drug?"

"No."

"Do they all keep it?"

"The majority of them do."

"I wish there was some one here to cross-examine these witnesses," replied Mr. Curry.

"Oh, nonsense," replied the Judge.

Dr. Dwyer, lecturer and demonstrator at St. Michael's Hospital, was next called. His testimony bore out that of Dr. Chambers, and he also said that tobacco for a patient was quite a common prescription.

"While it is true, according to this evidence that tobacco is still a drug, no matter in what form it is used, and it is all right to sell it to a person as a drug, does the law say it can be sold on the Lord's Day when it is bought as a pleasure?" asked his Honour.

No Special Law.

"Tobacco," replied Mr. Curry, "is the same as whiskey, which cannot under a special law, be sold by a druggist, and I hold that tobacco is the same, and no special law has been passed against it."

"The only difficulty I have is whether it is an offence if it is sold for pleasure," said his Honour.

"Well, I hold it is the same as whiskey, and can be sold until special laws are passed against it," replied Mr. Curry. "A druggist can sell most things without a prescription on Sunday, and it is not his business to inquire whether it is sold for medicinal purposes or for pleasure," he went on.

"I think if it could be shown that it was sold solely for pleasure it would be an invasion of the law," said Judge Morson.

"Special legislation will have to be passed to stop it," answered Mr. Curry.

The main point, according to his Honour, was the fact that it was undoubtedly a drug, and, as it could not be proved that it was sold as a pleasure, his Honour quashed the judgment of Magistrate Kingsford against W. H. Lee for $5 and costs, and handed out the following judgment:

"On the evidence I find that tobacco is clearly a drug, frequently prescribed by physicians in the form of a smoke, and, therefore, a conviction on the grounds that tobacco is not a drug is wrong. If it could be shown that a cigar was sold by a druggist, not as a drug, but for the pleasure of a smoke only, I think that it would be an offence under the Lord's Day Act, but it is the duty of the Crown to prove this. There is no one duty, in my opinion, imposed upon the druggist to inquire for what purpose the cigar is sold any more than is the sale of any other drug."

To Preserve The Old Spanish Missions In State Of California

Los Angeles, Nov. 22.—Preserve the Missions! That is the keynote of a movement which before the dawn of 1910 will be heard from the Pacific to the Atlantic in the supreme effort to preserve the crumbling ruins of the old Spanish Missions in California. Wealth and influence of California's most prominent citizens are being exerted and their plans to make the movement country-wide in its scope have touched the responsive chord. President Taft lent his influence to the preservation plans in his speech at Riverside, Cal., when he said:

"California is one of the few states of the Union which has a picturesque past which the people in the state should do all in their power to preserve. I fully sympathise with the desire of California people to preserve these Missions and the style of architecture they created."

The movement to which the executive gave impetus has long been popular, but up to the time of the president's expression of pleasure, its popularity was limited in a measure to Californians.

Protestants have joined hands with the Catholics in furthering the move toward preservation of these relics of the pioneer Catholic fathers. A fund, contributed by those interested directly in the regions in which the Missions are situated, has been proposed and willingness to further the movement in that manner has been forthcoming from many sources. The Landmarks Club, of Los Angeles, is active in the work. "A heritage of loveliness, of sentiment, of all that is beautiful in our natures," is the way one member of that organization has referred to the Missions.

The stories of the Missions are like pages from Medieval history. Yet to-day they stand almost in a state of decay, with the exception of the edifice at Santa Barbara, which, thanks to the public spirit, has been restored to all its beauty.

Three of the finest of the missions—San Juan Capistrano, San Antonio and San Batista, are in need of immediate attention. San Fernando Mission in the San Fernando Valley is deserted and rapidly going into ruins. Some effort at preservation has been made at San Gabriel, between Los Angeles and San Diego and to-day it is in fairly good shape.

The example furnished by the lure of old-world beauty is being used as a strong argument in favour of preserving the Missions by Landmark Club. Appeals are being made to the men of business on the coast and to the thousands of Easterners who have established winter homes in California.

Governor Gillett makes a stirring appeal.

"California has no great battlefields to honour, no statues of great generals to stir a martial spirit, but it has got something better towards arousing enthusiasm, in the crumbling monuments erected by the self-sacrificing fathers in their efforts to bring men from darkness into the light.

"The desire of the people to preserve the Missions is something with which I am in full sympathy and I hope before I leave my office to be able to appoint a commission the duty of which will be the study of these Missions and of the best way to keep them to preserve their beauty as an ethical stimulus to the people of our State."

Bishop Johnson, the executive head of the Protestant Episcopal church in Southern California, speaks of the work of the pioneer Catholic fathers as monuments of national architecture. He says:

"These Mission Fathers built with great courage, great devotion and great diligence, and they created a style of architecture which we should maintain. This can best be done by keeping for ourselves and those who come after the original examples of the beauty they developed.

"It is phenomenal that the fathers should have builded so wisely and so beautifully. It is due to their memory and our interest to keep for the country what they gave to the province."

Before Bishop Johnson came to California he had interested himself in the cause of the Missions. So great was his desire to preserve them or, at least, aid in so doing, that he became a member of the Landmarks Club years ago. It is largely the work of the Club that has kept a few of the missions in a fair state of preservation. This organization is made up of 10 per cent. Catholics and 90 per cent. Protestants.

President David Starr Jordan, of Stanford University, has been one of the prime movers in the preservation work. He expressed himself strongly and logically recently on the subject. He said:

"One of California's most important assets in the Spanish Missions, each picturesque and of real architectural merit. Distinctive in California's interests as the romantic Spanish names of cities, churches and institutions — names associated with these Missions. They are the oldest remnants of the early life in this country, and years of neglect have brought most of them to a deplorable condition. Some are utterly obliterated, while others are now rapidly falling into decay. So far the only step taken to preserve these Missions has been the mere patriotic influence of a few of California's people, and by religious and historical societies. Three of the finest of these missions—San Juan Capistrano, San Antonio and San Batista—are in need of immediate attention. A rich man could desire no greater monument than the restoration of one of these Missions. And the people of California can rear no greater monument to themselves than protecting these Missions from further decay.

WHEEZER OR SNEEZER?

Have You Heard of Hyomei for Catarrh, Asthma and Hay Fever.

If you wheeze or sneeze, hawk or spit, snuffle or blow, something is the matter with the membrane of your respiratory tract, and you need Hyomei.

And you need Hyomei because it will cure you of any catarrhal or inflammatory condition that exists.

It isn't a stomach medicine, or spray, or douche, but a very pleasant, healing antiseptic balsam, from the eucalyptus forests of Australia. You breathe this balsamic air through a small, hard rubber inhaler, and it reaches every nook, corner and crevice of the membrane, and promptly kills the catarrh germs.

Wm. Madill will sell you a complete Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) outfit for $1.00, on the money back plan.

"I have been a victim of catarrh for many months, the glands around my eyes and nose being sore and swollen. My head felt dead and stuffy. Pains in the front and back of my head, also across my eyes were frequent and I had trouble in breathing, especially at night when trying to rest. I had doctored but got no relief until after using Hyomei. This relieved me in the first twenty-four hours and in less than two weeks I was practically cured. I cannot give too much praise to Hyomei." Mrs. Mary Philips, 153 McNab St., Hamilton, Ont.

SUFFERED 15 YEARS CURED IN ONE MONTH

Gin Pills are wonderful.

If every woman, who has Kidney or Bladder Trouble, could go to Davisville, Ont., and talk with Mrs. A. Simpson, they would do just as she did—take Gin Pills and cure themselves.

Mrs. Simpson grows enthusiastic over Gin Pills. Quite naturally, for she would be dragging out a miserable existence, instead of being the picture of health, had she not taken these pills.

"For 14 or 15 years I had Kidney and Bladder Trouble, suffering at times intense pain. I doctored continually and received sometimes temporary relief, but nothing gave me permanent relief until I was persuaded to try Gin Pills.

Within a couple of days I received great relief, and after taking one box I was completely cured and now would not be without them. I can highly recommend them to all who suffer from any form of Kidney Trouble."

Mrs. A. SIMPSON.

Why let you try Gin Pills before you buy. Write National Drug & Chemical Co. Dept. B. Toronto, and a free sample of Gin Pills will be sent you by return mail. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers. 2

ADDRESS ON THE LIFE OF GLADSTONE

By Mr. R. F. McWilliams to Members of Knox Church Young People's Club.

It was literary evening and Rev. H. J. Keith was in the chair. After the devotional exercises, Mr. R. F. McWilliams gave an interesting lecture, on the life of the late W. E. Gladstone.

The latter was born in England but of Scotch parentage. His parents were well-to-do people, John Gladstone trading with India and other places. John Gladstone was an M. P. the same time as his son.

W. E. Gladstone was married in 1839 to Cathterine Glynn. The couple had seven children, two being in the public eye at present, one, Herbert, who is now to become the governor-general of United South Africa, having resigned the British parliament. Mr. Gladstone was educated in the public school, went to Oxford University as a scholar. He was a man of most remarkable energy, distinguished himself as one of the greatest debaters of his time. He was a Tory in his traits, entered parliament in 1832, came to the house five years before the Queen ascended the throne, and resigned five years before her death. He supported slavery and opposed admission of Jews to the House, took a great interest in the colonies, and was vice-president of the Board of Trade. He became more and more a Liberal than rather a rigid Tory. He remained out of office six years taking up theological discourses. John Morley wrote his life although not a Christian himself he praised Gladstone highly, saying that the latter took all his work to prayer and his religious sphere. He was finance minister and held his ministers in speeches of five and six hours in length. He was as familiar with Greek as with English. In 1865 he was defeated in the elections by a man not necessary to refer to. In five constituencies he lost his seat. He never remained in office for any length of timeanymvercputhemf Reform Act, the disestablishment of the Irish Church took place. He was a supporter of the English Church but was striving to disestablish it in Ireland and might have done so in Wales and Scotland. Gladstone passed the Irish Reform Act, passed Educational Bills, abolished many schemes. At this time there was too much reform, the people getting tired of it. In 1874 Disraeli, known as Lord Beaconfield took office. In 1875 Gladstone sent in his resignation, the Queen accepting it. After three years of inactivity, he was aroused by the Bulgarian atrocities, declaring the Turks should be bundled out of Europe. So he started a campaign against the Government this being such a great undertaking that the people laughed at him, but in 1880 Gladstone was elected as Premier as he was thought fit for the position. In 1876, Parnell at the head of the Irish party took up a fight for their rights and pressed it hard against the English members. Gladstone all the same did not neglect the home affairs during the Irish trouble. At the general election he was defeated and Lord Salisbury succeeded him. In 1886 Gladstone being defeated and at the age of 80 years determined to fight the government for six years over the Irish question. He carried a modified bill on Home Rule. The Lords voted against it, he did not think fit to attack the Lords or try to dissolve them. After retiring after 60 years of service in the government he was busy up to his death in January 1898, writing essays and books. He read heavy literature and accomplished much in reading. He wrote a book called Church and State. The century that Gladstone lived in was one of the many of England's greatest history.

The chairman, Rev. H. J. Keith thanked very cordially Mr. McWilliams for his most inspiring lecture. Next Monday the young people meet at the Church at 7:45 p. m. and go in a body to the Y. W. C. A. and hold their Missionary meeting there. The Y. W. C. A. has kindly extended the invitation.

POLES AND TREES WERE DOWN ALL ALONG THE G.T.R.

The G.T.R. train from Campbellford ran over a big tree that had fallen across the rails between Birdsall's and keen and by the big limbs catching in the wheels it had to be stopped. The crew had to chop away the limbs before it was free to proceed and only a few miles nearer Peterborough another pride of the woods had to be removed from the embarrassing position in which it had fallen. At frequent intervals low-hanging or fallen limbs rattled against the windows with their iced twigs.

The trains on the Grand Trunk ran on schedule time this morning but Mr. Omer Levoy the engineer on the Belleville train stated that from this side of Hastings to Peterborough poles and trees all along the line were down, the storm having wrought great havos with them. Eight freight cars standing on a siding near the station were derailed owing to the slippery condition of the rails and for a short time delayed the train from Belleville last night.

OTONABEE CO. HAD NO POWER FOR SEVERAL HOURS

The Otonabee Power Company had a lot of trouble as a result of yesterdays' severe storm. A number of local manufacturing concerns were without power yesterday afternoon and today and had to suspend operations. Included in these were the Colonial Weaving Co., The Novel-Ti, Ltd., and the Cordage Works. The lines between the city and the power house and the ones in Ashburnham were down. A large number of private citizens were also without lights The C. G. E. power house also had difficulty and the works had to be shut down for a time.

SOME LITTLE AIDS TO PERFECT HEALTH

The care of the teeth demands more attention than the average person usually gives it. It isn't sufficient to use the tooth brush just once a day.

While it is hardly practicable for all persons to clean their teeth after each meal, which is what they really need, everybody can and should use the tooth brush at least twice a day.

Dentifrices are not absolutely necessary, pure water answering most requirements. Nevertheless, the use of powdered pumice stone applied on the end of a match is recommended for the use of smokers, whose teeth invariably become discolored from tobacco.

A good tooth powder, of which the principal ingredient is prepared chalk, may be used to advantage.

"A woman's crowning glory is her hair," but a man's hair is almost equally as important to his general appearance and health.

The state of the scalp determines the condition of the hair. The morning bath will keep the scalp in good shape, but a weekly or bi-weekly shampoo should be indulged in to invigorate the hair follicles and stimulate the oil glands.

The natural oil secreted in these glands help to give the hair its gloss and sheen. The equal distribution of this oil will be promoted by good, brisk brushing. If the head is kept clean and a hand brush is used two or three times a day, there will be no need for brilliantines or hair preparations of any kind.

Nature has been in the business of hair dressing a long while, and it is presumptuous to try to improve on her methods.

The eye has been described as 'the window of the soul.' You owe it to your soul to keep your windows clean. Take a couple of minutes in the morning and again before retiring at night and see what benefits you will derive from bathing your eyes in water as hot as you can bear. Red eyelids are ugly. They will seldom appear if you take this simple precaution.

The use of toilet powder is sadly abused. A little powder will cover a multitude of blemishes is the theory upon which some people go, and instead of removing disfigurements which would yield readily to hot water and soap they prefer to cover them with powder.

Whenever you see a woman with the appearance of an animated marshmallow, you may know she is too lazy to care properly for herself.

A red nose cannot be cured by toilet powder. It may be seriously harmed.

A red nose is really one of nature's danger signals. It indicates that the possessor is suffering from indigestion or alcoholism. If the former is the case, get the advice of your doctor and aim directly at the cause of the trouble. If alcoholism is responsible, the remedy is obvious.

Few people have trouble with their ears unless they seriously neglect them. The daily ablutions will keep the ears in condition under most circumstances and the use of lotions and ointments is not at all necessary.

The complexion depends almost entirely on the general condition of the body. Local troubles will of course appear occasionally but if the general system is properly taken care of, the complexion will take care of itself. Cosmetics should be used sparingly and it is better to have them prepared on the prescription of your doctor after an examination of the conditions peculiar to yourself than to use the preparations on the market which are intended to answer the requirements of every Tom, Dick and Harry.

The condition of the finger nails, marks the lady and the gentleman. Five minutes a day is all it will take to do your own manicuring and there is no excuse for unsightly hands.

One spends so much time on really worthless things in the course of the day, that it is almost unaccountable why so many of us should be grudge the half hour or three-quarters of an hour necessary for the proper care of one's person

Hon Mr. Brodeur Replies To Attack Made On Marine Department

Dr. Daniel, Member for St. John, Charges Negligence Against Marine and Fisheries Department---Mr. Brodeur Stated Notice Had Been Given That Old Proprietor Light Was Not Burning.

Ottawa, Nov. 23—"The Hestia went to her doom on the rocks off Grand Manan and 30 souls perished because of the negligence of the Departmentof Marine and Fisheries and its officials."

This was the grave charge hurled at the head of Hon. Mr. Brodeur by Dr. Daniel in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, in asking for the production of all the official documents relating to the wreck and inquiry, and relying on the rumours current in St. John and on the unsupported statements of interested parties. Dr. Daniel, in a warm attack upon the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, charged that the officials of the department were directly responsible for the disaster, because they had failed to provide aid to navigation off the coast of Grand Manan, and had neglected to notify navigators that one of the principal buoys in that dangerous neighbourhood was out of order. Dr. Daniel challenged the findings of the Board of Inquiry, and characterized the proceedings of that commission as farcial. Hon. Mr. Brodeur, in an effective reply, showed that there was no ground for the charges made by the member for St. John. The board appointed to inquire into the causes of the wreck was composed of competent master mariners, who found that the disaster was not due to any negligence on the part of the department officers, but to the deviation of the ship's compass, known as Gosson's error, and, in part, to fault on the part of the Hestia's officers. Incidentally, Mr. Brodeur mentioned that if the Hestia had been equipped with a wireless telegraph apparatus there would have been no loss of life.

Dr. Daniel's Criticism.

Dr. Daniel, in the course of his criticism of the department, dwelt on the fact that the buoy on Old Proprietor Ledge had remained for ten months out of order without any attempt on the part of the department's officials to repair it. The investigation ordered by the department was incomplete and farcical, and he challenged the findings of the board, claiming that they were not justified by the evidence.

Hon. Mr. Brodeur's Reply.

Hon. Mr. Brodeur in reply, said he had no objection to furnishing all the papers asked for in the resolution. He welcomed the discussion, because he would be able to show that the rumours which had been circulated, and the charges which had been made of negligence could not be substantiated. Mr. Legere, who was acting agent at St. John, was a very efficient official, but owing to the heavy tides strong winds and conditions generally in the Bay of Fundy it was very difficult to keep the gas buoys in proper shape.

The Government were making every effort to equip the Canadian coasts with proper aids to navigation, and it was not too much to expect that shipping companies would co-operate with the Government and take every reasonable precaution against disaster. He had no hesitation in saying that if the Donaldson Line had equipped the Hestia with a wireless telegraphic apparatus there would have been no loss of life ,because the crew would have been able to communicate with some of the Government stations. Moreover, he pointed out that notice had been published in the St. John papers that the light of Old Proprietor buoy was out, and the agent of the Donaldson Line at St. John should have notified his company of the fact. If Mr. Daniel, before attacking the department, had waited until the papers were brought down he would have found that the wreck was due to what was known as Gosson's error, which meant a deviation of the compass caused by the magnetization of the iron cargo. He quoted from the evidence and findings of the Commission of Inquiry showing that the Hestia was out of her course, and that apparently no soundings had been taken while approaching Gannet Rock light. The department had done its best to have the buoy at Old Proprietor Ledge repaired. The superstructure had been damaged and it required some months to construct a new superstructure.

MAKE THE BLOOD RICH AND RED

Miss Cynthia Hutchinson, Hanesville, B. C., writes: "My system was so completely run down that my friends as well as myself thought I could never get better. All medicines failed to help me. A trial of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food benefitted me and at the end of a month people scarcely knew me I had improved so much. The blood was enriched, colour improved, new flesh was added, and I got strong and well."

WORST RAIN AND SLEET STORM IN YEARS

received but a passing puff seems to be substantiated.

Peterborough Light and Power Co.

In more than one home last last night, the old oil lamps were brought in from the back shed or some such place for emergencies like last night, and when the electric power failed the users realized its value as they tried to read the daily paper in the feeble light of the old-fashioned lamp. Before turning in for the welcome rest after the day's labours and pleasures the old-time puff down the chimney had to take the place of the customary snap of the switch. Of the local electric systems the Peterborough Light and Power Co. was in the same boat with the others. Individual services were out in all the wards wherever a tree crashed through the wires, breaking the circuit. One section, known as Power Line No. 1, was put out of commission in this manner by a tree at the corner of Simcoe and Water streets.

A big force of men were out early this morning, and worked hard all day. It is hoped that the customers of the company will have their lights this evening and should some still be in darkness it will not be because every effort was not made to repair the damage caused by the storm.

The trolley line was broken in two places, but the service was complete this morning.

Fire System Got It.

Chief Howard's fire alarm system was cut by the same arm that created havoc among the other wires. The system was badly demoralized yesterday afternoon and Chairman Buller of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, took hold of the situation at once. He instructed Chief Howard to telephone to the manufacturers to inform them of the condition of the alarm system, and directing them to telephone or send a messenger to the Fire Hall, in the event of a fire. Fortunately there was no call for the brigade and the Chief began to repair the different sections throughout the city. This afternoon all but one was again in working order. The indicator at the hall was burnt out by a short circuit, but was repaired today. However, it may be stated to the citizens that in case of fire during the next 24 hours or so it will be advisable to telephone or send directly to the hall, although the alarm is sounded in the usual way. This is to guarantee that the brigade will be informed of any fire that may break out.

A Pretty Sight.

Had the trees been seen under the arc lamps last night even the least artistic would have admired the spectacle, but it could not have surpassed the beauty of the priamatic colourings sparkling in the trees at noon today. The ice-coated twigs appeared to have been studded with diamonds. A very pretty and unusual scene was presented to those who had occasion to pass the low-lying land south of the C. P. R. tracks, near the station. The heavy underbrush and long sword grass bristled in serried array, like many highly polished swords, reflecting the sun from their bright sides and edges. Beautiful scenery was strewn about the streets as if in wanton profusion, and the password changed from "Fine day!" to a remark about the natural beauty of the surroundings.

LONG DISTANCE LINES WERE ALL BADLY DAMAGED

All the long-distance lines and thirteen rural ones and fifty in the city are out," was the information given the Examiner by one of the employees of the Bell Telephone Company, when a reporter called on him this morning. The man in charge of the trouble department had a long list of telephones that subscribers had reported not working. The linemen were despatched to the various places of trouble. The line between here and Lakefield was reported all right at ten o'clock this mornig, but the damage to the majority of lines was of such a disastrous nature that it will be to-morrow evening before only temporary repairs can be made. In a large number of places the poles and wires are down for a stretch of over one hundred yards. Word has been sent to Toronto to send more workmen here. It will be some days before the wires are permanently fixed, but it is expected that by to-morrow evening the most of the lines will be in temporary working order.

Yesterday afternoon only two long-distance lines were in use. The first one was reported out at 10.50, between here and Millbrook, and from that on they were reported outone by one. By the use of two North American telegraph lines connection with Belleville was available last night, and in that way Toronto was reached, but to-day those lines, too, are amongst the damaged.

A lineman sent out to Omemee, found nine poles down. Near the Locks bridge one pole had fallen into the river, and all the rural lines, on which there are one hundred subscribers, were damaged, and fifty subscribers in the city were without telephone service, this morning. It is some time since this company has suffered such damage, yesterday's storm being about the worst ever experienced.

WHEN THE COURTING DAYS ARE OVER

There are people who laugh at the idea of love at first sight, declaring it to be impossible; but there are thousands of instances which leave no shadow of a doubt that such a thing does exist, and there are an equal number where abject misery follows a too precipitate entry into the bonds of matrimony. Many girls get married with the idea that everything will be plain sailing after the ceremony, and that they will lead an ideal existence, free from all worry and care. Undoubtedly the first year of married life is the most critical through which two young people who have been wedded have to pass. Of course it should be the happiest, but there are generally obstacles in the way of perfect married happiness where two inexperienced young people are concerned, which, if not met in a proper manner, frequently cause the young bride to go about her domestic duties with a tearful and troubled face, and bring a careworn expression to that of her husband. Each blames the other, "tiff" follows "tiff," emotional scenes follow, and after days of remorse and unhappiness comes the reaction.

Little failings and faults, hitherto concealed, come to light on both sides and they disturb the blissful harmony in which they had hoped to live to the end of their days. Harry does not turn out to be the paragon Minnie always considered he was, while she, on her part, is not the appreciative, sweet little lover that he had always imagined her to be. It is a cruel disillusionment, and their disappointment is frequently the cause of much heart-burning. What a great many lovers fail to realise is the difference between courtship days and married life. For it is often the case that, while a man is willing to forego his own opinions and ideas during courtship days, he prefers to have his own way when married. A young bride will lead a happier life by consulting rather than opposing her husband's wishes, and unless a young wife is prepared to bear with her husband's faults and try by the exercise of a little tact and common sense to cope with any domestic difficulties that may arise she will unquestionably be unhappy. It would be unfair to say that a girl's troubles only commence at married life. More often than not she meets with difficulties which she never for one moment imagined would fall to her lot.

What with domestic cares and worries, the endeavours to master the art of cooking and housekeeping, the young and inexperienced bride finds her task harder than she expected it would be. Furthermore, she discovers to her great surprise that Harry is like a bear with a sore head if his meals are not ready at the proper time, or if they are spoiled in the cooking. His discontent, coupled with other little worries, seems heavy to bear, and she thereupon begins to consider marriage a failure, and that she is one of the most miserable of women. Although a great deal rests upon the shoulders of the young wife, as regards her power to make or mar the happiness of a home, she can with tact and courage successfully overcome such petty trials and troubles.

The young bride can do much toward restoring her husband's complacency and good temper when differences of opinion and ideas threaten to cause a "rift within the lute" by the exercise of a little forbearance and common sense.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

Is like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?

If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Cantharides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Growers.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasite germ which feeds on the hair roots.

It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.

HAD EIGHT TRUNKS FULL OF DISGUISES

French Swindler Caught With Costumes He Used in His Twenty-three Aliases

Paris, Nov. 20.—A man calling himself Guy Baret, but known by twenty-three aliases, has been arrested at La Rochelle for wholesale swindling.

He was wanted on warrants from eight towns in France and abroad. Baret is said to have sold bonds in companies which only existed in his own imagination and to have made a large fortune during the last few years. Many of the owners are still unaware that the prettily printed pieces of paper are valueless.

The man was a master of disguises. When caught at La Rochelle, where he was waiting for a boat, he had eight trunk of costumes of all kinds, from that of an ambassador to that of a navvy, and twenty-seven military costumes of different grades and nationalities.

The police found two trunks full of beards, spectacles, foreheads, noses and chins; and also a portable printing press, with which he is said to have manufactured new bonds when he ran out of old ones.

Baret's most recent escape from prison was at Boulogne-sur-Mer. He climbed out of a window, went back to his hotel, dressed and made up in an exact imitation of the police inspector, and had the impudence to go to the police station and order himself to be brought out of the cell.

When the policeman on duty returned to tell the chief that the prisoner had escaped, the "inspector" had also disappeared.

Had Given Up All Hope of Living.

Heart Trouble Cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Andrew Savoy, Grattan's, N.B., writes:—"In the year 1905, I was taken sick and did not think I could live any length of time. My trouble was with my heart and people told me that nothing could be done for a case like mine. I consulted the very best doctors, but they could do me no good. For seven weeks I could hardly cross the floor. I had no pain, but was so weak nobody in the world can believe how I felt. I had given up all hopes of living and had given my little girl to my sister-in-law.

"One day a friend came to see me, and calling me by name, said, 'Lizzie, if I were you I would try a dose of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as they are good for heart trouble.' My husband got me a box, but for two days I was not feeling any better, but on the fourth day my husband said, 'I believe those pills are doing you good.' I was able to say, 'Yes, I feel a good deal better this morning.' He said, 'Well, I will get you another box right away.' I took two boxes and three doses out of the third one, and I was perfectly well and have not been sick since then.

"I will never be without them in my home for God knows if it had not been for Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I would not have been alive now."

CRITIC'S USE IN THE WORLD.

Fault-Finding Wearisome Unless Makes Up His Mind to Abide by It.

Did you ever stop to consider how important is the critic? If it were not for this person of opinions, then every one would jog along in the same old rut from year to year, make the same faults eternally and never get ahead. True criticism is the peach stick that makes the youngster sit up and behave, the lash that makes the older man shrug his shoulder and tug hard at his burden, and yet we all have a wholesome contempt for the gilt-edged criticism until, like the bad dose of medicine, it has telling effects and we are really fortunate if that proves remedy. When you get real earnest and want to know more and more, you will take the medicine and lick the spoon, but if you think you have no need of it you will be just as obstinate and mean as the ash cart mule in the alley, and you will never go any way but backward. Honest criticism over the beautiful work of one's heart is not pleasant, in fact, it is pathetic in a sense, but it is so helpful that a person should be willing to abide by it. If we'd never criticised about the singing, painting, writing or other talents in which we hope to succeed, then there would always be a same hum about everything, but, once the spur is felt, it means making a change, and, what is more, usually for the better.—Houston Post.

BEGGAR FLASHED HUGE ROLL

Mendicant, Refused Alms, Took Novel Method of Getting Even with Man Who Jeered Him.

Flashing a roll of bills in the face of a haughty individual who had refused to give him alms and who had added further insults to this injury by heaping ridicule upon him, a very typical beggar at Coyoacan pulled off a stunt that brought down jeers upon the uncharitable young man, says the Mexican Herald.

This beggar would have passed muster anywhere for one of the finished type, and could safely have walked unarmed at midnight through a wilderness infested with thieves without his poverty once being questioned. There was not a whole thread in the warp and woof of his shirt that extended from seam to seam, and only an expert sartorial artist could have detected which openings were those originally made in the garments for putting it on and off. Just what portion of these rags was solid and strong enough to retain the roll of bills is a marvelous enigma.

Slight Misunderstanding.

An Italian organ-grinder recently escaped a fine by his wit. He had been playing before the house of an irascible old gentleman, who furiously and with wild gesticulations ordered him to move on.

The Italian stolidly stood his ground, and played on, and at last was arrested for causing a disturbance.

At the court the magistrate asked him why he did not leave when he was requested to do so.

"Me no understan' sacoch Inglese," was the reply.

"Well, but you must have understood by his motions that he wanted you to go on."

"No no," was the rejoinder; "I tink he comb to dance."—Weekly Magazine.

Bill Nye's Editorial.

Bill Barlow, the editor of Bill Barlow's Budget, is one of the most unique figures in American journalism. In a few words he confined the first humorous paragraph of his former editorial associate, Bill Nye. "There has been a railroad accident. The locomotive was lost in the river, two passenger cars were destroyed, the engineer's nail was smashed, but no one is dangerously hurt. This is the way Bill Nye described it: "For upward of 20 years repairs have been repeatedly promised the old South Bridge. Hoping against hope, and waiting until distracted, the old bridge became discouraged at last, and yesterday just laid down in the gorge with a passenger train."

The Value of a Brain.

One good strategist is worth several armies. That is why Napoleon could accomplish more than all his marshals together. It was he who said: "You can never outnumber a brain."

That is why the single Robert E. Lee south of Mason and Dixon's line, was more formidable than all the union generals together. Had Lee served with the north rather than the south, said Lincoln, the war would have ended two years sooner.

Thus, too, the greatest living military writer, Lecompte, has declared that one Moltke, on the side of the French, in 1870, would have turned the scale in favor of France.—Uncle Sam's Magazine.

Men and Their Mustaches.

"In Europe," the barber said, "it is the fashion for men to wear their mustaches long and trained carefully at the ends, in which shape they must be looked after at the cost of much time and trouble. Here it is the fashion for men to wear their mustaches short, which may not be quite so pretty, but it is vastly more convenient and comfortable, and is of the country characteristic. It is doing away with barbershops and keeping the docks cleared for action.

"No man who has had his mustache trimmed short once," the barber said, "would ever let it grow long again."

The "Billings" Stakes.

It only takes a few hours to get from any part of England to Doncaster, now the race for the St. Leger and other handicaps. Yet in the coaching days people used from London to Doncaster spend a couple of days.

Taking its name from a famous Doncaster sportsman, Colonel St. Leger—properly pronounced "Sillinger"—the race is the second oldest horse racing event in the country. It was founded in 1776 and always attracts the greatest racehorses in the north of England. In former days people living fifty miles away would save up their shillings for weeks, walk to Doncaster, see the race, have a bet and walk home again.

John Scott, who in his day was visited by peers, lawyers, poets and authors of all degrees, trained sixteen St. Leger winners. There have been many memorable finishes to the race, and on one occasion a horse named Theodore, against whom the odds were quoted at 1,000 to 1, a walking race—officially 1,000 to 8—won handsomely.

The largest field was thirty, in 1825, and the smallest four, in 1783 and 1785. A horse named Ninety-three won in 1793.—London Saturday Review.

Armed With a Saber Hilt.

When William L. Royall of Fauquier county, Va., was nineteen years old he became a Confederate soldier. In his "Reminiscences" he says that the Yeard performed by the Confederate cavalry in the early part of the war were remarkable, because not one company in ten had any arms that were fit to fight with.

"When I joined my company," he writes, "they gave me a saber which, I think, was used in the Revolution, and this was the only weapon I had. One day, while my regiment was standing in a road, I beatered a comrade to see which of us could cut the largest twig from a tree. I made a powerful cut, and the blade of my saber broke off at the hilt.

"In a short time we were dismounted and ordered to clear the Yankees out of a piece of woods in skirmish formation. We marched through the woods, but fortunately no Yankees were there. I have often wondered what I should have done, armed with that saber hilt, if I had met a Yankee armed with a Springfield musket."

Bees Swarming Have Scouts.

Swarms of bees are sometimes compelled to take refuge in very remarkable shelters. A peculiar and instructive instance was observed by the writer one spring. The swarm flew over a large vineyard which contained few buildings. One of these buildings was constructed of hollow concrete blocks. The swarm flew directly toward a small hole in one of the blocks and disappeared in the interior. No doubt the swarm had rested on a tree or shrub on the preceding day and had sent out scouts to seek a home. The scouts found the little hole leading into the great cavity of the concrete block and reported their discovery to their comrades. This case furnishes indisputable proof that swarming bees really send out scouts, as they are believed to do, for the little hole could not have been discovered in the rapid and lofty flight of the swarm.—Scientific American.

Gymnastics in Switzerland.

Once in every three years the gymnasts of Switzerland and the members of the affiliated clubs in other countries, for the most part composed of Swiss residents abroad, meet to compete in the great contest known as the federal gymnastic festival. A carefully prepared series of exercises is gone through on gymnastic apparatus. There is Swiss wrestling, and there are competitions in the national games of Switzerland, including throwing the stone (a forty pound square block of granite). The festival closes with a display of combined calisthenic exercises in which all the competitors—10,000 at times—take part. Gymnastics are the national pastimes of the Swiss boys and young men and the clubs they form are recognized and encouraged by the federal government.—Illustrated London News.

Ambitious.

Freddy—Papa, may I study elocution? Proud Father—Indeed you may, my son. You desire to become a great orator, do you? Freddy—Yes, that's it. Proud Father—And some day make the whole world ring with your eloquence? Freddy—I shouldn't care for that. I want to be an after dinner speaker. Proud Father—Ah, you are ambitious for social distinction, are you? Freddy—No: I want the dinner.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Between Doctors.

"Doctor, I want to engage you to look after my practice while I'm on vacation."

"But I'm just out of college, doctor, and have had little experience."

"That's all right, my boy. My practice, while large, includes very few people who are actually ill."—Houston Post.

MEANING OF ECONOMY.

The Cleverest Use of Money at Your Disposal.

A young matron who is the envy of her set on account of the clever and skillful way in which she makes the most of a moderate income was discussing the meaning of economy the other day and gave it as her opinion that, although many persons made a pet subject of economy, a very small percentage of them understand the real meaning of the word "economy." "It does not necessarily mean saving, but the best and cleverest use of the money at their disposal," she said. "An income of $100,000 a year may be spent economically as well as an income of $1,000. The $100,000 man or woman may get just as great value for his or her income as the man or woman who has only $1,000 a year." The others took up the question—there were seven of them in the group—and aired their views.

One declared her pet abhorrence was the obvious economy, the economy that looks on economy. Another declared that all her economy only led to extravagance, because she finally had to get the thing she wanted, while doing without it had led to doddering expenses and dissatisfaction. All agreed that it took a clever and experienced woman to be cleverly economical—in fact, some one who had at one time been extravagant and had enjoyed the educative influence of having money to spend—for to have had to be careful all one's days is most frightfully narrowing. One thought it made it much easier to save one's money if one took care of one's looks. With hair, skin, teeth and figure in good condition it was easier to look nice, and the others admitted that neglect of one's hair and teeth did mean extra large bills at the hairdresser's and dentist's.

CLAWS OF BIRDS.

The Toes of Those That Perch and of Those That Run.

Let us note that the art of standing began with birds. Frogs sit, and, as far as I know, every reptile, be it lizard, crocodile, alligator or tortoise, lays its body on the ground when not actually carrying it. And these have each four fat legs. Contrast the flamingo, which, having only two, and those like willow wands, tucks up one of them and sleeps poised high on the other, like a tulip on its stem.

Note also that one toe has been altogether discarded by birds as superfluous. The germ or bud must be there, for the Dorking fowl has produced a fifth toe under some influences of the poultry yard, but no natural bird has more than four.

Except in swifts, which never perch, but cling to rocks and walls, one is turned backward, and by a cunning contrivance the act of bending the leg draws them all automatically together. So a hen closes its toes at every step it takes, as if it grasped something, and, of course, when it settles down on its roost they grasp that tight and hold it fast till morning.

"But to birds that do not perch this mechanism is only an incumbrance, so many of them, like the plovers, abolish the hind toe entirely, and the prince of all two legged runners, the ostrich, has got rid of one of the front toes also, retaining only two.—London Strand Magazine.

The mineral resources of Liberia are practically unknown. Prospecting in that part of Africa is a matter of extreme difficulty, owing to the density of the forests and the disturbed state of the country.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

THE LATEST NEWS OF SPORT — TOLD IN BRIEF FORM

MR. E. N. McWILLIAMS CHOSEN VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE CLUB

Mr. E. N. McWilliams was elected second vice-president of the Peterborough Hockey Club at the meeting of the Executive held last evening in the Examiner office. Mr. Harry Morgan, who was elected to that position at the annual meeting found it necessary to resign and his resignation was accepted last night, Mr. McWilliams being unanimously chosen to succeed him.

It was definitely decided by the Executive that Peterborough should have intermediate and junior teams in the O.H.A. and Secretary Glover was instructed to make arrangements with the management of the Brock St. rink for matches and practices this season. It was decided to use three pratcice nights this year the same as last season and arrangement will be made to use the rink on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. It is likely that the same arrangements will be carried out as last year, i.e., to have a night for juniors alone, the second for seniors alone and the third for both teams to practise together.

The securing of uniforms for the two teams is also being considered and there will likely be a meeting of the executive towards the end of the week.

TWO JUNIOR TEAMS IN O. H. A. FOR PETERBOROUGH THIS YEAR

It is likely that Peterborough will be represented by two teams in the Junior O. H. A. series this year, in which event local patrons of the great winter sport will see plenty of junior hockey this winter. The Peterborough Hockey Club will have one team in the junior series and it is likely that the Collegiate Institute will also put in a team. The little school house in Central Park has a pretty classy squad of hockeyists in line this season and would be able to give a good account of themselves in the junior ranks. A good team can be secured outside of the school and it is likely that a group could be formed consisting of the two local teams and the Lindsay juniors which would be a compact and closely-fought group that would arouse a lot of interest among the lovers of junior hockey. The Peterborough team is assured, and it is probable that the Collegiate team will follow suit.

In the event of there being only one junior team in Peterborough the local youngsters would be grouped with Lindsay, Whitby, Oshawa and probably Port Hope, and Cobourg, an expensive arrangement, and making awkward train connections especially for Peterborough.

VARSITY OR OTTAWAS?

The Two Teams Compared—If Riders' Backs Fumble There are Troubles in Store for Big Four Champions.

STUDENTS ARE LOST

The Rough Riders'5 victory over Hamilton on Saturday was as great a surprise to Varsity as it was to the rest of the rugby world. Varsity, headed by "Bull" Ritchie, the only player left who was with "Casey" Baldwin in 1905, when they defeated Ottawa in the greatest game of rugby this town ever saw, confidently expected to meet Hamilton in the final, and revenge looked sweet to them. Now, however, the situation is changed. It is up to Toronto to follow the precedent set in 1905. It looks as if they could do it.

Even in Weight.

The one thing that the Intercollegiate teams have generally to buck up against when they play the city teams is the much heavier line, and weight is generally the stumbling block in the way of college teams. This, however, will not be a factor next Saturday, as the teams are just about even on the line. Ottawa is heavier in the scrimmage, and Varsity has the weight on the back division.

With the question of weight not playing an important part in the game it comes down to a question of which team plays the better rugby, and that's where the blue and white team has it on the Interprovincial champions.

Stand Alone.

The Rough Riders have two men that, judging from Saturday's exhibition, have no equals in the game today. They are Jack Williams and Bert Stronach. Williams' head work and Stronach's following up were the undoing of the Tigers. With two good average players in the place of these two the Rough Riders would be a very average team. The rest of the back division are poor catches. Edward and Johnston are terribly weak, and McCann is not a sure catch by a long way. With the exception of Williams, McCann was the only man worth mentioning as a running half. He did some good work in that department on Saturday.

The Ottawa wing line has not the bucking ability of the Tigers, and with the exception of Stronach and Christie they cannot be compared with Varsity in tackling ability. The blue and white should be able to hold them on the line all right and incidentally give them a lot of trouble stopping the Varsity bucks.

More Than One Tackle.

The Ottawa backs will find that, instead of Lyon being down on them when they fumble, they will have a guard of five or six around them, and a muff will entail a great deal more risk than it did against the Tigers.

The Varsity backs play together as one man, and with the possible exception of Lawson, they all have good hands. Both Gall and Dixon are good booters, and can also carry the ball back when it is necessary. They are just about the hardest men in the game to catch behind their line.

Great Captain.

Captain Newton first of all has the football brains; also he is a good man to carry the ball through the line, and as a tackler he has few equals and no superiors. Lawson is the greatest running half the game has seen in many a day, and his catching has improved immensely since the meeting with Queen's, the only game this year in which he muffed the ball to any extent.

The Tiger prophecy was wrong, but the Rough Riders will find Varsity a much tougher proposition than Hamilton was, and it will take more than Stronach and Williams, great as they undoubtedly are, to win out on Nov. 27th.—Toronto News.

THE TIGER PRESS ON THE DISASTER

That the Better Team Won is Admitted—"Out-generalled and Out-played."

The Herald: "To a man the Hamilton rooters agreed that the better team won. Ottawa owes its victory to the speedy outside wings. Stronach in particular. They showed marvellous speed, and were always ready to jump on the ball if any of the Tigers fumbled Williams' punts or started to run.

"We were out-generalled and out-played," said Ben Simpson, "and that tells in a nutshell the story of the defeat."

The Times: "The best team won. With all credit to Ottawa for its victory, it can truthfully be said they had the advantage of whatever luck there was. The play shows Ottawa's backs fumbled twice as often as Tigers', and got away with it. The absence of Smith and Wigle was sadly felt. Tope is not as fast as he once was, and hardly in the same class with Smith."

is generally the result of a cold caused by exposure to wet and inclement weather and may be recognised by a tightness across the chest, sharp pains and a difficulty in breathing, a secretion of thick phlegm, at first white, but later of a greenish or yellowish color coming from the bronchial tubes when coughing, especially the first thing in the morning. Cure the first symptoms of bronchitis by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Bronchitis Cured.

Miss Martha Bourget, Little Pabos, Que., writes: "Last spring I was very poorly, had a bad cough, sick headache, could not sleep, and was tired all the time. I consulted two doctors, and both told me I had bronchitis, and advised me to give up teaching. I tried almost everything but none of the medicines gave me any relief. One of my friends advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I had scarcely taken the first bottle when I began to get better and when I had taken the fourth bottle I felt as well as ever, my cough had left me and I could sleep well."

"Dr. Wood's" is the original Norway Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark and the price 25 cents. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

AS SEEN BY AN EXPERT

Famous Football Authority Says Neither Tigers Nor Rough Riders Show Any Well Developed Knowledge of the Game.

NO ADVANCEMENT

(By Rev. A. F. Barr.)

To one who had simply newspaper reports upon which to base his estimates, the result of the game on Saturday was a surprise. The defeat of the Ottawa team on the Saturday preceding certainly made it appear as if they would have little or no chance against the Tigers. The teams were evenly matched, and the only thing that hampered the fullest development of their respective strengths was the gusty wind, which was a serious disadvantage to the team playing against it.

One feature of the match was the cleanness of the play. The teams evidently realized that it was absolutely necessary for the players to remain on the field—and it stands greatly to their credit that the roughness of their last game was not repeated.

Team Play Not in Evidence.

It was not a good exhibition of football—and by that I mean that neither team showed that they had developed the game to any great extent. The present rules give scope for high-class team work, and there were but few occasions on Saturday when good team play was practicable. The reason for this is that the coaches have probably not worked out the possible combinations, or if so they have not enforced the carefulness so necessary in practice. Mass plays were used to a very great extent by the teams while playing against the wind, but these did not gain much ground, because of the lack of precision and because the openings were not made by the wing men. Mass plays through the wing line need careful practice, in which every player should have his particular work to do. One of the most necessary things is that the wings, between whom the play is to go, should block forward and away from the opening—yet this is seldom done by teams playing to-day. Then again, the plays were slow in starting, giving opponents an opportunity to forestall the attack.

Better Judgment in Kicking.

In the kicking the Ottawa backs showed better judgment than their opponents, though, perhaps, not sending the ball as far, yet their kicks were better placed and on the average gained more ground. The short kick over the scrimmage by Williams reminded one of the work of Gleeson, the great half-back of Ottawa College. The whole idea of the majority of the halves is to kick the ball as far as possible, but this is not always an advantage, because the long kick is easier to handle and gives splendid opportunities for combined runs. A short kick placed so that it cannot be caught is an excellent defence device, because a bounding ball is difficult to handle, and the wings have an opportunity of blocking the return, and often can gain the ball from a fumble. The Ottawa team made excellent use of this play on Saturday.

Tackling Inferior.

The tackling of both teams was not up to the mark. In very few instances did the tacklers leave their feet—their main idea apparently being to smother the runner.

Too Much Fumbling.

Both teams fumbled altogether too much for a final game, but they were fortunate in recovering the ball in nearly every instance.

It is too bad that the passing game has been so neglected. There were very few passes on Saturday, and these were not very carefully done, showing great lack of practice. Ottawa pulled off an exceedingly dangerous pass behind their own line, a play that was entirely at variance with safe defence tactics. Then, at the critical point—in the last few minutes—a wild pass by Hamilton men gave Ottawa the ball about midfield, and the Tigers' only chance was gone. Apart from one or two good runs, there was little of the spectacular, the general plan being two bucks and a kick, and all that saved it from being an old-time scrimmage game was the ten-yard rule.

No Sign of Development.

Doubtless it was an interesting game to spectators—the excitement was intense, because the score was so close that at any moment a mistake might lead to an entirely different situation. But apart from that there was no sign of any development in the game. One looked in a final game for quick combination plays, with some variations in manner of attack, but these were not in evidence. A few years ago Hamilton had a splendid variety of plays, but these were not used at all on Saturday for some reason or other.

Why Ottawa Won.

Last year Hamilton beat Varsity through the hard play of the outside wings, and on Saturday Ottawa won through the excellent following up of the wings, especially Stronach. In addition, the Ottawa team played with more vim and snap, and in the last quarter certainly gave a splendid exhibition of defence work, and the last few minutes showed that Clancy had his men in superb condition for a nerve-racking game.

HOCKEY

What are the hockey prospects for this winter like? This is a query you hear on all sides. Looking at the situation at present it looks as if the town will not have a team in the O.H.A. this year. Of course you can never tell what will happen but the knowing ones when interviewed state that it would be impossible to get a fast team for either the junior or intermediate series.—Lindsay Post.

In the list of officers of the West End Athletic Club given in the Examiner last night it was stated in error that Mr. H. A. Young had been elected honourary president. It should have said Mr. H. A. Yenney was elected to that position.

The Collegiate Institute students are holding a meeting tonight to discuss the hockey prospects. Among the things to be discussed will be the advisability of the collegiate entering a team in the junior O. H. A. The local knowledge factory has the hockey "bug" strong this season and the students are bound to drag down some kind of a trophy.

SPIRIT PHENOMENA EXPOSED AS SWINDLES.

Substitution of Hands Accounts for Many Peculiar Manifestations—Explanation of Supposed Ghostly Doings.

HOW THE 'GAME' IS WORKED

To have a dead-white hand suddenly glide out of the Nowhere and touch you!

To have a table on which your hands rest rise from the floor and waver, suspended, in midair!

To have a mysterious Nothing slap you in the face and thump you on the chest!

To have objects all over the room leave their places and drop unaccountably to the floor.

To have bells pick themselves up and ring violently, musical instruments start playing and mysterious noises proceed from Nowhere!

These more than strange phenomena, upsetting all one's traditional beliefs, plunging one into an unsensed world of spirits, have become the talk of the whole country, have engaged scientists and laymen alike in the most heated discussion and cry out for explanation.

Revelation or fraud?

All these mysterious manifestations have been accomplished by the latest of spiritualistic mediums to engage the attention of the world—Eusapia Palladino.

WHAT MEDIUM MEANS

By medium this remarkable woman means that through her spirits of the beyond manifest themselves. By "medium" others mean one who is clever enough to deceive investigators for the purpose of making a living, and a rather good one.

These supposedly unexplainable mysteries were explained to me yesterday by a person who has been investigating the phenomena shown by mediums of various powers during the past fifteen years. This person also investigated Mme. Palladino, being present at one of her seances in her rooms at the Lincoln Square biulding.

The investigator pronounced the things done by Mme. Palladino explainable in the same way that similar things had been explainable in the past, in the case of other mediums.

"Let us take one thing at a time," said the person of whom I am talking. "Let us consider the phenomenon of the appearance of the dead-white hand in the midst of the seance.

"In the first place it is well to remember that, generally speaking, all the people at a seance are in a mental state of the greatest brain agitation. Their imaginations are at feverish pitch and therefore they not only supplement the rather crude appearances the medium accomplishes, but they often actually see things that are not materialized at all.

WHITE HAND EXPOSED

"The white hand is merely a large white glove, stuffed out with cotton. In the dim light in which all seances—including those of Mme. Palladino—are held, this hand will look either like a living human hand, a dead human hand or a spirit hand, according to the imagination of the beholder. And the medium does not permit it to appear for more than a second at a time.

The white stuffed glove is always fastened to the end of a stick about a yard long and painted a dead black. The stick is not seen in the darkness nor against the dress of the medium, which also is invariably black— as was that of Mme. Palladino.

"But how was it waved and how are the other objects moved, since the medium invariably submits to having her hands held? Well, there are several favorite methods. One is to have the medium's hands held by one or two confederates. This permits her to have one of her hands free when the necessity arises.

"There are, however, two other methods by which the medium can fool those who are holding her hands. She may be seated at a table or without the table. The lights become dim swiftly. While the eyes of the spectators are still dazzled by the sudden dimness, one person takes hold of the medium's right hand and another of the left.

HOW THE STUNTS ARE DONE

"But the medium has been careful to place her right hand above the spectator's on her right and her left hand below that of the spectator's at her left. At the moment when the medium needs one of her hands to do her "spooking" she gently draws her left hand toward her right and substitutes her right for her left hand. With the one hand free she does all her 'stunts.'

"Getting the one hand free is the crux of the whole matter.

"The other method of accomplishing this is for the medium to give the little finger of her right hand to the disinterested spectator and announce that she is giving in the dimness) the little finger of her left hand to another spectator. But she does not do this. Instead, she gives the forefinger of the right hand, and the spectator in the darkness does not guess the difference. Again, the one hand is free to do the 'manifesting.'

"The invariable cabinet explains all the other unexplainable matter. With the one hand free, the medium manipulates her concealed 'spook" stuffed hand. With it she slaps spectators in the face all around the room. With her own arm she has a reach with it of more than two yards. With her free hand she rings bells, throws things to the floor, slaps people in the face and thumps them in the chest and, if she has been able to slip on a loose black glove she is the better equipped to escape observation.

"And what is not explained in this way, can be on the score of a confederate secretly smuggled into the cabinet after it has been surrounded with its curtains.

KIDNEY DISORDERS

Symptoms and Home Treatment

Gaut, the celebrated German specialist, asserts that seven-tenths of the feeble-minded and insane are the victims of kidney disease.

Nervousness, excitability, restlessness, melancholia, pains in the back and head, neuralgia and rheumatic pains, fevers, chills, scanty urine, highly coloured and acid urine, burning pains, fullness and soreness in the region of the bladder, all indicate that the kidneys are effected and weakened, needing tonic treatment.

The very best physician should be consulted at once or let the following simple, inexpensive, but reliable prescription be used for several weeks.

Mix one-half ounce fluid extract Buchu, with one ounce compound fluid Balmworth and two ounces compound syrup Sarsaparilla. Then take a teaspoonful after each meal and one at retiring, drinking plenty of good, pure water between meals. This mixture makes a splendid tonic and blood purifier.

The Don's Opinion.

Fashion is as inexorable in men's as in women's dress. The undergraduate is, perhaps, the most telling example of this. It was so even a century ago, when Oxford led the way in adopting the new nankeen trousers that were to supersede tight breeches and top boots. Just about that period a don of Trinity met an undergraduate, arrayed in all the splendor of the new fashion. "Young man," said the don, severely, "you will come to no good. You wear nankeen trousers and keep a dog." The young man afterward became Dr. Sumner and bishop of Winchester.

Qualified.

The great magazine editor sneered. "What right have you," he asked, "to think you'll ever make a poet?"

"Well, sir," the youth said timidly, "I've been fasting man in a side show for the last two seasons."

No Change.

"I think it's wrong for a married man to gamble."

"It's worse than wrong. It's idiotic. His wife gives him fits if he loses, and confiscates it he wins."

Putting It Differently.

The Poet—I am at a loss to know whether I owe what I am to my environment or my heredity.

The Friend—Don't know which is to blame, eh?

When "Work" Becomes "Labor"

There's Something Wrong. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Will Right It.

Thousands of Women feel just like this.

When it seems as if you simply could not bear up any longer it is high time to look for the cause of the trouble—and the remedy. In an astonishingly large number of cases the real cause of woman's misery is found to be constipation, and the remedy that always cures is Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Neglect of the daily movement of the bowels, so necessary to health, soon poisons the whole system from the impurities retained in the body. Headaches, indigestion, biliousness and lassitude follow, and often more serious female disorders are brought on or aggravated.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills not only regulate the bowels, but they stimulate kidneys and skin as well to throw off waste matter and purify the blood. The result is quickly apparent in the disappearance of the headaches and biliousness, and the return of health and vigor. Thousands of women all over the world owe their present good health to Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

HASTINGS NEWS

Examiner Special.

Hastings, Nov. 22.—The fowl supper given in the Town Hall on Monday evening by the ladies of the Methodist congregation was a grand success viewed from every standpoint numerically, socially and financially. The ladies spared no pains in table-decoration, while the viands were most pleasing both as to the eye and the palate and numerous were the comments heard from all sides in reference to the excellence of the provisions, fowl being everywhere predominant and one was led to think that surely there must literally have been a shower of turkey, geese, chickens, etc. So plentiful was the supply that there was abundance left over for a social on Tuesday evening which was also well patronized. The proceeds from both evenings reached the handsome sum of $908.00 over which the ladies are greatly elated. After the supper on Monday evening all who could gain admission repaired to the church where a delightful musical programme was given by the choir of the church assisted by Miss Mallory of Cobourg, Miss Free of Campbellford and Mr. Asa Huycke of Peterborough. Rev. Mr. Johnson of Keene and Rev. Mr. Wilson of Lindsay also gave short addresses which were highly appreciated and every one went home feeling well pleased with the evening's entertainment. An accident which might have resulted very seriously occurred on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. D. Anderson when a hanging lamp which had only been lighted a few minutes exploded. Mr. Anderson had his hands badly burned in endeavouring to extinguish the flames and had he not been successful in throwing the lamp out of doors, his home would altogether likely have become a victim to the flames.

As the result of the meeting of the patrons of the Ormonde Cheese factory last week it looks more than likely that Hastings will in the near future have a creamery. The Messrs. Southworth are making a personal canvass of the district and hope to gain the sympathy and help of the patrons, the majority of whom seem to be in favour of the project.

The hunting parties have almost all returned mostly well laden with venison.

Haliburton Hunters Have Kick Against Game Laws

There is a great deal of grumbling about the game laws in Haliburton. Some settlers got a permit to kill two deer for their own use. Some were refused permits. There seems to be a short supply sent here, not enough to go around, and it is first come, first served. Two persons bought licenses enabling them to kill and sell two deer each. One shot his deer, the other got none, and accordingly bought the two, from another man, intending to ship them to friends in Toronto. The Game Inspector stopped the shipment of the deer as the party had no license to handle venison. It seems the license to deal in venison is different from the license to kill and sell. The man then applied for a license to deal, but was told that only four were sent to Haliburton, and they were already taken. The Toronto friends are accordingly shy their intended presents, and the great Haliburton public are enjoying the venison steak and venison pasty. It is a very ill wind that blows no one any good.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

CIVIC MOVEMENTS

London, Nov 23.—A unique civic movement has been launched in London in the shape of a civic federation, modelled on the great organization, the National Civic Federation of New York, which plays such an important part in the preservation of harmony among employers and employees in the United States.

The movement is known as the London Civic Federation and includes representatives of the Board of Trade, the Trades and Labour Council, the Ministerial Association and the City Council. The idea in view is that before any dispute between employers and employees can come federation shall step in and mediate.

Canada has legislation which provides for just this sort of thing when the trouble is of such importance as to provoke a strike, but the work of the civic federation will have to do with cases which, while not of that importance, are still a menace to the trade and industry of the city. It is an interesting experiment and not the least interested in the working out of the scheme are the large employers of labour in the city.

Already other cities have written to the promoters of the scheme, asking for particulars, and it is quite likely that its workings will be extended all over Ontario, whose cities are so largely given up to manufacturing.

DEBATE ON THE BUDGET

They Will Not Vote With Lansdowne For Rejection of Lloyd-George Budget—Government Cannot Be Expected to Find a Way Out If Lords Threw Out the Proposed Measure, Says Pentland.

London, Nov. 24.—Interest in the budget debate in the House of Lords yesterday was well sustained.

Many peeresses were present. The Duke of Connaught sat beside Lord Rosebery.

The debate shows the likelihood of a number of peers following Lord Cromer, in the free trade interest, and declining to support Lord Lansdowne's motion, although opposing the budget on general lines. These peers will abstain from voting. Among them is Lord Lytton, who announced his intention of taking this course because there was no proof that the country opposed the budget.

Lord Cromer, who resumed the debate on the budget yesterday afternoon, said that he was opposed to many of the provisions of the finance measure, but was unable to support Lord Lansdowne's motion for its rejection. This declaration was received with much interest as it was thought to indicate possibly the attitude of the free trade unionists of whom Lord Cromer is one of the leaders.

Lord Pentland, Secretary for Scotland, gave another indicataion of the Government's policy. He warned the peers that the House of Commons could not be expected to find a way out of the difficulty created by the rejection of the budget.

This statement created the greatest interest in the lobbies of the House of Commons, where it had been supposed that the Government might give way to the Lords, in the matter of adopting temporary financial measures to meet the situation arising out of the rejection of the budget bill.

Many Liberal members of Parliament had, in fact, expressed their determination to oppose any bill authorizing the continuance of present taxation until after the dissolution of Parliament.

Lord Pentland further declared that the Government had done forever with the old state of things, and that the constitution and character of the House of Lords must be modified.

He also reminded the House that a long constitutional struggle might handicap the country in case of war, and asked the Lords to consider whether the penalty might not be disproportionate to the offence.

Earl Russell predicted that the adoption of the Lansdowne resolution would start a revolution that would sooner or later bring a re-adjustment that would leave the House of Lords powerless.

Lord Avebury strongly criticized the budget. He declared that it would frighten capital out of the country, cripple enterprise and create a feeling of insecurity.

GEO. SPOTTON, PRESIDENT J. A. McKONE, PRINCIPAL

UNCERTAIN WHETHER HER DEATH RESULTED FROM SMOKE OR STRYCHNINE

Archie McLaughlin Arraigned on Preliminary Charge of Murder—Dr. Ellis, Who Examined the Woman's Stomach, is Sure of Presence of Poison—Evidence at Inquest.

Uxbridge, Nov. 24.—Although the coroner's jury is still investigating the death of Mrs. McLaughlin and her two children, Archie McLaughlin, the husband and father, was arraigned before Magistrate Hamilton here yesterday afternoon for his preliminary hearing on the charge of murder. Much evidence has been taken by Coroner Dr. Beacom, and two or three more witnesses will be called to-day, after which a verdict will be rendered.

In view of the fact that the suspicion against Archie McLaughlin was sufficiently grave to cause his arrest last Friday, followed by his arraignment yesterday on a charge of murder, the verdict of the jury can hardly have any effect on subsequent proceedings.

T. F. Phelan, of the legal firm of Robinette & Phelan, who is acting for McLaughlin, registered an objection to the proceedings yesterday afternoon, holding that the prisoner was not regularly before the magistrate.

Monte McLaughlin, the seven-year-old daughter of the prisoner, has been delivered into the care of Mrs. Watson, the dead woman's sister. McLaughlin talked through the bars of the lock-up yesterday to his sister-in-law, and asked her to take care of the child. McLaughlin is manifestly laboring under great mental stress, and has aged considerably in appearance since the tragedy. In court, he sits with head bowed resting in his hands, and seldom looks up.

The medical men connected with the case have already reached a division of opinion with respect to an important point. Drs. Shier and McClintock, who made the post-mortem examination, both testified before the coroner yesterday, that in view of all the circumstances, they would not undertake to say whether the woman had died of strychnine poisoning or smoke suffocation.

"They must have been very guarded," was the comment of Prof. Ellis, who analyzed the contents of the stomach and found at least one grain of strychnine.

Prof. Ellis came out on the evening train from Toronto and when court resumed at 7 o'clock, was the first witness called. He testified that he had received the stomach in a sealed box, stamped with the name of Dr. Shier. He had found about a grain of strychnine in the stomach. He considered that a considerable amount had been absorbed into the system. From half a grain to two grains, he said, would cause death in less than two hours.

When the inquest was resumed at 9.30 yesterday morning County Crown Attorney Col. Farewell read Prof. Ellis' report, which stated that one grain of strychnine had been extracted therefrom. Following this Dr. Shier, who with Dr. McClintock, had performed the post-mortem, read the joint report. Several slight burns on the body of the woman had been inflicted, he was certain from their nature, after death. The cause of death was set down as suffocation.

At the Monday night sitting of the inquest, the evidence was largely a repetition of former testimony pertaining to Archie McLaughlin's general conduct, with the exception of the evidence of Dr. W. C. Shier, who threw some light on the condition of the three bodies when found. The mouths of all three were open and covered with froth slightly tinged with blood. Suffocation from smoke or asphyxiation from strychnine poisoning would produce that effect.

The woman's body was stiff and when he tried to rearrange her arms they drew back to the position assumed in death. Rigor mortis in the bodies of the children was also very pronounced, sufficiently so that he was able to raise each of the bodies from their place in the corner by a leg and an arm without bending them. Rigor mortis, witness said, advances rapidly following death from strychnine poisoning.

ENGINEER'S COMPLAINT

Charge Is Brought That Not Enough Money Was Received In Manitoba—Mr. Lumsden Says That Work on the Transcontinental Was Over Classified by the Contractors on Construction.

Ottawa Nov. 24.—The events and the causes which led up to the resignation of Hugh Lumsden, chief engineer of the National Transcontinental Railway, are related in a series of papers and correspondence laid upon the table of the Commons yesterday.

Mr. Lumsden, in his letter of resignation, says he found his position untenable, because neither the general specifications nor his instructions regarding classification had been adhered to, but, on the contrary, large amounts of material had been returned as solid rock, which should only have been classified as loose rock or common excavation, and material was returned as loose rock, or could have been handled by plowing or scraping, and should have been returned as common excavation.

The district engineers and contractors on the other lands, says some correspondence, denied that Mr. Lumsdens's letters had been ignored.

Mr. Lumsden's letter of resignation to the Transcontinental Railway Commissioners under date of June 25 last was, in part, as follows:

"Sir,—My recent trips over portions of districts "B" and "F" in connection with the arbitration on points in dispute regarding the classification and overbreak between the chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Railway Co. and myself (which arbitration might have been proceeded with more than eight months ago, but for delay on the part of the G.T.R.), have led me to the conclusion that neither the general specifications nor my instructions regarding classification have been adhered to, but on the contrary, large amounts of material have been returned as solid rock which should only have been classified as loose rock or common excavation, and material has been returned as loose rock which was, or could have been, handled by ploughing or scraping, and should have been returned as common excavation.

"In several instances there seems to have been no attempt by the engineers to carry out my instructions, and measure rock returned, either by showing the same on cross sections or by measurements of individual pieces, but they simply appear to have guessed at the amount by taking percentages of the total cuttings. In some cases, where cross sections were prepared showing ledge rock, they prove to be erroneous, resulting in a very much larger amount of solid rock being returned than actually was found.

"What is known as overbreak has also been returned in many places where it was caused by excessive use of explosives and where the material was wasted this should not have been done.

"Such being the case, I must decline to certify to any further progress estimates in districts "B" and "F," and in view of the general disregard of my instructions, and having lost confidence in the engineering staff, I have concluded to resign my position as chief engineer and have to-day written to the hon. the Minister of Railways and Canals to that effect, enclosing him a copy of letter."

When the House went into supply on the Indian vote yesterday, George Bradbury (Selkirk) brought up the question of the surrender of the lands of St. Peter's Reserve, Manitoba. He declared that 22,000 acres, nearly half the reserve, had fallen into the hands of speculators at less than $5 per acre.

Describing this land as the garden of Manitoba, he said it should have brought from $15 to $30 per acre. The conditions surrounding the transaction had frightened away ordinary purchasers.

He asked that every one of the transactions be cancelled, and asserted that because of the visit of one of the speculators to Ottawa, there was evidence of collusion between the purchaser and some officer of the Department. He produced a petition signed by 115 Indians seeking redress. They had only received sixteen acres, while the chief had received 320, and the councillors 160. Many of the Indians never saw their patents.

The charges made by Mr. Bradbury induced an onslaught by the Conservative members, several of whom asserted that the Indian Department was "woefully incapable."

Replying as to why the chief and councillors had received more than the rest, Hon. Frank Oliver, said that it was the usual practice to pay more to the heads of a band. The lands had been thoroughly advertised for sale, and sold by section, and sold above the valuation of the Government expert.

Before there was time for a Ministerial reply as to a demand for an investigation, six o'clock was called, and Mr. Fielding moved that the committee report progress, the House resuming for the day.

After a few preliminaries the Upper House yesterday resumed consideration of the insurance bill, which was passed by the House of Commons last year, but which the Senate was unable to deal with owing to the early adjournment of Parliament.

Revolutionist's Brother a Prisoner.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, Nov. 24.—Autelio Estrada, governor, and brother of Provisional President Jean De Estrada of Nicaragua, is in prison and under sentence of death.

He was captured by the Zelaya forces and the death sentence, it is said, was approved by President Zelaya himself.

THREW COAL OIL DOWN A WELL

Strathroy, Nov. 24.—Another outrage is reported on the farm of Mrs. Cawthorp, ninth concession, Caradoc. This time a quantity of coal oil has been thrown in the well.

Within the last few weeks her barn has been burned and poison put in the well. She knows of no reason for any person's enmity.

In addition, some implements, which had been saved and which were left securely locked in Clement Fisher's barn, nearby, were stolen, the nuts and bolts of his buggy loosened so that the vehicle would collapse, and, it is suspected, a quantity of pears poisoned. It had been intended to have the latter analyzed at Toronto, but the expense ($200) was too great.

A private detective spent several days here last week, but found no clues.

SNOW IN THE WEST

Winnipeg, Nov. 24.—Heavy snowstorms have prevailed generally throughout the west, but traffic is still moving freely on the prairie sections. On the north shore, however, conditions are bad.

This early fall of snow is generally welcomed as good for the country and for giving employment.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed, "Tender for additions and alterations to the General Post Office Building, Toronto, Ontario," will be received at this office until 5.00 p.m., on Monday, November 29, 1909, for the work mentioned.

Plans, specifications and forms of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and on application to Mr. Thomas Hastings, Clerk of Works, Customs Building, Toronto.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, with their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
NAPOLEON TESSIER,
Secretary.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

DUTIES.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

N.B.—Unauthorized publications of this advertisement will not be paid for.

'TWIXT MAID AND MISTRESS.

The Event That Brought a Love Affair to Its Climax.

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

Mrude Forbes, maid to Miss Ann Peabody, felt her heart thrill as she glanced at the bulky figure of the big chauffeur beside her.

John Winthrope was a well built man. Tall and handsome, with the muscles of an athlete, he was enough to make the heart of an impressionable girl palpitate abnormally. And when a pretty girl like Miss Forbes was really in love with him then his proximity was sufficient to bring blushes of delight. Winthrope's one great fault in Miss Forbes' eyes was his innate bashfulness.

"Do you know," she whispered confidently in his ear, "I believe that you are in love with Miss Peabody."

Winthrope's face turned red under her twinkling gaze; but, although Miss Forbes was apparently greatly delighted at the result of her words, she was secretly dismayed. Was it possible that he really was in love with Miss Peabody? For some time she had thought that his attentions to her mistress were more assiduous than was actually necessary. It was with a view to finding out his real state of feeling that she had made the suggestion as to his love affair.

MISS FORBES SAW THAT SHE HAD FAINTED.

"Of course I'm not!" declared Winthrope savagely as he jerked the steering wheel of the car.

"Oh, you don't need to say that," replied Miss Forbes. "I'll not tell any one about your affinity. You might confide in me. We're good friends, aren't we?"

"Yes, good friends," Winthrope answered shortly.

Again Miss Forbes felt a sinking at the heart. So they were nothing more than friends!

"Of course," she went on, "it does seem rather presumptuous of you to aspire so high, but stranger things have happened. I've often thought—tiint is, it has seemed to me that she has looked on you and talked to you as if she were interested. Naturally I wish you all the luck in the world. I—I hope you'll succeed."

"Aw," growled Winthrope, "I"— But the rest of his sentence was lost in the grinding of the gears as he viciously pulled the car to a stop. Miss Peabody was waiting for them in front of a department store.

"I'll sit in front with John," Miss Peabody announced brightly as the car drew up. "I want him to give me a final lesson in driving the car."

As Miss Forbes reluctantly climbed from her seat in front and made her way into the tonneau she felt a distinct pang of jealousy. To her distorted vision it seemed that Winthrope gladly welcomed the change. To her it appeared that his hand rested almost too caressingly on Miss Peabody's hand as he aided her in guiding the huge car through the streets; that his glance was almost too noticeably tender as he whispered his instructions to her. Miss Forbes sighed.

The car sped through the streets and in a short time reached the countryside. Miss Peabody's fresh laugh rang out as they raced along. She seemed to be enjoying herself hugely. Miss Forbes wished that she were having so good a time.

They had reached a broad country road, and Winthrope had practically resigned control of the machine to Miss Peabody. The road made a sharp turn, and as the automobile raced around the curve Miss Forbes saw a temporary bridge spanning a stream a short distance to the side of the spot where the old bridge had formerly stood. The temporary bridge was a frail structure with no side rail.

Instinctively Miss Forbes felt disaster coming her way. She closed her eyes and heard Winthrope call to Miss Peabody:

"To the right, quick!" he cried.

Miss Forbes opened her eyes. Perhaps Winthrope's cool head would save them, after all. She saw Miss Peabody drop the steering wheel and throw her arms about Winthrope's neck. Winthrope tried desperately to disengage her hands and to reach the wheel, but without avail. Miss Forbes saw that the car was headed for the river, and again she closed her eyes.

In a moment the car seemed to leave the earth and soar into the air. Then came the sound of a huge splash as it struck the water. Icy cold water enveloped Miss Forbes.

To Miss Forbes' surprise she did not lose consciousness. She fought desperately to reach the surface, and as she fought she wondered, oddly enough, what Winthrope and Miss Peabody were doing. She wondered if Miss Peabody still had her arms about Winthrope's neck, and even then she felt a pang of jealousy.

Finally Miss Forbes got her head above water, and then, to her further surprise, she did not sink. In a moment more she realized that she was standing on a seat in the tonneau and that her head was above water. She glanced about. In front of her were Winthrope and Miss Peabody. The latter still had her arms about Winthrope's neck, and Miss Forbes saw that she had fainted.

Winthrope caught sight of the girl, and she was sure that a flash of joy swept across his face. "But of course he'd be glad anybody wasn't drowned," she told herself.

"Can you wait until I take Miss Peabody to the shore?" Winthrope cried.

Miss Forbes nodded. She watched him strike out with strong, sturdy strokes, and her heart thrilled at the sight. Well might Miss Peabody or any one else be proud of such a man. In a short time Winthrope had reached the shore and deposited the still form of Miss Peabody on the ground. Then he plunged into the water.

"You aren't frightened, are you?" Winthrope asked as he neared Miss Forbes.

"Not at all."

Miss Forbes noticed that the man's face was thin and drawn. His hands trembled as he caught her from the seat.

When they had reached the shore Miss Forbes' eyes fell upon her mistress. Miss Forbes watched her face brighten as her eyes fell upon Winthrope. She extended her hands toward him.

"My hero!" she murmured softly.

Resolutely Miss Forbes turned her eyes away, although her heart was thumping painfully. She caught sight of Winthrope staggering toward her. His foot, she saw, was oddly twisted, and he seemed to be wholly unmanned.

Wholly disregarding Miss Peabody, he fell on his knees beside Miss Forbes and caught her hand in both of his.

"My dear, my dear!" he murmured.

Miss Forbes caught her breath quickly. She looked wildly at her mistress and saw the latter, with a hurt look in her eyes, turn away. Then slowly the maid bent over and kissed Winthrope.

OWES HER LIFE TO

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vienna, W. Va.—"I feel that I owe the last ten years of my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Eleven years ago I was a walking shadow. I had been under the doctor's care but got no relief. My husband persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it worked like a charm. It relieved all my pains and misery. I advise all suffering women to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—MRS. EMMA WHEATON, Vienna, W. Va.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any similar medicine in the country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every such suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

The Social Life of Vienna.

The Viennese have for generations been famed for their hospitality and cheerfulness. Stress and strain, agony and pain do not characterise the temperament, natures and states of the Viennese. Life in Vienna has much of the German phlegmatic trend, plus considerable Parisian elegance, minus the French fussiness in etiquette and manners. Like all Europeans, they love the cafe life. The whole family goes out after the day's labor. It interests the traveler considerably to study the various types of this European cafe existence. In Paris the keynote seems to be display, style, smart appearance. In Vienna a good natured, happy sociability after the day's toil prevails. The family comes much more into view in Vienna than in bright, elegant, wild Paris, the city par excellence of dazzling social events. As the Austrians take things calmly, a certain lovely charm and restfulness mark their public and social life. It is a people that would for its own welfare need to study somewhat the strenuous life if the lesson of strenuousness could be learned for good and not to the destruction of that amiable, hearty, easy spirit for which the Austrians are known and the Viennese distinctively.—Vienna Letter in Omaha Bee.

Holmes the Man.

As a doctor Oliver Wendell Holmes never won a large practice, for he not only collected a volume of poetry from time to time, but smiled when the door was opened and made jokes upon the staircase. When some one asked him what part of anatomy he liked best he answered: "The bones. They are cleanest." The answer shows us the "plain little dapper man" who could never bear the sights of a sickroom, who laughed to relieve the tension, who would run away when a rabbit was to be chloroformed, who was clean and scrupulous in all respects and inclined as a young man to satirise the world with a somewhat acrid humor. Two friends have put together a picture of him: "A small, compact little man, buzzing about like a bee or fluttering like a humming bird, exceedingly difficult to catch unless he be really wanted for some kind act, and then you are sure of him." The other adds that he has a "powerful jaw and a thick, strong under lip that gives decision to his look, with a dash of pertness. In conversation he is animated and cordial, sharp, too, taking the words out of one's mouth."—London Times.

Womanly Health

How to Preserve It

The good looks of every woman depend largely upon the proper working of her stomach and other internal organs.

If your stomach is strong and digestion is good, the cheeks flush with color, eyes dance and sparkle, breath will be pure and your hair smooth and glossy.

Let indigestion creep in, and the skin becomes sallow and rough, pimples break out, eyes get dark circles, ill-breath is all too apparent.

Get the stomach toned up with Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they increase the secretion of the gastric juices, promote vigorous digestion, increase the supply of blood, and thereby invigorate the entire system.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills
CURE WOMAN'S ILLS.

The system is quickly won back to a normal healthy condition by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and every girl or woman who uses this remedy will show it in a clear, wholesome complexion and a sound healthy body. Sold in 25c boxes by all dealers.

An Early Georgia Monster.

In the fore part of August, 1812, a party of hunters found in a mountainous region now known as Rabun county, Ga., a being nearly eight feet high covered with bluish hair and having a human face adorned with immense ears resembling those of an ass. The creature was stone deaf and on that account seemed wholly unconscious of the approach of the men. This monster seems, from all accounts, to have been seen upon several occasions during the next four years. In 1816 a number of adventurers from Virginia, most of them surveyors working up the unexplored portions of Georgia and the Carolinas, formed themselves into a party for the express purpose of capturing the uncanny being if possible. They scoured the hills and valleys for several days and at last returned unsuccessful to the starting point.

The many tales told of this extraordinary being seem to have created quite a stir all along the Atlantic coast. A printed circular issued by a land company in 1815 says, "The climate of Georgia is exceedingly mild, the soil productive, and the danger of attack from uncouth beasts which are represented as being half beast and half man are fairy tales not worthy of consideration."—Exchange.

Made It Quite Clear.

The engineers of a party in the field were continually annoyed by the curiosity of the farmer folk in the country round. Each and every day their progress was blocked by some inquiring soul who would have liked to spend the forenoon acquiring answers to questions of why and whither and how far and what for, relates the New York Sun. At last a serious faced young man took an interested bucolic graybeard one side and explained matters.

"Now," said he, "I'm telling this to you, and I don't want it to go any further. We have discovered that the earth is a parabolic hexoid, and the ordinates and co-ordinates do not quite tally by a foot or perhaps by fourteen inches. The place where the gap comes has been located in that field just ahead of us. We don't want it mentioned, but we are getting ready to blow up the spot and make an incision before beginning the operation of joining the two."

The engineers finished their labors in peace and solitude.

The Shilling Bequest.

The wealthy auctioneer who reduced the inheritance of a daughter to an annuity of £104 because she had become a Socialist reminds one of the old fashioned "cutting off with a shilling." Why a shilling rather than nothing? Blackstone explains. The Romans used to set aside wills as deficient in natural duty if they disinherited or totally passed by any child of the testator. But the smallest legacy was accepted as evidence that the testator had not lost his reason or his memory, as the law otherwise assumed he had; hence the groundless belief in England that a father could not disinherit his child without a shilling, although the English law knows no presumption of insanity or forgetfulness in such a case. Of Sheridan and his son Tom (and of other fathers and sons) the story is told: "Father—I'll cut you off with a shilling. Son—I'd rather have it new, dad."—St. James' Gazette.

Appealed to His Pride.

It was the most obstinate mule in the lot and refused to enter the car of a train held up at a little wayside station. Threats, cajolery and blows were alike useless. The mule refused to budge, and the slant of his ears told those of the passengers who were familiar with mule ear talk that where he was he intended to stay. Then the aged African who was trying to load him in said in honeyed tones:

"Whuffo' yo' behave dis way befo' all dese strange people? Why, yo' fool mule, doan' yo' know dat dese people will jes' believe dat yo' neber done trabeled befo' in all yo' life?"

The long ears lost their aggressive slant, and the beast went sedately up the inclined plank with the air of a man entering a drawing room car for the first time and determined not to betray the fact.—Exchange.

Our young lady correspondents will confer a favor if they will write on only one side of the paper. We mean, of course, by this correspondence intended for the paper. As to the other, not intended for publication, we don't care if they write on all four sides and even across it.—Sylvania (Ga.) Telephone.

Probably on the Team.

"Such ignorance is inexcusable!" exclaimed Aunt Hypatia. "My nephew Percival has been going to college nearly three years, and when I asked him this morning whether he knew anything about Homer he said: 'Sure! A homer is a hit that's good for four bases.'"—Chicago Tribune.

Out of Date Now.

"Tommy, you have written this sentence, 'The pen is mightier than the sword,' and it is incorrect. How should it be changed?"

"Pen ought to be changed to typewriter, ma'am."—Chicago Tribune.

Willing to Try.

Harold—Couldn't you learn to love me? Amelia—No, but I'll try awfully hard. Papa has promised to send me abroad if my health breaks down from overstudy, you know.—London Scraps.

Men are the sport of circumstances when the circumstances seem the sport of men.—Byron.

Veal and Geese.

Roast veal is the most indigestible of butcher's meat. It takes five and one-half hours to digest. Roast goose takes two and one-half hours.

Why Green Flour When You Can Get Five Roses

Age is a wonderful improver—in certain things, of course.

And flour is one of these.

Practically all cheap flours are "green" flours.

Up till five or six months after milling, good flour will go on improving steadily in quality and dryness, developing many admirable traits which it would not otherwise possess.

It is in obedience to this same principle that good wine gets better, and a mere "fiddle" develops into a valuable violin.

But it must be good in the beginning. At the end of a century or more, a cigar box would hardly become a Stradivarius.

When a flour is improperly milled or milled from cheap, off-grade wheat, it has lost its keeping qualities before it ever had them.

It can only get worse with age.

Your dough cannot rise—shows poor graining in the loaf with a crumbling crumb and sickly crust, practically all the evils that poor quality is heir to.

Add to this corresponding defects as the reward of your best pastry efforts, endowed with every vice pastry can have.

• • • •

Very embarrassing to mumble crestfallen apologies.

FIVE ROSES, Madam, is milled right from perfect materials in a sanitary plant cleaner than your own kitchen, if that be possible.

It is packed right and stored awhile in our own storehouses, until expert examiners have declared it aged to proper dryness, without a trace of acidity.

Marvels of cleanliness and care are these storehouses of ours. To visit them would gladden the heart of the most finicky housekeeper.

'Twould astonish you, Madam, really.

• • • •

FIVE ROSES is never "green," never weak, nor "dead," nor acid.

FIVE ROSES is drier, and being drier absorbs more water, producing more of these light, toothsome, flaky loaves and rolls which tickle the knowing palate and fill a vacant place most pleasantly.

Those extra loaves pay more than the difference in first cost.

Since you want a flour fully matured and seasoned, that cannot spoil or sour on your hands or misbehave in any way, that does not acquire the "worm habit," but improves with age.

If you want this flour, Madam, you will insist on FIVE ROSES from your grocer

Colonel John Sneed's Conversations on Domestic Problems

Copyright, 1909, by C. B. Yost.

VI.—The Sunken Rocks of Matrimony

WHEN Colonel Sneed dropped in to say good morning to his daughter, young Mrs. Rollins, he was surprised to find her in tears.

"Why, what's the matter, honey?" he inquired with tender solicitude. "Anything wrong with the baby?"

"No, papa, the baby's all right," she answered, wiping her face and dabbing a little powder on her nose.

"Nothing happened to William, I hope," ventured the colonel, a little puzzled.

Mrs. Rollins straightened up, and a dash came into her eyes.

"Yes, papa, if you must know it, something has happened to Will. He spent five minutes brushing his hair this morning, he put on a red necktie, and he's got a—got a new typewriter."

At this revelation of masculine duplicity the colonel puckered up his lips and drew down his eyebrows to hide the twinkle he couldn't suppress.

"So-ho," he exclaimed, "and that's the way the land lies, is it? And you just put two and two together and made seven out of it, did you? Tut, tut, tut, child; you mustn't let suspicions turn your pretty nose red.

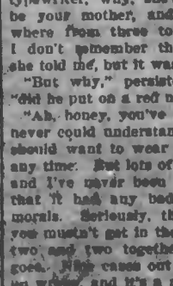
MASCULINE SUNLIGHT.

First thing you know you'll have your complexion all ruined, and that would never do. Fact is, honey, you're barkin' up the wrong tree. There's nothin' the matter with Bill. I happen to know that he's got a particular engagement this mornin', and there's good reason why he wants to look a little spruce. There's no petticoats in the deal, my dear, and as to the new typewriter, why, she's old enough to be your mother, and she's got anywhere from three to seven children. I don't remember the exact number she told me, but it was quite a bunch."

"But why," persisted Mrs. Rollins, "did he put on a red necktie?"

"Ah, honey, you've got the there. I never could understand why any man should want to wear a red necktie at any time. But lots of good fellows do, and I've never been able to discover that it had any bad effect on their morals. Seriously, though, little girl, you mustn't get in the habit of puttin' two and two together, as the sayin' goes. Nine cases out of ten they add up wrong, and it's a mighty poor kind of figurin' anyhow.

"I s'pose you've heard about the sea of matrimony, haven't you? Of course you have. But I don't reckon anybody ever told you, not even your old daddy, about the sunken rocks. It's considerable of a sea, you know, and there's lots of ships on it, all kinds of ships, from little catboats to battleships, and some of them go sailin' over smooth water all the time, and some don't more than get out of one storm when another hits 'em. It's such an uncertain sea that it's wonderful how many vessels escape its safety, but there's lots of wrecks, too, and most of the ships that's lost go to pieces on those sunken rocks. They hide their ugly heads just under the surface, and nobody knows they're there until the boat is crashin' into 'em. That's the worst part about 'em. If they stood up a little ways so a pilot could see 'em he could steer around 'em, but the sea where they are looks just like it does anywhere else, and there ain't any lighthouse in the neighborhood to warn him.



"NO PETTICOATS IN THE DEAL."

"Now, little girl, your ship—that ordinary craft in these affairs—is sailin' around on this sea of matrimony a pretty long while, and I've seen enough wrecks to know just about where the suspicion rocks are located. That's the name of 'em—the suspicion rocks—and the biggest and ugliest and meanest one in the bunch is the one they call jealousy. It's the one that's got the sharpest points and cuts the biggest holes in the bottom of the ship, and it's a thunderin' good boat that can get away from it without bein' so badly crippled that the pumps have to be worked all the rest of the trip to keep from goin' down.

"Of course that's all just allegory, honey, but there's more truth than poetry in it, as they say down on the farm. The hardest kind of an enemy to fight is the one you don't know anything about, and the worst thing that ever came between a husband and wife is suspicion, for it always works in the dark and seldom raises its head so you can see it and get a lick at it until it's done its work. If I had my choice I'd ten times rather have a woman with frowsy hair and the rollin' pin habit than one who gets the notion in her head that her husband is a devil of a fellow when he's away from home and weeps her eyes out over imaginary wrongs. I'd know what to do with the rollin' pin—at least I could dodge it—but how're you goin' to dodge a thing that you can't see or can't hear? Now, William went off downtown this morning without a thought in his heart that he'd done anything to worry you, and as a matter of fact he hadn't. He didn't know you were seein' things that didn't exist, and if I hadn't dropped in and set you right you'd kept on seein' them, and they'd have kept on growin' bigger and bigger in your mind until you couldn't see anything else. Chances are you wouldn't have said a word to him until the poison had corroded all the sweetness of life, and it would then be too late for antidotes.

"I don't care what these sour faced knockers say, little girl—this is a mighty fine world, and most of the people in it are all right. Nine men out of every ten and nine women out of every ten are true—I believe the proportion even bigger than that—and there's more genuine fidelity right now than there ever was since Adam and Eve took hands and strolled out of the orchard. But if you look at 'em through smoked glasses you can't see the white that's in 'em, and if you get the notion fixed in your head that they're all black, why, so far as you're concerned, they'll be black. A shovel of soot will soil an acre of snow, honey, and a little suspicion will make your William grow a couple of horns and a spiked tail right before your eyes. No, little girl, don't do it. Don't let doubt get to swellin' in your pretty head. Bless all rights, He doesn't wear any gold rings over his head, and he can't say the Forty-seventh Psalm backward, but I'll bet all I got against the hole in a doughnut that he hasn't got a thought in his mind that isn't true to you. Trust him. It don't make any difference what you hear or what you see—trust him. He's true goin' to bed, so trust to support married happiness I would make love the foundation, and at the bottom of the arch on one side I'd put trust and at the bottom on the other side I'd put confidence, and it would stand till the crack of doom."

The Cherry.

The cherry takes it name from Cerasus, or Kerasunte, a city of Asia Minor, from which region the cherry was first introduced into Europe by the Roman General Lucullus in the year B. C. 73. The cherry introduced by the Romans at the date given died out and was reintroduced to the reign of Henry VIII. by Richard Haines, the Gutlarer of that monarch.

An Ohio man says the quickest way to get through a crowd is to go around it.

Some men's idea of a "quiet little game" is one in which money does all the talking.

Some men can't understand why the truth will nearly always serve better than a lie.

Nothing short of a surgical operation can bring out the best there is in some people.

It's no different for some men to keep a promise as it is for some women to keep money.

Unbelievable.

"Gosh, I guess those city folks meant what they said when they told us that they came up here to get a good rest."

"They're taking it easy, eh?"

"Taking it easy? I should say they are. Would you believe it, not one of 'em has got out of bed before 8 o'clock any morning since they've been here."—Detroit Free Press.

Balloons.

Few balloons are serviceable for more than eighty flights.

Burman Bazaars.

The great bulk of retail trading in Burma is conducted in bazaars, which are in reality a community of shop and stall keepers congregated within the limits of a building.

Electrical Currents.

The average person does not experience any sensation from an electrical current until the pressure reaches about thirty-five volts.

Coursus de Gangeland.

The earliest mention of a regular practitioner of medicine in English history seems to be that of Coursus de Gangeland, an apothecary to whom was granted a pension of sixpence a day for having attended and taken care of King Edward III. during a visit of the latter to Scotland.

Bracelets.

Bracelets have been worn by almost every nation, savage or civilized.

Paganini.

During the evening of the day of his death Paganini, the great violinist, would allow no light in the room, but suddenly he asked that the curtains might be opened, when he looked happily at the moonshine. Then, calling for his violin, he began playing on his favorite G string, and, playing, his spirit passed away.

Italian Opera.

The first performance of Italian opera in the United States was given in New York city in 1825—Rossini's "Barber of Seville."

Animism.

Animism is the name of a theory originally propounded by Stahl, about 1707. It asserts that the soul is the vital principle and only cause of life and that the functions of plant and animal life depend upon this principle of vitality and not mere mechanical and chemical action. As the word is now used it denotes the general doctrine of spiritual beings. It is not itself a religion, but a sort of primitive philosophy.

Meat of Kids.

Good prices are paid in Switzerland for the flesh of kids from six weeks to two months old. The meat is tender, and some prefer it to lamb.

The Scotch-English Boundary.

The boundary between England and Scotland is natural, not artificial. The Tweed forms the division for about sixteen miles, the Cheviot mountains for another twenty-five, then the line strikes Kershope Water, a small tributary of the Esk, passing from it to the river Sark, after which the Solway firth continues it to the sea.

Nero.

The infamous and miserly Nero left at his death $376,125,000, which his successor is said to have squandered in a year.

Prayer Rugs.

It is not lawful for a Moslem to pray on any place not perfectly clean, and unless each one has his own special rug he is not certain that the spot has not been polluted. It does not matter to these followers of Mohammed how luxurious a rug that is on the floor may be, because over it they place the prayer rug when their devotions begin.

Gibraltar.

The rock of Gibraltar rises 1,439 feet from the sea.

Big Hailstones.

Hailstones have been found in temperate climates measuring as much as fifteen inches in diameter. In torrid regions masses of 160 pounds have been found.

England's Royal Observatory.

Persons who visit the royal observatory at Greenwich appreciate the astronomer royal that they are interested in astronomy.

JURIES IN ENGLAND.

They Get Through Their Work Quickly and With Little Fuss.

The working of the British jury system exhibits a marked contrast with that of our own. It is possible that my experience in British courts was exceptional, but in not a single instance did I see a juror challenged or rejected. In all of the courts requiring juries the necessary number of men were present, and they were sworn in without question. In the sheriff's deputy court in Scotland the presiding judge gave notice to the jury that he expected to adjourn the court at 2 o'clock and stated that if they could all remain until that hour he would at once dismiss the men who had been called for a second panel. The jurors conferred together and decided to remain till 1 o'clock, whereupon the judge notified the other men to appear at 12:30. The one jury impaneled for the morning session rendered six verdicts in crimes involving prosecutions for theft, fraud and burglary.

In the court of quarter sessions at Taunton, England, I saw a single jury in one day render eleven verdicts. I found that it was customary in the several sorts of court that I attended for the same jury to act in successive cases. In no instance did I see a jury leave their seats to make up their verdict. Usually the issue before them was made so plain that all who gave attention knew in advance what the decision would be. I made note of an exceptional instance of delay when the court was forced to wait nine minutes for the report of the jury. In this case the judge who gave the instructions was himself in doubt as to what the verdict ought to be.

A Scottish jury consists of fifteen persons, and a majority may render a verdict. In England the number is twelve, and unanimity is required. But I noted no difference as to practical results in the two countries. The twelve men in the English jury were as prompt and certain in their action as were the eight out of fifteen in the Scottish jury.—McClure's Magazine.

A Hot Spot.

"I believe that Monterey, Mexico, is the hottest spot in the world in the daytime," said an Arizona man. "I have seen the thermometer register as high as 120 degrees in the late afternoon. It was so hot that the natives who ventured on the streets would hug the foot wide shade of the low buildings like lichen clings to tree bark. But here's the funny part of it: When the sun sets it begins to cool off, and at night it is positively necessary to sleep under blankets. The nights are delightfully cool, and I presume it is because one is able to get a good sleep that it is possible to live in that climate."—Washington Post.

Tobacco in Italy.

The per capita consumption of tobacco is lower in Italy than in any other European country, being a trifle over a pound.

The Black Hand Business.

Mrs. Bart—My husband got a letter today saying something dreadful would happen if he didn't send the writer a sum of money. Mrs. Smart—My husband gets dunned for his bills too.

Same Thing.

Scribbler—I don't like the word "chase." Give me a synonym. Scrawler—How would housecleaning-time do?

History is but the unrolled scroll of prophecy.—Garfield.

What Spinster Signifies.

It was a maxim among our frugal forbears that a young woman should never be married until she had spun herself a set of body, table and bed linen. From this custom all unmarried women were termed spinsters, in spite of the fact they still retain the title regardless of spinning.

Uncut Diamonds.

The Bug Bible.

The "bug Bible" is so called because of its rendering of Psalms xci, 5, "Afraid of bugs by night." Our present version (A. D., 1551) reads, "Terrors by night."

Do You Suffer From Headaches?

There are few people who have never experienced a headache from one cause or another. It affects all ages and both sexes alike, but the female sex is naturally the more effected through the higher nervous development and more delicate organization of the system. Those also of a nervous temperament and studious habits are peculiarly susceptible to it.

The presence of headache nearly always tells us that there is another disease which, although we may not be aware of it, is still exerting its baneful influence and perhaps awaiting an opportunity to assert itself plainly.

Burdock Blood Bitters has, for years, been curing all kinds of headaches, and if you will only give it a trial we are sure it will do for you what it has done for thousands of others.

Headache and Constipation Cured.

Mrs. John Connors, Burlington, N.S., writes: "I have been troubled with headache and constipation for a long time. After trying different doctors' medicine a friend asked me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I find I am completely cured after having taken three bottles. I can safely recommend it to all."

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, were an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

HARDLY FOR IMMEDIATE USE

Boy's Purchase Not of Such a Practical Nature as Fond Father Had Hoped.

On the day the Boy was 11 years old he visited an artist friend. The artist likes boys. He entertained the Boy royally. He gave him a gun and cigarette coupons worth $2.50. The Boy was proud of the gun, but he thought still more of the coupons.

"What are you going to get with them, son?" asked his mother.

"I don't know," said the Boy.

His mother was about to offer a few suggestions, but the Boy's father interfered.

"Just let Jim alone," he said. "Let him pick out his own prize. He knows what he wants."

"But he'll get something foolish," argued the practical mother.

"No, he won't," said the father. "That boy's got the best judgment of any boy I ever saw. He won't throw his money away. He'll come home with something useful—something that he needs right on the spot. I wouldn't be afraid to bet on that."

So the mother finally gave in. On Saturday the Boy went downtown to exchange his coupons for a prize. When he came home the family was gathered at the dinner table talking about him.

"Come, dear," said his mother, "show mother what her little man got."

They sat expectant while the Boy unwrapped his prize. After a little they spoke. The mother said: "What did I tell you?" and the father said: "Well, I'll be darned!"

The Boy had bought a razor.

NOT JUST WHAT SHE MEANT

Fair One's Loving Protestation Sounded Somewhat Odd to Passionate Wooer.

It was, indeed, a beautiful night. The gentle zephyrs played musically amid the delicate fronds of the turnip-tops, and wafted from far-distant fields the subtle perfume of the luscious onion and the fragrance of decaying cabbages.

"Betsy," he whispered, as they sat together on the fence surrounding Mrs. Filligan's pigsty, "how beautiful you be! Jes' think of it, Betsy. When us be married us will have a pig of our own! Think of that, Betsy!"

"Ian," she whispered, a note of resentment in her voice, "what do I care for pigs? I shan't want a pig when I've got you!"

Then all was silent once more, save for the musical frolics of the zephyrs already mentioned.—London Tit-Bits.

Couldn't Move Him.

"Yep, th' cunnel is used to cyclones. He had half a dozen of 'em at that ranch of his out in Kansas. He was tellin' me yesterday 'bout the wust one. It unrooted his house, an' crushed his barn, an' blew two miles of fence clean over inter th' nex' county."

"Pretty stiff blow."

"Yep, Ninety-mile-an-hour. Th' cunnel says he crawled out of the cyclone cellar after it was all over, an' what do you suppose was the first thing he saw?"

"Give it up."

"He looked across his back lot, an', by gum, there was his hired man still sittin' on th' fence!"

Red-Headed Girls and Autos.

"Automobiles and red-headed girls both flourish abundantly in this invigorating climate," says the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, "giving us one more point of superiority over Charleston." But will not our contemporary admit that the Rochester red-headed girl flourishes a little too abundantly? We think that she should be five feet four or five and weigh not over 110, but our impression is that the Rochester beauty flourishes to the weight of about 140 and sometimes 160. The ideal is a lissome, willowy and slim and not an abundant flourisher.—Charleston News and Courier.

Military Attache's Duties.

The duties of a military attache are to make himself thoroughly acquainted with every change that takes place in military affairs and to report from time to time on the mobilization, armament and equipment, of the power to which he is accredited. The task is one of no little difficulty, as a military attache must be thoroughly alive to all that concerns the professional interests, be diplomatically and socially "persona grata" and must refrain from procuring information in an underhand manner. In time of war the privilege of being attached to the headquarters staff of an army is usually conceded to representatives of friendly nations.

FUTURE SPHERE MAPPED OUT

Budding Genius Seemed Set Aside to Some Day Adorn the Legal Profession.

"That boy," said the second hand book dealer, nodding toward a freckled faced lad swishing a feather duster around promiscuously, "is a wonder in his way."

"Well, I don't care what he is in his way," responded a testy customer, who frequented the shop, "so long as he doesn't get in mine, which he does every time he can."

"I know, I know," sighed the dealer, "but what am I to do? He is my only stepson and he's got to have a job. Yesterday I gave him a copy of 'Dr. Syntax' to put where it belonged and did he do it? Oh, yes, he done it—nit. I found it to-day over there among those books marked 'Medical.'"

The testy customer granted with a sort of satisfaction.

"But that is nothing to what he did a month ago," the dealer went on. "One day he came to me with a copy of 'The Reign of Law' and asked where he should put it. 'Don't you know where it ought to go?' said I, provoked that a boy of his size didn't know a novel by the feel of it. 'I wasn't sure,' said he, 'whether it ought to go under the head of "Meterological" or "Legal."' Now, what do you think of that? He ought to know enough to go in out of the rain, oughtn't he?"

The testy customer grunted again and chuckled.

"Let him alone, let him alone," he said. "He'll be a fine lawyer one of these days."

WHEN WISDOM IS FORGOTTEN

Extraordinary How Business Men Can Be Induced to Dabble in Silly Speculation.

In all vision there is a blind spot; every savant is a fool upon some topic. This is exemplified by the readiness with which the most astute business and professional man will dabble in speculation—such as mining and allurements similar.

What man of ordinary common sense would think of buying a house which he had never seen and his agent had never seen, or a horse, or a gun, or almost anything into which he is putting money, without privilege of examination and expectation of using that privilege? And yet the majority of men will invest, "sight unseen," as the boys say, in a mine, in an oil well, in a rubber plantation, merely upon the word of a machine-made prospectus.

Somehow ninety-nine out of a hundred men who thus invest, as a side issue, seem to anticipate that chance will overlook their utter disregard of business principles and will work a miracle in their favor. They go upon the theory "A fool for luck." This is why speculation of this nature is fallen into evil ways, and why a gold mine so often proves a gold brick.

The public has itself to blame. Mines, oil wells, rubber plantations can be made sources of profit, and are made sources of profit; but they should not be played as one plays a slot machine.—Edwin L. Sabin, in Lippincott's.

A Dawning Suspicion.

"Why do you never take the young lady anywhere?"

"She won't go out with me. Says she can't leave mamma."

"She's very thoughtful of mamma."

"Either that, or I'm the wrong shape.

Unreliable Indications.

"Foreign travel is very improving," said the studious girl.

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne; "although you can't always tell where a person has been by the pictures on the postcards he sends home."

Stomach Blood and Liver Troubles

Much sickness starts with weak stomach, and consequent poor, impoverished blood. Nervous and pale people look good, rich, red blood. Their stomachs need invigorating for, after all, a man can be no stronger than his stomach.

A remedy that makes the stomach strong and the liver active, makes rich red blood and overcomes and drives out disease-producing bacteria and cures a whole multitude of diseases.

Get rid of your Stomach Weakness and Liver Laziness by taking a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—the great Stomach Restorative, Liver Invigorator and Blood Cleanser.

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

WHY HOUSE WASN'T BUILT.

Owing to Developments Unlooked for, Mrs. Jorem Decided to Sell the Lot.

There never was such a couple as the Joremns for doing inconventional things and so it was no surprise to their friends to receive an invitation to a "house building party," the address being in a section of empty lots in the outskirts of the town. The party consisted of going to a lot that the Joremns had bought, the turning up a few sods by the men and women of the party and then repairing to the nearest roadside inn for a modest collation of cheese sandwiches and beer. At the table it was disclosed that the Joremns were going to build a suburban cottage on the lot at once.

A few weeks later one of the women guests met Mrs. Jorem on the street and asked her how the house was coming on.

"It's all off," replied Mrs. Jorem, briskly. "We sold that lot the next week after the party."

"Get a good offer for it?" was the sympathetic inquiry.

"Oh, no, it wasn't that. But you see Jorem's mother called on us the next day and when she had satisfied her curiosity about the party and the plans for the house she said she hoped there would be a room for her in it, and Jorem, like a dutiful son, said 'of course.' I made J. act like a dutiful husband and sell that lot right away. I prefer boarding."

WANTED ALL TO UNDERSTAND

Small Maiden's Somewhat Startling Explanation of the Omission of Grace.

A tiny girl of seven gave a dinner-party the other day, for which 12 covers were laid, and that number of small maidens sat down to dine. It was a real little girls' dinner, and the hostess herself presided, sitting at the head of the table. She had been very anxious, in looking forward to it, to do everything as it should be done.

"Mamma," she asked, "shall we say grace?"

"No," said mamma; "it will be a very informal dinner, and I think you need not do that."

That meant one ceremony the less to go through, and was a relief. But the little lady was anxious to have all her guests understand it.

So, as they gathered about the table she explained:

"Mamma says that this is such an infernal dinner that we need not have grace to-day."

An Artist's Lucky Number.

"I have not in my painting career so far saturated myself in the spirit of the ancients as to embrace all their superstitions, but I do confess to a small superstition regarding the number seventeen. I have always found this a most lucky number for me. My wife was 17 when I first met her, and the number of the house to which I took her when we were married was 17. My present house did bear the same number; and the first spade was put to the work of building it on August 17. This was in 1885. I had then been in possession of the place for three years, during that time designing and making plans and sketches for the house. It was on November 17, 1886, that we took up our residence there."—Strand Magazine.

That Settled It.

The commissioners in lunacy were nonplussed. The man on whose mental condition the courts had appointed them to pass seemed perfectly sane, in spite of all testimony to the contrary. His every action, his every remark was rational. They were about to give up in despair when matters took an unexpected turn. "Oh, doctor, permit me to return the umbrella I borrowed from you last week," said the patient.

And then, at the thought of earning their fees with no qualms of conscience, the learned men decided that anyone who would voluntarily return a borrowed umbrella should be placed under restraint.

This simply proves how trifles will ever mold our destinies.

Doesn't Care for the Just Man.

Do you know it is not a compliment to be called a just man? It carries with it an intolerant spirit, a mean disposition, and a fault-finding manner. There must not be too much justness in this country. The deeds must be filtered and sugar coated. The just man is the man who demands that everybody come up to his standard. Ever think how hard a job that is? We have our own standards and it keeps us busy measuring up to them, but to have to measure up to some other man's standard is awful, simply awful.—Lawrence (Kan.) Journal.

A Little Sermon to Girls.

Each one of us, then, must do these two things: Understand ourselves, and understand others. It is not enough to claim the right of the individual to "express" as he sees fit. It is impertinent to announce that "my mother is behind the times." None of us can grow rightly if we grow rudely, defiantly, wounding unnecessarily, failing in kindness and consideration. We may sometimes have to give pain, as when one changes a church, and so offends a parental prejudice. But if conviction be strong, one cannot be irritable, the crisis is too vital, and it is just because we do lack real conviction in any thing we take that we grow irritable in little things. Conviction makes us serious. It is when we have only half thought out some subject for ourselves that we grow irritable and prove unequal to the task of either enlightening those we fail or of steering the bark of our cherished purposes through distracting channels.—Mother's Boast.

GANG OUT OF BUSINESS.

Winnipeg's Power Plant Is Flooded by Burst Flume.

Winnipeg, Nov. 24.—Winnipeg is in darkness, and all the streets and suburban cars, are sitting on tracks where the cutting off of the current found them at 4.40 yesterday afternoon.

It is quite probable that the car service will not be effective for a week. The Winnipeg Electric Street Railway's flume at Lac Du Bonnet, burst yesterday, causing a flooding of the power house, and not until late yesterday evening was the water diverted.

As yet the extent of the damage is unknown, but if the generators should have been wet, it is highly probable the service will be tied up for a week.

Meantime, the street lights are out, as the city, despite their suit with the company, depends on the company for street lightning. House and office buildings depending on electric light are dimly illuminated by the steam plant which is kept as a reserve. However, it was hopeless to attempt the car service with this plant, although it will probably be used to stable the cars after midnight, when the call for power is at the lowest.

The disaster will be fresh evidence for the judge in whose hands the issue between the city and railway company is now resting for adjudication. The company claimed the car service was operated by a steam plant, which the charter requires to be within the city limits, while the Lac du Bonnet plant served the general light and power contracts.

Standard Oil Will Appeal.

New York, Nov. 24.—The Standard Oil Co. announced authoritatively yesterday that it had no intention of seeking an amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law, but will proceed with the appeal to the United States Supreme Court, which, as already announced through Mortimer F. Elliott, its general solicitor, is to be taken from the decree of the U. S. Circuit Court at St. Paul. He said yesterday: "Although the decree enjoins the Standard Oil Co. from voting its shareholdings in subsidiary companies or receiving dividends from them, there is no reason why the individual holders among whom such shares would be divided under the decrees should not elect their own officers in the subsidiary companies and receive their own dividends from these companies.

"A proxy system among our 5,000 shareholders would certainly be no more unmanageable than the same system as now used by railroads and industrial companies, with say 5,000 shareholders.

"In brief, there is no cause for the market to fear a forced liquidation of the securities the Standard Oil Co. now holds."

Quebec Judgeship.

Montreal, Nov. 24.—There is a strong movement on foot here favoring the appointment of Hon. W. A. Weir, Provincial Treasurer of the province, to the vacancy on the Superior Court bench vacated by the late Justice Curran.

It will be remembered that when the Conservative administration called Solicitor-General Curran to the bench, replacing the late Chief Justice Johnson, a strong protest was uttered on the ground that the appointment belonged to the English speaking Protestant minority, but Sir Mackenzie Bowell, although an Orangeman, held firm. Now it is said that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is disposed to give back the appointment to a gentleman of that faith, and that Hon. Mr. Weir will be the new justice.

So far the names of J. C. Walsh, ex-M.P., and D. R. Murphy, of the legal firm of Gouin, Lemieux, Murphy and Berard, have been mentioned.

Cleveland's Subway Plan.

Cleveland, Nov. 24.—Following a conference between Mayor Tom L. Johnston and the administration councilmen, two ordinances granting a $50,000,000 subway system to the Cleveland Subway Co., were introduced in the City Council. A subway grant to the same company felt several hundreds short of a majority at a referendum election held Nov. 2, coincident with Mayor Johnson's defeat.

Politician Burned to Death.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 24.—Representative David A. De Armond, one of the oldest Democratic members of Congress, and his grandson, Waddie, aged 6, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed the De Armond home at Butler, Mo. He had been in Congress 19 years and was especially versed in legal labor subjects.

Suffered Terrible Pains From His Kidneys.

Perhaps no other organs work harder than the kidneys to preserve the general health of the body, and most people are troubled with some kind of kidney complaint, but do not suspect it.

There is no way of getting the kidney poisons out of the system except through the kidneys, and no medicine so effective in taking them out as Doan's Kidney Pills.

They help the kidneys to flush off the acrid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages.

Doan's Kidney Pills are entirely vegetable, and may be safely taken by old and young.

Mr. Dougald A. McIsaac, Broad Cove Banks, N.S., writes:—"I was troubled with my kidneys for nine months, and suffered with such terrible pains across the small of my back all the time that I could hardly get around. After taking two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I began to feel better, and by the time I had taken three I was completely cured."

Price 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

In ordering specify "Doan's."

Largest Wooden Vessel.

Bath, Me., Nov. 24.—The largest wooden vessel ever built in the United States and the largest sailing vessel of American registry will be launched from a local shipyard on December 14.

She is the six-masted schooner Wyoming, and her official measurements give her a gross tonnage of 3,730. The Wyoming is 330 feet long over all, 320 feet keel, and 30.4 feet deep.

Brother and Sister Die.

Grafton, Nov. 24.—Is pneumonia contagious is being asked by some of the residents of Haldimand Township. Just a week ago the remains of Miss Ellen Rolson were laid in the family plot in Vernonville cemetery. After going home from her funeral her brother John, aged 53, with whom she resided, complained of illness. Monday, he, too, died of pneumonia.

Accidentally Shot Himself.

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—Charles Coursall, 11 Blackburn avenue, accidentally shot himself yesterday. He was cleaning an old revolver and apparently did not know that one of the chambers was loaded. A bullet entered his body, causing death in a few minutes.

Actress Weds Indian Prince.

London, Nov. 24.—Dolly Parnell, a popular musical comedy actress, was married yesterday to Prince Neser Ali Khan, son of one of the most powerful of the native rulers of India. The prince presented his bride with jewels valued at $100,000.

Taxicab Stock
The Story of the Dollars

The ideal way of earning money is to make your dollars work for you. Make your dollar work where it will earn the most by seeking for the investment that will pay the best.

The dollar that earns but 2 or 3 per cent. is almost as bad as the idle dollar which earns nothing. We advise Taxicab Stock at $6 per share, par value $5.00, for beginning January 1910, it can pay a dividend of 10% per annum or 2½% quarterly.

The Idle Dollar

The dollar that is tied up in bad investments—

—the dollar that is invested in (conservative) low interest bearing securities, usually sold at a high premium—

—the dollar that is not invested anywhere, reposing in the old stocking under the mattress, or in the tea-pot on the pantry shelf—

—the dollar that buys the things that you would be better without—

—this is the idle dollar.

The idle dollar gives no keen comfort in holding, keeping, owning or wanting.

The Busy Dollar

The dollar that is working for you all the time—

—the dollar that brings you ceaseless percentages of returns—

—the dollar that is invested in good commercial stocks or industrial enterprises and earns away above the ordinary bank interest—

—the dollar that by quick turns and clear-sighted doubles, trebles and quadruples itself—

—this is the busy dollar.

To keep your dollar busy make it work for you and earn big returns.

An investment in Taxicab Stock will prove the best known medium.

The Ideal Investment

An industry that fills a long-felt want, which supplies an insistent and growing demand, which has possibilities of great future expansion, is the ideal investment.

Such a one is Toronto's system of Taxicabs, for in barely six months it has proved its big earning capacity.

What it may do in the future, with an outfit increased many times, no one can only surmise.

Taxicab Stock has a great future, and the time to buy Taxicab Stock is now.

SUBSCRIPTIONS will be accepted up to 100 shares in the order received at this office.

Turkeys Held by Customs Officers.

Malone, N.Y., Nov. 24.—Yesterday several tons of as fine Canadian turkeys as ever gobbled are detained here by the customs officers because they tried to help celebrate the American Thanksgiving Day, to-morrow, without paying an entrance fee. Turkeys are selling at from 30 cents a pound up.

Big Steamer in Danger.

St. Joseph, Mich., Nov. 24.—The big passenger steamer Puritan, rode at anchor off New Buffalo all night, only her anchors preventing her from being dashed on the rocky shore. She had a crew of thirty and a passenger list of fifteen. She was picked up and towed to South Chicago Harbor by a tug yesterday morning.

Disabled by sixty mile gale, the Puritan summoned assistance by wireless distress signal, bringing the steamer City of Benton Harbor of the same line to her assistance.

An Old-Time Operator.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—With a record as the oldest telegrapher in the world, in point of years in active service at the key, J. D. Volty, station master for the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, at South Elgin for the last twenty-five years, has retired.

His record dates back fifty-five years. Since 1854 he has never earned a dollar away from the telegraph instrument.

He served in the civil war and transmitted Sherman's war plan to Lincoln.

Can't Garnishee Soldier's Pay.

Kingston, Nov. 24.—Lieut.-Colonel Hemming, D.O.C., for military district No. 3, has issued a "crying down credit" regulation, advertising that "under the act a soldier cannot be placed upon stoppage of pay for a private debt, and if the inhabitants suffer soldiers to contract debts they will do so at their own risk."

Constable Cochrane Delivered Summonses to Four Young Men Alleged to Have Cracked Peanuts, Laughed and Talked in Bethel Church.

LAUGHED DERISIVELY

High County Constable Cochrane left this morning on a mission to a part of Dummer township, to deliver a number of summonses and subpoenas to young men who are alleged to have created a disturbance in the Bethel church, about three miles north of Warsaw, on Sunday night last. In the complaint which was laid by Mr. Wm. F. Payne, one of the officials of the church, it is stated from youths caused the trouble. This consisted of crushing peanut shells and crunching them on the floor, of laughing and talking, and when they were remonstrated with they are alleged to have laughed in the speaker's face. Other things which would tend to create a disturbance are mentioned in the charges. A large number of witnesses will be called in the case which will be heard by Magistrate Edmison on Friday afternoon.

SIX LIVES LOST

Disastrous Fire Claims Victims in New York Tenement House.

Special to The Examiner.

New York, Nov. 24.—Penned in by flames in the four-storey tenement house at No. 1499 Herkimer St., New York, six persons were burned to death, and fourteen were injured, four of whom it was thought early today would die. Fire Marshall Brophy declares the fire was of incendiary origin.

"FAKE MEDICINES"

are fast being eliminated from the market by the action of the Pure Food and Drugs Law, but there are many dependable advertised medicines, such as the Cod Liver and Iron preparation called VINOL, constantly prescribed by reputable physicians, who are successful and broad enough to recognise the intrinsic merit of such a preparation. This combination of two world-famed tonics builds up the system when run-down and weakened by sickness or age quicker than any other means. McDermaid & Jury, Druggists, Peterborough, Ont.

OBITUARY.

ROBERT E. WALTON.

A telegram was received this morning, announcing the death of Robert Edmund Walton at Vancouver Hospital, eldest son of Mr. Edgerton Walton, formerly of this city. The late R. E. Walton was born in Peterborough, Nov. 25, 1873. He leaves to mourn his loss besides his mother, and father, 3 sisters and one brother, also his wife and two small children, who were with him at the time of his death. He was married six years ago to Miss Maud McCallum of Port Hope.

He was a nephew of Mrs. Wm. Langford, Mrs. J. H. Cavanah and Mrs. W. J. Green.

SHOULD HAVE A COMMISSIONER

Mr. J. Q. Allin of This City Speaks of What One Did in Securing New Industries for His Former Home Town—Good for This City.

STATES SOME FACTS

Mr. John Q. Allin, the local manager of the Prudential Life Assurance Co., has, since taking up his residence in Peterborough, manifested a great interest in the city. In connection with the agitation to have a commissioner appointed to work with the Board of Trade in an endeavour to secure new industries, Mr. Allin gave an Examiner reporter information that ought to prove interesting. He is a former resident of Poughkeepsie, N.J., a city that has made wonderful progress during the past ten years. In that time the population has increased from twenty to thirty thousand, a large number of new industries having been secured.

The success and rapid advancement of Poughkeepsie is attributed to the energy of Mr. Hoge, who is employed by the Board of Commerce. Mr. Hoge is paid a good salary, but he has accomplished a great deal for his town. On hearing that a company is looking for a location he goes right to the headquarters and impresses upon the directors the advantages of the town. One of the large industries he secured was the Fiat Automobile Works, employing over eight hundred hands.

Mr. Allin believes that Peterborough should have a commissioner and that it would be in its best interests.

MOTHERS PROTEST FOOTBALL GAME OFF

Montclair Academy-High School Contest Vetoed as Result of West Orange Boy's Death.

New York, Nov. 23—An appeal from the mothers of members of the football teams of the Montclair, N. J., Academy and the Montclair High School resulted in the cancellation of the annual game between the two, which was to have taken place yesterday afternoon on the grounds of the Montclair Academy.

The parents of the boys were wrought up over the death of Albert P. Wibiralske, a member of the West Orange High School eleven, injured in the game with Trinity Chapel team in East Orange Friday afternoon. Young Wibiralski's neck was broken going through left tackle and he died in the Orange Memorial Hospital.

The death alarmed the parents of the Montclair boys who were to take part in Saturday's game, and Herbert W. Dutsch, principal of the High School, and John M. MacVicar, head master of the Academy, were asked to cancel the contest.

Mr. Dutsch and Mr. MacVicar held a conference and decided to call the game off. The news caused disappointment among the members of the two schools as well as the players. Some of the latter wept.

Owing to the fact that the cancellation of the game did not become generally known, nearly 1,000 persons went to the Academy grounds.

Before the fatal acciden to the Wibiralski boy Friday, Headmaster MacVicar decided to make public his views regarding revision of the football rules for interscholastic games, but later agreed to wait until after the annual game between the Academy and the High School teams.

Mr. MacVicar believes that as the game is at present conducted for the preparatory schools it is too strenuous He points out that for basket ball there are three sets of rules—for colleges, for the Y. M. C. A. teams and for professional fives. In football no such allowances are made for the weaker teams. The rules are made with a view of satisfying only the demands of the colleges.

The game between the High School and the High School Alumni on Thanksgiving Day, has also been cancelled.

COW RAN AT LARGE

Charge Against a Woman in Police Court Was Dismissed.

A woman was before City Clerk Armstrong, who acted for Magistrate Dumble in his absence, at the police court this morning for allowing her cow to run at large. She stated that when she went down town last Saturday the animal got out of the stable and she admitted that it wandered onto her neighbour's lawn. The charge was dismissed, the defendant promising to keep the cow on her own property in the future.

WHERE IS MISS MEEKS?

No Light Has Been Thrown on Her Whereabouts During the Progress of the Barrie Fire Inquest Last Night.

FURTHER EVIDENCE

Barrie, Nov. 23.—The Music Hall fire inquest was adjourned yesterday by Coroner Wells until 10 o'clock Friday morning.

Expressman Stone, who was recalled yesterday, stated that Mrs. Guthrie, when expressing the trunks, said they were the property of Miss Meeks, and in reply to Stone stated the young lady with her was Miss Meeks.

Jas. Shrubsole, fireman, told of a search made after the fire was extinguished. Upstairs in the back room they found some rags still afire in a box, which they threw out of the window. He thought he smelled kerosene, but considered it unlikely that the fire originated in this box. Five or six boxes of parlour matches were strewn about upstairs. Witness thought the fire began at the top of the cellar steps.

Warren Johnson, another fireman, corroborated the evidence of Shrubsole as to the finding of rags. He smelled coal oil as soon as he entered the room. In his opinion, fire from the hall could not have set fire to the rags in the box. In a closet off the room were found matches with the sulphurous ends burned off.

Wm. Willis, electrician, and Bruce Thompson, gave particulars of the fire.

F. T. Grafton, insurance agent, told of Guthrie taking out a blanket policy for $660 on the contents of the house November 1. About November 10 Guthrie applied for insurance on the show equipment. He gave him interim receipts for two policies of $200 and $450, respectively, but the companies declined the risk.

Miss M. Barwick told of Mrs. Guthrie applying to her company for a policy on the Music Hall contents at 11.30 a.m. Wednesday.

Chief Smith, who is also a furniture dealer, swore that the house did not contain more than $200 or $300 worth of furniture. Examination of the house after the fire disclosed some matches strewn about the kitchen floor near the cellar stairway. He was unable to say where the fire started.

A. W. Laidman related how Mrs. Guthrie called on him just before noon and arranged for an inventory of the property in the Music Hall. The inventory was made at 3 p.m. He put $225 insurance on the picture machine, and she obtained an interim receipt about 6 p.m. paying $28. She told him that she hadn't applied for or been refused before on the same risk.

S. J. Guthrie, being called, said that he knew nothing of the whereabouts of the youth McDonald who is wanted to give evidence. The contents of the trunk belonging to the mysterious Miss Meeks being displayed before him, witness admitted knowing some things and not others, but on the whole would not state absolutely as to whether the bulk of the articles did or did not belong to his family. One of the articles was a testament bearing the name of S. J. Guthrie and another book held a record of family births. He couldn't account for Miss Meeks having these things.

Clara Guthrie, recalled, denied flatly that she was in Allendale with trunks as described by Baggageman Lowe and Expressman Stone. She said she never was in Allandale in her life. She said Miss Meeks looks like her somewhat. When asked concerning the contents of the trunks, she acknowledged acquaintance with two or three articles, but others she never had seen before.

Mrs. Guthrie examined again regarding the trunks, recognised numerous articles which had been given to Miss Meeks, she said. She contradicted Stone's statement that she expressed trunks, and said Miss Meeks had done so. Asked regarding the whereabouts of Miss Meeks, she replied, "I'm not her guardian."

In addition a splendid Selig film "The Stage Driver," one of those stirring Western film dramas is being shown The bill is even superior to the usual high standard set by the Princess.

MANY BODIES ARE FOUND

One Hundred and Sixty-eight Miners Were Found Early This Morning in a Tangled Heap in the St. Paul Mine.

TWENTY STILL MISSING

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 24.—The bodies of 168 miners were found early today huddled in a tangled mass at the foot of the escape shaft of the third vein of the wrecked St. Paul Mine. Black damp had caused the men's death. All means of escape had been blocked by debris falling and covering the top of the staircase. Appearances indicated that the men had fought hard to push through the obstructions. Death had not come to many for hours, if not days. Two crude wooden ventilation fans were affixed to the shaft wall and stairway, which the men had turned by hand in attempts to get air. There are still a score of men missing.

FROM GOWGANDA

Messrs. W. C. Austin and Jos. Mills Back From Business Trip.

Messrs. W. C. Austin and Jos. Mills have returned from Gowganda and the mining towns of that district where they have spent the past two weeks looking after certain claims held by the Peterborough-Gowganda Syndicate. Winter is beginning to close over the country and their trip down the Montreal River was expected to be the last of the season. The sleighing in Gowganda is good, the snow having fallen several weeks ago. The new road from Elk City to Gowganda is now being used, and is proving a boon to the residents of the latter place, who are enabled to make purchases at reasonable prices. Formerly the goods had to be packed into the place, and as the men receive high wages the fact that potatoes sold at $7.50 a bag will be understood. What is now needed, Mr. Austin states is a road from Charlton, on the new railway to Elk City. The communication between these two places now is through a swamp and over a muskeg road. When the swamp freezes for the winter this makes a good road, but in the meantime it is wretched travelling. The prospects are that there will not be the rush of people during the coming winter that was witnessed last year. Business, however, is still very bright and brisk. Mr. Austin saw a silver nugget that weighed 300 lbs. It was taken from the Reeves-Dobie mine, and was said to be 80 per cent. pure silver.

ELECTRICITY FLOWS AGAIN

Damage Has Been Extensively Repaired and Almost Every House Should be Lighted To-night in the Same Old Way.

TELEPHONE TROUBLES

The Examiner learned to-day from the managers of the Peterborough Ligt & Power Co. and the OtOonabee Power Co. that all the services should be in working order by to-night. Mr. Larmonth stated that many belated reports had been received to-day of house services that had suffered in Monda ynight's storm. The company's staff have been extremely busy in an endeavour to repair the damage done. The Otonabee company has its services practically complete again and Peterborough homes should be lighted by electricity tonight. It was learned this afternoon that the long distance Bell Telephone system had not repaired all the damage done to their many wires and at three o'clock only one wire was complete and that was one to Lakefield. The actual damage done by the storm to telegraph and telephone companies can scarcely be appreciated by the uninitiated.

TEN MILLION WEDS TWENTY MILLION

Mrs. William Hayes Chapman Rejects Noblemen for New Yorker and Unites Two Fortunes.

New York, Nov. 24.—A quiet wedding at the St. Regis Hotel yesterday united two American fortunes estimated at $10,000,000 and $20,000,000.

The bride is Mrs. William Hayes Chapman, whom numerous foreign noblemen sought in vain to wed, and the bridegroom is Philip Van Valkenberg o fthis city, a descendant of an old Dutch family, whose personal fortune is estimated at $20,000,000. The new Mrs. Van Kaltenbergh is the widow of a Brooklyn dry goods merchant.

Mrs. Van Valkenbergh is well known in London and Paris and only recently returned from abroad. At the time it was reported that she was betrothed to Gen. Spiridovitch of the Russian army.

SPECIAL SUNDAY FOR MISSIONS

Will be Celebrated on Sunday Next at St. Luke's Church.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Luke's church are observing next Sunday as a day of special intercession for missions. A special service has been arranged for next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at which the Rev. Dr. Langfeldt will preach a special sermon on the work of the W.A. and to which the members of St. Mark's, Otonabee and Sunnyside branches are heartily invited. The members of the W.A. of the three branches will attend Holy Communion in a body and invite all the communicants of the church, particularly of the missionary organisations, to join them in this service.

HOFFERD STUDY CLUB

Organized in Connection With The Y. M. C. A. Last Evening.

The Hofferd Study Club, in connection with the Y.M.C.A. for the purpose of Bible study and social intercourse was organised last evening. Will be Held at Knox Church To-night

The annual public meeting of the Women's Missionary Association of Knox Church will be held this evening at 8 o'clock. An address on China will be given by Miss Fee of the Tabernacle. An offering will be taken up for missions. Special music will be rendered. The Ladies' Aid Executive and teachers will meet at the close of this meeting.

THEY WANT THE CANAL DEEPENED

Large Deputation Waits Upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier To-day Asking That the Welland Canal be Enlarged Soon as Possible.

MET WITH SYMPATHY

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 24.—A big deputation from the great lakes and St. Lawrence Improvement Association waited on the Government to-day with the request that the Welland Canal be deepened from 14 to 18 feet either by the existing route or a partially new one. Sir Wilfrid Laurier replying, assured the deputation that he was in full sympathy with the project. The Government, he said, was anxious to deepen the Welland Canal, because it believed navigation could be extended to the foot of the Rockies, and that with the improvement of the system to allow heavy freighters to come to Montreal, that port would out-distance New York. The Welland Canal project would be undertaken as soon as the finances permitted.

PUPILS HURT IN EXPLOSION DURING CHEMISTRY LESSON

Montreal, Nov. 24.—Miss Jessie Campbell, Greavenor Avenue, Westmount, who was burned by sulphuric acid in an accident which occurred recently during a chemistry experiment at the Westmount Academy, is still under the doctor's care, but is progressing favourably.

When Mr. D. L. Campbell was seen at his residence Saturday evening he detailed his daughter's injuries. A part of one eyebrow and the eyelashes of one eye were burned off by the flying acid. The girl's neck was also burned, the acid being so strong that it ate through the dress. Mr. Campbell looks upon the happening merely as an accident. He said it was expected that his daughter would be able to return to school in a few days.

Herbert Hill, the son of Mr. F. Max Hill, of Elm Avenue, Westmount, was not so severely burned. He sustained between ten and fifteen burns on the face and neck, his injuries necessitating the attendance of a doctor. One drop of the acid inflicted a painful though not dangerous burn right on the eyeball of one eye.

Mr. Hill, his father, says although the stars resulting from he burns will probably be evident for several weeks, it is not expected the boy will be permanently marked.

Dr. H. M. Church, the physician, who was called directly after the accident occurred, said this morning that in spite of the fact that the burns sustained by the pupils were of a painful nature, nothing serious had happened. All had been more or less spattered with the flying acid, which had inflicted painful burns. The only cut of any consequence inflicted by the flying glass was that sustained by Mr. Bollit, the instructor. This, though it had bled profusely, was not of a serious nature.

THE IRISH MAT ARTISTS FOUGHT

O'Kelly and Connolly Roughed It on Mach That Fight was Stopped.

New York, Nov. 22.—Con. O'Kelly, of Cork, and Pat Connolly, of Galway, met in a wrestling match at the Grand Central palace to-night. It was not a wrestling match at all and after twenty minutes and six seconds of just plain dyed in the wool, blown in the bottle prize fighting, Captain of Police Lanstry jumped into the ring and threw the pair out simply because they were slugging, bare fisted. Both men made little attempt to "pin" each other to the mat. It was a mutual effort to send each other to the floor with a wild swing to the jaw.

Con. O'Kelly, the biggest and latest importation from Ireland, was the principal offender. He was sadly winded after ten minutes of tugging and pounding. At the finish Connolly's left eye was blacked, his nose torn, while O'Kelly sported a pulled lamp and a gory face. Tom Jenkins, no parlour performer himself, weakened at the sight and walked out of the ring saying, "This isn't wrestling, this is slugging and I disqualify both men."

The managers tried to patch it up but at this point Captain Langtry hopped into the ring and the battle of the Irish giants became only suited for comic history.

JUDGMENT RESERVED

TO BE GIVEN ON DEC. 27

The case of a number of shareholders against the Havelock Electric Light and Power Company in an action to set aside two hundred shares of the original stock of the Company, without value, as alleged, on the formation of the Company, or to compel payment of the sum of $5,000, being the amount represented by the stock in question, has occupied the attention of Mr. Justice Britton for the past three days. The suit was brought by J. W. Bennett and Richard Nolan against the directors, Alex. Rose, Dr. Holdcroft, J. W. Bryans, A. Curtis, and Wm. Mathieson.

Arguments for the plaintiffs began at one o'clock when court resumed, and the defence concluded shortly after 3 o'clock, when his Lordship stated that he would reserve judgment until December 27.

Mr. D. O'Connell is appearing for the plaintiffs, Mr. G. H. Porter, K. C., of Belleville, is acting for defendants, Dr. Holdcroft and Alex. Rose, and Mr. W. H. Kerr, of Cobourg, is acting for defendants Bryans and Curtis, Mr. S. T. Medd is acting for the Havelock Electric Light and Power Co., and Mr. R. Ruddy, K. C., for defendant, William Mathieson.

SPECIALTIES AT THE PRINCESS

New Feature That Should be Popular Will be Commenced To-morrow Night.

A new feature will be introduced at the Princes stheatre to-morrow night when Mr. Louis Julius, the well known Hebrew comedian of New York will be seen in refined specialties. The Princess will continue the policy thus inaugurated of supplying its patrons with popular specialties in addition to the regular present bill of the finest obtainable moving pictures. Mr. Julius who appears to-mororw night is a very clever comedian, his work being at once funny and clean and no doubt his work will be appreciated by the big crowds who are patronizing the Princess. He will be here for three nights. The most fastidious ill find nothing to complain about in the Princess specialties as Mr. Coon the proprietor, makes it one of the principal features of his contract that the acts should be pleasing and free from the slightest taint of vulgarity.

USUALLY ONE DOSE ENDS INDIGESTION

Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Gas and All Stomach Distress Vanishes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your stomach of poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas which sours your entire meal—interferes with digestion and causes so many sufferers of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your case is no different — you are a stomach sufferer, though you may call it by some other name; your meal and only trouble is that which you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost fifty cents at any Pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer in five minutes after taking a single dose that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort all of any kind of food you eat.

VOICE OF A GREAT NEED

The resolution which was unanimously carried by the City Council, Board of Trade and representative Citizens' meeting, November 9th, is as follows:

Moved by Mr. Daniel O'Connell, seconded by Mr. D. Hughes Charles:

WHEREAS the present rapid development of Canada must necessarily result in increasing the number and magnitude of the manufacturing industries of the Province of Ontario; and

WHEREAS it is apparent that it is only such municipalities as adopt energetic and effective means of bringing their advantages to the notice of the manufacturing public, that are likely to procure their proper share of such industries; and

WHEREAS the City of Peterborough possesses in an exceptionally high degree, local and natural advantages, resulting from its geographical position, railway facilities and water power; and

WHEREAS it is imperative, in the best interests of the city, and necessary for its future progress, that proper and effective means be adopted, at once, to lead to a comprehensive and clear understanding of the extent and value of these advantages, and to have them utilized in such a way, as will tend to promote the future industrial development of the city;

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, at this meeting of the citizens of Peterborough, called at the instance of the Board of Trade that it is the opinion of this meeting, that effective and energetic means should be forthwith taken by the Municipal Council of the City of Peterborough to promote the industrial interests of this city, and that the services of a competent and efficient officer be procured, who will devote his whole time and energy in acquiring knowledge of the peculiar advantages possessed by this city in consulting and advising with the Municipal Council respecting the same, and in promoting and in advancing the industrial welfare and interests of the city generally, and that proper funds be placed at his disposal for efficiently carrying out the objects of his appointment, and for the purpose of defraying his salary and expenses, provision be made by such additional levy as may be necessary, which in our opinion would be covered by half a mill on the dollar.

THE NEW RIFLE BRIGADE.

In the course of a reply to a question in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, Sir Frederick Borden stated that twelve rifles of the Mark II, double XX pattern, had been issued outside of those distributed among the militia. It turned out that seven of the twelve were given to:

Colonel Sam Hughes, M.P.
W. H. Sharp, M.P.
W. D. Staples, M.P.
J. A. Sexsmith, M.P.
J. D. Taylor, M.P.
William Price, M.P.
J. Arthurs, M.P.

Inasmuch as all these gentlemen are members of the Conservative party which, with the single exception of Col. Sam, has been denouncing the Ross rifle as a flagrant waste of public money, (etc., etc.) is it any wonder that the House roared with laughter?

The spectacle of members of a political party which has from one end of the country to the other being recipients of the much condemned rifle is one which the country will appreciate.—Ottawa Free Press.

HEROISM.

(Toronto Star.)

"One touch of nature makes the whole world kin." An Englishman and an Italian stand out as leaders of the little band of men who have been rescued from the St. Paul mine, after being a week entombed, and all were solicitous for one who is described as "a poor little Frenchman." All were heroes, it appears, but one, who wished to reserve the little moisture or water, which seeped into the space where the men had bricked themselves in, for the strongest. He tried to carry out literally the old savage practice of the "weakest to the wall," and "the survival of the fittest." Even he, however, came to be brotherly after a day or so of suffering and companionship with the others, so tragically brought together, and this late comradeship has resulted in a loyalty which refuses to give the name of the individual who was at first so desperate for his chance of life. Rarely in the history of coal mining, filled as it is with dark tragedies, have the agonies of disaster been so long drawn out as have this one, with its prolonged, discouraging, seemingly hopeless fight by heroic rescuers, against fire and fire-damp and falling walls, tons of debris and other gigantic obstructions. The reward has come by the rescue of twenty men, and others may be found. This is pitifully few, it is true, in comparison with the many who lost their lives in an indescribably awful way—and the sufferings and tortures of the mind of the bereaved, widows and orphans and others, who can fathom! But through it all, mysterious as it must ever be that men should have to suffer so, as it were wantonly, and without purpose, human nature has shone out so brightly as to rob death of some of its terrors and suffering of some of its pain. In that inferno of fire men have stood out as angels of light, and none more so than Father Heaney, of St. Mary's Church, Mendott, who has helped in the attempt at rescue all along, and whose account of the actual rescue reads like a benediction. To the men who went down the mine, time after time, taking their lives in their hands, over and over again, leaving the world of sunlight and sound for fearful sights and menacing death below, what measure of praise could be too much! On the last occasion the descent was made against the veto of experts, and with what the rescuers accounted almost a certainty of sacrificing their own lives to a forlorn hope of finding anyone alive. A granite obelisk ought to be erected on the spot and these men's names cut into it with an account of their daring, not so much as a reward to them—although that is their due—but as a relief to the public that owes them a debt, and as an inspiring example to all.

FAITH IN THE EMPIRE.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

Rev. Mr. Turnbull of Ottawa, voices views to the effect that Canada should not make any contribution in any shape to the naval forces of the British Empire. This view he sugars with the declaration that Canada will in an hour of need give her last dollar to help the Empire.

Well, it is a great thing, this British empire of which we form part—a great thing for peace, and civilisation, and humanity and Christianity. It is a noble thing to have faith in, and to wish to help safeguard.

The views of the Rev. Mr. Turnbull assume, first, that no hour of need is here; secondly, that when an hour of need does come, Canada's last minute dollars will be worth something.

But waiving that point, what about the value of Canada's dollars later on? First, where will Canada get the dollars in an hour of crisis? Canada borows all her money in England. Could she get any from England or anywhere else in an hour of danger for England and the empire?

If Canada could get money then, would it be of any good? In the German navy, they take three years to train a sailor. In the British navy they take five. Will a war between Germany and Great Britain last three years—or three months?

"We have a duty and a faith," Mr. Turnbull declares in effect, "so great a duty that we must spend our last dollar to honour it." "But," he says, "Don't let us make any preparations to be able to begin to honour it."

We recommend to Mr. Turnbull the idea of the epistle of St. James, 2: 17—18:

"17.—Even so, faith if it hath not works is dead, being alone.

"18.—Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith and I have works; shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will show thee my faith by my works."

IN AGONY WITH PILES

Mr. G. W. Cornell, with the Shaw Milling Co., St. Catharines, Ont., writes, "For six years I was a victim of itching, protruding piles and was in dreadful agony day and night. Doctors were unable to help me and I was about as miserable as any creature could be. My druggist advised me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I did and obtained relief from the first box and complete cure with the second. This ointment would be cheap at fifty dollars a box in view of what it did for me."

Work for the Unemployed.

Lack of employment is not a new question. Says the Liverpool Mercury of February 14, 1812: "It is of the highest importance that a committee of the legislature should immediately inquire into the causes of the present want of employment among the laboring classes, and whether means might not be found in a nation of which the revenue is immense by which a succession of public works," etc., etc. There were at that time, nearly 100 years ago, 16,000 unemployed in Liverpool. The same writer, after asking: "Is war the only employment that the state has to give the poor?" goes on to show that the pyramids of Egypt and the "elegant edifices of Greece" were built with the object of "giving continual employment to the laborer."

How High a Tiger Can Jump.

For the benefit of the prospective big game hunters a correspondent finally disposes of the theory that a tiger is unable to jump to any height from all fours. He records that he took refuge in a tree from a particular tiger. The beast, however, jumped up to him, "like an India rubber ball, a good seven feet," and it was only "by letting go with my right and ramming both barrels down his mouth that I did not have a very bad time of it."

The moral evidently is that when avoiding a tiger it is necessary to find a tree with its lowest branch at least 16 feet from the ground.

JEST OF THE NATURE FAKER.

Remarkable Fish Was Whiffletit, According to Facetious Waiter.

Seating himself at a restaurant table a Chicago man said:

"Waiter, what kind of fish have you?"

"O," said the waiter, "all kinds—whitefish, bluefish, gaylings, sea bass, weakfish, perch—"

"Pshaw!" yawned the customer, "cut that out. I'm tired of those common fishes. Ain't you got some new kind of fish; some kind I never ate before?"

"Well," said the waiter, "the whiffletits is very fine this morning."

"What in thunder is a whiffletit?"

"Why, don't a fish sharp like you know what a whiffletit is? Common enough here. You see, the whiffletit lives only in circular lakes. You go out and find a circular lake and hire a boat. Then you row out all alone to the middle of the lake, about a mile or so, and anchor. Then you take an augur and bore a hole in the water, and bait it by putting a piece of cheese on the edge of the hole. The whiffletit comes up to get the cheese, eats it and it makes him swell up so that he can't get back down the hole."

"Well," said the customer, breathless, "what then?"

"Why," replied the waiter, as he filled a glass of water, "you lean over the side of the boat and laugh the whiffletit to death. Want a few?"—Cleveland Leader.

PECULIAR WHEEL OF FORTUNE.

Breton Peasants Ascribe Miraculous Powers to Odd Contrivance.

In the village church of Comfort (near Pont-Croix), in western Brittany, is a very good specimen of the now rare "wheel of fortune." It is made of wood, with a row of bells on its outer rim and pivoted between a couple of rough beams—altogether very primitive workmanship. By means of a cord attached to a crank the wheels can be made to revolve and set all the bells a-jangling. I have often heard that the peasants believe that it has miraculous power of healing when run over the head of a sufferer who has placed a sou in the box to which the rope is padlocked. I received remarkable confirmation of this belief, for while making a photograph a well-to-do sailor's wife and her husband came into the church and looked round. The woman asked me if I thought there could be any truth in this belief, as her child was very backward in learning to talk. Her nurse, who came from those parts, had advised her to bring the baby and ring the bells of Comfort over his head, when he would be sure to talk. As she was passing she had looked in to see if it was worth trying!

Not Supposed to See or Know.

On the relief train that had been rushed to the scene of the railway wreck was a newspaper reporter, remarks the Chicago Tribune. The first victim he saw was a man whose eyes were in mourning and whose left arm was in a sling. With his hair full of dirt, one end of his shirt collar flying loose, and his coat ripped up the back, the victim was sitting on the grass and serenely contemplating the landscape. "How many people are hurt?" asked the reporter, hurrying up to him. "I haven't heard of anybody being hurt, young man," said the other. "How did this wreck happen?" "I haven't heard of any wreck." "You haven't? Who are you, anyhow?" "I don't know that it's any of your business, but I'm the claim agent of the road."

Oldtime Treatment of Maniacs.

Vienna's "Fools' tower," which is to be replaced by a more modern building, was remarkable for its extraordinary collection of strange instruments and fetters used in the treatment of the insane of past ages. There was a curious machine in which unruly maniacs were swung until they were in a state of stupefaction and therefore quiet. And the same idea caused the invention of a wheel that revolved like that in a modern squirrel cage. There was a narrow upright box called an "English coffin," from which the patient could look out, but could not move. When it was built in 1794, the "Fools' tower" marked a great change for the better in the housing of the insane. From 200 to 250 patients occupied its 139 cells.

He Knew the Folks.

An amusing comment was made by a miner at an ambulance lecture in Elphinstone, East Lothian, Scotland, recently. The lecturer had stated that if suffocation from choking was likely to ensue, the simplest remedy to give relief till medical aid arrived was to take a fine-pointed pen-knife and make a small incision in the throat. One of the miners then shouted: "Ye dinna ken Elphinstone folks. If I was to try that the morn, here's what wad happen: If that man died his folk wad hae me prosecuted for murder, and if he got better he himself would be the first to prosecute me for cutting his throat."

Warned of Father's Death.

There was a peculiar coincidence in connection with the sudden death of the Alkham (Kent, England) village blacksmith, Mr. James Pay. His daughter, who was in service with a doctor in a neighboring village, went to her mistress on the day of her father's death, stating that she had a feeling that she must go home. As the girl seemed anxious, her mistress allowed her to go, and she arrived home in time to witness the death of her father, 20 minutes after he had been working at his forge.

CORSETS IN ANCIENT GREECE.

A Playwright Says Cycling Skirts Were Also Common There.

The discovery has been made in Paris recently, that the Greeks 2,000 years ago wore corsets and other articles of modern feminine dress, according to the Paris correspondent of the New York Times. Mme. Paquin and Jules Bois disclosed the fact in the latter's play, "La Furie," at the Comedie Francaise, for which the famous dressmaker designed the costumes after consulting some of the oldest records. Jules Bois said to me:

"There is really nothing new under the sun. The ordinary conception of Greek dress refers only to certain periods. I know what I am talking about.

"I have studied the works of Schliemann on Mycenae and of Evans and De Mesao on the prehistoric epochs. I have made excavations at Knossos and in Crete. I have visited museums. I don't imagine the things I write about. The Grecians of the most ancient periods had modern figures. This is the point I insist upon. Look at the statues of the women, ancient Greek vases and sculptures and you will see ribbons, crinoline, headdresses, basques and corsets. The cycling skirt was the usual mode at the court of Agamemmon."

To prove his points M. Bois had photographs of old sculptures and vases. These are extraordinarily like the modes of 1860. From these Mme. Paquin made the costumes for the play. Of course, this upsets popular ideas about Greek dress, and probably a musical play showing Ulysses in pajamas and Dido in a kimono will be produced on the boulevard as a result.

VERY EVIDENTLY HIS FIRST ONE.

Young Man Was Proud Parent, and Didn't Care Who Knew It.

There was no booth in the corner drug store. The young man at the telephone therefore could be heard by all the customers who ranged about the soda water fountain. His face beamed as he talked.

"Everything is all right," he was saying.

"Ma'am?

"Yes'm. Eleven pounds. Beautiful boy. Like me, they say.

"Ma'am?

"Yes'm. Resting quietly. Would have sent for you, but thought it best not to. Didn't want to worry you.

"Ma'am?

"Yes'm. I'll attend to all that.

"Ma'am?

"Yes'm. I'll tell her you're coming down right away. Beautiful boy.

"Ma'am?

"Yes'm. Eleven pounds and looks just like me."

He rang off and walked proudly out of the drug store apparently oblivious to the smiling countenances of his interested listeners ranged around the soda fountain.

Vintage Nicknames.

We have nicknames for the vintages which few persons except the wine-drinkers know. Thus the vintage of the present year we call Zeppelin, in honor of the air navigator's achievement and because it is so high. Records show that these nicknames were bestowed on vintages as far back as 1529, when the bad-watered wine was called "Baptist."

The sour wine of 1860 was called Garibaldi, and in memory of the Chinese war the 1894 wine is still known as Weihaiwei. The vintage of 1896 promised much and gave little, and was nicknamed Li Hung Chang, and another nickname for the same year's wine, Moses, was given because the wine was taken from the water principally.—Munchener Neurichten.

Ghosts in Scottish Houses.

Scotland is rich in ghost lore. There is, perhaps, hardly a castle or ruin which has not some special story clinging to it, and the strange part of the matter is that many of the legends are substantiated by latter day experiences. Dunrobin castle, the Highland home of the duke of Sutherland, boasts of a haunted room. The specter there is invisible and denotes its presence by an awe-inspiring laugh. The story goes that one of the duke's ancestors caused the chief of a rival clan to be starved to death in his room, visiting him periodically during his sufferings and laughing at his tortures. As punishment for this crime the unscrupulous chieftain has to haunt the room.

The undersigned offers for sale his blacksmithing and woodworking business, situated on the east side line between Peterborough and Norwood at Jermyn P. O. The blacksmith shop building is two stories, 25 x 40, with cement floor and cement forge. The upper story is the full size of the blacksmith shop (Built). Attached to the blacksmith shop is the post office building, which may be entered from the blacksmith shop. Adjoining is a first class brick dwelling, with frontage 18 and 20 feet, with kitchen. It is an L-shaped house with cement cellar. Also verandah and beautiful lawn. There is a good stable with cement floor, three stalls, with straw bars attached. The land comprises one half acre. This is one of the best blacksmith stands in the County of Peterborough. The farmers all patronize this shop. My reason for giving up business on account of having one of my legs fractured I am unable to continue the shoeing. For further particulars, write to

IN A NOOSE.

Miss Nina's Desperate Resolve and the Way It Ended.

By LAWRENCE ALFRED CLAY.

(Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.)

Things had gone wrong with at least one of the guests of the Mountain House. Miss Nina Hazlett had gone up there with her maiden aunt as chaperon, and they had scarcely got their things unpacked when that maiden aunt began to lecture her on the frivolity of flirting.

Miss Nina had not flirted. She had simply let her eyes dwell for a moment on a good looking young man. Can't one sex look at the other sex without being made to toe the mark for so doing?

And then when the trunks had been unpacked, but not all the dresses yet hung up, the girl had gone walking by herself in the hotel grounds, and upon her return, babbling over with enthusiasm, the maiden aunt had met her with the statement that she had done a highly improper thing and needn't be surprised if the other young ladies cut her dead.

Improper for a girl of nineteen to walk in the hotel grounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon to view the fountain and the wolf in a cave? Nonsense! When she could have returned the smile of the bandmaster, but made up a face at him instead!

And after dinner, because a young man and his sister sat opposite and because the young man instead of his sister remarked that it had been a glorious sunset, Nina's maiden aunt said that girls in her time kept their eyes on their plates when eating. Of course it had been a glorious sunset. Of course the sister would have said so had she not been too busy with her soup. Of course the young man knew that the glorious sunset would have to be paid for with other extras, but he wasn't going to spread a pall over the table by saying that it had been a five cent sunset.

There was one more trial for the young girl that evening. She wanted to sit in a grotto and hear the fountain splash and the band play "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." The aunt made objections, but finally consented. They hadn't been sitting ten minutes, however, when she declared that she smelled liniment and that the man in the next grotto must be using it on a lame leg. They must not tarry another moment—that lame leg might be catching. And what was a grotto, anyhow, but a pile of stones? And what was a fountain but a lot of water going to waste when it could be utilized in washing dishes? And the band—it was playing for money, anyway!

Miss Nina awoke next morning determined to be very good, but things began to happen again. She overheard her aunt telling them at the office to deliver all mail to her personally, and in her anger her eyes filled with tears and she jumped up and down. Her letters—her love letters—to go to her aunt first and perhaps be read by her! She would die first!

The girl had just composed herself when she received a telegram from Jimmie saying that he would be up on the afternoon train. Jimmie was Mr. James Tillinghast, to whom Miss Nina was so nearly engaged that they had discussed the question of whether they should keep three servants or four. The aunt was handed the telegram. She read and returned it with the observation that it was a wonder how he had allowed himself to be noosed.

Jimmie arrived. There was no one at the depot to meet him. At the hotel he had to wait thirty minutes before the answer to his card came back. The aunt greeted him effusively. That was reason enough why the niece should greet him coolly. Been noosed, had he? Been roped like a spring calf, caught on the fly before he had time to know his own mind! She would see about that! Of course Jimmie had wit enough to see that he had struck a snag of some sort, and he proposed a veranda promenade and explanations.

The aunt chimed in. But, looking him straight in the eye, the girl replied:

"Mr. Tillinghast, kindly excuse me. Consider yourself unnoosed from this time on."

It was while the lover and the aunt were occupying chairs on the veranda and trying to explain matters that Miss Nina slipped out of the hotel and took the path past the wolf's den and up the mountain. She wanted to get off by herself and think and shed tears and—and probably commit suicide. Yes, that would do all. The aunt would have to weep, Jimmie would fly around whirling the noose around his neck again, and the papers would publish her latest photograph and speak of the affair as a romance. Suicide by all means! One plunge from the precipice, 500 feet high, would do the trick.

Miss Nina had left the hotel half a mile behind and was surveying the country for suitable precipices when a sudden sight caused her to scream out.

Around a bend in the path came a big black bear. He halted at sight of the girl. She screamed. He was used to it. He belonged to an Italian stroller who danced him from one resort to another. He stood on his hind legs and waltzed while the girl screamed. He stood on his head and growled while she sank down in a heap and faintly called for help. She forgot that she had broken with Jimmie, and she called on him.

The bear's master was resting and eating lunch a hundred yards behind the bend. He heard no commotion, and he did not worry. When a young lady has made up her mind to commit suicide she should not be particular as to whether she leaps over a precipice or is devoured by a bear. But Miss Nina was inconsistent. She felt herself on the point of being devoured, and she kept calling for help. Indeed, she wanted to live just as long as that old fellow referred to in all well regulated family Bibles.

If a good looking girl in peril calls for her sweetheart long enough he is bound to come. In this case Jimmie had dropped the aunt as soon as he decently could and was taking a stroll in the forlorn hope that the niece might be met with outside. It was a very fresh kid with a very fresh wink to his eye that said to him:

"She went off up that path, and she's probably expecting you."

Jimmie didn't exactly hustle until he heard faint calls for help. Then he was all lightning. As he came in sight of the bear and the girl he took in the peril. There was a dead limb almost under his feet, and he seized it and sailed in. The bear came down off his head and on to his four feet with promptness and dispatch. He had taken hundreds of kicks from his master and the public, and he took some more now as being all in the day's work. Jimmie was still on the job when the Italian heard the rumpus and appeared to call out:

"Whata you doa? Why you wanta keel my Joseph? He circus bear. He no hurta nobody."

"My dear girl!" shouted Jimmie as he turned to Nina.

"Is it you—is it Jimmie?"

"Of course it is. Thank heaven I came in time!"

"Yes; he was getting ready to eat me up. Oh, how I screamed for my aunt!"

"For your aunt?"

"I mean for you. Oh, Jimmie"—

"Well?" he asked as he helped her to her feet and threw a quarter to the Italian to pay the damages.

"Mr. Tillinghast," with sudden dignity, "I have released you from the noose. Pray excuse my emotion."

"And what in cuss is all this talk about noosed?" he demanded.

"Why, aunty says that I have noosed you."

"The spiteful woman! You haven't noosed me yet, but now is the time to do it. I love you, and I saved you from the bear. Don't leave room for me to jerk my head out. There—that's the proper noose, and we'll go back and hear the band play 'Where Is My Aunt Tonight?'"

Mr. Matt Coluum'.

TWO MEN AND A TIP.

An Incident in a Broadway Lunch Room in New York.

A business man who in his university days had been a devoted student of ethics sat down in a lower Broadway lunch room a few days ago and saw something that awakened a particular train of thought in channels unused since his student days.

Directly opposite him two men were finishing their midday meal. One, a sprucely dressed chap, sipped his last drop of coffee, placed a dime on the table in front of his empty cup and walked out. The other, equally well dressed, took a little longer time over his coffee before preparing to go. Then just as he was about to rise he furtively passed his hand over to the dime in front of his former neighbor's plate and moved it to a position in front of his own. He then walked hastily out. The waiter a moment later picked up the dime, noting before whose plate it was, and cleaned away the dishes, mumbling the while.

Now the former college man is wondering whether this is not a case where he can aptly apply these words of Shakespeare, "Who steals my purse steals trash, • • • but he that filches from me my good name robs me of that which not enriches him and makes me poor indeed."—New York Tribune.

Thought for Others.

That the late E. H. Harriman, amid his multifarious duties, still found time to be kind, was illustrated just before he sailed for Europe last spring. While in New York with his wife and family, though not considered a very sick man, the services of Miss Beatrice Rivans, a Canadian-trained nurse from historic old Niagara-on-the-Lake, were requisitioned. Not only did the check handed her when leaving exceed the regular charge made by her profession, but, a week later she was again surprised by receiving, with the compliments of the sick financier, a large bouquet of violets and lily of the valley "To wear to church on Easter Sunday."

CHESTNUTTING TIME.

The good old days were best of all,
The days of long ago,
When we walked through the woods to school
Two full grown miles or so.
How oft we lingered on the way,
Alive with childish glee,
And with our flying sticks and stones
Wheedled chestnuts from the tree!

And then on Saturdays the trips
With baskets, bags and pails
To hillsides where the foliage waits,
To deeper woods and vales.
The big and spreading chestnut trees
Where nuts came rattling down—
Oh, who would swap a scene like this
For pleasures of the town?

• • • • • • •

Alas, no more I shake the trees
To bring my chestnuts down!
No more I walk the country ways,
For I must stay in town.
To get my store of chestnuts now
I have to sit and think
And dig them from my cumulous brow
By means of pen and ink!

Killing Time.

"I find it hard to kill time," declared the pampered pet. "I only have my music, you know. How do you manage?"

"Oh, I do very well!" answered the other girl. "In addition to my music, I have my sweeping, my dusting, my sewing and my dishwashing."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Wise Old Boy.

Mrs. Kicker—If you are going to another one of those banquets I don't suppose you will know the number of the house when you get back.

Mr. Kicker—Oh, yes, I will. I unscrewed it from the door and am taking it with me.—Kansas City Journal.

The Most Ancient Coin.

What is regarded as the most ancient coin in the world is one that was discovered a few years ago by a German archaeologist during his explorations in north Syria. It is a coin of pure silver, bearing a perfect Aramean inscription of Pammmu Bar Rernb, king of Schamol, who reigned 800 years B. C. Up to the time this coin was found the Lydians had always been regarded as the inventors of money, but this new find showed that the Semitic Arameans, who lived two centuries before the Lydians, are the oldest known coiners of money.

Statistics Of Marriages And Divorces In Countries

United States Has a Big Divorce Rate—Per Cent. Cases to Population Twice as Great as all Other Christian Countries—Japan Leads the World.

IRELAND BUT 1 TO 100,000

Ithaca, N.Y., Nov. 23.—The average annual number of divorces in the United States is nearly twice as great as the average annual number of any of the countries from which statistics are obtainable, except Japan and Algeria, and it is more than twice as great as all other Christian countries combined, from which the Census Bureau has been able to get reports. These are some of the conclusions gathered by Walter F. Wilcox, professor of statistics and sociology at Cornell University, consulting statistician for the Department of Health, and for years connected with the statistical division of the Government Census Bureau. Prof. Wilcox gathered some statistics for the International Statistics Institute, which met in Paris recently, and has made them public in his report in this country.

"There is probably no country," the professor writes, "to which the problem of divorce and separation is of greater importance that the United States. For that reason more attention has been given to divorce by the Government of the United States than by that of any other country.

Japan Leads.

An international table accompanying the report shows that Japan heads the list of divorces, with 215 per 100,000 population. If Algeria is to be counted her records even exceed Japan's, being 288, on the same ratio. Next to these two is the United States, with a ratio of divorces to population of one-fourth that of Algeria, one-third that of Japan and more than twice that of Switzerland or Saxony.

France has 23, and at the other extreme Mr. Wilcox's figures show, is Ireland, with an annual average of about one divorce to the 100,000 population.

In another table Prof. Wilcox compares the divorces and separations to the number of marriages, per thousand, as follows: Algeria, 318; Japan, 257; United States, 83; France, 31, with Paris itself, 59; Switzerland, 42; Austria, but 8, but its capital, Vienna, 40; German Empire, 20; England and Wales, 2.

In determining the probability of marriages ending in divorce in the United States, Prof. Wilcox says: "It seems fair to conclude that between 65 and 80 out of every 1,000 marriages celebrated have ended in a divorce, and as the divorce rate is rapidly increasing, probably at least eight out of every hundred marriages contracted will end in divorce." The professor also finds that the marriage rate in this country is increasing, but also the divorce rate is more than keeping pace with it.

The average number of persons married each year to the 10,000 population is 186; a rate exceeded only by Western Australia among the thirty-nine regions, from which figures were obtained. The average annual number of marriages to 10,000 marriageable population for the last given five-year period was 714, a rate exceeded only by Hungary, among the tyenty-three regions from which figures were obtained.

Low Marriage Rate in the North.

The marriage rate in this country is lowest in the Northern States, and highest in the Southern States, the rates being twice as high in the States, where negroes live as in the North.

The figures show, Mr. Wilcox points out, that the early marriages are much more common among negroes and Indians than whites, but they also show that among the white population of both sexes early marriages are much more common in the Southern States than in the Northern. He also says that in the United States maried life begins in the country districts at an earlier age than it does in the cities, that it probably lasts longer and that if the union is broken it is more likely to be succeeded by a second marriage.

Mr. Wilcox adds significantly: "It demonstrates that the influence of city life in the United States is to delay and thus in some measure to prevent marriage; that this influence among men is somewhat counteracted by the excess of women in the cities, and upon women by the same influence."

The Western division of the United States has had the highest divorce rate in the last forty years. The increase of divorce in the Southern States has been far more rapid than in the Northern. The average divorce rate in the country has increased threefold in forty years.

ZAM-BUK ENDS YEARS OF PAIN

Powerful Proofs of its Healing Value.

As a household remedy, useful in emergencies such as are always arising in any home, and particularly where there are children, Zam-Buk is without equal. Here are some opinions of its merit:

Mrs. Halliday, Wroxeter, Ont., says: "I have proved Zam-Buk unequalled for cuts, sores and diseases of the skin. In every case to which I have applied it, it has brought about a cure, and I recommend it to all mothers."

Miss Cassie Petrie, Victoria Mines, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, says: "For a long time I suffered from pimples and unsightly spots on my face, and hearing so much about Zam-Buk, gave it a trial. It has now removed the eruption, and I would heartily recommend it for pimples and skin diseases."

Miss A. Bourgue, Notre Dame, Kent County, N.B., says:—"For months I suffered with a running sore on my leg, and although I tried several ointments and salves, none did me much good. The sore would just heal over, and then break out again. I was advised to try Zam-Buk, and obtained a supply, together with some Zam-Buk Soap. I carefully washed the sore, night and morning, with the Zam-Buk Soap, and then applied the balm. A few weeks of this treatment completely healed the sore."

Mr. Joseph Kostyuk, of Woodridge, Man., says:—"I had eczema on my face, neck, and hand, so bad that I was unable to leave my room. Several doctors failed to do me any good, although I spent large sums of money. Zam-Buk has effected what they failed to do, and I am now cured."

Zam-Buk is the finest known cure for skin diseases and injuries. It heals cuts, burns, bruises, abscesses, ulcers, eczema, scalp sores, bad leg, inflamed patches, poisoned sores, insect stings, blisters, sore feet, etc. It also cures piles. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. a box, or post-free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

TWO WOMEN AND THAT MAN.

A powerful stage picture of life and conditions in Alaska at the time of the great Klondyke rush, filled with real characters and replete with realistic scenery and stage equipment, Henry D. Carey's stirring play "Two Women and That Man," which appeared at the Grand last night, proved itself one of the strongest and most popular offerings of the season. Built on big, sharply cut lines as is "The Wolf" gripping one with the sense of being in the great out-doors and away from the conventionalities of civilization, Mr. Carey's play contains perhaps even more elements of human interest than does Eugene Walter's masterpiece with which it is being compared by everyone who has seen the two plays. Like "The Wolf" it is melodrama, but such melodrama! The situations are big and intense in their interest, the characters true and delineated by a master hand, and the plot strong, unusual and clever.

"Two Women and That Man" describes the Klondyke, as it was during the mad raid of the gold hunting hordes. The man is Neil McLean, a true son of the North, who loves the freedom, the silent places of Alaska, and to whom the wild calls with a summons that cannot be disobeyed. He marries Kate, a dance hall girl, and takes her away with him to his cabin in the wilds. The lonely surroundings crush the girl accustomed to the gaiety and lights and music, and she leaves him to go with a Seattle mining engineer. Later, it is reported that she was drowned while descending the river, and Neil accepting the report as true, falls in love two years later with Alaska, the daughter of a rugged store keeper, who loves his daughter and who trembles for her safety among the men of the North. Finding Neil making love to her he drives her out of his home and she is sheltered by Neil. Next morning, as she is leaving with Neil for the Mission—60 miles away to be married, a woman who has been los in the blizzard, staggers into the cabin, and she and Neil recognize each other simultaneously, the man knowing her at once as the faithless wife who had deserted him two years before. Alaska, heart broken at the denouement, rushes from the cabin and when Neil tries to stop her, strikes him in the face with her dog whip. The wife tries to win back her huband's love, but fails, and suddenly picking up his knife from the table rushes into another room and stabs herself.

Eventually the difficulties are smoothed away. Alaska returns to the cabin and asks for forgiveness, but at this moment Neil is called upon to stand trial before a miners' meeting, on the charge of murdering his wife. He is saved by the testimony of Tagish Jim, an Indian who had seen the woman's death through the window of the cabin. Neil finds that the Seattle engineer who was chief among his prosecutors, was the man who had stolen his wife away and a desperate bare-handed fight takes place, in which the engineer is worsted and the play has the usual happy ending.

Henry Casey, the author of the play, gave a splendid characterization of the leading male role, his work throughout being finished and effective, while Lucy Milliken, as Kate, and Fern Foster, as Alaska, handled the feminine parts with pleasing ability. The chief comedy fell to Louis Thiel, who as "Rainbow" Rawlins, an old "sour-dough" was irresistibly funny, and extracted the last drop of humour from an unusually humorous part. Joseph Harris' interpretation of the role of Francois LeClare, a half-breed voyageur, showed knowledge of the dialect required as well as histrionic ability. While Frederick Seaton's work as "Tagish Jim," a full-blooded Chilkat Indian, was a remarkably clever piece of acting. Mr. Seaton had not a line in English but his speeches in the Chilkat language were so emphasized with gestures as to be followed by the audience.

The production, which is under the auspices of the Shuberts, was superbly staged, the blizzard effects in the third act being so realistic that one felt like shivering. Genuine "husky" dogs and a wolf are used in the play and the costumes are said to be correct in every particular.

"Two Women and That Man" captured last night's audience, and is assured of a capacity house should it favour the Grand with a return visit.

The Grand's next attraction is the bright little comedienne, May Ward, who comes here Saturday for matinee and evening performances of the highly successful musical comedy "The Cash Girl," which has been piling them up all along the circuit. Another big Shubert attraction is to be announced for Wednesday of next week in the appearance here of "Billy," the hilarious farce, written by George Cameron (Mrs. Andrew Drew) which has been an all summer hit at Daly's theatre, New York. This will be produced with the original New York cast, and will be one of the features of the season.

AMERICAN FOOTBALL

The Views of a Toronto Critic Who Saw Harvard and Yale Play —Good in Bucking.

A representative of the college paper, The Varsity, witnessed the Harvard-Cornell rugby game at Cambridge, the Saturday previous to the Yale game, and gives it as his opinion that American college football is much inferior to the Canadian game. The writer's views are thus set down:

The Football Very Poor.

"From a Canadian view-point, the class of football was poor. Only in one department could the Harvard team, who completely outclassed their opponents, compare favourably with the best teams over here. This was in line bucking, and their exhibition of this style of play was wonderful. Of course, this is where their system of off-side interference which is not allowed in our game comes into use.

"The way in which six or seven Harvard men, any one of whom from what the spectator could see might be carrying the ball, would crash into and through the Cornell line, was the only feature of play which at all impressed the Canadians present. In these mass plays all the men on both teams get in. They have a close formation with the two half-backs and the full back about ten feet behind the line, and the whole eleven men will crash into their opponents' line and then the ball is lost to sight while twenty-two men surge around in a bunch. Then one man would break loose and run about ten yards, when he would be tackled, usually around the shoulders.

Wedge Mass Plays.

"It is doubtful if a Canadian team could stop these bucks, as the American players are all heavy men, and have the wedge play down to a science. In our game a buck can be stopped by getting the first man, as he must carry the ball. But on the other side any one of six or seven men may have the ball, and the only way to stop its advance is to upset the whole formation.

"But outside of mass play, there was nothing in the Harvard-Cornell game which was equal to the play of the best Canadian teams. There was very little open play, so the spectators were not given the chances to enthuse that are so numerous here. In fact, only about six times during the afternoon did the crowd rise upon the seats and yell as they continually do at our intercollegiate games. And it was not because the people did not want to enthuse, for they applauded vociferously runs of ten yards, which we would not take very seriously.

Ball Kicked Fifteen Times.

"The ball was kicked fifteen times during the game, and eight times the catch was muffed, both back divisions contributing. This certainly looked pretty poor to Canadians, but evidently the game in Toronto on the same day, Varsity vs. Queen's, was little better in this respect.

Tackling Poor, Too.

"One feature of the play at which the Canadians were surprised was the tackling. We had been led to expect flying tackles of a high order in the American game, but we were disappointed. There were no flying tackles during the afternoon, and hardly ever was a man got below the waist. Most of the tackling was around the shoulders. For close play where the possessor of the ball is doubtful, the Americans claim low tackling is dangerous and not so effective as getting the man high up. However true this may be, the fine tackling so noticeable in the Canadian game was almost entirely lacking.

The Cheering the Feature.

"So much for the game itself. But there was a feature that impressed us more than any part of the actual game. This was the Harvard singing and cheering. The Harvard yell is a great one, and when given by five thousand men, packed in one section of the stadium, and under the direction of an able yell-captain, the effect was wonderful. These yell-captains certainly work as hard as any of the men playing in the game. When the men are not yelling loudly enough to suit them, they don't mind telling them so by the very plainest of language. The Harvard rooters had a small brass band which led the singing, and the effect was a treat to us who never hear anything more than a few feeble toots from a cornet, and about a hundred men, most of whom are off the key, trying to sing a song of which they only know about half the words.

Convalescents from fevers and injuries that have kept them bedridden for some time and all people rundown and below par generally will find a course of treatment with Ferrovim, the invigorating tonic, just the thing to put them on their feet again in good shape. Ferrovim is composed of fresh lean beef, Citrate of Iron and pure Old Spanish Sherry Wine. $1.00 per bottle.

"BIG FOUR" WAS PROFITABLE

The Interprovincial Union has been in existence three years, and the championship has been won by Montreal, Tigers and Ottawa respectively. The Tigers were runners up this year and in 1907, when they beat the championship team of that year, Montreal, right on Montreal grounds, but lost through lack of condition and over-confidence at Ottawa, a reverse that was not looked for. Last year they won the championship after having been tied with Ottawa and winning the play-off, which was at Kingston. The Interprovincial Union has done much to improve the class of football in the four cities represented, and this season was a prosperous one financially for every team but Montreal, the Easterners losing $800. The Argonauts made about $500 on the season, and Ottawa's and Tiger's earnings will run well over the four figure mark. All the teams are satisfied with the union, and although the three-year agreement has expired, there is no chance of the union disbanding, and at the next meeting another three-year agreement will likely be drawn up. The union will remain a four-team organisation, and the efforts of any other team to gain admission will be without avail.

Examiner Special.

Springville, Nov. 24.—Miss Moore, of Centreville, was in the city on Saturday.

Miss Brownlee of Centreville spent Saturday visiting friends in Peterborough.

Miss Emma Clark of Centreville was in the village Saturday night.

Miss Lillie Cunningham of Peterborough spent Sunday with her parents here.

The many friends of Miss May Weatherill will be glad to hear that she has taken a decided change for the better; Dr. W. Montgomery, of Millbrook, who is now in attendance, stated Saturday morning that he had every hope of recovery and that there was no need of further anxiety.

All the hunters of this vicinity have returned from the chase and reported having a very enjoyable hunting trip.

Mr. Thomas Donaldson, of Centreville was in the village on Saturday night.

Mrs. A. Campbell was in Millbrook Saturday.

The exangelistic service at Springville Sunday evening was conducted by the Rev. Livingstone, of Hamilton, and was largely attended from this vicinity.

The frame work of the church sheds is now completed, and the work will be completed as soon as possible.

The Fraserville Sunday members were favoured by a call from the president of that association, Mr. Matchett, of Cavanville. Mr. Matchett, at the request of the superintendent gave a short address in which he rendered a few words of encouragement to the teachers.

JOHNSON IS "NOT YELLOW"

"Johnson smiled."

In these two words Jack London, the famous author of "The Game," epitomised the now historic contest between Burns and Johnson. And it seem, if all reports are true, that Johnson is still smiling, with disastrous results for those upon whom he smiles. Rugged Stanley Ketchell is the latest victim to his prowess, and apparently he made no better a showing than either Burns or Kaufmann. Johnson just played with him like a cat playing with a mouse, and then, after floundering about on the floor for a few seconds for the benefit of the picture machine, brought about a sensational denouement, and a disastrous one also from a Ketchell point of view.

At no time in the history of pugilism have the black race dominated the world of fisticuffs to the same extent as at the present, though almost since the inception of the sport negroes have figured prominently in the roped arena. No wonder Johnson smiles! We shall probably hear a little less of Lil Artha's "yellow streak" for the future. Moral courage is a quality of a far higher order than mere physical bravery. There are many men who would go in and take a terrible pounding in the ring, who would think twice of facing with imperturbable calm the hoots and execrations of a hostile mob numbering something like 12,000. Yet Johnson as the terrible roar of hatred sounded in his ears, just smiled. Then he climbed into the ring, and gave the white men's favourite the beating of his life. No! this "yellow streak" talk won't do at all.—From London Sporting Life.

Jumped From Window To Escape From Assailants

Girl Who Was Kidnapped by Four Young Men Makes a Sensational Escape.

IN DYING CONDITION

New York, Nov. 22.—Waylaid in a deserted street within a few blocks of her home, in Patterson, N.J., Mamie Sullivan, a pretty 18-year old girl, was gagged and carried into a fire ruined building at No. 598 River St., where she was cruelly attacked by four young men. After struggling desperately to fight off her assailants the girl, when she had finally succeeded in freeing herself, rushed to an open window on the second floor and leaped to the cement sidewalk, thirty feet below. She was picked up in a dying condition and removed to the home of her parents, at No. 89 Putnam street. Her assailants escaped.

After spending Sunday with her father and mother, Miss Sullivan, who is employed as a nurse in Butler, Morris county, was hurrying to the depot to catch a train, when the four young men attacked her. She had just passed the ruins of a building which was recently gutted by fire when approaching her from behind one of the boys threw a handkerchief over her face, and then placed his hand over her mouth to prevent an outcry.

Miss Sullivan recognized the voice as that of a young man who has resided near her father's home for some time, but before she could release his hold on her three others joined her assailant and she was carried into the deserted building and to the second floor

Although of slender build, the girl struggled to escape from her captors She could utter no word, and it was, therefore, impossible for her to inform the young man who first had attacked her that she was aware of his identity.

"It's dark in here," said a voice, "so she can't see us. Shall we remove the handkerchiefs?"

"No," came a reply from one of his companions. "We are taking no chances."

While this conversation was being carried on in whisprede tones the girl succeeded in pulling the gag from her mouth.

"I know you boys," she screamed, "and all of you will suffer for this!"

She then addressed two of the young men by names, and breaking the grip of the boy who held her tightly by both wrists she sprang to her feet and fought to free herself. She screamed for help, but no one came to her rescue. Her cries, however, frightened two of her assailants and they fled from the building.

For more than fifteen minutes then she fought and struggled with the other two. Finally, when the gag had been replaced in her mouth and her hands had been securely fastened behind her body the girl lay in an almost unconscious condition on the floor.

The two young men went to a far corner and were holding a whispered conference. Remembering the open window, Miss Sullivan leaped to her feet, rushed across the room and threw herself to the sidewalk below.

Her hands were still held tight by the cords which cut deep into her wrists ,and as she struck the sidewalk all of her teeth were knocked out and she sustained injuries about the head and body which may prove fatal.

Soon after the girl was found she was recognized by persons who live in the neighbourhood and she was removed to her home in an unconscious condition. Physicians were hurriedly summoned and when she was revived Miss Sullivan gave the names of two of her assailants to a policeman. The boys are said to be about twenty years old and are well known in the community. The entire police force is searching for them, and it is believed they will be arrested soon.

The Sullivans are regarded highly by their neighbours. The father of the girl is employed as a dyer's helper and is said to be a hard-working and industrious man. The girl, Mamie, recently accepted employment as a nurse with a wealthy family in Butler, and she made her first visit to her her nome in Paterson yesterday. Waiting until nearly train time before leaving her mother, she was walking rapidly when she was attacked near the deserted building in River street.

The brutal attack on the girl caused great indignation throughout the city and scores of citizens who know the two boys whose names were given by the girl joined the police in the search which is being made. Unless the boys are arrested before this morning the police of New York will be asked to assist, as it is believed by friends of the Sullivan family that they have fled to the city.

It is said the girl's mother had declined to allow her to associate with the two young men whom she recognised as her captors and whose names she furnished to the police.

FOUNDED IN HONOUR

No doubt you have seen in the papers such announcements as this concerning some medicine or other: "If, on trial, you write that this medicine has done you no good we will refund your money." Now, we have never had reason to speak in that way concerning the remedy named in this article. In a trade extending throughout the world, nobody has ever complained that our medicine has failed, or asked for the return of his money. The public never grumbles at honestly and skilfully-made bread, or at a medicine which really and actually does what it was made to do. The foundation of is laid in sincerity and honour, the knowledge of which, on the part of the people, explains its popularity and success. There is nothing to disguise and conceal. It was not dreamed out, or discovered by accident; it is palatable as honey and contains all the curative properties of pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. This remedy is praised by all who have employed it in any of the diseases it is recommended to relieve and cure, and is effective from the first dose. In Anaemia, Scrofula, Nervous and General Debility, Influenza, La Grippe, and Throat and Lung Troubles, it is a specific. It is precisely what it is said to be, and has won the confidence of the public on that basis. You may resort to it with a faith and hope that arise from the history of what it has done for others. Dr. F. Gordon says: "The continued use of it in my practice convinces me that it is the most palatable, least nauseating, and best preparation now on the market." One bottle proves its intrinsic value. Sold by all chemists everywhere, and Warne Drug Co.

Lamented Death of Miss Anastasia Fitzpatrick on Nov. 14th.

Examiner Special.

Downeyville, Nov. 22.—On Sunday Nov. 14th, Miss Anastasia Fitzpatrick, daughter of Michael Fitzpatrick, died at her home after only three weeks' illness from meningitis typhoid. The funeral procession left on Tuesday morning for St. Luke's church, where the requiem high mass was sung by Rev. Father McGuire, Downeyville, and the funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick of Ennismore. They then proceeded to the new cemetery. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire neighbourhood in their great loss, and her happy face will be greatly missed from the crowd of young people who enjoyed her company. Deceased was twenty-ons years of age and leaves to mourn her loss a broken-hearted father and mother, three brothers, Dennis and Fred at home, Joe, of Alaska, and five sisters, Mrs. John Winn, King's Wharf; Miss Lottie, of Normal School, Peterborough; Gertrude Veronica and Geraldine, of St. Joseph's Academy, Lindsay.

The Misses Mary Twomey, Miss Herlihey, Viola Lucas, Rita Clancy, and Ethel Harrington of St. Joseph's Academy, Lindsay, spent Saturday and Sunday at their homes here.

Miss Flossie O'Brien, who has been attending Model School, Lindsay, spent a few days under the parental roof.

We are pleased to learn that Mrs. Wm. O'Brien is home from St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, and is quite recovered from her recent illness.

Miss Mary Morrissey of Lindsay, is visiting friends and relatives here.

SAVINGS

The wisdom of saving money must be apparent to every thoughtful person.

A little money saved enables one to take advantage of opportunities for making more money; to buy a lot; to make the first payment on a house; to start in business.

Why not save some money and put it where it will grow? Opportunity is apt to come over before the person with capital.

Saving small sums is the creation of capital.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Fire did $100,000 damage at Canastota, N.Y., yesterday.

Windsor will vote on a proposition to go back to the ward system of electing the council.

Directors of the Kansas City Terminal Co. have accepted plans for a new union station to cost $5,700,000.

Chili has turned over $1,000,000 to The Hague arbitration court for payment of the Alsop claim, should the court so award it.

Lightning struck the drygoods firm of Bernard, Frank & Co., at Montgomery, Ala., and fire destroyed the building; loss, $225,000.

Montreal Council have passed a by-law requiring news vendors to take out licenses and prohibiting girls from selling articles on the street.

In the war against tuberculosis in the United States, it is proposed to paste up millions of posters on fences, etc., throughout every state.

The Marine Department has decided to employ two ice-breakers this winter at Cape Rouge to try and keep open the St. Lawrence channel.

Ex-Judge Doherty and E. B. Devlin, members of Parliament, have interested themselves in the case of Dillon, the Montreal murderer, and are engaged in preparing a memorandum to the Minister of Justice asking commutation.

Water Cure Kills.

Montreal, Nov. 24.—Virginie Gobell, who treated patients by the water cure, in which they got no food but water, was found guilty of manslaughter for the death of John O'Neil. The jury were out all night, and added to the verdict a recommendation of mercy. Her lawyer asked for a stay of judgment, as the judge had charged against the prisoner unfairly, he claimed.

Miss Gobell has kept a sanitarium for years, and a number of patients had died. Different attempts have been made to get a conviction, but she has always won.

She was tried for practicing medicine without license, but as she prescribed no drugs she was acquitted. The manslaughter charge was then brought.

New Canadian Club.

Brockville, Nov. 24.—Brockville has just passed through a typhoid fever epidemic, attributable, it is thought, to the source of the public water supply. Frequent tests have shown traces of pollution, and an expert engineer is now making a thorough examination of existing conditions, and his report is regarded as likely to suggest a remedy. The supply is taken from the River St. Lawrence, and a recommendation bearing on the removal of the pumping station to another location may be made.

It has been definitely decided to form a Canadian Club in Brockville, and a committee named at a public gathering of citizens is at work drafting a constitution to be submitted at another meeting on the 30th inst.

Liquor Men Complain.

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—A deputation representing wholesale liquor men waited upon Hon. Wm. Templeman yesterday and complained that they were compelled to put the word "compound" on certain liquors made in Canada, while the customs regulations did not provide for a similar label on foreign goods.

This, they said, was discriminating against the Canadian article.

Shot From Ambush.

Concord, N.H., Nov. 24.—Shot from ambush by an unknown foe, C. H. Fellows, aged 50, a grocer, is dead in his home at Bow, two miles from here. Fellows was shot as he was driving to his home, and expired in his wife's arms just after his horse stopped in his own dooryard yesterday. One bullet pierced his right temple, and the other his shoulder.

A Strange Disappearance.

Sprucedale, Ont., Nov. 24.—John Middleton, boot and shoe maker of this place, is missing. He had completed arrangements for moving with his family to Charlton on Tuesday last. His wife and six small children had gone into the country to bid the grandparents good-bye, but on their return Tuesday morning the father could not be found.

Archbishop Sues Bank.

Montreal, Nov. 24.—A suit against the Bank of Montreal for the sum of $21,868.28, was entered in the Superior Court of Saskatchewan. The action arose out of a legacy by N. Bartlette, who was domiciled in New York to the Roman Catholic episcopal corporation of Saskatchewan of all the money he had on deposit in the Bank of Montreal here.

Roosevelt for New York Governor.

New York, Nov. 24.—Timothy L. Woodruff, chairman of the Republican State Committee, speaking yesterday of a report that a movement was on foot among certain of the Republican leaders, himself included, to have ex-President Roosevelt nominated for governor of New York upon his return from South Africa, said:

"While I have no knowledge, and have not even received any intimation as to whether Theodore Roosevelt would run for governor, I will say this: If Roosevelt will consent to run, it is my opinion that he would be nominated and elected, and it would be a matter of great advantage to the Republican party in the State of New York."

Steamer Dunelum Ashore.

Port Dalhousie, Nov. 24.—The steamer Dunelum, which left here Monday night, was blown ashore just off Niagara-on-the-Lake.

The life-saving crew from Niagara made their way out to the boat bringing the mate ashore, who sent word up here for a couple of tugs to go to the disabled boat.

Owing to the heavy gale, it was not advisable to venture out. In the meantime, the steamer released herself and proceeded to Kingston.

Black Hand Uses Dynamite.

Danville, Ill., Nov. 24.—An explosion of dynamite in the fruit and wine house of Joseph Mascari, early yesterday damaged 25 buildings in the business district of the city. Mascari who is an Italian, believes the Black Hand is responsible.

Smothered Under Tobacco.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 24.—James P. Scott, aged 35 years, and his 12 year old son, were smothered to death near here yesterday, under an upset wagonload of leaf tobacco. A few miles from town the wagon they were driving overturned.

NO REST FOR THAT TERRIBLE ITCH

THE Oil of Wintergreen Compound Made His Skin as Pure as Ever.

Mr. James Lulloch, of Iron Bridge, Ont., considers the D. D. D. Prescription of oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., a wonderful cure for skin troubles. He has good reason to think so, too, according to his letter of March 27, 1909.

"I have suffered for years," he says "with eczema, and now through using two bottles of your wonderful cure, my skin is as pure as it ever was.

My face was so bad I could not see. I could not sleep. I could not rest at all for the terrible itch.

Thanks to your wonderful medicine I am cured."

As eczema is a germ disease, and as the germs are right in the skin, blood medicines will not cure it. The only effective way is to treat the itch where the itch is. D. D. D. Prescription penetrates the pores of the skin, kills the germs which cause the eczema, gives instant relief from the awful itch and permanently cures.

Nature's Rapid Production.

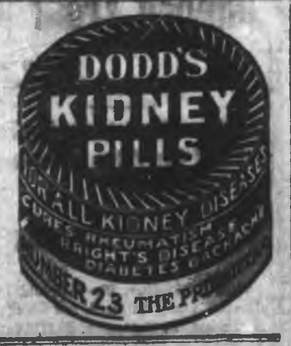
Dr. Alfred Russel Wallace, addressing the Royal Institution on Darwinism recently, spoke of the enormous powers of rapid increase exhibited by both the animal and vegetable kingdoms, which have insured the continuance of the various types of existing life from the earliest geological ages in unbroken succession, while being an important factor in the production of new forms by adaptation. A common weed, the Stisymbrium sophia, produces three-quarters of a million seeds, and these, if they all grew and multiplied, would in three years cover the whole land surface of the globe. Darwin calculated that the slowest breeding of all animals, the elephant, would in 750 years from a single pair produce 19,000,000 individuals. Rabbits would from a single pair produce 1,000,000 individuals in four or five years, as they probably have done in Australia, where they have become "a national calamity."—Youth's Companion.

The Horse That Laughs.

One of the vaudeville attractions on the German circuit is a horse which "sings and laughs." Recently an Englishman made a bet with the owner of the animal that it could not be made to "laugh" anywhere except behind the footlights. The matter was probably an advertising trick, which succeeded. At an announced hour the horse was brought before a house in Unter den Linden. The door was opened, and under the guidance of the trainer the animal went up three flights of stairs and into a room. From a window of which the horse presently looked down on the crowd. He was ordered to "smile" and did so by drawing up his upper lip, and then by command he "laughed" by opening his mouth wide and making a sound which the trainer exultantly proclaimed the only "horse laugh."

An Engineer.

How can man die better than the locomotive engineer in that Virginia wreck? Tennessee has reason to be proud of him. Although he was in bitter pain, scalded, hurt to death, he begged those who came to his assistance to let him alone and help the passengers. No passenger, however, needed aid, and he would be rescuers offered whisky. The injured man refused until four men had smelled his breath to bear witness that he had not been drinking when the wreck occurred. "All an engineer has is his record," he said, "and he cannot afford to have anything against that." Then he died. It is sad to die, to leave wife and children, friends, work and white bright world, but it is well to go when the call sounds, in the spirit of the engineer Samuel Bush.—Collier's.



THE NORTH POLE.

How an Explorer Tells When He Has Reached Latitude 90 Degrees.

In the sledge trip to the pole, a distance about equaling that from Washington to Boston, no heavy instruments could be carried, and especially so in the final dash like that accomplished by Cook and two Eskimos, says Professor Alfred Mitchell of Columbia university. The ordinary navigator's sextant would be too heavy and bulky and would have to be replaced by a less cumbersome instrument. Peary ordinarily carried a small sextant, a so called pocket sextant. The ship's chronometer in its square case would give way to a good pocket timepiece, though two or three small chronometers might be carried.

The sea captain observes the altitude of the sun by bringing it in contact with the horizon, where sea and sky meet. But in the frozen north there is no such horizon, the ice floes are thrown up into hummocks and hills, and an altitude of the sun above the visible horizon would lead to inaccurate results. On land explorations an artificial horizon is made by pouring mercury into a little shallow tray. But mercury freezes at 40 degrees below zero. A blackened glass plate made horizontal by means of spirit levels was used by Cook and well answered the purpose.

In a polar dash the latitude is the important information desired. Longitude—i. e., the difference between local and Greenwich time—is difficult to obtain and inaccurate. Consequently latitude must be determined by methods which will not involve an accurate knowledge of the time. The sun's greatest altitude during the twenty-four hours would give the time of local noon, and latitude from such an observation could be readily determined, and twelve hours later, at midnight, the sun's altitude would be least, and latitude could again be determined. When the greatest and least altitudes were the same, or, in other words, when the sun did not change in altitude at all (except for its change in declination in the sky), then was the latitude 90 degrees, and the north pole was reached. It is readily seen the small instruments, the difficulty of determining horizon and the bitter cold combine to make observations of no great accuracy. Under such conditions it is questionable whether the position of the pole could be determined within ten miles.—New York World.

Father Lacombe.

On September 6, Rev. Father Lacombe for the twenty thousandth time celebrated High Mass in the cathedral of St. Albert, near Edmonton, Alberta. The occasion was also the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the Gray nuns in the place. The town, the convent, schools, cathedral, and the palace of Bishop Legal were all beautifully decorated. The cathedral was crowded at the services, and Father Lacombe took charge. After the celebration of the Mass, Rev. Father Leduc, himself a pioneer priest of the west, preached, and in the course of his remarks referred to the work of Father Lacombe in his early pioneer days. At the luncheon which followed the services, Bishop Legal presided, and on his left were Lieutenant-Governor Bulyea, on his right Hon. C. W. Cross, Attorney-General of the province. Among the other guests were Rev. Father Lacombe, Senator Roy, several members of the local Legislature, and others.

Rev. Father Lacombe, who is now over eighty years of age, was ordained on June 13, 1849, by the then Bishop of Montreal, and almost immediately thereafter he went to the west, where he has labored ever since. He mastered the Cree language and published a dictionary and grammar of that language, as well as traveling thousands of miles each year, and establishing several new churches.

Needed an Engineer.

A good many years ago a prominent railway contractor was in Sir William Van Horne's office at the C.P.R. headquarters at Montreal talking over some work that was in progress.

The contractor and Sir William had a pretty lively discussion, and the former suddenly said:

"Who is your chief engineer?"

"I am the chief engineer," said Sir William.

"Well," said the contractor, "you had better get another. You are going to have a bad accident, and the first thing you know you'll be sent to jail."

Sir William punched a bell, and Mr. P. A. Peterson responded.

"Peterson," said Sir William, "you have served us long and faithfully, and you are hereby appointed chief engineer of the C.P.R."—Montreal Star.

INHERIT THE JOB.

The Postmasters of a Little Town in Kent, England.

Forty years before, as quite a boy, Jones had left a little town in Kent, England. Now, on the first long vacation he ever had since, he was visiting his childhood scenes. He had remembered that the postmaster's name was Pengelley, and he had remembered, too, that he was a kindly old man. There wasn't the slightest probability, he thought, that the postmaster was still alive, but his acquaintance with the former incumbent might smooth things a little with the new one, so that the whereabouts of people to whom he had been directed would be made known.

"What's become of Mr. Pengelley?" he asked, interrupting for a moment his majesty's letter assorter.

"I am Mr. Pengelley."

"Perhaps you're his son."

"Yes; my father's name was Pengelley, too," drawled the Englishman.

"I mean the postmaster."

"So do I."

"Was your father postmaster forty years ago?"

"My word, no! That was my grandfather. You see, our names are all alike, and the postoffice department doesn't know but that the first one is alive. We inherit this job, don't you know. And my wife's just presented me with a son. There was no haggling over his name."—New York Press.

"The Descent of Man."

In olden days "Ascent of Man" made copy on the wholesale plan for many a monkish, bookish bore who doped the old best selling lore, but now, with aeroplanes and such, "Ascent of Man" no'er figures much. Today "Descent of Man's" the thing—a fight, a break, a fall, and bing!

A POSITIVE CURE FOR INDIGESTION

If you have indigestion, your food ferments in the stomach and bowels. It does more; it decays, and the nutritious matter which should go to make new blood decays with it, and this leads to an impoverished condition of the blood, to nervousness, biliousness, constipation, sick headache, bad breath which disgusts your friends, and other disagreeable and unpleasant conditions.

And all this trouble is caused by the stomach not being strong enough and energetic enough to thoroughly mix the food with the digestive juices.

M-I-O-N-A is responsible for tens of thousands of cures. In fact, it is such a positive cure for indigestion and all stomach troubles that it is guaranteed by Wm. Madill to cure or money back. The price of a large box of Mi-o-na tablets is 50 cents, and they are sure to promptly relieve the worst case of indigestion or gastritis. Try them.

"Nisi Prius."

People often ask the meaning of the legal expression "nisi prius." Literally interpreted, it means "unless before," a name given to the sittings of a court for the trial of civil causes. Judges on circuit, besides trying prisoners, have the power to give decisions in causes of complaints between private parties and when no acting are called judges of "nisi prius." Formerly, when the circuits were less frequent, the sheriff was commanded "by writ" to bring the jury and witnesses from the county where the action arose to Westminster, Gloucester or Winchester on a certain day, but when the assizes became frequent a "nisi prius" clause was inserted in the writ containing these words: "Unless before that day our justices shall come to your county and take the assizes there." As it happened that the assizes always did take place before the date named in the writ, the clause was practically useless and now remains only as a name for those civil causes to which until recently it referred.—Dundee Advertiser.

"Look Out For That Little Cold"

The wise physican says "cure it before it grows large and dangerous. To-day is the time to commence treatment." The remedy, the best one, which doctors say surpasses all others, is "Nerviline." Rub it on the chest and throat, use it as a gargle, and then take 20 drops in hot water—Cold will disappear.

"Last spring I caught a severe cold," writes George V. Smart, of Gibson P.O. "Every cough racked my throat, which became perfectly raw. When almost in desperation I was advised to try Nerviline. I rubbed it on and used it as a gargle. Immediate relief followed. For breaking up colds it's the great remedy of to-day.

Use "Nerviline" It Cures Colds

Nerviline will surprise you. It's the best household remedy for coughs, colds, sore throat, croup and internal pains of every kind. Large bottles have been sold by druggists for nearly fifty years at 25c. Don't forget Nerviline when you go to the druggists.

THE LATEST NEWS OF SPORT — TOLD IN BRIEF FORM

Varsity Working Hard For Saturday's Ottawa Game

It might rain next Saturday, so Captain Newton had his men out in the campus yesterday in the downpour just to get them used to the heavy going. The whole team, with the one exception of Gordon Jones, were out. Jones had a good stiff run in the gymnasium, and will be in great form on Saturday.

There was no line up and no tackling, but the students had a good hour of lighrt work. Kicking, catching and passing, with a fast jog to finish up, was all that Captain Newton asked of them.

The management is not worrying over Lawson's fumbling, for, as Captain Newton said, the game there with Queen's on November 6th last is the only time in which the big fellow has been bad at catching, for the last two years, and as he has been practising hard ever since then ,the chances of his repeating the trick are practically nil. His shoulder has recovered from the knock it got that same day when he attempted to hurdle, and Lawson is now in perfect shape.

Gall in Shape.

Gall's ankle, which was twisted in the Ottawa College game on October 30th, is now as fine as ever, and he will go into the game in tip top form Jimmie Bell was injured at McGill in the final Intercollegiate game a week ago last Saturday, but he has been taking care of himself, and has recovered much faster than was expected, so he will be there in his old form on Saturday.

The only position on the team which is not filled is left outside wing, and there are two good men battling for the place, Park and Gage. The man to fill it will not be chosen until the end of the week, but no matter which one it is Varsity will not be weak there.

Rooters in Line.

The Varsity rooters started last week to round their voices into form for a few songs in which the word "Tiger" played a prominent part, but they are not experiencing any trouble in changing that Hamilton byword to the Ottawa champions' cognomen, "Rough Riders." It is not so hard to remember the victorious songs of 1905, and shift them around to suit the needs of 1909.—Toronto News.

STANLEY CUP TRUSTEES MAKE AN IMPORTANT RULING

The Stanley Cup trustees have issued their ruling on the status of players who compete in cup series at the opening and close of the ordinary hockey season. The clause should settle for good and all the controversy that comes up annually over the eligibily of players on challenging and defending teams. The new ruling was given out yesterday morning, and reads as follows:

"The trustees do not consider eligible to play in a contest for the Stanley Cup at the close of the ordinary hockey season players who during that season were not regular members of the teams concerned.

"In the case of challenges accepted for matches to be played at or prior to the opening of the regular hockey season, the trustees will consider requests for the authorization of bona fide changes rendered necessary in the teams since the preceding season."

Trustee William Foran announces that both the Winnipeg Shamrocks and the Galt Club's challenges have been accepted and the Trustees have notified the Winnipeg Club. Dates will be given their team shortly. It is not probable more than two series will be played this season, as the opening of the E. C. H. L. will come around at the conclusion of the series with Galt.

OTTAWA OPINIONS ON THE STRUGGLE WITH VARSITY

Ottawa Free Press

The time has arrived for the Ottawa papers to dope out the qualities of Toronto University team which Ottawa will have to beat next Saturday to win the Dominion Championship and Grey Cup. In their laegue, the Inter-collegiate, they have stood preeminent when at full strength, suffering deefat once, that being in the last game when McGill nosed out in front with 'Varsity minus her big noise—Smirle Lawson.

Of course the Intercollegiate is hardly up to the calibre of the Big Four. But 'Varsity has shown so much superiority over the other teams in the Intercollegiate, there is no question but that they rank right up to the standard of two at least and probaly all four of the Interprovincial teams.

But 'Varsity has been entirely dependent on her back line. Lawson the Hercules at left half, is considered the greatest ground getter in the country. He stands well over six foot and runs with his knees and elbows working overtime. He can hit the line like a bull and when running under full pressure in an open field, it is almost impossible for a small man to pull him up. But Lawson is not infallible. He can fumble like a bush leaguer in a world's series contest. That appears to be his one failing. Gall is another star on the 'Varsity back line. To him falls all the punting and though he is a mere shrimp of a fellow, he can catch, boot and run with the best in the game. Newton is also touted as a good one.

'Varsity appears to lack line strength and critics declare Ottawa on the showing of last Saturday should be able to tear the student's line to ribbons. This might be an exaggeration of the situation, but certainly Ottawa can hold the 'Varsity line and that will give Williams his opportunity. 'Varsity's outside wings have never set the world on fire, and in the modern Canadian game, outside wings are as essential as a centre-half or quarter. The Toronto team is a splendidly drilled one, and their play abonds with tricks. They are adepts at the on-and kick and work it at quic kintervals during a game. This play appears to be one of the most difficult Ottawa will have to encounter. And the only way to stop it is the covering of the backs who lay behind the centre half to come up for the kick.

Hugh Ritchie, the centhe scrimmager, has been playing football since 1912. He is still in college and will never graduate till his Rugby days are over. He played in the famous Dominion Championship game at Rosedale in 1905 when 'Varsity beat Ottawa Rough Riders. George Kennedy played opposite him on that occasion just as he will do next Saturday. On this occasion there is sure to be an old boy's reunion. One recalls a scrap Ritchie and Herb Buken had during that game. Both were of the same build and the spectators called it the heavyweight championship. The pair waddled off the field when ordered by the referee growling a teach other like cats.

Ottawa cannot hold the Toronto students too cheaply. There are some people who have followed the play in both unions all season and declare 'Varsity would beat the winners of the Big Four. One thing is certain, Ottawa will be playing against the strongest back line she has been called upo nto face this season.

Word comes to the Capital this morning the 'Varsity cheering section will be made up of thirty-five hundred students. This support will be augmented by half the sporting populace of Toronto. Ottawa will have the crowd to play as well as the 'Varsity team, and it will require close to a thousand rooters from this city and all the music obtainable for the men from the Capital to hold their own in the line of cheering.

THE RING

TO FIGHT IN PARIS

New York, Nov. 22.—Word comes from Paris that Joe Jeanette and Sam McVey have bee nmatched to fight 30 rounds at the Cirque de Paris on Dec. 11. The promoters have hung up a $5,500 purse, of which the winner will receive $3,500. Jeanette and McVey, both colored, met in Paris in a gruelling mill last winter and in the 49th round McVey's seconds threw up the sponge, as the Californian was severely punished. But prior to that Jeanette was knocked down more than a dozen times, and was on the verge of going to sleep on several occasions, when his remarkable recuperative powers enabled him to continue.

ANOTHER SHARKEY

New York, Nov. 22.—They have uncovered another Tom Sharkey in San Francisco in the person of Gunboat Smith, the sailor bold who was thumped about some by Jack Johnson when the dusky champion was preparing for Ketchel. Gunboat fought Peter Jackson recently in Oakland and won a 10-round decision from him in the handiest sort of fashion. The old timers at the ringside marvelled at the big marine's shiftiness. Previous to this feat he knocked two good ones out in jig time. Eddie Emith, who refereed the bout, predicts a future for Smith.

PAPKE AND KETCHEL

New York, Nov. 22—There will be a fifth battle between Billy Papke and Stanley Ketchel. It is almost a certainty, as Papke has given in about that 158-pound notch and has wired from Kewanee that Ketchel can come in at 165 ringside.

It is up to Ketchel now, and as he is ever willing to meet his most stubborn foe the two great middies will toe the scratch before the year is out. Papke has declared that he will bet $5,000 on the result. Ketchel may claim that 165 ringside is not one bit better than 158 at 3 or 6 o'clock. He takes on weight rapidly after scale time and generally tucks six or seven pounds under his belt before the first gong. If he were forced to come to the ringside and weigh 165 just before the fight he might say he was too weak to battle in view of the fact that he is unquestionably heavy just now. Papke states further that he can whip all the rest of the middle weight crowd, and his sole ambition in life is to stand aside in some ring and listen to the referee count Ketchel out.

RETIRING SALE ATTRACTIONS

A. H. Stratton & Co's Retiring Sale affords an opportunity at this season of the year that no one should miss. Stock is selling at cost and under. Every section of the store is sacrificing prices so completely that profits are all swept away. For example:

Christie's Pictures, Harrison Fisher Pictures, Boileau Heads, neatly framed in wax oak, only 15c. each.

Holly Box Note Paper and Envelopes. Retiring sale price 15c. You can't buy a better box for 35c. 1910 Annuals at cost. Leave your order now.

Broken Eggs.

When eggs are broken and cannot be used at once they will keep better if the shell be removed and a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt be beaten into the egg. They later can be used for cakes or puddings.

Ocean Depths.

The greatest depth of the Atlantic ocean is 27,366 feet; Pacific ocean, 30,000 feet; Indian ocean, 18,582 feet; Arctic ocean, 9,000 feet, and Southern ocean, 25,200 feet.

An Odd Ferryboat.

A ferryboat in use in the harbor of Glasgow is supplied with a deck which can be raised and lowered seventeen feet. In fact, it is a floating elevator. This feature is necessary because of the difference of the levels of the two landing stages made use of by the craft.

Worn Brooms.

Worn brooms or whisks may be dipped into hot water and uneven edges trimmed with shears. This makes the straws harder, and the trimming makes the broom almost as good as new.

Asbestus Houses.

Asbestus houses are much used in Australia. These houses are not only fireproof, but impervious to water, unaffected by heat or cold and have high insulating properties. They are not attacked by white ants or other insects that abound in southern countries.

Mexico's Mountains.

To the mountain climbers Mexico offers inducements not surpassed by any other country, having seventeen mountains, running from Jorullo, in Michoacan, the lowest, 4,265 feet, up to Popocatepetl, 17,540 feet.

Something in Your Eye.

A celebrated oculist recommends in any cases where dirt, lime or sparks get into the eyes that the sufferer have pure olive oil poured in until everything of a harmful nature is removed. The remedy is quite painless and never fails to remove all foreign substances.

The Gum Arabic Tree.

Mexican Tobacco Lands.

Mexico's best tobacco lands are in the state of Vera Cruz. The so called tobacco belt extends from Tuxpan river, in the northern part of the state, to and beyond its southeastern boundary line and up to the republic of Guatemala. This belt is about 500 miles in length.

TRIAL BY RICE.

The Way Suspected Criminals in Bengal Are Treated.

They have peculiar methods of trying suspects in Bengal. One of these is called "trial by rice," says a writer in the Wide World Magazine. After a priest had been consulted as to an auspicious day every person suspected and those who were usually near the place at night were ordered to be present at 10 o'clock that morning. On that date all turned up. First the people were made to sit in a semicircle, and a "plate" (a square of plantain leaf) was set before each. Then a priest walked up and down chanting and scattering flowers. These said flowers, by the way, must be picked by a Brahman and they must be those which are facing the sun. This ceremony over, one of the clerks went to each man and gave him about two ounces of dry raw rice and told him to chew it to a pulp. Then commenced what looked like a chewing match. After about ten minutes had elapsed they were told to stop and eject it into the plaintain leaf. All did so easily with the exception of three men. In the case of these three the chewed rice had in two cases become slightly moistened, but not sufficiently so to allow of its being easily ejected, and they had much ado to get rid of it. The third man had chewed his into flour, and it came out as such, perfectly dry. One of these three men promptly commenced to cry and begged for mercy, confessing everything and stating that man No. 3, who had acted as a kind of flour mill, was the chief instigator. It is a curious fact that fear, arising from an evil conscience, prevents saliva coming to the mouth, with the result described.

GOOD IN SPIDERS.

They Don't Bite and Do Kill Many Injurious Insects.

I think it can be said that there never has been one absolutely authentic case of spider bite. The so called spider bites received occasionally, and generally in early summer, often in bed, are inflicted by certain blood-sucking insects of several species, large and small. The mandibles of the average sized spiders are hardly powerful enough to pierce the human skin, and all of the poison contained in an arachnid's glands injected into the flesh of a human bing will not make as much fuss as a respectable bee sting. Moreover, spiders are not mammal bloodsuckers and wouldn't bite if they could. So much for the negative qualities of spiders.

If it were not for the spiders we should all promptly starve to death. Perhaps this is a little startling; it is none the less true. To enlarge upon it, certain spiders prey upon certain caterpillars, regularly inhabit their abodes and kill so many of them that often whole colonies of the insects are wiped out of existence. These caterpillars normally feed upon the leaves of trees, bushes and shrubs, frequently entirely denuding a plant. If they were plentiful enough to exhaust their common food they would turn to the weeds and grasses. Without check of any kind they would overrun the earth and destroy every green and growing thing. The spiders beautifully preserve the balance of nature.—S. F. Aaron in Collier's.

The Moods of Musicians.

Before the moods of genius the world must ever bow in awe, for is it not to the wayward wanderings from the normal that inspiration itself is due? says a writer in London Lady. The gloomy moods of Beethoven are traditional, but every time they enwrapped his spirit there flowed from his pen the most noble of scores. Turning to Schubert, we find that it was in the gay moods of the German inn that his genius worked. Under their sway the "Serenade" and many other immortal themes were penned on a tavern table, any scraps of paper being used that came to hand. Paganini was so wholly the victim of moods that it was no unusual thing for an audience to wait in vain for his contribution to a concert program. When due to appear some fantasy of the moment would impel him to remain in his poverty stricken room, grimly toying with the instrument which should have been moving his hearers to tears.

Her Distress.

Mary, aged fourteen, was found one day by an older sister sobbing and crying.

"What is the matter?" she asked, with great concern.

"Three boys have asked me to go to the dance tonight," was the unexpected reply.

"Well, my dear child, certainly that is not such a terrible misfortune."

"Yes, but I told the first one I would go with him, and the last one was a long panter."

FOSTER AND PUGSLEY.

They Have Been at War Ever Since They Went to College.

The rivalry of those bitter Parliamentary opponents, Hon. Wm. Pugsley and Hon. Geo. E. Foster, dates back to school days in New Brunswick. Reared in the same county—King's—they set off to college together, both green, but promising country youths. "I first saw Mr. Pugsley on the train going into college," said Mr. Foster once.

They entered the University of New Brunswick in the same freshmen class and all through their academic career, the fight for first honors was between the two youths. They were registered at different schools. Foster was head boy at one and Pugsley at the other. They were yearly rivals for scholarships, for debating, and for all the collegiate honors. For three years Foster managed to nose out his opponent for honors, but in the final year Pugsley took the highest honors, with Foster a close second. It was with the class of 1869, they were sent forth by their alma mater, sheepskins under their arms, to face the world.

Pugsley started studying law, Foster went into teaching. Later, the two brilliant young graduates drifted into politics, where their careers have strangely criss-crossed, until now once more are they rivals at Ottawa.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster is at present in the West on a lecture tour. It is seven years since the ex-Finance Minister has been West, and the trip is as much a holiday as anything else. Hon. Geo. E. had a great time meeting old friends. One of the most interesting meetings was that with Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, son of his old chieftain. A busy two hours they had of it talking over the old days and the better days—for the Conservative party.

There was one interesting meeting which was not on the books. Hon. Robert Rogers had Mr. Foster in tow and they ran into "Bob" Edwards, editor of The Eye-Opener, that spicy publication, which has never had particularly pleasant things to say of Mr. Foster.

"Mr. Foster, Mr. Edwards, editor of The Eye-Opener. Mr. Edwards, Mr. Foster," said the Hon. Bob.

Mr. Foster gasped as he looked at the mild-eyed man. All he could get out was:

"So this is the man," and stared.

WHY THE HATS STAYED ON.

Princess of Wales' Kindliness Was Misunderstood by the Crowd.

A good many stories have been told concerning incidents which occurred during the famous visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales some years ago. One which has not been much worn by repetition is related in an article in the October number of The Busy Man's Magazine, entitled "The Protectors of Royalty in Canada," on the work of Canada's secret service.

At Sussex, N.B., when the royal representatives were returning from across the continent, it was a bitterly cold October day, and a large concourse was at the station, accompanied by the band, to greet the distinguished party. It was usual, as soon as the car door opened, for the musical bodies joining in the welcome to play the National Anthem. All the persons on the platform of the royal car, at the first notes of the familiar air, as well as all the male members in the waiting throngs, invariably stood with heads uncovered. Just before the door opened on this occasion, the Princess of Wales, ever thoughtful of the comfort of those about her, told the gentlemen that it would be unwise for them to remove their hats on the platform as, on account of coming out of a warm compartment to the chilly atmosphere of an October morning, there would be danger of them contracting cold. Accordingly, when the band struck up "God Save the King" they kept on their headgear. As soon as the selection had been played a tall, lanky countryman on the outskirts of the crowd yelled:

"Why don't them galoots on the platform take off their hats? Don't they know nuthin'?" And the assembly enjoyed a general laugh.

After the ceremony, as the princess was bidding good-bye to the Mayor of Sussex, she humorously remarked: "Will you please tell your friend who made the observation, that I am responsible for the gentlemen on the car not removing their hats."

Studying Native Remains.

Prof. Montgomery of Toronto University returned recently from the West, having spent the summer collecting archaeological specimens for the university museum. For many years he has been carrying on field work in the prairie states, and provinces, making special study of the mounds and other remains of a prehistoric people, who once dwelt there for a considerable period of time. This season his work was a further investigation, and study, of the same race and their movements, and he reports this work as successful and in some respects unusually interesting and instructive. Upon one side of the undrained bed of an ancient lakelet in southern Manitoba, Prof. Montgomery measured an aboriginal wall which had been constructed of stone boulders, and soil. This is about half a mile in length, from four to six feet in height, and about fifteen feet in thickness, its height and width showing remarkable uniformity. The wall was no doubt intended to enlarge the little lake and thus increase the supply of water and also of wild game in that locality where such were greatly needed.

Fossil Sea Beach.

The base of the great Cambrian system in a fossil sea beach was recently found by Secretary Walcott of the Smithsonian institution, during a trip in the higher Canadian rockies, near the main line of the Canadian Pacific. This fossil beach now forms a bed of white quartz pebble conglomerate 300 feet in thickness. Below this 4,000 feet of limestone of an older period was measured, and above it 12,000 feet of Cambrian limestone, sandstone and shale.

Household Hinlets.

Do not throw away old umbrellas. By removing the cloth cover and cutting it up in strips you can make a number of dainty neckties for your husband. The ribs properly twisted and woven together make a very good rat trap, and the stick when carefully polished will do for a cane to present to the clergyman at Christmas.

To keep freckles from showing get a small paint pot, quart size, and fill with a pink paint carefully matching the tone of your complexion and with a camel's hair brush paint each freckle out.

Young wives cannot be too often reminded that they should always greet their husbands with a smile. It is safe to say that there is nothing in the world that will more deeply irritate him than this, and it should therefore not be forgotten.

If your lamp wicks give out, a very satisfactory substitute can be made of Irish point lace or valenciennes, carefully wound round the wick holder. A knitted necktie will serve the same purpose, but is apt to burn fitfully and give out a pungent odor.—Harper's Weekly.

Judges on Circuit.

It was the genius and foresight of Henry I. that saw the necessity of creating a close connection between the central king's court and the local courts up and down the land. It was Norman and wandering, going where the king went. They were Saxon and stationary; hence to link them together in 1124 a special deputation of judges was for the first time sent on circuit in the country, of whom it is recorded that they "hanged so many thieves as never was before, being in that little while altogether forty-four men."

This vigorous administration of justice by royal authority gained for Henry the title of "the lion of justice" and paved the way for the permanent institution in his grandson's reign. These traveling judges were called justices-in-eyre—i. e., in itinere, en journey. Their head, the justiciar, is still seen in our title the lord chief justice.

Henry II. in 1178 fixed these circuits at six—the home, midland, eastern, western, northeastern and northern, which correspond roughly with those that still exist.—London Standard.

None of That For Them.

They had been married only a month, and it was their first experience in seeking country board. After riding ten long miles in a rattling farm cart they arrived at the door of the farmhouse.

"And now, strangers," said the old farmer after he had asked about a score of questions, "I want to tell yeou right now that down here with us yeou be supposed to go to bed with the chickens." The young man whispered to his young wife, and then both climbed back on the farm cart.

"Boy," said the young man, his lips compressed with determination, "drive us back to the station."

The freckled lad grinned and whipped up the horse.

"You uns didn't seem to like the place?" he chuckled.

"No," said the young man. "We have often read about crowded farmhouses, but when it comes to shoving us off to the henhouse that is going a little too strong. I guess we'll stay in the city."—Chicago News.

What He Could Do.

During the South African war there was a young officer just from Standhurst who was attached to General French's staff. The young fellow has himself achieved some distinction since then and shall be nameless. At that time he was fresh and fidgety and was always imagining a constant menace of attack by the Boers, whom he invariably pronounced "Bores." This pronunciation General French had in vain tried to correct, and it gradually got on his nerves. One day the young officer came to the general to report that he believed he could make out through his fieldglass quite as many as twenty "Bores" bid in the rocks above his camp. "Bores, you say?" inquired the general. "Yes, sir. Bores. Can I do anything, sir? "Yes. Don't add to them."

A Serious Question.

"My dear Mr. Fallows," said the doctor. "I will admit that I am not quite decided as to whether or not yours is a constitutional disease."

"Hum! That so?" said the patient, with a heavy sigh. "And have I got to go to the expense of appealing to the United States supreme court to find out?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

She Rather Liked It.

"I don't mind Jack's slang," said one of the girls. "He is so clever in the use of it."

"How so?"

"Why, he sent me three dozen photos of famous beauties, with a card on which the only words were, 'You're another.'"

A Changed Girl.

"How is it that Julia is so jealous and quarrelsome? She used to have such a sweet disposition!"

LAKEFIELD WOULD NOT GAIN AS MUCH AS PETERBOROUGH

To the Editor of The Examiner:

I have noticed some little discussion regarding the action of the Peterborough Board of Trade in refusing to endorse the action of the Board of Trade of Lakefield in applying for an appropriation from the Dominion Government for the purpose of extending the steamboat dock at that place to the Grand Trunk railway tracks. In the first place I do not think that the endorsation of the Peterborough Board of Trade would be of any assistance to Lakefield in the matter, but at the same time, I think that the local Board of Trade would not have dismissed the matter in such a summary manner, had they been conversant with the circumstances. The building, or rather the extending of the dock at Lakefield, would in reality be of more value to the people of Peterborough, than it would be to the people of Lakefield. About the only service the extending of this dock would be to the village would be in the matter of appearance. The real advantage would be to Peterborough people and others who travel to Stony Lake so frequently, and are obliged to have their baggage carted to the dock. If the wharf were extended, the railway trains would run right down to the steamboat dock, and both passengers and baggage could be transferred. The residents of Peterborough who enjoy the week end at Stony Lake would thus be saved time, trouble and expense. But our Board of Trade, in its mighty wisdom, chopped off its nose to spite its face. It is fortunate indeed, that the action of the Board of Trade in this case, as in other cases, will not seriously affect the matter.—Yours truly,

PETERBOROUGH.

THE CAUSE OF POOR FISHING

To tht Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of Saturday, November 20th, under the heading of "Fishing Poor," an inquiry was made as to why this condition existed. There are many reasons that may be cited, and for instance the following:

(1) As the city grows, there is a great increase in the number of fishermen.

(2). The sudden lowering of water at the locks.

Our local inspector, Mr. Watt, informed me that notwithstanding, he went as quickly as possible to the island above the C. P. R. bridge, when some repairs were being made at the Locks, he found many young 'Lunge and Bass stranded upon the island, which, at high water, is submerged, and although he worked rapidly, many of the young game fish died. Mr. Watt had one young Maskinonge, six inches in length, which he found, dead, preserved.

In the Montreal Weekly Witness, about a month ago, a subscriber spoke of the Herring Gull, the Cormorant and the Crane, more properly called the Great Blue Heron, as one of the main sources for undoing what our Government is nobly endeavouring to do. Personally, I believe the Herring Gull does as much scavenger work as it does take live fish. The Cormorant destroys a great many fish, but I have not known more than three or four to be taken in this district in twenty-five years. One, now in the Victoria museum, having been shot by J. D. Collins, Esq. The Great Blue Heron (erroneously called Crane) fishes day and night, for two hundred days and nights of the year, sleeping only when its voracious appetite is satisfied. Two miles below Hale's Bridge, on the west side of the Otonabee River there is a Cranery, the nests placed upon the tops of the trees, can be seen from the steamboats. There are from two to four nests in a tree and about one hundred nests in a Cranery; a pair of adult birds to each nest, would make two hundred birds. A mild estimate of the number of Herons for the Otonabee River and Rice Lake District, would be three hundred adult birds. The leaders arrive from the south, the latter end of the month of March; April is the month for nesting; three and four eggs is the average for each nest. The young birds grow very quickly, attaining the size of an adult, by the end of August. This calls for a vast amount of food. One hundred nests at three per nest, makes an additional three hundred birds. Out of the gullet of one Heron, we took seven fish. If that was an ordinary day, and one Heron had seven fish daily, for two hundred days, and the other birds did likewise, it would mean four hundred and twenty thousand fish in a season, and the Heron would not be particular as to whether they were game fish or otherwise.

So we have to make our choice as to whether we prefer to conserve our fish or to have beauty and grace added to the scenery, by the adornment of two or three Herons, that rise on the wing as steamers turn the bends in the picturesque Otonabee. To those who do not fish, the pleasure comes in the appearance of these birds around the waters, but the fishermen are reminded that, while

"Scenic beauty feeds the eye,
An empty fish-bag is a poor thing to fry."

Yours truly,

E. ELCOME.

MAY BE THE FINAL TRIP

Mr. Wilbert Harris, the veteran navigator of the Otonabee, is ready to moor the Monarch for another season. He came up yesterday afternoon, returning to-day, and will make another trip to-morrow night. Saturday will likely see the concluding journey to Peterborough, and after that it is expected the frost will set in hard and begin to close the river and lake. The navigation year has been a good one, and Captain Harris has continued to please the patrons of the Otonabee Navigation Co., under whose management the Monarch is now running.

The steamer Rainbow is also still in the river, but Saturday will, in all probability see the season terminated.

ABOARD A SUBMARINE.

The Crew, the Work and the Kind of Life the Men Lead.

Life aboard a submarine is not so unpleasant or dangerous as one might imagine, but it is entirely different from that led on other types of ships.

The crew, usually consisting of two officers and fourteen men, is selected from volunteers after a most rigid medical examination. Service rarely extends beyond a period of two years, and real work on a submarine is limited to about three weeks in the summer and one in the winter. During the remainder of the time the men live on a "parent" ship or on shore. The boat is, however, put through the various evolutions once every week.

The first impression on entering a submarine is one of heat, the air being rather close and heavy, but the men soon become accustomed to it. Standing room space is about six and one-half feet, and toward both ends the boat tapers away almost to a point. There are no portholes. The hatchway in the conning tower is the only aperture. Under water electric light is used. There are ventilators, but when the boat dives they are shut off with a cap.

Life on board a submarine is essentially "in common." The way men and many objects are crammed together in a narrow space is almost miraculous.

Cooking is done in an electric oven, and no foods which have a strong or disagreeable smell are used. Of course smoking is allowed only when on the surface and then on the bridge. Owing to the character of the men selected discipline is perfect.

There is scarcely any noise in a submarine when submerged. The greatest depth the boat descends does not exceed thirty feet. At that depth her speed is about 8 knots. The air is quite "breathable" for four hours out in case of emergency the ends can remain closed in for twenty hours without danger.

The men love the life. With the officers they are as one family, sharing everything equally, including the dangers, which are not much to speak of, provided every one does his duty. When the weather is fair there is very little rolling. In rough weather the men escape knocking about by holding on to "steadying lines."—New York Press.

WOLFE'S LIFE AND LETTERS.

Beckles Willson Publishes Great Soldier's Correspondence.

Mr. Beckles Willson has the good fortune to live in the neighborhood of what was once Wolfe's house at Westerham. He has thus the aid of association in writing his account of Wolfe's boyhood and later life. He claims also a great enthusiasm for the hero. Certainly he has accomplished a valuable addition to the biography of Wolfe in publishing for the first time many of Wolfe's letters. "The Life and Letters of James Wolfe" is a bulky volume of more than 500 pages. The narrative which connects the letters is interesting and shows a genuine attachment and admiration. But it is to the letters themselves that the reader turns to discover, if possible, the character of a soldier so important to the world whose personality has remained hidden to some extent and is in no less degree contradictory.

His early letters—the first printed was written when he was 13—do not reveal a remarkable youth. His early love affairs are far from being enthusiastic. But when he writes to his father of war the passion of his life seems to be revealed. "A battle gained is, I believe, the highest joy mankind is capable of receiving, to him who commands." The same feeling is to be discovered in an eager letter of counsel he writes three years before his death to a younger officer.

The reader is not at first impressed with his industry. But that he had a strong purpose to be ready for some great achievement shows in a letter written to his mother in 1752 from Paris.

"My way of life that you inquire for is very singular for a young man that appears to be in the world and in pleasure. Four or five days in the week I am up an hour before day (that is six hours sooner than any fine gentleman in Paris), I ride, and as I told you in a former letter, I fence and dance and have a master to teach me French. These occupations take up all the morning. I dine twice or three times a week at home, sometimes at Lord Albemarle's, and sometimes with my English acquaintances. After dinner I either go to the public entertainments or to visit, at nine I come home and am in bed generally by eleven. I can't say I have any idle time; nor do I live in the most agreeable manner, but I get what I came here for, I take great care of my health. I succeed much better in fencing and riding than I do in the art of dancing, for they suit my genius better."

This is a letter in which without doubt the true Wolfe is to be found. The same is true of the very particular directions he gives for the care and feeding of dogs. He was a wise as well as affectionate master to the well-disciplined Flurry.

A number of his letters to Miss Lowther are published and a good deal is said of her in the biography. But Wolfe appears to have loved his mother with more constancy and possibly more enthusiasm. His single touch of humor is in an affectionate letter consoling her for the state of her teeth, and on his father's death his chief anxiety was that his mother might not have been properly considered. For the rest, his death was what he would have asked. Those who read the letters will understand that he meant what he said at the last, "Then I die happy."

manitoba. It was a place with one hotel, and in the office the stranger was waiting for the train that was to take him to his next stop. The proprietor noticed his dapper appearance and enquired:

"Say, are you a theatre man?"

"No!" answered the stranger.

"Well, by gum, you look like one!" was the response.

To satisfy the obvious curiosity of the landlord the traveler confessed that his business was the promulgation of a few special lines, crockery and glassware, in the smaller communities of Western Canada.

"Well, that's strange," said the landlord. "I don't often make a mistake. I can tell theatre people when I see them. I've been to the By-jew and the Unlckky in Winnipeg often."

The Bijou and Unique theatres, it may be said, are well known amusement places in the western metropolis.

"Why, there was an actress came along here two or three weeks ago, and I spotted her for what she was right away. She was a nice, jaunt woman, too, and a swell dresser. Came down from Winnipeg to see her husband. He was runnin' a threshing engine during the harvest, just to pick up a little extry dough."

"What was her line?" asked the traveler.

"Oh! I guess she could do almost anythin'," replied the hotel proprietor, "but gee! her clog dancin' was great!"

Bluenose Pastors.

The announcement that Rev. Dr. Robertson of St. John's, Nfld., formerly of Halifax, N.S., has been unanimously invited to become pastor of St. James' Square Presbyterian Church of Toronto, recalls the statement that the "Bluenose" region is the home of great preachers.

The "Bluenose" region is the country of great divines. A score of Toronto pulpits, especially of the Presbyterian faith, will corroborate that. There are at least a dozen preachers and college professors in this city to-day who either first saw the light of day in Nova Scotia or became famous in their profession there, and their fame reached to Toronto and resulted in a call. A word to the wise is sufficient. If sessions or church boards are in search of a preacher or teacher, let them send a deputation to the east, where most of the magi seem to come from.

Wonderful Power of Suggestion.

Howard—Did you ever know of your own knowledge any one who was cured by suggestion?

Coward—Yes; I cured the old Duke's hallucination for my daughter by suggesting that he loved me.

The Royal Assent.

"Le roy le veult" (the king wills it) is the form of words in which the English king is accustomed to signify his royal assent to a bill which has passed both houses of parliament and is ready to be made statute law.

They are, however, not the only form of old Norman-French words which has survived and is still in usage in the British parliamentary system. Thus, for instance, when a bill is sent up for consideration from the commons to the lords it is announced by the clerk with the words, "Soit baillie aux seigneurs" (let it be sent to the lords), and when the convocation takes place the corresponding words are "Soit baillie aux communs."

The royal assent to many bills is more elaborately expressed, "Le roy remercie ses bons subjects, accepte leur benevolence et ainsi le veult" (the king thanks his loyal subjects, accepts their gift and so wills it). For private bills still another form of assent is used, "Soit fait comme il est desire" (let it be done as desired).

WINNIPEG TIED UP.

Little Improvement Shown In Power Situation.

Winnipeg, Nov. 25.—The street railway system is still tied up to-day. A despatch from Lac du Bonnett states that there is four feet of water at one end of the plant, and one and a half feet running out of the machine shop at the other end. An attempt is being made to stop up the broken flume with pilling. After that the submerged machinery will have to be dried, which will take several days.

Two of the big machines are in operation under four feet of water in the plant, and cannot be stopped.

Twenty of the most expert machinists in the C.P.R. shops have been taken out to Lac du Bonnett.

The company is supplying power from the steam plant of Assiniboine avenue, which has a capacity of 8,000 horse-power.

The city has offered to supply the company with 1,000 horse-power, and this has been accepted.

As far as can be learned, the peak load required, with everything running, is about 20,000 horse-power.

Forty cars were run until 7 o'clock last night, to take people from work to their homes. After that the number of cars was reduced and power used to give a lighting service.

Yesterday morning an unfortunate occurrence took place at the steam plant, when the switch burned out, cutting off 1,200 horse-power. On account of this it was only possible to operate 25 cars in the morning.

Industrial Winnipeg has been to a large extent paralyzed by the accident. The Northern Iron Works has 350 men off work, through lack of power, and the C.N.R. shops are practically shut, while the Ogilvie and Western Canada Flour Mills are completely tied up. Many other large concerns have part of their men off.

Kingston Has No Cars.

Kingston, Nov. 25.—According to notice, the Street Railway Co. ran the cars in the barns at midnight Monday night, and yesterday morning did not take them out again, because the city would not give the company the terms it wanted. The city offered to provide power at $1.20 per kilowatt hour for five years, with the privilege of terminating the contract at the end of three years. The company wanted the contract for five years with a privilege of dissolving at any time on six months' notice.

General impression seems to be that the differences could be settled in fifteen minutes if a proper spirit was displayed. The company yesterday afternoon started to take up the rails. Under the charter the company can suspend service for six months without putting it in peril.

Curb Powers of Political Police.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 25.—The Octoberists yesterday introduced in the Duma a bill designed to abolish the extraordinary powers now exercised by the political police in the preliminary investigations which they made in preparation for the trials of political offenders.

The new measure would make these evidence getting enquiries the duty of the regularly constituted judicial authorities.

The legislation is aimed at the practice of the gendarmerie in imprisoning political suspects sometimes as long as two years, without reporting the cases to the courts.

Senate Committee Chairmen.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—The standing committees of the Senate met yesterday morning and elected chairmen as follows: Banking, Senator Gibson; railways, Senator Beique; debates, Senator Colley; divorce, Senator Kirchhoffer; civil service, Senator Power; immigration and labor, Senator Frost; agricultural and forestry, Senator Edwards; internal economy, Senator Thompson; public buildings, Senator McHugh; trade relations, Senator Ross; public health, Senator Derbyer; public buildings, Senator Casgrain.

MUST WAIT FOR MONEY TO DEEPEN THE WELLAND CANAL

Premier Tells Deputation Yesterday That the Government Cannot Afford to Carry Out Improvements But Will do so as Soon as the Finances Justify It.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—It is only a matter of money that prevents the deepening of the Welland Canal from 14 to 22 feet. The Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in replying to the representations of a large delegation that yesterday urged the Government to undertake the work, regretted that in view of the already large expenditures that must be met, it was impossible to make provision just now for the $20,000,000 that would be required for the canal.

The Government was just as anxious as anyone to commence the work of deepening the Welland Canal, said the Premier, who heartily agreed with a suggestion made by Mr. Conlon of Thorold, that in time Canada's waterways system should be extended to the Rocky Mountains. When Canada had solved the question of bringing vessels from the great lakes to Montreal, we would be able to compete successfully with other routes.

Sir Wilfrid deprecated the idea that there was any competition between the Georgian Bay and Welland Canal systems. The future grain trade of Canada, he said, would amount not only to $250,000,000, but to a still greater amount, and by the time the St. Lawrence route is completed it will not be able to handle the trade. Then would come the Georgian Bay Canal, and when it was completed Canada would handle the trade, not only of the Canadian west, but of the American west as well.

The fact that the work would entail an expenditure of $20,000,000 did not scare him. It was the Minister of Finance who was alarmed. The Government would no doubt be criticized for bringing down estimates covering a proposed expenditure of $127,000,000. He was sorry, in view of the necessary works required, that Canada could not afford to do the work now, but the improvements would be undertaken as soon as Mr. Fielding advised that Canada could afford to spend the necessary money.

"We should see Mr. Fielding then!" queried Mr. German, M.P., who introduced the deputation.

"Perhaps," was the Premier's doubtful rejoinder.

The deputation represented the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Improvement Association, which includes representatives of many municipalities lying between Port Arthur and the great lakes, and included Mayor Oliver of Toronto, Mayor McLaren of Hamilton, and the mayors of several other towns and cities which would be affected by the deepening of the present canal, or by the creation of a partially new route.

In the House of Commons yesterday, Hon. George E. Foster spent nearly two hours in reviewing the history of the imperial conferences since 1887. At the close, Sir Wilfrid Laurier extended his "high commendation," and added that Mr. Foster had "presented the summary in a fair and accurate manner." The member for North Toronto remarked that these conferences constituted the only imperial Parliament that we had.

"Maybe we shall never have any other empire," said Mr. Foster, "meanwhile I am content with this, and so he looked to the imperial conferences as a medium for the expression of the best and strongest sentiments of that empire.

Mr. Foster in moving "for correspondence and papers possessed by the Government relating to the formation and work of the secretariat, decided upon by the Imperial Conference in 1907," said that he had two objects in view; one to find out what work had been done, the other to present to the House a review of what had been accomplished by the various imperial conferences. He touched particularly upon the question of naval defence.

At the conference of 1902, Lord Selborne, First Lord of the Admiralty, laid emphasis on the need of one control in the case of war or emergency. In no sense was the imperial problem one of local defence. If any colony followed "this heresy," a country which held to the doctrine of one control would be able to deal with the scattered navies singly and crush them.

For Canada, Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that the Government was contemplating local naval corps, but was not able to make any offers of the character made by the other colonies. A Canadian memorandum promised action in the matter of a navy, but confined it to self defence.

Duncan C. Ross, recently elected for West Middlesex, was introduced to the House by the Premier and Hon. Mackenzie King.

Mr. Jamieson asked Sir Wilfrid whether he had yet elected to sit for Quebec East or Ottawa. The Premier replied that he had not.

Mr. Martin (St. Mary's, Montreal) introduced a bill to amend the railway act to compel the railways to pay their employes fortnightly, instead of monthly.

Hon. W. S. Fielding yesterday laid on the table of the House supplementary correspondence in reference to the French treaty, in relation to the question raised as to what favored nation countries would be entitled to benefit by the provisions of the treaty.

In reply to a query from the British Foreign Office, Canada cable that "any favored-nation country claiming the advantages of the convention must accept them on the same conditions as France, as regards the goods of shipment. Goods must be sent to Canada by direct ship from such countries, or from a country enjoying the preferential or intermediate tariff. Continental favored-nation countries would have to send their goods direct from their own ports, or by way of Great Britain, which enjoys the preferential tariff. Switzerland could send goods by the most convenient channel to Great Britain, and ship thence to Canada. My Ministers hold that France is not entitled to send goods through favored-nation countries."

THE DANGER TOO GREAT

Lord Roseberry Fears the Result of the Budget is Rejected—A Very Great Political Measure.

NOT OPPOSE MEASURE

London, Nov. 25.—Lord Rosebery, the former Liberal Prime Minister, yesterday raised the historical struggle between the Lords and the House to a new plane by one of the finest speeches he has ever delivered, in which he warned the Lords of the grave risks they were running, if they adopted Lord Lansdowne's resolution to reject the budget.

If possible, still greater interest was manifested in yesterday's debate. The public galleries were crowded to their utmost capacity. The Duchess of Connaught headed a long list of the foremost peeresses, many of whom were compelled to stand throughout.

It is impossible to judge the effect Lord Rosebery's warning will have on a considerable section of the Unionist peers, who have held grave doubts as to the expediency of Lord Lansdowne's course, and there is almost certain to be a large number of abstentions when the resolution comes to a vote.

It was announced last night that the House of Commons will adjourn to-day until December 1, when Mr. Asquith, the Prime Minister, will make an important statement explaining the policy of the Government in view of the rejection of the budget, which is anticipated.

Nothing has been learned as to what the Ministers decided at yesterday's council, beyond the decision to call a party meeting to outline a plan of campaign.

Lord Salisbury resumed the debate with a speech supporting Lord Lansdowne's resolution, after the Archbishop of Canterbury had said the church would stand aside from the discussion, as the discussion was one of strictly party character.

Lord Rosebery followed in a long speech, giving the Lords plain warning of the danger of the path they were treading. He said: "I am quite dissociated from any party, and speak from my sense of the awful gravity of the situation. This is the greatest political moment in the lifetime of any man born since 1832."

A winning policy would be to allow the budget to pass and give the country six months' experience of its intolerable impositions, loss of capital and employment. They would then achieve, when they next approached the polls, a victory that would surprise themselves. He looked with considerable apprehension to the result of an appeal to the country on an unreformed second chamber, mixed up with such other issues as would be raised.

Expressing regret that he could not support the resolution, Lord Rosebery resumed his seat, having spoken for 50 minutes.

His picturesque and glowing eloquence produced a tremendous effect leaving his hearers somewhat bewildered. There was an immediate exodus of peers to discuss the situation in the lobbies, and although the debate continued until midnight, the remainder of the speeches took rather the form of an anti-climax.

The Prison Population.

Woodstock, Nov. 25.—At the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society last night in the Grey Memorial Hall Dr. Gilmour, warden of the Central Prison, delivered an address on "The Value of Childhood." The filling of the prisons with criminals to-day was traceable to the fact that children had not been properly cared for and reared.

An Old-Time Campaigner.

Turner, Me., Nov. 25.—Solon Chase, a celebrated figure in the days of the greenback agitation, 30 years ago, is dead, aged 87. During the height of the greenback campaign, Chase stumped the country as far as the middle west driving a pair of steam hitched to a hayrack, from the rear end of which he delivered his speeches.

Cheap Gas for Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, Nov. 25.—There is a possibility of Port Arthur and Fort William joining hands for the purpose of procuring gas for lighting and heating purposes at a low rate.

Colonel John Sneed's Conversations on Domestic Problems

Copyright, 1909, by C. S. Yost.

VII.—Some Points on Raising Girls

COLONEL SNEED'S son had come back to the old home for a visit and had brought with him his wife and little daughter, a busy, prattling youngster of three years, who pulled her grandfather's whiskers and stuck her chubby fingers into his eyes with impunity.

"Daughter," said the colonel one evening after the child had been put to bed and he had rearranged his toilet, "what do you contemplate doin' with that streak of sunshine?"

"Why, I'm going to take the best possible care of her," answered young Mrs. Sneed, "and try to make a good woman of her."

"You're not figurin' on makin' an actress or an artist or a stenographer out of her, are you?"

"No," laughed the daughter-in-law; "I haven't got that far along yet. But why do you ask?"

"Well, I didn't know. It seems like every woman's got to have a mission these days—one that's different from the original—and I thought maybe you'd laid out a brilliant career, with plenty of handclaps and bouquets in it. I'm mighty glad to know that makin' a good woman of her is all you've got in mind. Understand, I'm not sayin' she couldn't have what they call a career and be a good woman at the same time, but I've got a kind of an old fashioned notion that the finest thing on earth is a good wife and a good mother. That's a career that's higher than any man can aspire to, and the good woman who don't get up to that level has missed something in life.

"Anyhow, the makin' of a good woman is a big enough job for any mother to tackle. I've always had a belief that there was more care necessary in raisin' girls than in raisin' boys. It's a good deal the same difference as there is between a post oak saplin' and a rosebush. One can pretty nearly take care of itself, but it takes a lot of watchin' and a lot of trainin' to bring out all the bloomin' beauty of the other. When the Lord makes a woman he plants within her the seeds of some qualities that when they grow up and blossom form the main difference between her character and that of a man. We can't exactly define them, but we know that they're there, and we also know that women are more attractive, more lovely and more lovable in proportion to the development of those qualities within them. Sometimes the seed don't seem to have sprouted at all, and then the woman is pretty much the same as a man. Then, again, they spring up and grow like a moon vine, and every man, no matter how low down mean he is, steps to one side and takes off his hat.

"Put all these qualities together, add them up and you've got what we call womanliness. That's a mighty big word, and it takes in nearly all the virtues that we can understand as well as some we can recognise, but can't quite place. It means purity and goodness and sympathy and tender-heart you've gone a long ways in the makin' of a good woman, a womanly woman. The rest is easy.

Foote and the Lawyers.

Being on an excursion into his native county, Samuel Foote happened to meet with a simple minded farmer, who, having just buried a rich relation, who was an attorney, was full of complaints about the great expense of a country funeral, instancing the amount he had spent on scarfs, hatbands, carriages, etc.

"Why," asked Foote, "do you mean to say that you bury your attorneys in this part of the country?"

"To be sure," said the puzzled farmer. "What else should we do?"

"Oh, we never do that in London."

"Really! What, then, do you do with them?"

"Why, when one happens to die we lay him out in a room by himself overnight, lock the door, open the window, and in the morning he is gone."

"Extraordinary!" cried the other in amazement. "What becomes of him?"

"Oh, that we can't exactly tell," replied Foote solemnly. "All we know is there's a strong smell of brimstone in the rooms the next morning."—"Wits, Beaux and Beauties of the Georgian Era."

The Breeches Bible.

One of the books which a bibliomaniac handles reverently is the famous Geneva Bible, better known as the "Breeches Bible." This name is due to the rendering of Genesis iii, 7, where Adam and Eve are said to have "sewed fig tree leaves together and made themselves breeches." This had been the reading of the first English Bible, Wycliffe's version, but later translators had substituted the word "apron" for "breeches," and the Geneva Bible reverted to the original. The fact that only one edition of the Geneva version contained this sentence makes the limited number more precious to the book gatherer. The title page of this edition announces that it was "imprinted at London by the deputies of the queene's most excellent majestie" in 1599. The first edition appeared in 1560, and for sixty years this was the favorite Bible with the people, who reluctantly laid it aside for the authorised version in 1611.

The Same Dimensions.

The bride to be had the air of one who is unreconciled to the existing state of affairs. "Can't we take a wedding trip, as we planned?" she asked plaintively.

"Not just now," said the young man, "on account of my partner's illness."

"I thought it would be such fun, taking that six days' journey in the cars!" she sighed.

"Well, now, see here," said the young man. "If we take the flat I looked at yesterday it'll be just the same as living in the parlor car stateroom, except that the scenery won't change."—Youth's Companion.

Expert Dog Finders.

There is a gentleman in Toronto who has discovered that the business of finding dogs can be turned into a profitable industry. A friend gave him a collie pup which he assured him was of the very first water as far as pedigree was concerned. After he had kept him a month or two the pup disappeared and an advertisement was inserted in one of the daily papers. Two boys brought the animal back and so grateful was the guardian and well-wisher of the pup that he gave them three dollars. A month later the family pet again disappeared and after an advertisement was inserted the same boys brought him back, saying he had strayed to their place the night before. They were rewarded with two dollars this time. Another four or five weeks elapsed and once more the pup was missing. Another advertisement brought the same lads back with the wayward little beast. The rightful owner put his hand in his pocket to give them a dollar, but suddenly changed his mind.

"No," he said, "on second thoughts, I guess you can keep the pup."

BACK FROM THE LINE.

Queer Things That Go on In Lonelier Ontario.

The manners and customs of certain rural sections of the Province of Ontario have been fairly well illustrated by the telegraph despatches in the local papers this summer. In fact it has been demonstrated that both old and new Ontario offer a very fruitful field for domestic missions. The homicide at Thorndale, Ont., which the coroner's jury held to be justifiable homicide, is an instance; and indeed Middlesex county since the days of the Biddulph tragedies has been by no means backward in fattening up the news columns of the press.

A Toronto man who used to live near Thorndale told an anecdote the other day which he said was a fair sample of what goes on in many parts of the province about six miles back from the railway. There used to live up there an old man with a large family and a bad disposition, who, though he was small in stature, dearly loved a fight. He did not care particularly whether the victim was weak or strong, male or female. Therefore he made it his practice to wallop periodically his wife and his whole family of grown-up children, daughters as well as sons. One evening after dark he went over to a neighbor's to borrow a hay-rack, and it so chanced that this neighbor had two buxom daughters who were being courted by the youths of the locality. Two swains were in the house at the time and one of them hastily borrowing a sheet slipped out the back way and encountered the venerable wife-beater a little way down the road as he was returning home. The old fellow, profoundly superstitious, was startled by the white figure which at once grasped him by the coat collar and informed him that he was the devil, and demanded that he "come along," much as a detective collars a pickpocket. The old man pleaded for his life and the Satanic personage finally agreed to give him one year more of life on condition that he would cease to abuse his family. The culprit promised and the husky impersonator of Satan dipped him up to his ears in a nearby creek, just to seal the bargain.

For six months his meekness in the presence of his family was the joke of the countryside. Unfortunately one of his sons-in-law was in the habit of looking on the wine when it was red, and one day in a merry mood he confided in the old man the jest that had been perpetrated upon him. The effect was instantaneous. The old man rushed home, and starting in with his wife gave the whole family such a series of trouncings as they had never experienced previously, even in his wildest moments.

Another Racing Yarn.

Down at the Woodbine in Toronto they tell another story illustrating the folly of the man who becomes infatuated with his own horse. A year or so ago a real good fellow brought a steeplechaser to the Ontario Jockey Club meet with the expectation that he was going to sweep all before him. One day he told his friends: "Play his strong to-morrow; he's in the right company to win, and the odds will be long." The odds were long and the friends bet heavily, but the beast ran last. The spring meet ended and the horse went away to the American tracks. One day the Toronto friends of the owner received a telegram advising them to put a bet on him next day at Latonia as it was a "cinch" and the odds would be long. A number of them made the play just because they felt that the animal owed them money. Again he was pretty close to last.

The autumn meet transpired and the owner came to town with his dearly beloved beast. Once more he was full of excuses and enthusiasm for the animal. He was sure he would win a certain race and before the start he told the jockey to put the spurs to the brute and to whip him all the way round because he had to win to save his face with his Toronto friends. He promised the jockey an extra fee of ten dollars whether the horse won or lost and a hundred dollars if he won. The jockey obeyed instructions with the same result as usual. That night, true to his promise, the owner handed the rider his additional ten.

"O say," responded the latter, "I don't like to take your money: why the horse ain't worth ten dollars."

CANADA'S EXPLORER.

J. B. Tyrrell Has Contributed to Information on North.

When it comes to proving or disproving the statements of Dr. F. A. Cook, and Commander Robert Peary, on the North Pole issue, the veracity of the Eskimo will come strongly into play.

Such is the opinion of J. B. Tyrrell of Toronto, mining engineer and explorer, who has spent several years investigating the mineral possibilities of the Arctic country. To him and his brother, James H. Tyrrell, of Hamilton, is due the credit of presenting in book form more light on the frozen north than possibly belongs to any other two individuals outside of Cook and Peary, should the latter's stories be verified.

Mr. Tyrrell was asked, some years ago, to take charge of an Arctic expedition, but the project didn't appeal to him. Still, he can see no immediate reason why both Dr. Cook's and Commander Peary's stories should not be believed. Both men appeared to have found good ice for travel and the distances they claim to have traversed were not at all prohibitive. He could not see, however, why any country should care to either prove or disprove the statements of either explorer. The scientific results of a rush to the pole never seemed to him to warrant the expense or trouble. Such an expedition as Nansen's, where the time was spent in making scientific observations of the character of the sea, the land and the inhabitants—fish and animals—within the polar zone, always seemed to him exceedingly interesting, but the mere dash to the pole—to be the first to reach a theoretic point on the earth's surface looked to him as though the game was not worth the candle. At the same time, as an example of hardihood and adventurous spirit, he couldn't help but admire the men who had done it.

Mr. Tyrrell has made three notable tours of the extreme northern latitudes. On two occasions he was accompanied by his brother James. Three most entertaining books from the latter's pen relative to these expeditions are now in circulation. On a Government mission, sixteen years ago, they traveled from Edmonton to the Athabaska country, then north eastward to the extreme northeast angle of Hudson Bay and down the shores of the Hudson, late in the fall in three Peterboro canoes, reaching Churchill October 16. They were the first white men to traverse that country, between the Mackenzie River and Hudson Bay, and to come down the shores in such craft. At Churchill they were obliged to wait for a few weeks to gain strength and to collect dogs and sleds preparatory to an overland journey to Winnipeg. About the end of November—and of course winter had set in with the thermometer registering about 45 below—they left Churchill and started southward, passing York factory near the mouth of the Nelson, coming up to Oxford House and reaching Winnipeg on the second of January. The trip overland was subject to the ordinary conditions attending such expeditions through northern Canada. They traveled without tents and everything that could possibly be dispensed with, sleeping in their overcoats. At that time, it was the largest unexplored area of land in the world. A technical account of their observations was written by J. B. Tyrrell for the Dominion Geological Survey. In 1894 he traveled alone through the Eskimo country west of Hudson Bay on an official geological survey.

"Canada has no object, anyway, no matter how other countries may perspire over it, in trying to prove the exact location or discoverer of the north pole. She already has an enormous Arctic territory undeveloped, and the question is not for the present generation to bother with. The establishing of a claim to the earth's apex does not come within the scope of practical politics at the present time," were the concluding words of Mr. Tyrrell's interview.

Won Him.

Blobbs—Heapeckke thinks you are the finest fellow in the world. How did you manage to make such an impression? Slobbs—Oh, I pretended to be surprised when he told me he was a married man.

CLIMBED MOUNT ROBSON.

Rev. George Kinney Has Performed Remarkable Feat.

Little has been said in the press of a rather notable feat of exploration recently performed in Canada. Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, the goal of many mountain climbers of all nationalities, has at last been reached. The honor of this remarkable achievement goes to a Canadian and a clergyman, Rev. George Kinney of Kesemos, B.C.

Mount Robson is not only the highest peak in Canada but it is also extremely difficult of ascent owing to its formation, rising two miles over the valleys below at an average slope of sixty degrees. Mr. Kinney has been mountain-climbing for a number of years, but drifted into the sport quite accidentally. He had always been an ardent naturalist and in the quest of specimens had occasion to make short climbs up some of the smaller peaks. Gradually climbing began to grow upon him and finally he decided to ascend to the top of one of the higher mountains just to see what it was like, and also for the purpose of taking some photographs. Mr. Kinney then discovered the fascination of a long climb with a little danger to add spice to it, and from that time since has been the most ardent of mountaineers and has devoted all his vacations to this sport.

He had already made four trips up Mount Robson but never succeeded in reaching the summit. He set out this year again by himself, but picked up a Mr. Phillips who had accompanied him in previous years in the Yellowhead Pass. While waiting at the foot of the mountain for a suitable day, the provisions ran out, and when the sum total of their larder consisted of a little rice and stray gophers that they had killed, it was decided that the ascent could no longer be delayed, despite the fact that the weather was very unfavorable. The first day they made 11,000 feet and then camped for the night, utterly exhausted by fatigue, and the inclement weather. At daybreak the climb was resumed and after climbing for twenty hours they reached the summit. Mr. Kinney says it was one of the greatest moments of his life, when, after four unsuccessful attempts, he at last attained the mecca of all mountain-climbers in Canada.

When asked the other day in Edmonton by the editor of The Saturday News if he lingered very long on the top, Mr. Kinney answered very emphatically in the negative. The cold was so intense that after taking some photographs, preparations were quickly made for the descent. Descending is much easier work than the climb but also more dangerous. The first part is made slowly but when the slopes became more gradual, the sliding begins. Imagine a number of toboggan slides of 2,000 feet in length, and you will have some idea of the return trip.

A Woodbine Story.

The autumn race meeting at the Woodbine, Toronto, brings to mind an incident which occurred at the fall meeting of a year ago. A prominent horse owner who was here from the United States knew practically all the good things that were going, but like all the men who make a genuine killing on the horses was very chary of giving information. However, he became fascinated with a young actress who was staying at the King Edward Hotel and under oath of almost Masonic secrecy imparted to her tips on two races for a certain day. The young lady was informed that she must on no account breathe a word about these tips to anyone. She promptly gave her information to the star, the leading lady, the manager and everybody else she liked in the company, with the result that the crowd laid bets and the odds were knocked down considerably from the original figures. The next day she met the horse owner, thanked him for the tips of the previous day which had turned out so well and asked for another good thing. The gentleman, as if on all friendly terms as ever, suavely handed her something which he said was a sure winner but did not admonish her to keep it quiet. When the crowd went down to play this horse they noticed that the odds did not drop as before; they even went up. When the horses came under the wire the sure thing was last. The horse owner had got even.

Lord Strathcona's Break.

Just across the Saskatchewan River from Edmonton, the capital city of Alebrta, is the town of Strathcona. These twin cities are not exactly rivals after the fashion of Port Arthur and Fort William; but the smaller place is keenly jealous of its rights and its fame as a civic entity. On the other hand Edmonton is quite sure that the only progressive future possible for Strathcona is in annexation to the provincial capital. The newspapers of Edmonton say that public opinion in favor of the union is rapidly growing in the "suburbs" across the river. In the meantime the people of both places indulge in remarks about each other which are not by any means as mild as those exchanged between Toronto and Hamilton."

All of which having been explained, eastern readers will understand the feelings of the people of the town named after him, when Lord Strathcona in his first speech after his arrival there recently told of the pleasure with which he had long looked forward to visiting "this great city of Edmonton."

Strathcona people consider this was a bad break, but Edmonton citizens remark with a broad smile that it was a very significant one.

Maritime Union.

From the serious way in which certain of the Toronto and Montreal papers are talking about Maritime union, one would imagine that the question was a live issue down this way. The truth is that it does not come within the range of practical consideration. There are a few people who vote for it at Board of Trade meetings, but the number who really want it are even smaller.—Halifax Chronicle.

How the Shortsighted See.

The shortsighted and those in possession of perfect sight look upon the world from totally different aspects. The latter see spaces between the clearly defined leaves of a tree and the light shining through these spaces, the former gaze at a soft, blurred mass with no spaces.

A shortsighted man gets quite used to addressing people who ask apparently without eyes and nose, and out of doors faces at quite a short distance melt into the atmosphere and become simply a cloud. Looking down a brilliantly lighted street you would probably see a long procession of lamps, twenty yards distant, and each having a distinct flame, but your shortsighted friend would see a conglomeration of shining circles shutting out the rest of the street. But, by way of compensation, color to the shortsighted becomes much softer and more beautiful. A coarse red face appears to wear only a becoming blush and the sky seems nearer to a short than to the normal sighted person.—London Answers.

The Only Trouble.

"Miss Passay hasn't any beau at all, has she?"

"No; her past discourages suitors."

"Why, there's nothing the matter with her past, is there?"

"Nothing, except that it's too long."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Reason For Blowing.

"Pop."

"Yes, my son."

"Why are the whales always blowing?"

"Oh, just because one of their ancestors swallowed Jonah, I suppose."—Yonkers Statesman.

Exaggerated Cruelty.

A well known gentleman took horse exercise daily, accompanied by a magnificent bloodhound, until he conceived an enthusiasm for cycling, when he altered the program by leaving the bloodhound at home and taking as his companion a fine dachshund.

The pair were passing through a village recently when a laboring youth remarked to his "pal:"

"If Oi wor prime minister Oi'd put a stop ter this 'ere bicyclin' business."

"Why?" queried the other.

"Coz it owt ter be stopped, if only for th' sake o' that dog as is a-puffin' along behind theer," rejoined the first speaker. "It ain't sport; it's cruelty to hanimals."

His companion disagreed and said he thought the dog benefited by the exercise.

"Exercise!" retorted the other scornfully, "D'ye call that exercise? You never saw that dog afore 'is master started bikin', did yer?"

"No, I didn't."

"Well," said the youth, "'e wor one o' th' finest bloodhounds yer ever clapped hares on, an' wot's 'e now? 'Is body's dwindled away to nort, while 'is legs is worn clean darn to th' stumps. Oi repeat, it's cruelty ter hanimals."—London Bystander.

Got His Money's Worth.

A lady palmist was recently prosecuted, and an amusing incident was noted in connection with the case. One of the witnesses called by the police was an individual who did not appear to be overburdened with intelligence. During a smart cross examination defendant's counsel asked him:

"On first going into the room did you pay a shilling fee to the defendant?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"What did she tell you in return for the money?"

"Oh," said the witness, "she towld me lots o' things, some on 'em true, some on 'em half true an' some on 'em less."

"Now," continued the counsel after the laughter had died away, "this is the point I wish to get at: Was there any attempt at imposition? Did you lady impose upon you at all?"

"Oh, dear, no!" was the response. "I knowed it wor all gammon, so there couldn't be no imposition. Besides, it wor a bad shillin' as I guv her, to start with!"—London Tit-Bits.

Marriage in Picardy.

A Picardy custom, founded on a broad basis of common sense as well as the idea of complete partnership, is that which puts a new bride through a kind of examination in the trade of her husband. It may, of course, have become something of a burlesque, and the bride may purposely show less dexterity than she need. Still, the consideration of the wife as a helpmate is very clearly shown in the performance. If the young wife's husband be a farmer, she will be asked to harness a horse and cart and to harrow a small piece of land. If her choice has fallen on an ironworker, she must hammer a piece of iron; if on a miller, she must measure out wheat from a basket at the church door; if on a smith, she is supposed to be able to strike the anvil; if on a sailor, she has to clean and mend some netting, and so on with the other occupations. Evidently the keeping of an idle wife is not understood in Picardy.—T. P.'s London Weekly.

Beavers Inspire Respect.

"I have yet to meet the man who can walk for the first time through a beaver works, as the range of a colony of beavers is called, and not feel something of the sentiment of human association," says a writer in a recent magazine.

"It is a sensation very similar to what we feel when we come out unexpectedly into a woodland clearing after a long day spent in the unbroken solitudes.

"I once stood with a learned professor of Columbia College on the bank of a stream in eastern Canada and looked down on a freshly made beaver dam—one of the best in point of construction that I had ever seen. It was indeed a really stupendous affair for a beaver to have made. Built of alder poles and brush, weighted with mud and small stones, it was fifty feet long, six feet high and raised the level of the water by about sixty inches.

"Seen from the upstream side it presented the appearance of a more or less evenly disposed array of short sticks protruding from a level mound of mud just level with the surface of the restrained water; from below the brushwood supporting the dam proper was plainly visible and the ingenuity of its placing at once apparent."

Paul Kruger's Pistol.

John Harcourt, G.T.R. ticket agent at Port Hope, was a visitor to the big St. Louis Exposition, and while there met a nephew of old Paul Kruger, the late South African president, famous by the Boer war. The young fellow's name, too, was Paul Kruger, and Mr. Harcourt spent some time with him. When parting, Kruger promised to send Harcourt his uncle's 13-shot rapid-fire German horse pistol, which weapon came duly a few days ago.

The butt and barrel are detachable and when carried on horseback fit into one another in a close pocket, the barrel being used if needed as merely a pistol or the butt fastened on the whole being utilized as a carbine. One pull starts 13 shots.

The whole weapon is beautifully made and highly polished.

The Judge's Slip.

A judge once made the following charge to a jury: "You have heard the evidence. The indictment charges the prisoner with stealing a jackass. This offense seems to be becoming a common one, and the time has come when it must be stopped or none of us will be safe!"

Not on Smiling Terms.

"Is that your mother-in-law over there smiling at you?"

"No. If she is smiling at me it isn't my mother-in-law."—Boston Herald.

Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis

Cured by "CATARRHOZONE."

A Breathe-able "Direct" Medicine.

Every sufferer from coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and chest ailments needs a soothing, healing medicine which goes direct to the breathing organs in the chest and lungs, attacks the trouble at its source, disperses the germs of disease, and cures the ailment thoroughly. And this medicine is "Catarrhozone."

The germ-killing, balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure, medicinal essences, whereas, if a liquid or tablet remedy were used, the affected parts could not be reached, and harm would result through benumbing the stomach with drugs.

Remember this: You don't take drugs when using Catarrhozone; you simply inhale a healing vapor that cures every type of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma, throat and nose soreness, and irritation.

No medicine brings such prompt relief, exerts such an invigorating influence or so thoroughly and speedily cures throat troubles as "Catarrhozone." Doctors, hospitals, sanitariums—all say that for those who suffer from changeable weather, for those who are predisposed to catarrh, lung trouble, deafness or bronchitis, no treatment is so indispensable as "Catarrhozone."

For certain cure, for relief in an hour, use Catarrhozone, the only direct, breathable medicine. Two months' treatment guaranteed; price $1.00, smaller size 50c., at all druggists, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

BREATHE CATARRHOZONE.
IT CURES QUICKLY.

TWO INCHES LONGER ash-pit means larger ash-pan, less emptying

Pandora ash-pit is made two inches longer than usual, providing accommodation for larger ash-pan. Pandora ash-pan therefore does not require so frequent emptying as the small ash-pans of ordinary ranges. Pandora has many features that save time, labor and fuel. WILLIAM WANTED NO LAWYER.

Counsel Assigned Was Something of a Blur on the Profession.

When Justice Bufum opened court in a small town in southern Georgia one morning last week, he called loudly: "Jones against Johnson!"

A dignified gentleman came to the bar, and said: "I am Dr. Jones, your honor, the complaining witness. My chickens were stolen and found in the possession of—"

"One moment, doctor," the judge interrupted. "We must have the defendant at the bar. Jones against Johnson! Jones against Johnson! Is the defendant present? Is William Johnson in court?"

A tall and shambling negro shuffled to the bar, ducked his head, pulled his woolly forelock in token of respect, and grinned a propitiatory grin.

"Ah's Williyum Johns'n, please sur, Jedge," he said. "Ah does' know nuffin 'bout no 'fendant, suh. Ah'm jes' de man wot took de chick'ns."

"Don't talk like that," the court warned William. "You ought to have a lawyer to speak for you. Where's your lawyer?"

"Ah ain't got no lawyer, jedge—"

"Very well, then," said his honor, "I'll assign a lawyer to defend you."

"Oh, no, suh; no, suh! Ple-e-ease don' do dat!" William begged.

"Why not?" asked the judge. "It won't cost you anything. Why don't you want a lawyer?"

"Well, ah'll tell yo', sah," said William, waving his tattered old hat confidentially. "Hit's jes' dis-a-way—ah wants' tuh enjoy dem chick'ns mese-f."—Harper's Weekly.

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT FOR BIRDS.

Lengthens Their Day, Giving Them More Time for Feeding.

Winter has always proved a trying time for rare and delicate birds in the zoological gardens. One interesting theory has been advanced, that owing to the long nights in these latitudes in winter the poor birds do not feed long enough during the day to "keep body and soul together." In the old insect house some good was effected by inducing the birds to feed before dawn with the aid of a powerful motor lamp which was placed there an hour in the winter.

In the new small birdhouse, says the London Daily Mail, an elaborate incandescent gaslight installation has just been completed. It is controlled from outside and at six o'clock in the morning a watchman switches on the lights.

Immediately a chorus of songs breaks out from the aroused birds, which start breakfast immediately. This extra feeding time has already produced good results in the shape of improved condition of the birds of paradise, mynahs and other rare tropical birds in the house.

A Handy Library.

Many of the new books come out in serial form in the magazines and papers. Cut out the installments as they appear and glue them together—book fashion, if from a magazine, or in one long strip if taken from a newspaper. Take a long, stout envelope, paste the name of the story on the back, fold the sheets or strips of clippings and place in the envelope. This is a book which takes only a small space on the shelves, and the name is easily seen from the outside. These envelope books are invaluable for sick people, as frail hands are not tired by holding a light slip of paper when it would be impossible to hold a heavy book. As a bit of cheer for all invalids they might be aptly termed the sunbeam library.—Housekeeper.

Laundry Accomplishments.

A well-known usher in a suburban church overslept himself last Sunday, and had to don clothes in a hurry.

"What in the world's the matter with this?" he asked, struggling and wrestling with his shirt.

"Oh, I guess the girl boiled it a little too long, dear; that's all," replied his wife.

"Looks to me as if she had tried it!" said the man.

Embarrassed.

"Your wife always says she is afraid something has happened to you when you are away from home longer than usual."

"Yes," answered Mr. Meekton. "I'm getting positively ashamed to go home with the same old truthful explanation about being detained by work instead of having something interesting to talk about."

Old and New.

The penny—or two-cent—post between England and America is a new and at the same time a very old thing. It is over 200 years old. It existed in 1698.

In those days shipmasters crossing the Atlantic either way were very glad to carry letters and messages. A week or two before their ships sailed they would hang up bags in coffee houses, and all letters dropped into these bags were carried over seas and faithfully delivered at the rate of a penny, or two cents, apiece.

Brilliant Project Brought to Naught.

In the year 1694 William Patterson, founder of the Bank of Scotland, conceived the grand project of planting on the Isthmus of Darien a British colony which, in his own words, "should secure for Great Britain the keys of the universe, enabling their possessors to give laws to both oceans and to become the arbiters of the commercial world." This colony was actually founded at a place still known as Puerto Escoces, but its people were subsequently forced by the Spaniards to evacuate and return to Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Broughall and Mr. and Mrs. Bethune of Toronto, were guests at the Grove School on Saturday last.

Mrs. A. Sawers, of Peterborough, arived in the village on Thursday last to visit her son, Rev. F. J. Sawers, at the Rectory.

Mr. G. F. Hilliard returned home on Wednesday last after spending a week in Kingston, Ont.

Mr. Jos. Quigley spent a few days last week in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Stuart and daughter are visiting Mr. Stuart's parents in Toronto.

Miss Maud Beavis has returned home after spending a few days visiting friends in Hastings.

Rev. Jesse Gibson, secretary of the Upper Canada Bible Society, will deliver a lecture in the Methodist church on Monday evening, Nov. 29, at 8 o'clock. The lecture is entitled "From Cape to Cairo with the Bible Society," and will be illustrated by limelight views. A silver collection will be taken up during the evening.

Mrs. C. L. Bickell left last week to join her husband in Toronto, where they intend making their home in future.

A meeting was held at "The Rectory" at 7.30 on Monday evening for the purpose of organizing a Boys' Club in the village.

The ice storm on Thursday proved a most disastrous one in Lakefield and vicinity. Such a storm has not been known for over twenty-five years. The roads were thickly strewn with broken trees and telephone poles, rendering all traffic impossible. The damage done to trees is incalculable. Several trees in front of Mr. Thos. Gordon's residence were broken down, one of which fell against the corner of the Lakefield Canoe Co.'s office, narrowly missing the windows on either side.

Mr. R. C. Strickland spent a few days last week in the village.

Mr. Michael Sabatine has secured a position with the Peterborough Lumber Company.

A grand bazaar and concert, under the auspices of the Home Mission Band, and the King's Daughters of the Presbyterian Church will be held in the town hall on Thursday, Nov. 25th. The hall will be open afternoon and evening. Admission free to all in the afternoon, when numerous articles will be offered for sale at moderate prices. As well as a continuation of the sale, a splendid entertainment will be given in the evening, when the small fee of fifteen cents will be charged for admission.

Mrs. S. J. Gibson, who has been spending the past fortnight in Peterborough, has returned home.

Mr. John Morrison, of Nairn Centre, is in the village, visiting his father, Mr. Jas. Morrison.

Mrs. E. P. S. Spencer and daughter of Cobalt, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. Q. Deuch, at "North Douro Lodge."

Mrs. A. G. LeFevre returned home on Thursday last after spending a week visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fayal Clarke in New York.

The induction of Rev. F. J. Sawers, M.A., to the rectory of the parish took place on Thursday evening last at St. John the Baptist Church. A large congregation was present to witness the ceremony, which was a most impressive one. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, Rural Dean of Peterborough, was commissioned by His Lordship the Bishop of Toronto, to perform the ceremony. The sermon was preached by Rev. Canon Davidson of Peterborough. Rev. H. R. Trumpour, M. A., of Peterborough, and Rev. C. E. Spencer, M. A., of Young's Point, also took part in the service. After the service a reception was given by the ladies of the congregation in the Sunday School.

Mr. O. A. Langley spent a few days last week in Toronto.

Miss Wood, of Bailieborough, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Tanner.

Masters Seton and Derrich Broughall spent Sunday in Peterborough.

TESTING THE SENSES.

An Interesting Game That Will Provoke Much Hilarity.

Any number can take part in this game, which requires a little preparation beforehand. Pencil and paper must be given each player, and the various articles for testing the senses should be in readiness before the game begins.

Taste.—The players are blindfolded, and a tray is then passed to each in succession with a dozen or more things to be used—sweet, sour, bitter, bread, cake, fruits, etc. Only a very small particle of each is given.

The tray is then taken away, the eyes unblinded, and each player must write down the names of all the articles he has tasted that he can remember.

Smell.—A tray is brought in to the blindfolded players, with spices, medicines, flowers and perfumes, which are offered to them to smell, after which, as before, they must write down the names of all the things they think they have smelled.

Hearing.—Again the players are blindfolded, while others of the company make various noises all at once—dlugling, crying, laughing, pounding, ringing bells, tearing paper, playing on musical instruments, etc.

Touch.—A tray is brought to the blindfolded players with various articles to be felt by each in turn. These may be wood, cotton, cloth, marble, hair, flour, ice, china, glass and any other thing thought of. Then they must write down the names of the articles touched.

Sight.—A tray is placed before the players, now unblinded, and they are to look at the dozen or more objects displayed upon it while twenty is slowly counted. Then the tray is removed, and the players must write a list of all the things they can remember.

Palpitation of the Heart.

One of the first danger signals that announce something wrong with the heart is the irregular or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or, again, there may be a most violent beating, with flushings of the skin, and visible pulsations of the arteries.

There may also be experienced a smothering sensation, gasping for breath, and feeling as though about to die.

In all such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart and restoring it to its normal beat, is, beyond all question marvellous, as our thousands of testimonials will show.

Mrs. Martha Mason, Marlbank, Ont., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I have been troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart, would have severe choking spells and could scarcely lie down at all. I tried many remedies but got none to answer my case like your pills did. I can recommend them highly to all with heart or nerve trouble."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WHEN RAIN IS COMING.

How to Foretell Weather by Observing Plants and Birds.

Chickweed gives more details than any other plant barometer. Like the majority of weather indicating flowers, it shuts tightly for wet weather and remains open for fine. If, however, it is merely going to be a showery day and not a continual downpour it stays open and partly closed.

Andrew Steinmetz, who was one of the greatest authorities on the subject of floral barometer, says, "We have no doubt that if the subject were systematically studied in daily observation almost every plant would be found to indicate more or less conspicuously all coming changes of the weather."

One cannot, however, have a much better sign of fine or wet weather than the swallows afford. When sunny skies are in vogue and going to continue the swallows fly high in the air, from twenty to a hundred or more feet up. But when rain clouds are on their way, although a long distance off, these birds skim close to the surface of the grass. This is because the small flies they feed on, feeling the moisture in the air long before the rain comes, flock down toward the earth and get ready to hide, and the swallows follow them. When the swallows barely clear the grass in their flight and swoop in swift short circles the observer should look for shelter or obtain an umbrella.

Improving Nature's Work.

"Ah, here's a chance to try my new paints!"

"How are these for blossoms?"

"While Getting Well."

A little bird sits on my window sill
And winks his eye at me and says:
"Hello!
Sick, are you? Why, whatever's wrong?
I'm never sick, you know!"

And just at breakfast time in comes the sun
To make queer wiggly patterns on the wall
And laugh and say: "Oh, lazybones, get up!
You are not sick at all!"

And when I shut my eyes I hear the brook
Calling and calling as it hurries by.
I can't lie still! I'm hot and miserable!
I'm 'fraid I've got to cry!

The leaves just whisper, whisper all the time,
The little clouds all hurry by so quick,
And nothing seems to care a speck about
A little child that's sick!

Oh, here's the wind! How cool his fingers are!
He steals across the bed and feels my hands
And my hot head and doesn't say a word.
I think he understands.

—St. Nicholas.

Chickadee.

Leaves are piling up the gutters;
Empty nests are swinging bare;
Song birds all have fled southward
From the nipping autumn air.

But I see on the tree
Where some seeds are apt to be
A merry little breakfaster
A-chirping "Chickadee!"

He's a jolly little fellow
In his sober black and gray,
And he hails the passing squirrels
With a call that seems to say:

"How d'ye do? How d'ye do?
Oh, I'm very glad to see
All my friends so well and happy,
Very happy—Chickadee!"

He chuckles at the empty nest
A-swinging up so high;
He quirks his saucy, tufted head
And gives a merry cry:

"O-ho! The season's over.
Summer guests have gone away.
I'm not afraid of frosty nights.
I'm here and here to stay
Chickadee! Chickadee—day—day—day!"

—Youth's Companion.

MAGIC WITH A WAND.

A Game That Will Mystify Those Not In the Secret.

The leader of this game must have an accomplice, who goes outside the room while the word to be guessed is chosen. The two must previously arrange that the leader, who holds the magic wand, shall keep up a constant stream of conversation while flourishing the wand before his blindfolded companion. The accomplice must notice the first letter in every sentence his companion uses. These are the consonants of the word, while the vowels are represented by tapping the wand on the ground—once for "a," twice for "e," three times for "i," four times for "o," five times for "u."

Say the word is "cherry." The leader pretends to make cabalistic signs around the head of his accomplice and remarks, "Can you see me?" After a pause and when the accomplice has assured the company he cannot, then the leader proceeds, "How deeply I have dipped into magic lore none but myself can say," then taps twice to represent "e." "Rub the back of your head, my brother; it will clear your intellect." Then, after a pause, he may add, "Rubbing is good for weak intellects." Another pause. "Your intellect, of course, is not weak. Still, the rubbing may help you to guess the word, eh?"

Then the accomplice, who has spelled out the word "cherry," must reply: "Yes, brother, you are right. I have rubbed out the word 'cherry.'" Great care must be taken to make up sentences which will fit into the game and yet give the required letters.

A Clever Toy.

Get a small cork and some matches. Stick the matches two into each end of the cork and then bend them in the middle, as shown in the illustration. Shake a drop of water on each of the leg joints. They will immediately begin to move. Of course the spider will not race madly across the table, but if the matches be of tough wood and the top of the table smooth it will wiggle a good deal.

The Forbidden Letter.

The idea of this game is to try how many sentences can be spoken without containing a certain letter which has been agreed upon. Supposing, for instance, the letter "f" is not to be introduced, the first player might ask, "Is this a new game to you?" The second player could answer: "Oh, no! I played it years ago when quite a youngster."

He would perhaps turn to the third player and ask, "You remember it, do you not?" The third player might answer:

"Yes, but we used to play it differently." This player, having used a word with an "f" in it, must pay a forfeit and remain out.

The answers must be given at once without hesitation, and the player who avoids for the greatest length of time using a word containing the forbidden letter wins the game.

Quakers' Meeting.

The players in this game kneel upon the ground on one knee and rest their hands upon the other knee, twiddling their thumbs all the time. The one at the head of the line asks the others:

"Friends, did you hear of Brother Obadiah's death and how he died?"

The answer will be, "No, how did he die?" Then the leader says, "With one finger up, with one eye shut and with one shoulder awry." As he speaks he must suit his actions to his words and the company must follow suit. Should any one fail to do so they must pay a forfeit.

Conundrums.

Why is the pig the most provident of all animals? Because he always carries a spare rib about with him.

Why has a chambermaid more lives than the proverbial cat? Because each morning she returns to dust.

Another Question.

Here is another question which
May do for conversation:
Is football quite as rough a game
As polar exploration?
—New York Life.

But No Pleasant Thought.

When your cupboard is bare
Of the last food you've bought,
Though there's nothing else there,
it supplies food for thought.

"Yes. She says it's from choice."
"Whose?"—San Francisco Examiner.

BREAD SHEETING.

The Sun Dried Dough of the Land of the Pyramids.

In the land of the pyramids when ever coffee is brought into a visiting guest the sun cooked bread sheeting is always served therewith. It looks like so much chamois leather and is of a sweetish taste, being compounded solely of flour and the expressed pulp of sultana raisins. It is cleanly to handle and can be crumpled up in the hand without fracture.

This bread sheeting is a most important article of interior commerce, per camel caravans, among the Asiatic kaiffats and bazaars. It has for thousands of years been their combined bread, cracker and cake all in one.

The bread sheeting is used in the countries of origin as minor articles of furniture and furnishing, just as the natives of the tropics make a bewildering variety of uses of the cocoanut palm and its products, as sun blinds, awnings, lanterns, cashiers for holding papers and so on through a dozen uses. In their dry climates these uses are practicable, but in rainy seasons the goods if wetted collapse like paper almost.

Even in Manhattan among the Italian bakers you see the peculiar trellis work hardtack bread (made in big ringed sheets about a yard square) made to do duty as temporary shelving. It will not stand much weight, but is used for drying out light articles, as the air strikes the objects both from below and above.—Bakers' Weekly.

Use and Ornament.

Mr. Newrich, the multimillionaire, was furnishing the library of his magnificent mansion. "Let me see," he mused. "You've got the order for that $5,000 edition de luxe of Dickens bound in levant?"

"Yes, sir," replied the bookseller.

"And the $10,000 set of Shakespeare?"

"Yes, sir."

"And the standard authors bound in calf—Thackeray, Scott, Washington Irving, Cooper and all them there other fellers?"

"Yes, sir; I have a memorandum of the entire list."

"Well, then, that's off my mind," said Mr. Newrich of Pittsburg, with a sigh of relief. "Now, what I want is something to read. Say, have you got a complete set of 'Old Sleuth?'"

Just Look At The Conveniences You Have In The "Peerless Peninsular"

There's the Key Plate for broiling. By pushing the handle up, as shown, the steak or chops may be broiled right over the coals.

There's the Low Closet—a handy place for irons, pots, pans, etc.

There's the Drop Oven Door—which forms a shelf when opened, level with the floor of the oven.

There are other special features which make the "Peerless Peninsular" just the kind of range which every woman, who takes pride in her cooking, wants in her kitchen.

Being made of castiron, the "Peerless Peninsular" will not rust through.

HARD NAMES.

Some in Scotland That Aroused a Lady From Schenectady.

Few Americans have trouble in pronouncing the name "Schenectady," although the spelling of it is not always so easy. In "Talks In a Library" Lawrence Hutton tells of an old Scotch laird whose guest one summer was a young lady named Miss Cunningham, who came from Schenectady. "Skiney-taddy" and "Skeuk-ter-addy" were as near to it as the laird usually came.

In his eyes the orthographic and orthoepic beam of his own titles and appellations was entirely eclipsed by the marvelous mote known as Schenectady, and he never realized that the inhabitants of the counties of Schoharie, Cattaraugus and Chemung in the state of New York might safely bite their thumbs at the residents of the shire of Fife in the kingdom of Scotland until his eyes were opened somewhat rudely and his sight was in a way restored.

"Uncle John," I said to him suddenly one evening when he was in convulsions over Schenectady—"Uncle John, what is the name of your place?"

"Baldutho'."

"And of your parish?"

"Ar-Erauch."

"And of your postoffice?"

"Pittenweem."

"And of your railway station?"

"Kilconquhar."

"And still, Uncle John," I continued: "you, as laird of Baldutby (the vernacular form), elder of the kirk of Arrondraw, receiving your letters and papers at Pittenweem and taking your rains at Kilinocker, think Schenectady funny?"

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

She Found Out.

"I thought I'd stop for a minute and inquire the price of tomatoes," she said to the grocer as she set down her basket.

"Yes'm—they are 3 cents apiece."

"Whist, but isn't that high?"

"It is. But we must have protection for the American raiser, you know."

"And how much for a washboard today?"

"Thirteen cents—reduced from 15."

"What makes that?"

"The tariff, m'am."

"Oh, I see. And how much for taters, if you please?"

"They are up 80 cents a bushel."

"Whist again, but what makes that?"

"What they call ad valorem."

"Of course. And what's the price of flatirons, if not too much trouble?"

"They are down, cheaper than ever."

"And it's because"—

"That's free trade."

"Um; I see. Well, Patrick will be thankful to them great men in Washington when I tell him what you say."

"You understand it, do you?"

"As plain as day, sir. The price of flatirons and washboards has come down to give the poor a chance to live, and the price of tomatoes and taters has gone up to give the rich a squeeze, as should be the case. Thankee, sir, and good day to ye."—Pittsburg Press.

A Dreary Land.

The country from Jerusalem to the Jordan valley is as dreary and desolate as could be imagined. The hills look like great banks of rock and sand. Not even the Sahara itself looks more forbidding. It is the "country not inhabited," the wilderness into which the scapegoat was driven. We are glad we went, but none of us could be induced to go again. Yet we like it.

Scalds.

A scald is one of the most painful injuries. One of the best healing remedies is made by beating castor oil and white of an egg together until a cream is formed.

The Testaments.

The period in which the Old Testament was being written covers 1,000 years, while the period of the composition of the New Testament covers about 100 years. The oldest poems in the Old Testament date back to about the year 1200 B. C., while some of the Psalms and Book of Daniel are placed at the year 200 B. C. The earliest part of the New Testament was written about the year 50 A. D. and the latest part about 150 A. D.

CONCERNING JOURNALISM.

Edmonton News Replies to Some Criticisms.

The Saturday News of Edmonton says:

When Lord Northcliffe addressed the newspaper men in Edmonton the other day, he urged that they should give more attention to imperial and international problems in their columns. Later Premier Rutherford told them that their papers were too severely local. Yet with all due deference to these distinguished men, the country publisher probably know a good deal better than they do what the readers want. The perils of launching out too much on affairs of world-wide interest are well illustrated by the case of that sunniest of Sunny Alberta's journalistic guides, philosophers and friends, "H.D.," he of the Cabbage Patch at Beaver Lake, who writes for The Vegreville Observer. In the last issue of The Observer he has this to say:

"Dan tells me there are quite a lot of Observer readers down in Renfrew and they are not satisfied with me. I don't give enough local items; I deal too much in generalities, metaphysics and philosophy. This does not interest them. What they want to know is what Jim is getting for his breakfast, who's sweet on who, and when baby cuts its first tooth. Unfortunately these events frequently occur outside of my knowledge. I would suggest to my neighbors that when anything of this kind should be brought before the notice of their eastern friends, (especially who's sweet) that they drop me a cable. One long, three short, one long, and down it goes."

If all the disquisitions of a general character that found their way into the country press were on a par with those which come from Beaver Lake, there would be few who would join in such protests as that which originated at Renfrew. But "H.D." is in a class by himself. The best part of most district papers, both for the local and the general reader, is that which has to do with the every-day life of the people.

CHIEF JUSTICE AS REPORTER.

Sir Glenholme Made Popular Reading of Intricate Case.

When one of the feminine reporters on the staff of one of Toronto's evening papers found herself some time since shifted for the occasion to Osgoode Hall, where she was expected to go and secure a story of what happened in court where an important case was being heard, she wondered how she would get along.

After she had been five minutes in the court she ceased wondering, for she realized that it was utterly beyond her. She did not understand what the lawyers were driving at, or what the judge was talking about. In short she felt that her life was a complete failure for the time being. She resolved to stick it out, however. She tried to make notes, but the notes were mere absurdities. But she was not going to let the thing get away from her entirely, and when the lawyers were leaving, she plucked up courage and moved up to where Chief Justice Falconbridge sat on the bench. To him she gave a stated case, but she did it in an unusual way.

"I didn't really understand a word of what was said, and more than that, if you were to tell me all about it, I shouldn't understand it, I am sure," she told the chief justice.

Sir Glenholme Falconbridge was secretly much amused at this naive form of address.

"You even admit that if I were to explain it, you would not understand, eh—well, I'll see what I can do for you."

Whereupon the chief justice pulled a pad of paper towards him, took up a pen, and for the next twenty minutes engaged himself in getting up a "popular" account of the intricate court action. He finally handed it over to the young woman, bade her good-bye, and then hurried away to lunch.

Next day the managing editor of the newspaper congratulated the reporter on her court story, and she confessed that it was all written by the chief justice.

Nasty Hacking Cough Cured.

Mrs. John Pelch, Windsor, Ont. writes: "I was troubled with a nasty hacking cough for the past six months and used a lot of different remedies but they did me no good. At last I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and with the first few doses I found great relief and to-day my hacking cough has entirely disappeared and I am never without Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup in the house."

The price of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is 25 cents per bottle. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, so be sure and accept none of the many substitutes of the original "Norway Pine Syrup."

Ask For Freight Pools.

Washington, Nov. 25.—President Taft received a delegation of coal miners and operators yesterday, headed by Representative Dalzel of Pennsylvania, and President Thomas L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers of America.

They called to urge him to advocate some change in the interstate commerce law, that would allow railroads to make freight pools or agreements under Government supervision. They told the President that a great deal of the car congestion was caused by the present railroad laws.

Bank Embezzlers Off to Sing Sing.

New York, Nov. 25.—Col. Edward E. Britton and Frederick H. Schroeder, convicted officials of the Eagle Savings & Loan Co., of Brooklyn, were taken yesterday to Sing Sing prison to begin serving their sentences. They were convicted of embezzling funds from the company.

Britton received an indeterminate sentence of from fourteen months to four years and six months, and Schroeder from twelve months to four years and six months.

Crazed by Dime Novel.

Kingston, Nov. 25.—"I had been reading so many dime novels that I did not know what I was doing," was the excuse of Hiram Smith, a 16-year-old Austrian, who pleaded guilty to playing at highwayman and robbing John Scott on the street, and Mrs. George Brown in her home at the Bath road toll gate. He was sent up for trial.

Students vs. Suffragettes.

Bristol, Eng., Nov. 25.—Since the attack ten days ago upon Winston Spencer Churchill, President of the Board of Trade, by a suffragette, armed with a whip, a strong feeling has grown up against suffragists, and an attempt by Miss Christabel Pankhurst to address a meeting at Colstonham last night was prevented by a crowd of students and others, who kept up a continuous series of yells and whistling. The disturbers threw flour balls and peas and finally tried to storm the platform. A large body of police cleared the hall after a serious conflict with the students and suffragettes supporters.

Run Over by Train.

Toronto, Nov. 25.—William Spurgen, who lives near Scarboro Junction, was probably fatally injured at East Toronto early this morning by being run over by a train while shunting.

His skull was fractured and his left foot was cut off. Dr. Waters attended him temporarily and he was sent to St. Michael's Hospital.

$5,000,000 to Missions.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 25—Announcement that the bequests of the late John Stuart Kennedy of New York to the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, amount to $5,000,000, instead of $1,000,000, as had been stated at the time of his death, was made to the laymen's missionary convention here yesterday.

Shudder of Householders.

Berlin, Nov. 25.—Ex-Mayor Allen Huber appealed to the Court of Revision yesterday to be assessed as a householder of property owned by Mrs. B. Meyer, where he resides. The court held he was only a boarder, and therefore not qualified. He will appeal before Judge Chisholm.

Shot to Death for Cheering.

San Francisco, Nov. 25.—The steamer City of Para, which arrived yesterday from Central American ports, brought a report that forty citizens of Cornito were shot to death recently by order of President Zelaya for having received with cheers the news of an insurgent victory.

Rival to Cement Merger.

Montreal, Nov. 25.—H. D. Anderson, head of a twenty-five-million-dollar English concern, has arrived in Montreal and is already engaged making plans to enter the cement market.

Mr. Anderson is managing director of the English Cement Associated Works. He believes that cement can be exported from the Old Country to Canada cheaply enough to invade this field. If that cannot be done he believes he can manufacture cement by starting plant here cheaply enough to compete with the merger.

Train Runs Away Down Grade.

Pottsville, Pa., Nov. 25.—A coal train got beyond control of the brakes while descending the heavy Frackville grade early yesterday, and dashed down the mountain at a speed of more than a mile a minute, with the whistle tied down to give warning along the road for five miles ahead. After running four miles the engine plunged over the embankment, followed by 26 steel cars, all loaded with coal. The engineer was killed.

Australian Mail Contract.

London, Nov. 25.—The Canadian Associated Press understands the new mail contract between the Commonwealth Government and the Orient Steam Navigation Co. commences operation on Feb. 1, 1910, and will have a duration of ten years. The subsidy is £190,000 a year.

Six Perish in Tenement Fire.

New York, Nov. 25.—In a Brooklyn fire, believed to be of incendiary origin, six persons were burned to death yesterday. Four received probably fatal, and a dozen others, serious injuries. The fire was in a four-storey tenement building in Haven's Place.

Buried After Three Years.

Kingston, Nov. 25.—Henry Radcliffe, an Englishman, died here three years ago. The funeral took place yesterday.

It was necessary to keep the body unburied until it was identified, as he had an estate.

Sentenced to Ten Years.

Port Arthur, Nov. 25.—At the assizes yesterday, Justice Sutherland sentenced Peter Halicki, who pleaded guilty to manslaughter, in causing the death of Mike Rebuck at Fort William to ten years in prison.

Found 150 Bodies in Mine.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 25.—One hundred and fifty bodies, practically all of those that perished in the Cherry disaster, were found yesterday morning on a staircase at the mouth of the third or lower level.

Messages scrawled on wood and the natural cropping from the walls, placed the number of dead at 160 or 168.

Some had their heads rested on folded arms, as if sleeping. Others were lying across each other, and some were sitting, as if resting against the wall.

Customs Officer Resigns.

Brantford, Nov. 25.—Thomas Foster, after 28 years' service at the Brantford customs, and for the last ten years collector, has sent in his resignation to the Department.

Zebu Meat in Paris.

Paris, Nov. 25.—The colonial authorities have inaugurated a serious attempt to introduce in the French market the zebus of Madagascar as a substitute for beef.

Great Storm in Oregon.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 25.—The unprecedented storm that has prevailed in the Pacific northwest for two days shows no signs of abating.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Dull—United States Markets Generally Higher.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Liverpool and London cables for cattle are steady, at 12c to 12½c per lb. for live cattle, dressed weight; refrigerator beef slow, at 10c to 10½c per lb.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The Canadian Pacific live stock market offerings were 1,25 cattle, 500 sheep, 500 lambs, 200 hogs and 150 calves. There was very little change in the condition of the market for cattle since Monday. A firm feeling prevailed. The gathering of buyers was large, and, as the weather was favorable, the demand was good and an active trade was done. A large percentage of the cattle offered consisted of northwest ranchers, and, as they were of good quality, sales were satisfactory. Choice steers sold at 5c to 5¼c; good at 4½c to 4¾c; fair at 4c to 4¼c; medium at 3½c to 3¾c; common at 3c to 3¼c; cows at 3½c to 3¾c; bulls at 3½c to 3¾c, and canners at 1¼c to 1¾c per lb.

The demand for sheep and lambs was active, and, as supplies were not as large as usual, the undertone to the market was very firm, but prices show no further change. Sheep brought 3½c, and lambs 6¾c per lb. Calves were somewhat scarce, for which the demand was good at prices ranging from $3 to $10 each, as to size and quality. The trade in hogs was fairly good and sales of selected lots from west of Toronto were made at $6.50 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the offerings of five sheds consisted of 550 cattle, 350 sheep and lambs, 375 hogs and 275 calves. The trade in hogs was fair, and, as supplies were not in excess of the requirements, prices ruled steady, with sales of selected lots from west of Toronto at $6.35, and from east of Toronto at $6.25 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Nov. 24.—Cattle—Steady; prime steers, $6.65 to $7.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 3400 head; active; wethers steady; others 10c higher; lambs, $6.35 to $7.65; yearlings, $5.50 to $6; ewes, $4.50 to $5; sheep, mixed, $5 to $5; Canada lambs, $7.25 to $7.60.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Beeves—Receipts, 2235; firm and higher; steers, $4.90 to $6.30; oxen, $4.25; bulls, $3.80 to $4.75; cows, $3 to $4.50; dressed beef slow, 10c lower, for native sides, at 8c to 11½c; Texas beef, 6c to 7c. Exports, 2700 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 1732; market higher; veals, $7 to $10; few choice, $10.50; culls, $5 to $6; barnyard calves, $3.50 to $5; few selected western, $5.25 to $6.25; dressed calves firm; city dressed veals, 9½c to 13c; country dressed, 8c to 9½c; dressed barnyard calves, 7c to 9c.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 10,725; sheep firm; lambs 25c higher on light supply; sheep, $3 to $4.65½; culls, $3 to $3.50; lambs, $4.50 to $7.75; culls, $5 to $6.

Hogs—Receipts, 7961; firm.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Cattle—Receipts, 14,000; steady to strong to a shade higher; steers, $4.60 to $6.25; cows, $3.10 to $5; heifers, $3 to $5; bulls, $3 to $4.75; calves, $5 to $8.50; stockers and feeders, $3.75 to $5.35.

Hogs—Receipts, 32,000; market strong to 10c higher; choice heavy, $6.15 to $6.25; butchers, $6.15 to $6.25; light, $6.10 to $6.20; choice, light, $6 to $6.10; packing, $5.95 to $6.10; pigs, $5 to $5.80; bulk of sales, $6 to $6.15.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 24,000; market 10c to 15c higher; sheep, $4 to $5.25; lambs, $5.50 to $7.65; yearlings, $5 to $6.50.

Woman Dramatist's Sad Death.

St. Louis, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Grace Hubbard, whose ambition was to make the world laugh at comedies from her pen, was herself the chief figure in a tragedy. Heart-broken because her most elaborate comedy sketch had been stolen, she alleged by a theatrical manager, she committed suicide. Her body was found in her bare feet.

Suffragette Gets Seven Months.

London, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Alice Chapin, the militant suffragette, who injured a polling clerk at the Bermondsey bye-election, when she smashed a bottle of corrosive acid upon a ballot box, was sentenced yesterday to seven months' imprisonment. Miss Alison Neilson, who made a similar attempt, was sentenced to three months.

Farmer Killed by Train.

Montreal, Nov. 25.—Thomas Gilchrist, farmer of Kirkdale, Que., while on his way to Richmond yesterday morning, was struck by the Montreal Express and instantly killed.

Somebody Blundered.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—Owing to blundering on the part of some of the deputy returning officers, the exact nature of which the officials here will not divulge, O. J. Wilcox, Conservative member-elect for North Essex, will not be able to take his seat in the House of Commons until the first week in December.

The Last Spike.

A recent book contains an account of the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the last page contains a story which may be repeated here. Mr. Carter notes that the people of this country are a thrifty folk, the reason perhaps being that Scotchmen are numerous and influential here. He says that the ceremony of driving the last spike of the C.P.R. was conducted on economical lines.

"The last spike," said General Manager Van Horne, "will be just as good an iron one as there is between Montreal and Vancouver. Any one who wants to see it driven will have to pay full fare." As a result there were very few spectators when Mr. Donald Smith, now Lord Strathcona, wielded the maul, and when the blow had been struck without any preliminary speech-making or festivities the little party went fishing.

Elk Killed Old Doe.

One of the strange facts in natural history was exemplified recently at High Park, Toronto, when a buck elk attacked and killed with his horns a feeble old doe. This is always the custom with these animals, and some other classes. When the old ones become feeble and unable to keep up with the herd, they are killed off by the strong members of the band. The doe was about eleven years old and had been weak and feeble during the summer.

Married on the Roof.

Several thousand persons thronged the streets in front of the fourteen-story skyscraper being erected for the Dominion Trust Co. at Vancouver recently to witness as best they could the wedding of Miss Iona Fuller and Edward Langor on the roof of the lofty structure. The wedding was the result of the couple's desire to signalise the erection of Vancouver's sky scraper.

The Fascination of Corn Cutting.

Corn cutting always has a fascination for me. I like to see the farmer grip the tall stalks with a stout hand and, deftly holding them, clip them with a quick stroke of a knife. Around the bundle when it is gathered he twists a slimmer stalk and tucks the ends tightly under. It is a tidy art, for a twist may lack just the inch that holds the bundle. The farmer's work develops quick judgment as well as deftness of hands, and so it is a good school, for it makes the brains and the hands work together. The boy who follows with a fork should be able to lift the bundle and build a stook that will resist the wind. When the buskers come every ear should have been kept well up from the ground and the stalks so well ventilated that there is no smell of mildew.—E. P. Powell in Outing Magazine.

Famous Cedars.

The famous cedars of Lebanon also grow in India and Algeria, but their home is the Lebanons of northern Syria. In ancient times the sides of the whole mountain were covered with them, but now they are found in only one small hollow on the northwestern slope. These are securely fenced in, but in spite of the great care of the gardener the 200 that now survive will soon die, and the species will become extinct.

The Tripping Tongue.

Friend—I understand, Mrs. Stern, that your daughter has married since we last met. Mrs. Stern—Yes, and been divorced. Friend—Ah! And who is the happy man?—Boston Transcript.

Liberty cannot be established without morality.—Greeley.

Some Curious Weathercocks.

The weathercock had its origin at a very early date. Marcus Virtruvius Pollio, a noted Roman architect and engineer, who was born about 80 B. C., in his works calls a vane a triton, probably because in his time it had the form of a triton. The usual form on towers, castles and secular buildings was that of a dragon, but on ecclesiastical buildings it was a representation of the traits of the barnyard fowl. There have been other forms of vane. The one over St. Peter's, Cornhill, London, is in the shape of a key; that over St. Mildreth's church is a gilt ship under full sail. The grasshopper of the Royal Exchange, London, is the vane that formerly surmounted the former exchange. The dragon on the spire of Bow church, Cheapside, is another celebrated vane. One of Mother Shipton's prophecies was that when the dragon of Bow church and the grasshopper of the Royal Exchange should meet the streets of London would be deluged with blood. In what way they should meet the old dame did not explain, but it is known that at one time these vanes were side by side in the yard of a stonemason in Old Street road, yet there was no shedding of blood.—London Answers.

THE TRIP WAS ROUGH

Passengers on the Ottawa Express Had Trouble all the Way From Peterborough During This Week's Storm.

SENATOR COX WAS ONE

With telegraph poles lying across the track in profusion for mile after mile, and no telegraph wires with which to acquaint the outside world of its predicament, the C. P. R. train which left Toronto on Monday night at 10 o'clock and due at Ottawa at 8.30 yesterday morning, moved slowly and with mystery enshrouding its movements all day yesterday and up to a late hour last night, reaching Ottawa about midnight and bringing relief to the feelings of many who had been waiting for friends.

The run from Toronto, which under ordinary circumstances takes a little over eight hours, was accomplished in a little more than 26 hours with extreme difficulty, and an interesting tale of the trip is told by passengers on the train. Among these were the Toronto members of the deputation to see the Government about the Welland Canal; some lawyers from the Queen City eager to reach Ottawa for Supreme Court business, and a number of parliamentarians and business men, but all resigned themselves to their fate when at Peterborough the first note of serious trouble was sounded.

Though in the vicinity of Toronto Monday night's storm was one of the worst of its kind ever experienced, and wires were down, it was as the train approached Peterborough that the fallen poles began to be encountered. These had to be removed from the track one by one with great labour. From Peterborough a work train was got out and all the way to Smith's Falls the train crew was busy removing obstructions from the track. Often the passengers got off and had a look around, and there were many periods at which walking would have been as rapid progress.

The train left Toronto at 10 o'clock on Monday night. It reached Havelock at about 3 o'clock in the morning, and the run between there and Central Ontario Junction, a distance of 12 miles, took five hours. At the latter place a stop of two hours was made, and the prudent ones took a cross-country run of half a mile to get food at a little country store. One of the leaders in the race was Senator Cox, who was a passenger on the train, and who is said to have made a great run with younger competitors. All around the trees were bending beneath the coating of about two inches of ice and in many cases barn roofs had caved in under the weight.

The C. P. R. made an attempt to feed the passengers at Central Ontario Junction, and at Tweed again some of the train crew bought crackers and tea and coffee for the women and children.

At Mountain Grove, a few miles east of Sharbot Lake, the morning train from Toronto to Montreal overtook the delayed train for the Capital and the diner from it was switched on to the latter. Until provisions gave out as many of the passengers as could be accommodated were fed, but not all succeeded in getting in on the provisions. At 7.30 in the evening the train arrived at Smith's Falls and the difficult trip was resumed, the work train preceding the passenger and removing obstructions from its course. To illustrate some of the difficulties encountered by the company, there were 240 poles across the track between Carleton Place and Ottawa, with proportionately more in other places.

On the trip there was no formality; everybody talked to everybody else, and many fast friendships were sealed. Senators and M.P.s had dashes to keep warm at wayside stopping places.

Several members of parliament and senators were on the belated train.

"We left Toronto at the usual hour," stated W. M. German, M.P., for Welland, and all went well till we were near Havelock. Then we stopped, and at seven in the morning were in the same place. It took all day and the most of last night to get to Ottawa. We moved foot by foot, so to speak, behind a work train engaged in clearing the track, not of snow, but of telegraph poles and wires. Between Ottawa and Havelock I should say there were not a dozen poles standing. At one station early yesterday morning everyone made a run for a village hotel and succeeded in getting at least a cup of tea. When we reached Tweed there was a stock of sandwiches available, and another at Smith's Falls. The delay was bothersome, but the passengers made the best of it and took it good naturedly."

MARRIED.

MATHESON—KIDD.—In Peterborough on Wednesday, Nov. 24th, by Rev. J. G. Brown, of St. James' church, Alexander Mathison, of Havelock, and Elizabeth Kidd, of Peterborough.

THE JURY RETURNED A VERDICT OF MURDER AGAINST M'LAUGHLIN

Coroner's Jury in the Uxbridge Inquest Find That the Young Man Suspected Murdered His Wife and Family.

WAS NOT A SURPRISE

Uxbridge, Nov. 24—"That the said Mary McLaughlin came to her death from poisoning by strychnine administered by her husband, Archibald McLaughlin and that Harold McLaughlin and Gordon McLaughlin came to their deaths from poisoning by strychnine or the gas fumes and smoke from the fire in the residence in which they then were on October 29th, at the said town of Uxbridge, and we hereby charge the said Archibald McLaughlin with murdering his wife, the said Mary McLaughlin, and his sons, Gordon McLaughlin and Harold McLaughlin, and setting fire to the said dwelling-house."

Archie McLaughlin, under arrest on a charge of murder, spoke no word either of disappointment or astonishment when his counsel, Mr. H. P. Cook, whispered in his ear in effect the above verdict, arrived at unanimously by Coroner Bascom's jury to-night after deliberating on the evidence for three quarters of an hour. It would seem as though he had been expecting such a decision.

The Alleged Victims.

Mary McLaughlin, his wife, and his two little sons, Harold and Gordon, for whose death the Coroner's jury have said he is responsible, were taken dead from their fire-devastated home at 2 o'clock on Saturday morning, October 30. The fire was discovered at midnight by neighbours, one of whom, Mrs. Mary Beal, said she had heard screams coming from the house at that time, but as no one knew how to get to the place they appeared to come from, it was too late, although the bodies when removed were untouched by fire. The peculiar position in which the woman was found, and the finding in her stomach of a grain of strychnine by Prof. Ellis of Toronto, led to the arrest of the husband, who had stood idly by, according to the evidence, and neglected to inform any one of the would-be rescuers of the location of his wife's room. His little daughter, Monta, he had brought out of the house in the baby carriage.

Fire in the Closet.

In his evidence during the closing hours of the inquest this afternoon Rev. A. B. Bedford, pastor of the Methodist church, whose bedroom window commanded a view of the McLaughlin dining-room, gave evidence to confirm the guess that the fire had had its origin in the clothes closet of that room. The reverend gentleman said that when he was awakened about midnight by loud cries of fire he arose and looked across and down into the McLaughlin house. He saw a blaze coming up from the floor in the dining room and there was no other fire apparent in the house at that time. Rev. Mr. Bedford, too, gave it as his opinion that had the fire-fighters and neighbours been aware of the location of the woman's room the inmates could easily have been taken out. There was, he said, no fire except downstairs at that time, and besides, he thought that the bed in which the wife was could have been reached from the window.

AGAINST SUFFRAGETTES

Bristol, Nov. p4.—Since the attack ten days ago upon Winston Spencer Churchill, President of the Board of Trade, by a Suffragette armed with a whip, a strong feeling has grown up against the Suffragettes, and an attempt by Miss Pankhurst to address a meeting at Colstonham to-night was prevented by a crowd of students and others, who kept up a conling.

The disturbers threw flour balls storm the platform. A large after a serious conflict with the tinuous series of yells and whist-and peas, and finally tried to body of police cleared the hall students and their supporters.

ANNUAL MEETING OF LADIES' AUXILIARY OF THE Y. M. C. A.

Held in the Parlours of the Building on Friday Afternoon Last—Reports of the Secretary and Treasurer—Officers Elected.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A., was held on Friday afternoon last when reports were presented and officers elected for the coming year. During the past year the society was honoured with the presence of the Dominion President, Mrs. Yeigh, of Brantford, who on October 16th, gave a most comprehensive address.

At the annual meeting, Mrs. Hunter, the president, presided and opened the proceedings with the usual devotional exercises.

The Secretary's Report.

At the meeting of the auxiliary on October 18th, Mrs. S. Clegg, secretary, presented the following report:

In reviewing the work of the year ending Oct. 18th, 1909, your secretary is pleased to report a satisfactory year's work.

During the year ten regular meetings, and four special meetings were held, with an average attendance of fifteen.

One great cause of thankfulness is that we do not have to record the loss of one member during the year, either through death or removal, while some new members have been welcomed.

A number of new furnishings in the way of curtains, pillows, towels, etc., has been purchased.

Five dollars has been sent to Mr. J. N. Farquhar, the Y.M.C.A. missionary, to help in his work in India. But our most important work was the organization of a mothers' committee to act in conjunction with the secretary.

In February a meeting was held with a large number present and a committee formed, and since that time several interesting meetings have been held in which Mr. Dumble, Mrs. Kendry, Mrs. Campbell, and others have given profitable talks. It is the intention of this society to attach greater importance to the work of the committee.

During the year there were no entertainments held, but several of the ladies volunteered to collect in small subscriptions, and a good sum was realised.

A JEWELLERY SALE THAT WILL BE A SALE

The Public Advised to Delay the Purchase of Jewellery Until Saturday, November 27.

Such is the announcement that the well-known jewellery firm of W. A. Sanderson & Company is making to the people of Peterborough and as the firm is noted as much for the reliability of its advertising as for the undoubted excellence of its stock, there is every reason to believe that the bargain feast that is being inaugurated will justify the startling nature of the notice. The sale will commence on Saturday of this week, and will be a revelation in its demonstration of price cutting. Business reasons makes it absolutely imperative that the present great modern stock of everything that is best in the jewellery line, should be cleared out as rapidly as possible, and, in order that this may be accomplished, prices throughout the store have been ruthlessly slaughtered to such an extent as to seem incredible to the public, who they have an opportunity at the end of the week to see what has been done. The low prices will seem all the more remarkable when the fact is taken into consideration that the goods that are being sacrificed at such value are the very best that are obtainable in the jewellery market.

The problem of Christmas presents which is as usual beginning to occupy a prominent position in the minds of everyone just now, loses much of its worry and difficulty in the light of the sensational announcement from W. A. Sanderson and Company. Nothing causes more delight to the receiver than a pretty article of jewellery, but usually the prices make one hesitate. Now, however, W. A. Sanderson and Company have placed an endless variety of suitable gifts within the range of the slenderest purse, and many a worried citizen will heave a sigh of relief when he sees the display at Sanderson's.

On Friday next some prices will be given in these columns that will make any previous sale of jewellery silverware and watches appear insignificant when a comparison of prices is made.

Wait for our big benefit sale.

W. A. SANDERSON & CO.

SPECIALTIES AT PRINCESS

Amusing Bright Bill is Promised the Patrons of This Popular Theatorium.

To-night at 7.15 o'clock the Princess theatre will commence its new and refined specialty features in addition to the regular bill of moving pictures. The programme will include a funny act by Lewis Julius, the well known Hebrew entertainer and impersonator of musical instruments and Miss Vera Browne, a dainty little character singer and dancer who will appear in Scotch songs and dances. The entire bill will be totally free from the slightest taint of vulgarity, but will be bright and amusing. The first performance will commence at 7.15 o'clock, and no doubt the pretty theatorium will be crowded to the doors all evening.

MR. LUMSDEN HERE

Mr. H. O. Lumsden, formerly Chief Engineer of the National Transcontinental Railway Commission, is in Peterborough on business. Mr. Lumsden is considerably in the limelight, these days by reason of the voluminous return that was presented to the House of Commons on Tuesday in relation to his resignation from the position of Chief Engineer. While in town, Mr. Lumsden is stopping at the Oriental.

It is hinted that Mr. Lumsden is now in the service of the C.P.R., and that his visit to Peterborough has some bearing on the location of the new grain route of the C. P. R. to Peterborough.

REFUSED OFFER OF CARNEGIE LIBRARY

Citizens Declare Themselves Opposed to a Gift That Has strings To It.

Wallace, Idaho, Nov. 25.—Rejection was the unanimous decision of twenty-five of the leading business men here at a special meeting of the Board of trade to consider the question of accepting a $10,000 donation from Andrew Carnegie to build a library.

The public library question first came up when H. F. Samuels, Shoshone County Commissioner at the A.-Y.P. Exposition, announced that he would not strive to bring the ore exhibits now at the Exposition to Wallace unless a suitable building was provided. The Carnegie offer was taken up, but H. M. Thostenson, a prominent mining man, chystallised the sentiment of the meeting when he said:

"I don't know how or where Carnegie got his money, but the people of Wallace don't want any of it and none of the strings attached to it. If a city as wealthy as Wallace cannot raise its own funds for a library of its own, it deserves none at all."

The vote to decline the proposition was unanimous.

VETERANS OF 1866

Toronto, Nov. 24.—The Veterans of 1866 Association of Toronto at their last meeting decided to send a deputation to Ottawa at an early date memorialising the Government regarding the 'petition they presented last session, asking the Dominion Government for a grant of land to veterans of 1866 similar to that bestowed upon the South African veterans, which was laid over from last session. It was the unanimous opinion of the meeting that had it not been for the alacrity with which they turned out at that time, the Dominion Government would have had very little land at their disposal to reward any one, and the veterans feel that in the matter of granting land to the terans those of 1866 certainly have first call on their liberality.

MANY MILES OF WRECKED TELEPHONE WIRES AND POLES

C. P. R. Telegraph System Between Havelock and Smith's Falls Strewed the Railway Tracks—Work of Restoring the System Was Carried Ahead Rapidly.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—Mr. J. Osborne, superintendent of the C. P. R., returned to the city early this morning after a day and a night spent on the scene of the wreckage between Haveloc kand Smith's Falls caused by the big sleet storm Monday afternoon and evening.

"Tons and tons of ice were clinging to the wires all the way from Smith's Falls to Havelock, and the wind need scarcely have blown at all to cause the poles to topple over under that terrific weight," he said. "As it was, for almost the whole of the 100 miles from Smith's Falls to Havelock the poles and wires were were lying directly across the tracks. The worst of the storm seems to have struck this particular locality, for it cannot be said that particularly high ground gave the wind a mightier sweep, as the whole district is hills and valleys, high and low.

"Our train, No. 5, reached Smith's Falls almost on time, between half-past one and two o'clock, but instead of reaching Havelock at 5 o'clock as per schedule, it took her until almost midnight the next night to cross the 109 miles of blockaded tracking between the two towns. She pulled into Toronto at 8.15 this morning.

"Mr. Marshall, superintendent of the C. P. R. Telegraphs, was fortunately aboard the train and he instantly ordered into service every construction man he could reach from the surrounding districts. The telegraph train was sent out from Montreal and work was begun instantly. The wires were in the most chaotic condition I eper beheld them, but by midnight they were able to let the train through. The train which reaches here in the evening from Montreal was cancelled, as No. 5 was still blockaded at Havelock when it was due to start."

"That train is 3 or 4 hours late again this morning. How is that, do you know" asked the Star.

"It has nothing whatever to do with the wires. Some minor mishap occurred to the eastbound train which delayed the westbound train as well."

The train arrived in the Union Station at 12 o'clock sharp.

At the telegraph offices it was reported that communication had not yet been restored but that immense gangs of men were at work all along the line under the direct supervision of Mr. Marshall, and that by to-night they hoped to be able to transmit messages.

Eagle Lake Girl Succeeds In Shooting A Fine Deer

The Eagle Lake Hunting Party, which chunts at Eagle Lake, eight miles north of Haliburton, reports the shooting of a fine, big buck by one of the camp's young lady visitors, Miss Clara Hunter of Eagle Lake settlement.

Miss Clara Hunter, her sister, Miss Mamie Hunter, and a friend, Miss Hyde, all of the Eagle Lake settlement, Haliburton, were in the habit of dropping in for the day on their boy friends of the hunting club.

One fine day the three girls proposed that they should take part in the hunt, too, so their friends put them on one of the best runways in the vicinity and left to take up their own stations elsewhere

By and by a fine large buck came loping along towards the girls. They were badly frightened but game to the last. Miss Clara Hunter, like an old sportsman, brought her gun to her shoulder and fired three or four shots with such precision that the buck toppled over dead.

It was the first deer the young lady had ever seen in the woods.

The Route Of Procession On World's Temperance Sunday

Arrangements have been made for the mass meeting of Sunday Schools to be held next Sunday afternoon. The schools will march in bodies, forming at last in a united procession. The southern section will begin at St. James' Church and will march north to Park Street Baptist, where it will be joined by that Sunday School. Knox Church School will be the next, and finally Charlotte Street Methodist Sunday School. Leaving the latter church the procession will continue along Charlotte street to Aylmer street, where it will wait for the section from the north. The latter section will begin at Auburn, picking up Grace Church school. It will continue southward to George Street Methodist Church, where it should arrive at 2.45 o'clock. It will be joined by the Sunday School of George Street Church and continue on to St. Paul's. At the corner of George and Murray streets it will unite with the schools from Mark Street Methodist Church, Bethany Tabernacle, and Gospel Hall. This procession will continue west to Murray street to unite with the Sunday School of the Murray Street Baptist church. The massed schools will proceed to Aylmer street and south to Brock, where their numbers will be still further swelled by the Sunday School of St. Andrew's church. The procession will continue to Simcoe street, where it will pick up the Salvation Army scholars, and Band. The north and south sections will form one body at the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets, march to George, and south to the Opera House, where a temperance talk will be given by Mr. E. L. Bengough, the interesting rapid sketch artist of Toronto.

COST OF JUSTICE

Twenty Thousand Dollars Expended for John Dillon Who Murdered Policeman in Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 25.—"Almost $20,000 has been spent by the Government and city of Montreal on John Dillon, who was saved from the gallows for a short time by Mr. Justice Trenholme's decision last Thursday. The expenses of Dillon's trial totalled $10,000, and the two commissions sent to Ireland on his behalf cost $2,000. Also, as a result of the tragedy for which he is condemned to die, $4,600 was paid to Constable Shea's widow, while the damages caused to the Manoe building, which was the scene of the tragedy, amounted to $1,600. Chief Carpenter's expenses as a result of being wounded by Dillon, amounted to $1,000, and the boarding of Dillon in jail since then has cost $500. Then the preparations for the execution which did not take place last Friday morning entailed $200 expenditure."

It would be interesting to know how much it cost the people to let Blythe, the wife murderer, spend his last years in jail.

NEW HYMNAL

The new Anglican hymnal recently adopted will be used on Sunday next at St. Luke's Church. The members of the congregation should provide themselves with copies of the new book, which can be secured at the local stores.

BROKE HIS COLLARBONE

Young Man Injured in Accident on Charlotte Street Last Evening—Street Car Collided With Buggy, Which Was Badly Smashed.

WERE THROWN OUT

The collision of a C. G. E. street car and a horse and buggy, on Charlotte street, last evening, near Aylmer, resulted in one of the occupants of the buggy getting his collar bone broken. Two other young men in the vehicle escaped without injury, other than a bad shaking up. Eddie and Herbert Denny and Willie McLean were driving along Charlotte street, and attempted to cross in front of a car going east, when the buggy was struck and the occupants were thrown heavily on to the road. The vehicle was smashed almost beyond repair, and Herbert Denny had his collar bone broken.

Dr. Frederick was called and had the injured boy removed to his home on Concession street, East City, where he attended him.

BLACK SUIT SALE

The opportunity afforded the men of the city at this time, just when they appreciate a black suit, comes as welcome news. Lang & Maher are now offering exceptional prices in single and double-breasted styles, in Vicuna, Clay Worsted, and Cross Breds. These are this season's make. Style and workmanship the latest and best. Prices $8.90, $10.90 and $13.90. Have a look in the window, the suits are convincing. This sale will last all next week, and is now on. Any man who needs a Black Suit soon we would advise him to not let this special chance pass. There are many other lines in Tweeds that will interest those who prefer a coloured suit. Now is the time.

OBITUARY

MRS. ALLAN WILSON.

The death occurred early this morning at her late residence, lot 24, concession 14, in Otonabee, of Mrs. Allan Wilson, after an illness extending over some weeks. The deceased's maiden name was Mary E. Hope. She was born in Otonabee, she being a daughter of the late Richard Hope, of that township. She was married only a year ago last September to her now sorrowing husband. She was a woman of many estimable qualities, and the news of her demise has caused the profoundest regret among a wide circle of acquaintances. While it was learned that it was impossible for her to recover, her friends were hoping as against hope, and on hearing that she had passed away this morning were greatly grieved.

Much sympathy is felt for the sorrowing husband, her six sisters and one brother who are left to mourn her loss. The sisters are Mrs. Kinnear, Keene; Mrs. Wood, Village; Mrs. Cleary, Asphodel; Mrs. Davidson, Otonabee; Mrs. Moore, Keene; and Miss Hope, at Lang. The brother is Mr. John Hope, also residing at Lang.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon from the family residence to the Little Lake cemetery.

VOICE OF A GREAT NEED

The resolution which was unanimously carried by the City Council, Board of Trade and representative Citizens' meeting, November 9th, is as follows:

Moved by Mr. Daniel O'Connell, seconded by Mr. D. Hughes Charles:

WHEREAS the present rapid development of Canada must necessarily result in increasing the number and magnitude of the manufacturing industries of the Province of Ontario; and

WHEREAS it is apparent that it is only such municipalities as adopt energetic and effective means of bringing their advantages to the notice of the manufacturing public, that are likely to procure their proper share of such industries; and

WHEREAS the City of Peterborough possesses in an exceptionally high degree, local and natural advantages, resulting from its geographical position, railway facilities and water power; and

WHEREAS it is imperative, in the best interests of the city, and necessary for its future progress, that proper and effective means be adopted, at once, to lead to a comprehensive and clear understanding of the extent and value of these advantages, and to have them utilized in such a way, as will tend to promote the future industrial development of the city;

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, at this meeting of the citizens of Peterborough, called at the instance of the Board of Trade that it is the opinion of this meeting, that effective and energetic means should be forthwith taken by the Municipal Council of the City of Peterborough to promote the industrial interests of this city, and that the services of a competent and efficient officer be secured, who will devote his whole time and energy in acquiring knowledge of the peculiar advantages possessed by this city in consulting and advising with the Municipal Council respecting the same, and in promoting and in advancing the industrial welfare and interests of the city generally, and that proper funds be placed at his disposal for efficiently carrying out the objects of his appointment, and for the purpose of defraying his salary and expenses, provision be made by such additional levy as may be necessary, which in our opinion would be covered by half a mill on the dollar.

UNHOLY REJOICING.

The Mail and Empire, held to be the leading journalistic exponent of Conservative policy and interests, is always ready to place partisanship before patriotism, to chuckle and gloat over any untoward event in relation to Canada and the Empire, which can be turned to party advantage, especially if it involves the discomfiture of its political opponents. The Mail and Empire heads a despatch from Ottawa, referring to a report of Dr. Coulter, in reference to the "All Red Line," gleefully assuring its readers that "Laurier's much-vaunted project is at a standstill," Australia being represented as hostile to the scheme. Australia's "hostility" consisted in stating that the constitutional limits placed upon the expenditure of the Commonwealth, prevented immediate consideration of the question of steamship subsidies in connection with the project. The practical completion of the period within which Australia's limit of expenditure obtains has made it possible for that country to express its willingness to take part in a conference upon the subject, which conference will probably be called by the Canadian Government to meet in Ottawa. Therefore, the Mail is entirely misleading and its rejoicing over the intimated failure of a great empire-welding project is premature. Sir Wilfrid may have been unduly optimistic as to the All Red Line, but a little delay does not mean failure, nor call for opprobium upon the promoters of the scheme. All the other Governments interested — the central government and those of the Dominion beyond the seas—may not be as sanguine as Sir Wilfrid, may not see so clearly the immense imperial significance and importance of the proposal for adding new and stronger strands to the bond of empire. A statesman foresees, waits long and works faithfully for the end he sees as others do not see it.

R23 THE PR

TEMPERANCE MIXED UP WITH IT.

Brantford Expositor.

The temperance issue is very vitally at stake in the rejection by the Lords of the Lloyd-George budget.

It is said the heavier taxes recently imposed have reduced the consumption of alcoholic liquors by 20 per cent., and that the increased spirit duty has decreased the cases of drunkenness and committals to prison in Scotland by at least one-third.

This statement was made in the annual report of the United Kingdom Alliance, which was submitted to the general council in Manchester. The report makes a vehement attack on the House of Lords for throwing out the Licensing Bill. It says "The struggle enters on a new phase. A new and unexpected enemy has crossed our path. The quarrel with the Lords is none of our seeking; but the crime of the peers against the nation cannot be condoned. In every temperance society, in every tent and lodge, the insolent challenge of the peers has sunk in and will be indignantly remembered. We have no choice but to fight our hardest against the last entrenched citadel of the liquor trade."

Mr. Lloyd-George, speaking in the House of Commons, stated that the effect of the new duties had been to decrease the consumption of intoxicants, but that he was not there to apologize for it. He added that "the drop this year in spirits will be equal to the total drop in the previous ten years." The Chancellor further declared that every finance minister of Great Britain of late years has used the weapon of finance for the purpose of counterbalancing some excess in the drinking of some particular spirit. In that way gin-drinking was largely destroyed, and in Glasgow it is averred that whisky drinking has decreased by 33 per cent. since the extra duty of the budget has been imposed. In some parts of the United Kingdom the drinking of whisky has declined in even greater measure, notably in Ireland, where the figures are given as 70 per cent.

It is not surprising, in view of the above facts, that the brewers have made common cause with the Lords for the destruction of the budget. True, the brewers have usually voted with the Conservative party, but in the contest now on they are certain to be more active than ever. What attitude will the Conservative temperance reformers take? The testing time of their principals has arrived.

BRITISH NAVAL POLICY.

(Toronto Star.)

Canada's naval policy must be based upon the principle that Canada, as a peace-loving country, enjoying free institutions, ought to bear its share of the burden of preserving peace and upholding freedom. It is clear that no career of maritime adventure is open to this country. The time for that has gone. The spacious days of great Elizabeth cannot be revived. The world is not spacious any more. It is a small place. The seas are no more fields for romantic achievement, but recognized and well-travelled highways. Our interest is to keep them open and safe for commerce, and to prevent them from being used as military roads over which enormous armies could be sent for the subjugation of free nations.

In this respect our interests are identical with those of the British Empire. The vast shipping of the Empire gives it the largest possible interest in keeping the ocean highways free and safe for commerce. The British Empire is a league of free commonwealth. Its greatest interest is the growth of free institutions, in the United Kingdom, in Canada, in Australia, in South Africa, and in India; for although India at present lags behind, and although progress there is necessarily slow, it is not to be doubted that its ultimate destiny is to be a commonwealth like Canada or Australia or South Africa.

In this respect the history of Canada and of South Africa is instructive In each country conquest was followed by the granting of free institutions to the victors and the vanquished alike. Conquest in each case meant not the subjugation of a people, but the destruction of certain institutions to be replaced by institutions, not only free, but containing in themselves the germs of larger liberties. By taking our share in the naval defence of the Empire, we hold our place in a league of free and peaceful nations.

In upholding this contention, it is not necessary to impute perfection to all those who have guided the foreign policy of Great Britain, or its policy of dealing with dependencies. What is to be looked at is the general trend of British history, and the fact that in the United Kingdom, in Canada, in Australia, in South Africa, in India, there has been a steady growth in freedom. In the British Empire was conceived and carried out the idea of the limited monarchy—the monarchy in which the Sovereign rules by law and not by caprice—and the idea of the self-governing colony.

No other organization in the world is in this respect in the same position as the British Empire. The influence of the United States is on the side of freedom, but the States are geographically united for defence, as well as for trade and all other purposes; so that the safety and freedom of the ocean highways are not as vital to them as to the British commonwealths.

Whether Germany is or is not hostile to Great Britain, the fact remains that Germany is not a league of free nations, that German institutions are not as free as those of Great Britain, that feudal, monarchical and military ideas are much stronger in Germany than in the British Empire, and that, therefore, German supremacy on the ocean combined with German military supremacy, would be a constant source of anxiety to the lovers of peace and freedom all over the world. Europe is an armed camp to-day largely because of German power. The world, if Germany became supreme upon the sea, would be in a position not unlike that of Europe.

It is not necessary, in order to support this contention, to appeal to anti-German prejudice. Millions of Germans, as individuals, may be classed among lovers of peace and freedom. But as Germany is now organized and governed, no lover of freedom would feel free from anxiety if Germany had the same overwhelming power upon the sea as it now has in the continent of Europe.

By taking its place in the defensive league of free nations, Canada does not abandon her idea of free and peaceful development, but helps to protect and insure that development until, by the growth of the free British commonwealth, freedom is placed out of the reach of danger.

POLLING HOURS.

(Montreal Star.)

The right to vote is, we all know, both an obligation and a privilege, and the man who refuses to recognize it, as such is not the kind of a citizen for whom, even in these careless days, we have very much respect. As an obligation, its discharge should be made as little irksome as possible; as a privilege, the opportunity of enjoying it ought to be as open to one man as to another, yet our present system of conducting municipal elections not only makes voting difficult for but actually discriminates against the great majority of the voters.

By a purely conventional arrangement, the polls must open at nine and close at five o'clock. No one benefits except the officials on duty at the polling booths and the occasional candidate whose interests are best served by keeping the vote within controllable limits. The proportion of voters who need not make an appearance at their places of business until well after nine o'clock, or who can leave well before five is not very considerable; all the others either have to pay for voting or have their employers pay for them.

An extension of two or three hours could by no possibility do any harm, nor could it possibly fail to do good. It is not fair to ask men to accept as a common obligation the duty of seeing that the city is properly and honestly governed when fulfilling that obligation wears more hardly on one class than on another. Yet the remedy is as easy as the injustice is obvious—simply an amendment of the city's charter.

What Dodd's Kidney Pills Did for Thomas Moon.

Doctors Could Not Cure His Dropsy But Dodd's Kidney Pills Cleared it Out Completely.

Maidstone, Sask., Nov. 24.—(Special)—"Cured me completely. That's what Dodd's Kidney Pills did for me." Such is the statement made by Thos. Moon, a well-known resident of this place, who, for years, suffered with Dropsical Swellings brought on by diseased Kidneys.

"I had pains in the small of my back," Mr. Moon continues, "and across the loins. The swelling commenced first in my legs and gradually got to my body. I tried different doctors but kept getting worse every day until I was swollen up to an awful size.

"One doctor sent me to the hospital where I got a little benefit, but the swelling soon all came back.

"Then I used Dodd's Kidney Pills and as I said before they cured me completely."

Dropsical Swellings are caused by diseased Kidneys failing to take the surplus water out of the blood. Cure the Kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills and the Dropsy naturally cures itself.

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Peterborough People to Neglect

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined, Backache headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Booth's Kidney Pills, which have cured people right here in Peterborough:

Mrs. M. J. Cook of 494 Aylmer St., Peterborough, Ont., says:

"I always find quick relief in Booth's Kidney Pills. They strengthen and relieve my back of a dull, heavy pain that settles in the small of it, and extends into my shoulders. For years I had suffered with these symptoms of kidney trouble, and could find no relief. I had frequent spells of dizziness and headaches. I was restless and weak and would often awake more tired than on going to bed. I never found relief for these painful and weakening symptoms of kidney trouble until I used Booth's Kidney Pills, obtained at McDermid & Jury's Pharmacy. I have had little trouble since as I use Booth's Kidney Pills occasionally and they keep me in the best of health."

Blacksmithing and Woodworking Business For Sale

The undersigned offers for sale his blacksmithing and woodworking business, situated on the side line between Peterborough and Norwood at Jermyn P. O. The blacksmith shop building is two storeys, 22 x 42, with cement floor and cement forge. The upper story is the full size of the blacksmith shop (22x42). Attached to the blacksmith shop is the post office building, which may be entered from the blacksmith shop. Adjoining is a first class brick dwelling, with frontage 18 and 32 feet, with kitchen. It is an L-shaped house with cement cellar. Also verandah and beautiful lawn. There is a good stable with cement floor, three stalls, with straw barn attached. The land comprises one half acre. This is one of the best blacksmith stands in the County of Peterborough. The farmers all patronize this shop. My reason for giving up business on account of having one of my legs fractured I am unable to continue the shoeing. For further particulars, write to

KEENE ITEMS OF INTEREST

Paragraphs From the Otonabee Capital —Havoc by the Storm.

Examiner Special.

Keene, Ont., Nov. 23rd, 1909.— The Messrs. Flavelles Limited, Lindsay, who have contracted for a large number of turkeys in the vicinity will ship from Keene Station, Friday, November 26th.

Evangelistic meetings commenced Sunday in Westwood Presbyterian Church. They will be continued for a couple of weeks. The Rev. Mr. Bradly, of Berlin, will conduct the meetings, assisted by Rev. Mr. McDonald and others.

Mrs. A. Campbell, Peterborough, visited in and around Keen last week.

Anniversary services were conducted in the Methodist Church, Keene, Sunday, Nov. 21, by Rev. Mr. Pearson, Peterborough. There were large attendances at both services.

Mr. J. H. Gardiner, Peterborough, sold Mr. Richard Hope's farm stock and implements by auction Wednesday, Nov. 17th. Fairly good prices were realized.

Miss A. Hope is home for a few days' rest, having spent some weeks with her sister, Mrs. Allan Wilson, who has been very sick, but who we are glad to report, is making progress for the better.

Mrs. Bert Green, who has been visiting her parents in Lang, left last week for Swift Current, where she intends to reside. Mrs. Green was accompanied by her sister, Miss Margaret Weir, who will spend the winter in the West.

Monday's severe rain and hail storm did a great deal of damage to fruit trees and forest trees in this vicinity, breaking a great many trees. In some places the highways were impassable owing to trees having fallen across the roads.

RE-MARRY

Believe First Love the Only One After Two Years' Separation.

Denver, Nov. 25.—Asked how it happened that he had remarried his divorced wife, William E. Huson of No. 2128 California street, said:

"You can't get around it—the first love is the only lasting one." They had been separated two years.

When found Huson was in his shirt sleeves, washing dishes, and his wife cried, 'See, I have him busy already.'

Huson looked at her sheepishly and began whirling the dishcloth meditatively. "Well, I find that I can't get along without you."

Just like two real Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Huson fondle and caress each other, and they say that they are going to follow the advice of Judge Gavin, who married them, to the effect that whenever either one of them starts to quarrel the other should walk away.

Mr. and Mrs. Huson lived together the first time for eleven years before they came under the impression that they could no longer live together. That was two years ago.

Mrs. Huston was busily engaged in unpacking her trunks that have been stored away ever since the divorce. At various times she would come across thing what would remind her of her former marriage days. In spite of there being a third party present, both of them commented upon it, and Huson finally said, "Gee, I am glad we did it over again."Mrs. Huson just smiled and hit her husband a playful whack on the cheek. cheek.

INDIAN RIVER NOTES.

Indian River, Nov. 24.—The patrons of the Indian River cheese factory intend holding their annual fall meeting on Monday, the 29th inst. The meeting is to be held in the school house, No. 1, Douro, near the factory.

Mr. J. P. Andress has nearly completed his new ban house on the factory lot. Mr. John Devlin is doing the carpenter work.

Mr. David Kidd is also building a large hen house on his lot, by the station. Mr. Kidd intends to keep from 500 to 1,000 hens in his building.

Messrs. Spheres and English, of Keene, spent last week here fox hunting. They took six pelts of the cunning animals with them, after a pleasant week's sport.

Miss Shannon, teacher in No. 1, Douro, has been engaged for a second term, to the entire satisfaction of the ratepayers.

Miss Shannon has kept the school grounds in a neat condition, and deserves praise.

Miss Edna Paterson has gone to Rochester, practising on the nursing staff in the General Hospital.

Miss Paterson will be keenly missed here, especially in social circles, in which she has been most popular.

Miss Paterson spent last week with friends in Peterborough.

Messrs. Kidd and Hall are doing a rushing business with their elevator. Peas are 90 firm, and oats 35½; pork is $7.50 here live weight.

An American's Estimate Of Wealth Of Canada's West

Says British Columbia and West Will Become the World's Granary---Canada's Position as a Food Supplying Country---An Outsider's Opinion--Interesting Address

The following article from the New York World is an American's view the future of Canada's West and particularly British Columbia:

In discussing the food needs of the fast increasing population the world over, P. A. O'Farrell said: "When Lincoln was elected there were 31,000,000 people in the United States. Next year's census will tell of 93,000,000 inhabitants. As James J. Hill forcifully said, the day is fast approaching when the farmer will be king, and when there is land hunger will set the price on necessities of life.

"France alone among nations," he continued, has put agriculture in the forefront of all industry, and France is supreme and alone among nations in her economic and financial strength. You cannot buy an acre of good agricultural land to-day in France for $1,000.

"The day of cheap farm lands is vanishing. The time has come when the energy of the human race must be directed to the reclamation and cultivation of all the idle lands of the world, and when the statesman and the publicist should trumpet to the word the advantages, the necessity and the overwhelming importance of more and better farmers.

WHERE LAST STAND WILL BE MADE

"And this leads to say that Western Canada and British Columbia are the last great and valuable divisions of the world left for the white man to transform from wilderness to smiling and fruit countries.

"Western Canada has 200,000,000 acres of the richest wheat and pasture lands waiting for settlement. British Columbia has 50,000,000 acres of rich land waiting to be transformed into orchard, meadow, garden and grain field. These 250,000,000 acres of virgin land can be made to produce food to support 200,00,000 people. And within twenty years this great undeveloped area will all have to come into cultivation to meet the rapidly expanding demands of the world.

"The pioneer farmer of the United States had for decades to sell his wheat for 50 or 60 cents a bushel and to sell his beef and hogs for half the prices now received by the Canadian pioneer. The Canadian of to-day gets bonanza prices for his farm products, and hundreds of thousands of Americans are selling their land in the Ohio and in the Missouri Valley and migrating to these rich Canadian lands that yield such golden harvests. The farmer knows that prices for all farm products are as certain to keep on rising as that the sun will rise to-morrow and the next day. He knows that the teeming population of the cities, and the toilers in the mines, mills, factories, navies and armies of the world have grown far more rapidly than the farms needed to feed and clothe them.

ARTIFICIAL FOOD WON'T DO

"I don't believe that scientists can short-circuit nature and make bread and meat from a chemical combination of limestone and the nitrogen of the air or from other such contrivance. Out of the soil must forever come the food and raiment and fuel for mankind's wants. When the coal measures are exhausted the soil must produce the materials for the manufacture of alcohol. Light and power can be generated from the waterfall and tides and the sun's rays, but alcohol made of wood or of vegetable matter will be in universal use.

"And let me tell The World that the most glorious country of the future is British Columbia. It covers an area greater than the British Isles, Belgium, Holland, Denmark and the German Empire combined. Its climate is superior to that of England or France, and indeed to that of any country on this earth of ours. Its fisheries are the most abundant of any nation on this or on any other continent. It has 182,000,000 acres of standing timber of priceless value. The energy of 25,000,000 horses runs waste in its mighty rivers. Its internal water highways can be formed into the most wonderful system of waterways and power developers.

NOTHING LIKE IT ANYWHERE

"There is nothing in Italy comparable to the fertility of the Okanagan Valley, nor to the enchanting beauty of its lake. There is nothing in Switzerland, in the Tyrol, or in Bohemia that will parallel the loveliness of the Arrow Lakes or of the Kootenay and even Killarney pales before the wondrous beauty of Fraser Lake.

"It may be a surprise to New Yorkers to hear that some day Vancouver will be its greatest rival for supremacy of any city on this continent, and yet such is the case. Vancouver is the natural gateway of the commerce not of Western Canada alone but of all the great commerce that must arise between the Orient and the Missouri Valley and the Great Lakes. The great natural highways of commerce between St. Paul, Duluth and Chicago and the Pacific Ocean lead through the Pine River Pass and Yellowhead Pass to Vancouver. Traffic can be handled over these highways at 60 per cent. of the cost to the railroads operating over the American Rockies, and it is just as well that American railroad magnates recognize the fact.

"Moreover, let me add that while Vancouver is more advantageously situated for industrial and ocean commerce than any other city of the continent, the beauty of its situation far and away excels that of Naples, Venice or New York. It is a summer health resort and its winters are milder than those of Atlanta. It has but a population of 100,000; in sixty years it will outstride Paris and Berlin.

"It is another interesting and curious fact that British Columbia has the lowest taxes, the wisest executive, and the most progressive Parliament of any in the world. Ninety-seven per cent. of the revenue of the country is supplied from royalties. Expanding revenues and increasing surpluses is the story told year after year to the Parliament by its Finance Minister. The Government is suffering from an embarrassment of riches. And all this perhaps because its able Finance Minister happens to be an Irishman and the Prime Minister, who has guided with consummate ability the destinies of British Columbia and who is now shaping his fortune, bears the good old Irish name of Richard McBride.

"British Columbia is a long way from Broadway, but Irish genius is shaping it for a glorious morrow."

THE VALUE OF TURPENTINE

When all else fails the physician recommends his wealthy patient to take a trip to the turpentine groves as a cure for throat and lung troubles. The turpentine of commerce cannot vary until it is used but by adding linseed Dr. Chase succeeded in getting up the most effective treatment for throat and lung troubles that was ever discovered. It is known as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

LABOUR CONDITIONS IN CITY FOR THE MONTH OF OCTOBER

Mr. J. A. Sharpe Makes His Monthly Report to the Labour Gazette—Month Was Active.

MANY LINES BUSY

Mr. J. Arthur Sharp, correspondent for Peterborough and district to the Labour Gazette reported as follows for October:

General Condition of the Labour Market.

Labour conditions generally were very favourable during October, the result being that there were very few idle men in the city or district. The demand for men in all branches was about equal to the supply. All the factories were working overtime. Building operations were fairly active, but fell off somewhat during September according to a comparison with the amounts of the building permits for that month in 1908. Last year, September saw permits issued to the total of $57,230 whereas during the past month the amount was $46,485, of which $22,000 was made up by the Knox Church building. The Colonial Weaving Company had just completed a new factory and is installing about $20,000 worth of new machinery which will result in doubling the output of the plant. The Central Mill started work again this month after being shut down for the last three months. It now has a capacity of 400 barrels of flour a day and will run night and day. The assessment returns show the population of the city to be 16,907, an increase of 416 over last year.

Condition of Local Industries.

Agriculture.—Farmers were busy with the marketing of produce, threshing and fall ploughing.

Lumbering.—Lumbering has been very active and the season just opening promises to be even more active all the firms advertising for men to go to the camps.

Condition of Particular Trades.

The building trades have had a good month.

Iron moulders and core makers have had a fair month. Machinists and brass workers were very busy. Blacksmiths have also been busy. Boiler makers were not doing much.

Wood workers and pattern makers were active. Coopers were busy.

Printers were busy, also pressmen and bookbinders.

Tailors and garment makers reported business good.

Bakers and confectioners and butchers had plenty of work.

Leather workers had steady employment.

Railway and street railway employees steamboatmen, etc., had a busy month, and teamsters and express men had an active month.

Unskilled labour was in active demand at good wages.

WARSAW WOMEN'S INSTITUTE HELD BRIGHT MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Warsaw Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. David Miller on Wednesday afternoon of last week, president in the chair. Meeting opened by singing two verses of "Nearer My God to Thee," and the Lord's prayer.

Owing to absence, on account of illness in her brother's family, Mrs. Geo. Clements was absent, and Mrs. Robert Matthews was appointed secretary- pro tem.

Mrs. E. Hamblin read a carefully prepared paper on "Christmas Gifts." She emphasized the great fact of the true spirit of giving joy to the givers and to the receiver, that the gifts given should be within the means of the one who gives and suitable to the one who should receive. She also reminded us that Christmas giving often could mean an invitation to our home for a Christmas meal, for some one who was alone, Sharing our own Christmas cheer with one who was practically homeless, would often be more appreciated than any other gift. Then suitable gifts for different persons were named.

Miss Dora Payne read an excellent paper on "Christmas Cakes and Puddings," giving recipes for them, which many of the ladies present seemed glad to get. Many little points were given for proper mixing and cooking.

Mrs. Marvin and Mrs. Currie are to be our delegates to the Guelph Institute meeting.

The next meeting will be the winter series. In the afternoon the meeting for women will be in the hall over Mr. Choate's store on Wednesday, Dec. 8th, at 2.30 o'clock. Miss Campbell, of Brampton, will speak on "The judicious home keeper and home maker" and "A young lady's accomplishments." In the evening a mass meeting will be held in the town hall when along with others Miss Campbell will again speak, her subject being "The Ideal Home, and Great Men."

Miss Campbell is a new delegate to Warsaw and comes very highly recommended. After singing one verse of "The Maple Leaf," refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Maggie Miller, and a short time spent in social intercourse.

RADIANT HAIR

New York Society Women's Hair Matched Only by Parisians.

While much attention is given to choicest gowns by New York society women, the turbulent fad just now is the care of the hair.

For many years the clever women of Paris have been famed for the magnificent beauty of their hair.

"Glorious hair," a Virginian calls it; "so radiant and luxuriant that it not only attracts but fascinates and compels unstinted admiration."

But now that the elite of New York, ever anxious to improve their beauty, have learned that Parisian Sage, a remarkable and almost marvellous hair nourisher and beautifier, is almost entirely responsible for the charming hair of the ladies of France the demand for it has become enormous.

Parisian Sage is now sold all over Canada and in Peterborough by Mr. Madill, who is glad to guarantee it to eradicate dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back. Large bottle, 50c.

AT MIDNIGHT

A South End resident met a reporter this morning and by the gleam in his eye the scribe knew there was something coming. "I saw something last night," he began, "that I think you might fix up. It happened down on Park Street, and I certainly would have laughed a plenty only I was all alone, and it occurred to me that a stray citizen might think me daffy, if he saw me laughing, apparently at nothing. Well, as I say I was coming down Park street, and somewhere about Chamberlain, or one of those streets, 'two women and that man' turned off into Park St. They were young people and had, I suppose, been spending the evening at a friend's home. They were coming from the south west end of the city, and were about to cut across to the C. P. R. tracks, when one of the young ladies chanced to glance up Park street: 'Oh, there's the car, George.' I think that was what she called him, 'Whistle before they start!' The young Lothario rent the still cold atmosphere with a very creditable blast, and the car did not start. All three began to run, laughing and enjoying the sprint. Georgie, however, thought the conductor might not have heard his call and told the young ladies he would run on ahead to make sure. He immediately began a Bobby Kerr stunt, and after doing the intervening two hundred yards in classy time, he reached the car well ahead of his friends, who took their ease when they saw Georgie in full possession. I was more than a block away, and I don't know just what happened, but in a minute or two I heard long peals of laughter, for the car had been standing there more than an hour and was there, this morning, when day broke. Something had gone wrong with the car and it was stranded. The young people, I think, enjoyed the joke on themselves, and when Georgie got his wind again after the dash they started east and had only gone a half a block when the clock struck midnight."

IMMENSE PEAT BOGS LOCATED

Middle Canadian Provinces Need no Longer be Dependent Upon United States.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 25.—The immense potential value, both for industrial and domestic purposes, of the 87,000 square miles of peat bogs that have already been located in the middle provinces of Canada, is pointed out in a report prepared by Dr. Eugene Haanel of this city, Director of Mines, covering the work of the new government peat bog and fuel testing plant recently established at Ottawa.

While both eastern and western Canada have immense coal areas, the middle provinces of the Dominion are practically dependent on the United States for all fuel for domestic and industrial purposes. The value of the anthracite coal alone now imported annually from the United States is more than $10,000,000. But while coal is absent from the middle provinces, there is peat in abundance, more than 37,000 square miles of peat bogs having already been located by the government surveyors.

One square mile of bog, with an average depth of six feet, will, after drainage, yield 774,000 tons of the air-dried peat, equal in full value to 420,244 tons of ordinary bituminous coal. The utilization of this coal asset is manifestly of supreme importance to this portion of the Dominion. In the attempt so far made to establish a peat fuel industry experience seems to have been utterly disregarded. Canadian exploiters have adopted systems and tenaciously clung to obsolete processes which from the first were doomed to failure, since they were designed and constructed on wrong principles.

The Canadian Government has established a modern fuel-testing plant at Ottawa for experimental purposes. The chief object of this plant will be to practically demonstrate the feasibility of utilising peat in the gas producer and gas engine for the penetration of power. The estimated cost of one ton of air-dried peat at the bog wiill be $1.75, which means that it will be possible to supply peat fuel, having an equivalent of one ton of coal, at a considerably lower cost than coal. Power plants will be erected on the bogs to convert the potential energies stored in the peat into electrical energy for distribution to neighbouring towns, as is done in Germany. In this way a peat bog will become a source of energy as in the case of a water power.

IT IS A PARASITE.

That Causes Itching Scalp, Dandruff, and Finally, Falling Hair.

The itching scalp, the falling hair and the dandruff that annoys are the work of a parasite hidden in the scalp. That parasite must be killed to cure dandruff; and the only preparation that will do that is Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect."

C. H. Reed, of Victor, Idaho, says: "Myself and wife had dandruff and falling hair several years. Two bottles of Newbro's Herpicide completely cured us, after several other preparations had failed to do good." Makes hair grow glossy and soft as silk. Hundreds of other testimonials just as strong. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by Jury & McDermid, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One Dollar bottles guaranteed.

DECLINING VITALITY IN THE CITIES

The great city of to-day exhibits a constantly diminishing vitality. Nor is this caused by diminished frequency of marriage. In London there has been a fall in marriage rate during the same period, but it has not been progressive or nearly so large as the fall in the number of births per 100 and Berlin the diminishing births have been accompanied by a distinct and considerable, though fluctuating, rise in the marriage rate. The curves for London and Berlin show a steady fall in the number of births per 100 married women during the last thirty years. A similar curve is not given for Paris, because statistics are not available, but in France, as a whole, the mean decennial birth rate per 1,000 married women aged fifteen to forty-nine has fallen from 174 to 140 during the same period; and it is certain that in Paris the movement has been greater than in the whole country.

All three, then, show a steadily increasing sterility. It is not confined to the great cities or even to towns, but it is most marked and most general in urban life, of which the great city is the exemplar and epitome. All the paraphernalia of modern corporate life, all the services, conveniences and institutions here set forth issue in this. The three capitals, however, present noticeable difference in detail, from which something can be learned. In Paris vitality has sunk to a much lower ebb than in the other two; it just flickers, and only succeeds in doing that through the enormous number of immigrants—71 per cent of the active population—from other parts of the country, including the more fertile stocks. But for that the deaths would largely outnumber the births and the population be rapidly dwindling.—London Times.

VILLAGE BAND SHOULD NOT BE ALLOWED TO PASS AWAY

Toronto Star Advocates Financial Assistance From the Government to the Organizations.

A POPULAR MOVE

The Toronto Star has a very interesting editorial on the Ups and Downs of the Village Band. There is a great deal of truth and common sense in what the Star has to say concerning the value of the service to a community, rendered by the Village Band, and it is doubtful if the citizens of a village, who possess a good band fully appreciate the value of such an organization.

The Star says:

A new leader has been secured for the brass band—some hitch between the members of the organization and the town committee. The Flesherton band is on the lookout for a new leader.

The village or town band is an organisation difficult to keep up, and we do not believe the local bandsman gets half enough credit for the service he renders the community. Nothing enlivens a town like a brass band, and when it meets on the main square at dusk and sends stirring music all over the village the cares of the day vanish. The leading citizens gather around and express regret that the present leader cannot play the cornet the way another man used to, while others, who know good music when they hear it, exchange winks when any player makes a trifling break. Small boys with lemons crowd around to see whether it is true that a man cannot "play his horn" if somebody stands in front of him sucking a lemon. A town, in fact, without a brass band isn't half a town. Without a band to criticise, to publicly make game of and secretly admire, villagers do not know what to do with themselves. So true is all this that it would not be a bad idea for the Provincial Government to make a small annual grant to every brass band in Ontario.

There is not in any community a man from whom so much is expected for nothing as from the village bandsman. He is supposed to turn out and make music on all sorts of occasions, giving up his evenings to practices, his holidays to performances, and being rewarded with votes of thanks and an occasional plate of sandwiches. Too often he works for nothing and boards himself. Only the man who leads a church choir can rank with him in unselfishness.

There was a time, not long ago either, when every village and hamlet in the Midland district boasted of its brass band. Norwood, Hastings, Millbrook, Omemee, Lakefield, and Bethany, in the township of Manvers, all had really good village bands, and the band tournament was an important event in some of the towns of this district. Even the pretty little hamlet of Bailieboro, some fifteen years ago, had a splendid brass band that was the delight of the people of South Monaghan. Coboconk and other villages were not behind in this respect. Of course, some of the villages above referred to, still possess a band, but generally speaking, the band falls into a sickly condition every few years, dies out for a season or two, and is perhaps resurrected for the 12th of July, or some other occasion of a like nature.

What is wanted is the village brass band of old, that enlivened the church garden party, the Sunday School Excursion, the Patrons of Industry picnic, the village school picnic, the cheese factory entertainment, and the County Fall Fair; that serenaded the Village Councillors and School Trustees every January, and that played on the village green one evening a week during the summer months. But, as the Toronto Star says, there is not enough encouragement given to the average village band, and the suggestion thrown out by that paper that a Government grant in the form of a small salary to the leader of the village band, is one that is worthy of the consideration of the members of the local House, who have the interests of their rural and village constituents at heart.

WEDDING BELLS

TELFORD—LEAN.

Bridgenorth, Nov. 24.—(Examiner Special)—A very pretty wedding was celebrated yesterday at high noon, at the residence of her uncle, Mr. Wm. Udy, of this village, when Miss Elizabeth Bryant Lean was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Clayton John Telford, son of Mr. John Telford, of Bridgenorth. The ceremony, which was performed in the drawing room by Rev. Mr. Cruikshanks, was witnessed by the immediate relatives of the bride and groom, and about thirty invited guests. The house was appropriately decorated in festive array, befitting the occasion. The bride was given away by her uncle and as she entered the drawing room Mendelssohn's wedding march wa played by Miss Pauline Udy. The bride wore a beautiful dress of pale blue princess silk, with lace trimmings, and the conventional veil and orange blossoms. She also carried a bouquet of cream roses. She was attended by the groom's sister, Miss Allie Telford, whose dress was of pale pink princess silk, with silk applique trimmings, and Miss Edna Fitzgerald of Peterborough, in cream silk, with cream satin and lace trimmings. Both the bridesmaids carried pink carnations. The groom was assisted by Mr. G. Walter Fitzgerald, Jr., of Peterborough. After the ceremony a sumptuous dinner was served in the dining room, and after receiving the congratulations and best wishes of their friends. The bride's travelling costume was of Wisteria cloth with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Telford drove to Peterborough, and left on the 5.30 p.m. G. T. R. train for a western trip. On their return they will reside at "Fairview" Farm, Bridgenorth. The groom presented the bridesmaids and best man with handsome favours, and his present to the bride was a fur-lined coat with Persian lamb trimmings. Mr. and Mrs. Telford are well known in this vicinity, and also in Peterborough and have the best wishes of an extensive circle of friends for a happy and prosperous future.

HOULIHAN—TOBIN.

St. Mary's Church was the scene of a very pretty matrimonial event on Tuesday morning, when Miss Mary Tobin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Tobin, St. Paul's street, was united in marriage to Mr. Dennis Houlihan, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Houlihan, Russell street.

Venerable Archdeacon Casey celebrated the nuptial mass, which was attended by the intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride, who was becomingly attired in blue with hat to match, was assisted by Miss Kate Houlihan, sister of the groom, who was similarly attired. The groomsman was Mr. H. Tobin, brother of the bride.

The happy young couple left on the 7.10 G. T. R. train for Peterborough where the wedding breakfast was partaken off at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. N. Tobin. On their return they will reside on St. Paul street.

The bride who is well and favourably known, was the recipient of a number of beautiful presents. Their many friends will wish them many years of wedded life.—Lindsay Post.

BAD KIDNEYS CAUSE OF BLADDER MISERY

Backache and All Distress From Your Out-of-Order Kidneys Will Vanish.

No man or woman here whose kidneys are out of order, or who suffers from backache or bladder misery, can afford to leave Pape's Diuretic untried.

After taking several doses, all pains in the back, sides or loins, rheumatic twinges, nervousness, headache, sleeplessness, inflamed or swollen eyelids, dizziness, tired or worn-out feeling, and other symptoms of clogged, sluggish kidneys simply vanish.

Uncontrollable urination (especially at night), smarting, discoloured water and all bladder misery ends.

The moment you suspect the slightest kidney or bladder disorder, or feel rheumatism pains, don't continue to be miserable or worried, but get a fifty-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic from your druggist and start taking as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which is so harmless or will effect so thorough and prompt a cure.

This unusual preparation goes direct to the cause of the trouble, distributing its cleansing, healing and vitalizing influence directly upon the organs and glands affected and completes the cure before you realize it.

A few days' treatment of Pape's Diuretic means clean, healthy, active kidneys, bladder and urinary organs —and you feel fine.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape, of Cincinnati, is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Accept only Pape's Diuretic—fifty-cent treatment—from any drug store anywhere in the world.

WARSAW FARMERS' INSTITUTE MEETINGS ARE ARRANGED

Dates and Speakers Have Been Decided Upon—Storm on Monday Tied up the Telephone Services.

COMMUNICATION CUT OFF

Special to The Examiner.

Warsaw, Nov. 24.—The regular public meetings of the Warsaw branch of the East Peterborough Farmers' Institute will be held in the town hall on Wednesday, Dec. 8th. At the afternoon gathering, which commences at 1.30, the following addresses will be given: "The Dairy Cow for Profit", Mr. W. C. Shearer, Bright, Ont.; "Under Draining," Mr. H. C. Duff, B.S.A., Norwood.

The Women's Institute will hold their regular meeting the same afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wm. Middleton. Miss S. Campbell, Brampton, the Government delegate, will address the meeting on the subject, home-maker." All ladies, members or non-members, cordially invited. Refreshments will be served. In the evening a joint meeting, commencing at 7.30, will be held in the hall. Mr. Shearer will speak on "Successful Agriculture"; Mr. Duff, on "Advantages of Agricultural Training," and Miss Campbell, on "The Ideal Home and Great Men." The members of the Women's Institute will furnish musical and literary entertainment at the evening meeting. Mr. E. Hawthorne, Vice-President, will occupy the chair at these meetings.

With the ice-storm of Monday came the downfall of the local and long-distance telephone service. It was early in the day that the pines, heavily laden with ice and falling branches of trees gave warning at "Central" that all was not well, and only a short interval had elapsed when communication was entirely cut off by the parting of the wires. It will no doubt be several days before the repair men can come this way to remedy the damage.

Rev. P. W. Currie occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church at Tweed in the absence of Rev. Mr. Binney on Sunday last.

Misses E. M. Swann and M. E. Nesbitt spent Saturday in Peterborough.

Miss Jessie Waddell, Young's Point, visited friends here on Saturday.

Miss Ethel Sanderson, Lakefield, spent a few days last week the guest of her cousin, Mrs. J. H. Selkirk.

Miss Marjorie Choate spent Saturday and Sunday with Miss Carrie White Peterborough.

Mrs. Nicholls, Peterborough is visiting Mrs. W. H. Clements.

Mrs. T. Henderson Lakefield is the guest of her son, Mr. Reg. Henderson.

IS IT THE WOMAN'S FAULT?

By Ruth Cameron.

When women complain of being annoyed on the street by having strange men thrust their attentions upon them, I think that nine times out of ten it is partly—at least—the woman's own fault.

One hears women talk so much about men that thrust their unwelcome attention upon lone, unprotected women that one would fancy such creatures were quite common.

But are they? Is it the ordinary thing for a woman to be accosted and followed on the street?

From my own experience—which by the way, includes a year of work on a morning paper, work which kept me out until 12 and 1 o'clock and sometimes later—and from the experience of a good many other women with whom I have talked, I should certainly say that it was not.

Of course almost every woman has had the unpleasant experience of having some intoxicated man or rowdy salute her, but if she passed by paying no attention or looked at him very disdainfully she probably had no further trouble.

And then of course maniacs, Jack the huggers, and creatures of that sort occasionally crop up in a community, but they are monstrosities and the ordinary run of men should not be judged by them.

But aside from such cases and under ordinary conditions I don't think that any woman who goes along the street intent on her own affairs, looking at no one and doing nothing to atract attention will have any trouble with "mashers" night or day.

When any woman tells me about having attentions thrust upon her on the street I always wonder what kind of a woman she is and think of what a man once said to me on this subject.

I was in a strange city. I was trying to find my way to the depot. There was no policeman in sight and being pressed for time I asked a passerby to direct me.

He not only directed me, but as he was going in that direction himself he carried my grip for me and saw me safely aboard the train.

When I thanked him, he said, "I'd like to do that sort of thing oftener, but you're so apt to be misunderstood if you do. Why, lots of women, if a man does anything for them, think he is trying to flirt with them and either get terribly offended or else flirt back and put him in an entirely false position."

Doubtless, many times when women come home and tell of being annoyed by persistent attentions the man's story would be very much like this man's.

On the whole it seems to me that the class of women who are continually telling you how they were annoyed by obstreperous males are pretty well hit off in a sentence from a clever little modern play:

"It seems to me," said the pretty stenographer, who, though her business sometimes kept her out late at night, never had had any of the queer adventures of which she had heard other women talk, "it seems to me that the women who are always complaining of the way men tried to speak to them on the street are the women who would be mightily disappointed if they didn't."

"BILLY," FUNNIEST FARCE OF SEASON

Story of the Shubert Comedy Which Appears at the Grand Next Wednesday.

When the steamship "Florida" anchors at the Grand Opera House next Wednesday, with a full complement of passengers it will have aboard some twenty odd characters, who are a part and parcel of the three act farce, "Billy," which furnished the major portion of New York's amusement during the past summer. The Shuberts are sending the play here for the first time with the original cast, including Edgar Atchison-Ely.

Reference is made to the "Florida" in view of the fact that all of the scenes take place aboard the ship. Billy Hargraves, a football hero of Transylvania, has lost four front teeth in the last game, and after an enforced idleness of a few months, during which he is in retirement at his home, he takes passage on the "Florida" for Havana. He is accompanied by his sister, Alice, who is present to relieve her brother of the necessity of "putting his foot in his mouth." Strangely enough he meets on the "Florida" Mrs. Sloane, her daughter, Beatrice and Sam Eustace. Now, it happens that Billy" is in love with Beatrice, while the same condition of affairs equally applies to Eustace. Like all heroes, however, the odds are in favour of Billy. Just as he is in the act of proposing, under the influence of the shimmering moon, a steward bumps through a door, knocking Hargraves to the floor. The contact knocks the false set of teeth from his mouth. The "tombstones" are irretrievably lost, and "Billy", now unable to utter any but grumbling sounds, cannot explain the cause of his sudden affliction, fearing, of course, that if his sweetheart knows he wears false teeth she will not marry him. Eustace takes advantage of Billy's plight by circulating the rumour that he has been with him on the street in company with a strange girl at a time when the hero's parents declared that he was at home recovering from the injury. The reference to "four of them' 'and his walk with the "strange girl," easily induces Mrs. Sloane to believe that "Billy" is married and has "four of them." The ship's surgeon calls it a case of plain drunkenness. The hero, however, bides his time. The first night out the audience sees him with an electric searchlight in hand, crawling along the deck, looking for his missing tombstones." Abandoning his search, "Billy" knocks at the door of the cabin he believes to be occupied by his sister, and through mistake, raises the latticed window. Joy comes to his heart when he sees within the stateroom a glass containing a set of false teeth. Without knowing why he does it, he steals the set. Next morning it develops that a burglar has robbed Mrs. Sloane of most valuable property and her absence from the breakfast table and the additional fact that she orders mush to be sent to her room convince Billy that he has robbed an innocent party. Two seamen find Billy's teeth and turn them over to the purser. This officer decides to auction them off for the benefit of the Seamen's Home. Eustace is appealed to by Beatrice to recover her mother's false teeth; therefore, when the auction takes place, Eustace, under the impression that he is bidding in his prospective mother-in-law's incisors, offers a large amount, which is "coppered" by Billy's sister, who bids a thousand dollars. The hero, once in possession of his own teeth, slips them into his mouth, returns to Mrs. Sloane her own set, and sweetly sounds the name of "Beatrice."

The cast includes Edgar Atchison Ely, Mrs. Stuart Robson, Jane Marbury, Marion Chapman, Franklin Jones, George Le Soir, Stuart Robson, Jr., and others.

May Ward and 50 others with "The Cash Girl" at The Grand, next Saturday. Matinee and Evening. Plan now open. 123

Chocolate or Candy?

But! you say Chocolate is candy too—perhaps it is as far as creams and nougats are concerned—but when one talks "Tobler's" the distinction is clear. "Tobler's" Swiss Milk Chocolate is nourishment—easily digested—wards off fatigue—is invigorating, and does not affect the teeth. Sold in 5, 10, 20, 40c. packages, and at 50c. per lb.

Herbert Henry Asquith, prime minister of England, was born in Yorkshire in 1852 and was a prize scholar at Oxford university.

Alfred H. Booth of Worcester, Mass., has been organist at St. Matthew's church for thirty years and in that time has missed but one service.

Speaking in Toronto recently, Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, the Labrador physician-missionary, outlined his project of erecting in St. John's, N. F., a home for seamen and fishermen.

Henry Savage Landor, the English explorer, who will soon make an attempt to reach the south pole, is of the opinion that Lieutenant Shackleton failed through having a cumbersome and unnecessarily large expedition.

It is estimated that General Luis Terrazas, the richest man in Mexico, has not less than $200,000,000. His property holdings are located chiefly in the state of Chihuahua, but he also has large investments in other parts of the republic. He is the greatest land and live stock baron in the world, it is said.

Judge Robert Scott Lovett, who succeeds the late E. H. Harriman, was a plowboy before he entered the railroad service. He was born in 1850 near Shephard, Tex., worked on the farm, then in a neighboring store and at last for the Houston East and West as local agent. Once in the railroad business and admitted to the bar his advance was rapid.

The Duke of the Abruzzi is thirty-six years of age, and he has broken all climbing records by his ascent of Bride peak, in the Himalayas, 23,000 feet high and the highest mountain climb ever recorded. He was the first man to ascend Mount Ruwenzori, on the border of Leganda and the Kongo Free State, while his arctic feats are among the most notable of the day.

English Etchings.

Burglary was a capital offense in England till 1829.

Births of English children used to be taxed—a duke £20 and "a common person" 2 shillings.

In one year the number of taxicabs in London has more than doubled, and the horse drawn cab will probably soon be extinct.

No fewer than 208 persons lost their lives in the mines of Lancashire, England, last year as against an average annual mortality of 140 in recent years.

It is not often that a gate is made out of a window, much less out of a prison window, but the gate of St. Cedd's churchyard, Canning Town, East London, was at one time a window in old Newgate prison.

Electric Sparks.

The electric lighting industry is represented in the United States by 5,264 companies and municipal plants.

Electric laundries are being installed on the big ocean liners, where all the washing, drying and ironing are done by electricity.

In a recent test of a new German high speed telegraph apparatus 2,800 distinctly recorded words were transmitted 430 miles in five minutes.

A new application of the electric light bath consists of a half cylinder, studded with incandescent lamps, which may be placed over a person lying in bed, the light being both radiated and reflected to him.

Household Hints.

A bare broom splinters matting badly. If you have no long handled, soft brush make a gray canton flannel covering for top of broom.

All the cooking utensils should be washed with soda immediately after they have been used, which will remove every trace of grease.

When running dates, figs or raisins through the food chopper, add a few drops of lemon juice. It will do much toward preventing the fruit from clogging the chopper.

If you cannot use a scrub brush to get into all parts of the refrigerator when cleaning it, try using a small, stiff paint brush for the purpose. It reaches the corners.

AUSTRALIAN FLOODS.

Some of the Anomalies of the Antipodes.

Australia has the reputation of being a very dry country, says Frank Fox in London Answers. As a matter of fact, the rainfall over one-third of its area is greater than that of England. In most places the rainfall is, however, badly distributed. After long spells of very dry weather will come fierce storms, during which the rain sometimes falls at the rate of an inch an hour. This fact, and the curious physical formation of the continent, make it liable to floods such as those which were reported in August from Victoria.

Great floods of the past have been at Brisbane, the capital of Queensland, destroying a section of the city; at Bourke, N.S.W., and at Gundagai, N.S.W. In the last a town was destroyed, and, in addition, many lives were lost. Another flood on the Hunter River, N.S.W., was marked by the drowning of the Speaker of the local Parliament.

But great loss of human life is rare; the sacrifice of stock is sometimes, however, enormous. Cattle fare better than sheep, for they will make some wise effort to reach a point of safety; whilst sheep will, as like as not, huddle together in a hollow, not having the sense even to seek the little elevations which are called "hills," though only raised a few feet above the general level. I recall well a flood in the Narrabri district of New South Wales some seventeen years ago, and its moving perils. The billocks on which cattle, sheep, and in some cases human beings had taken refuge were crowded, too, with kangaroos, emus, brolgas—a kind of crane—koalas—known as the native bear—rabbits and snakes.

Mutual hostilities were for a time suspended by the common danger, though the snakes and the rabbits were rarely given the advantages of the truce if any human beings happened to be present. An incident of that flood was that the little township of Terry-hie-hie — these aboriginal names are strange!—was almost wiped out by starvation. Beleaguered by the waters, it was cut off from all communication with the railway and with food supplies. When the waters fell, the mud left on these black soil plains was just as formidable a barrier. Attempt after attempt was made to send flour through by horse and bullock teams, but all failed. It was impossible for thirty horses to get through with one ton on hour, and the situation began to look desperate. The siege was only raised when the population of the little town was on the very verge of starvation.

The suburbs of Melbourne itself used to suffer severely from floods, but of late flood relief works on the River Yarra have made inundation of the Victorian capital practically impossible; but on some other river banks not all the art of man has been able to ensure safety against floodings after torrential rains.

The loss of the Laanecoorie weir—reported by cable as one of the incidents of this 1909 flood—is particularly unfortunate, coming at a time when Australia is embarking on a great irrigation policy. Their weir was one of the first of the works entered upon in consequence of Mr. Alfred Deakin's powerful advocacy of irrigation many years ago.

It is being supplemented in Victoria just now by the Goulburn weir, a much greater work, and in New South Wales by the Barren Jack weir, an undertaking which rivals in size the Nile dam.

A discouragement to irrigation work would be, in the opinion of many experts, quite the most serious loss to Australia industrially that could follow from this flood.

A Famous Hymn.

"I heard the voice of Jesus say," the finest and perhaps most loved of all Horatius Bonar's hymns, was written while the author was minister at Kelso. His son tells how that he would take his notebook, and while thinking out the lines of his hymn, he would be busy with his pencil, making little sketches all over the margin of the page. It is evident from the manuscript that Dr. Bonar, like John Wesley, made use of a kind of shorthand, though in his case the signs employed bear a strong likeness to Pitman's system.

The original manuscript of "I heard the voice of Jesus say" is now very much worn and faded. It is written in pencil, and the photographer who copied the original explains that he had to give an exposure of something like three-quarters of an hour in order to get even a fairly good result.

Dr Bonar's notebook, which is now one of the most precious relics he has left behind, contains, it is believed, many other hymns, including "I was a wandering sheep," written two or three years previous to "I heard the voice of Jesus say," and that very beautiful resignation hymn, "Thy way, not mine, O Lord," written in 1856.

A Hero.

Tommy's mother had made him a present of a toy shovel and sent him out in the sand box to play with his baby brother. "Take care of baby now, Tommy, and don't let anything hurt him," was mamma's parting injunction. Presently screams of anguish from baby sent the distracted parent flying to the sand box. "For goodness' sake, Tommy, what has happened to the baby?" said she, trying to soothe the wailing infant.

"There was a naughty fly sitting him on top of his head, and I killed it with the shovel," was the proud reply.—Lippincott's.

The Latin Quarter.

The famous "Latin quarter" of Paris in whose narrow streets and dingy tenements have thronged generations of penniless students and artists, is to be wrecked and rebuilt. Most of the property involved is already owned by the city, and $100,000,000 is to be spent in tearing down the old houses, laying out broad new streets and putting up fine modern buildings. Ten years will be spent upon the work.

The Training of Novelists.

Fielding was a playwright before he became a novelist. He was also a country squire, a barrister and a police magistrate. Richardson, the son of a carpenter, rose to be the head of a prosperous business before ever he became a novelist. Defoe had many employments besides that of writing. Smollet was a surgeon both on land and sea. Sterne was a parson, if not a good one, and Scott was a sound lawyer who never neglected the duties of his legal offices. All of these novelists are masters of the art of address. They all wrote out of a full knowledge and made themselves plain to plain men. Their works survive, partly, of course, because they were born writers, but partly also because they knew much of life and could tell what they knew so that every one should understand it.

A Slight Mistake.

PROPHESIED A YEAR BEFORE.

Cook's Polar Trip Forecast by a News Agency Correspondent.

At a time when every bit of news concerning the polar controversy is of interest, a portion of a letter, dated Oct. 3, 1908, a year ago, written for a news agency by its correspondent at St. John's, Nfld., has been reprinted by The London Times. The writer at St. John's devoted about a column of newspaper space to discussing the fate of Dr. Cook in the Arctic. It was well known in Newfoundland, it appears, that Cook had started for the pole from Annetook early in 1908, for the correspondent said, with one or two inaccuracies of detail: "Cook made his headquarters at Annotook, 20 miles north of Peary's station at Etah, and remained there until March 3 last, when he started on his cruise for the pole, with two Eskimos and eight dog teams laden with supplies." The correspondent continues on Cook's trail with considerable accuracy, judging it by the explorer's later story, saying: "He crossed the North water, a channel between Greenland and Ellesmere land, on the ice floe . . . . . and he traversed Ellesmere land in a northwesterly direction to Cape Hubbard." In discussing Dr. Cook's fate, the correspondent is again remarkable in having foreseen last October, as a "possibility," the course of travel by which the explorer now claims to have returned to his base at Annetook. To quote:

"Nothing has been heard of Dr. Cook in the meantime, and much concern is exhibited regarding him. The Erik's people are doubtful of his being alive, as the Arctic voyager who ventures on the ice floe takes great risks, as Peary's case has shown. Of course, there are two or three possibilities, tending to indicate Cook's safety. In the first place, he may have made his dash across the pole and returned to Ellesmere safely, and yet be unable to cross North water on account of the ice being broken up. He had nothing but a canvas boat in which it would be suicidal to attempt to cross a channel 20 miles wide. He would thus be compelled to remain in Ellesmere land, if he got there, until the channel froze over again this autumn, and as there is plenty of game in that country, he could support himself and his men while their ammunition held out."

This is just what happened, according to the story Dr. Cook published almost a year later, except that his ammunition did give out, and his route was somewhat more roundabout, and he was several months longer in reaching the base than the correspondent allowed to him. The curious phase of the case is that this letter to the news agency seems to have attracted no attention in England, assuming that it was published there at all widely a year ago this autumn, and that when Dr. Cook announced himself as having arrived, no one in England seemed ever to have heard that he had been in the Arctic regions.

An Unique Trial.

They have peculiar methods of trying suspects in Bengal. One of these is called Trial by Rice, says a writer in The Wide World Magazine. After a priest had been consulted as to an auspicious day, every person suspected and those who were usually near the place at night, were ordered to be present at 10 o'clock in the morning. On that date all turned up. First the people were made to sit in a semicircle, and a "plate" (a square plantain leaf) was set before each. Then a priest walked up and down chanting and scattering flowers. These said flowers, by the way, must be picked by a Brahmin, and they must be those which are facing the sun. This ceremony over, one of the clerks went to each man and gave him about two ounces of dry raw rice and told him to chew it to a pulp.

Then commenced what looked like a chewing match. After about 10 minutes had elapsed they were told to stop and eject it into the plantain leaf. All did so easily with the exception of three men. In the cases of these three the chewed rice had in two cases become slightly moistened, but not sufficiently so to allow of its being easily ejected, and they had much ado to get rid of it. The third man had chewed his into flour, and it came out as such, perfectly dry. One of these three men promptly commenced to cry and begged for mercy, confessing everything, and stating that man No. 3, who had acted as a kind of flour mill, was the chief instigator. It is a curious fact that fear, arising from an evil conscience, prevents saliva coming to the mouth, with the result described.

Adrift in a Small Boat.

When the steamer Wearbeck was in the Indian Ocean, homeward bound to England from Karachi recently, three men were discovered in a small boat drifting helplessly. The Wearbeck was steered towards the castaways, when it was seen that the men were without oars, and succour had just arrived in time. The shipwrecked people reported that they were the crew of the dhow Hadjo descein on a voyage from Wandle. This vessel had encountered rough weather and foundered. After a trying experience the men managed to escape. They had been without food or water for three days, and were just abandoning hope when the Wearbeck hove in sight.

Knew How to Rough It.

Two interesting facts regarding Lord Kitchener, who has just celebrated his fifty-seventh birthday, are, that in his youth he was a very good bat-boiler, while his chief hobby is applied mechanics. He is one of the most unpretentious of men, and added, in no small degree, to his popularity "down under" when, as governor of South Australia twenty years ago, he performed the feat of crossing the Australian continent, clad in Tough bushman's clothes, boiling his own "billy" of tea by the damp fire and smoking a stubby briar pipe.

Because.

She—I tell you the moral superiority of woman is recognized in the language itself. There isn't any feminine for "rascals," is there?

He—Of course not, but that's because—

She—That's because there are no feminine rascals.

JEFFRIES HAS ALWAYS SHOWN HIMSELF A FINE RING GENERAL

Fight Followers are Wondering What Style Big Fellow Will use Against Johnson.

MAY BE OVER SOON

Followers of the pugilistic game who are familiar with the work of Jim Jegries in the ring, are wondering what tactics he will follow in his coming battle with Jack Johnson for the world's championship. Will he stand up and take the offensive at the outset with a determination to annihilate the coloured man at once, a style that always characterized the work of John L. Sullivan, or will be go into the fight cautiously, as Fitzsimmons?

These are the questions that present themselves to the minds of the students of the game. Of course, Jeffries is not foolish enough to tell anyone what he purposes to do in this regard. It is doubtful if he knows himself. He will probably form no plans at all, but merely fight according to what his opponent shows as the mill progresses. Of course, it would be natural ofr us to expect to see an undefeated champion of the world take the initiative and carry the fighting any opponent.

Jeffries may do this and then again he may not. When he first fought Fitzsimmons he showed the most perfect defence ever displayed in any ring in this or any other country, and, as a result, old Bob, the crafty hero of a hundred battles, only landed about two good blows during the entire fight. Jeff remained in a crouch all the time, his immense left held well forward and slightly bent, his paw covered by that ponderous, shoulder muscle, his chin well down on to his chest.

He held his right hand well forward, the glove almost open, palm outward and the forearm in an up and down position, protecting both head and body. He kept the stomach well back out of danger. It fact, it could not have been reached unless the other took chances of receiving a stiff one from Jeff's extended left as he attempted to reach for the big fellow's wind. Jeffries remained in this almost impentrable shell for ten out of the eleven rounds, and swing, jolt, or try in any old way as he would Fitz could not reach him.

Meanwhile, Jeffries jolted Bob every time he came within hitting distance. Jeffries delivered these short shts while covered up, for he realized all the time that "Red Robert" was at all times dangerous, and under Tommy Ryan's guidance, the big boy from the boiler shop took no chances. He did not come out of his shell until he had Fits weak and groggy, fearing that the veteran might be stalling and waiting to sneak over one on his jaw that might end his championship dreams.

In the final round Jeff let go with the right, and landing on Bob's jaw sent him down hard. He remained on the flat of his back until the count of eight, and managed to regain his feet at the count of nine. Jeff then steadied himself, and, after feinting for the body with the left, he shot the right flush to the jaw once more, and the dangerous old horseshoer went down and out. Jeffries fought the battle under "Tommy" Ryan's instructions, and "Tommy" coached him al through it. No man ever put up a more perfect fight. He did not make one mistake, and won from the greatest fighter of the age with only one scratch blow to show for the eleven rounds.

Jeffries continued to fight cautiously for a few bouts after winning the title, but later on as he improved in boxing he loosened up, and straightened out of his crouch considerably. He gained confidence as he went along, being of a proud, sensitive disposition. Jeff did not think it looked well for a champion to be so much on defence. Consequently when he met Fitzsimmons the second time he kept out of the crouch, telling his friends that he could beat Bob without using any defence to speak of. So he stood up toe to toe and knocked out Fitz in six rounds. But Jeff took a terrible punishment in that bout. Fitz had no trouble in finding his face, and he cut it to ribbons.

In his two fights with Jim Corbett Jeff stood up straight, paying little attention to defence. He used scarcely any guard, being the aggressor all the time. In his first bout Corbett pegged him and pegged him until his face looked like a piece of raw beef, but finally in the twenty-third round Jeff sent one over Corbett's jaw-point and 'Pompadour Jim' went to sleep. In their second fight Jeff again stood up, and not only knocked Corbett out, but is said to have outboxed him and outfooted him in every round. This is a hard thing to believe, for Corbett was the swiftest big fellow that ever stepped into any ring when it came to footwork. Jeff may have outpunched him and emothered Corbett's blows, but I doubt very much if he outfooted him.

We have seen that Jeffries has been capable of making good fights in different styles. He can wear out an opponent by using defensive tactics, or he can crowd matters and beat his man down before him. Now, the question arises, What style will he utilize against Jack Johnson? If in the best of condition, and as good as he used to be in every detail of the game, he will doubtless go in to make quick work of it. Then, after a few rounds, if he finds that he has not been making sufficient headway, he may change his tactics and try to wear Jack down as he did Fitzsimmons.

If Jeff resorts to the same tactics displayed that night at Coney Island against old Bob, Johnson will find it hard to land on him. But if Jeff goes right after his man the mill will be short and sweet, for it stands to reason that two giants like these cannot stand up and batter each other for very many rounds without one or the other going down for a count. Jeffries will get Johnson in a hurry if they mix it, or Jack will catch him coming. If they are both careful it will be a long battle and great to look at, both being past masters as ring generals. It is no easy matter to pick a winner.

SOLDIERS' TEAM

57th Regiment Will Apply for a Franchise in the Senior City Hockey League.

The 57th Regiment will be represented by a team in the City Hockey League.

This was decided at a meeting of the athletic committee of the officers last night and it was decided to make application to the League officials for admission.

The red coats should have no difficulty in rounding up a good team if its men stick to the regiment. The officers are enthusiastic and will make every effort to place a winning team on the ice.

QUAKERS IN LINE

Porridge Men Will Have a Team in the Mercantile League This Season.

A very enthusiastic meeting was held in the Quaker Oats Company's office last night, when the Quaker Hockey Club was organized for the coming season. A large number of the boys were present and a lot of very classy material is available for the team. The prospects for a big season are exceedingly bright, and the Mercantile League will play pretty fast hockey. That League will be organized in a short time.

The following officers and patrons and patronesses were elected:

Patrons and Patronesses—Mr. W. H. Denham and Mrs. Denham, Mr. T. H. G. Donne and Mrs. Denne.
President—M. J. Kirn.
Vice—G. P. Edwards.
Sec.-Treas.—E. W. Pratt.
Manager—F. J. Heaslip.

The Executive Committee will consist of the secretary-treasurer, manager and captain, the latter to be chosen later.

WELL KNOWN HERE

Mr. Herbert O'Flynn, Famous Athlete Who Played Here, is Dead.

To-day's Toronto papers contain the notice of the death of Mr. Herbert O'Flynn, of Madoc, who was well and popularly known in Peterborough, and in fact amongst the athletic fratnity generally throughout the Province. Mr. O'Flynn, who was 28 years of age, was at one time one of the best lacrosse players in this district. He has frequently played with, and against, Peterborough teams, and had a great many friends here. While attending Toronto University, he was one of the most prominent members of the lacrosse team in connection with that institution. The cause of Mr. Flynn's death is not stated. Interment will take place at Madoc, his old home.

HOCKEY

The annual meeting of the junior City Hockey League will be held on Saturday night of this week in the Examiner office, at 8 o'clock. It is expected that all teams intending to enter this year will be represented at this meeting.

COLLEGIATE MAY WITHDRAW CITY LEAGUE TEAM

The Collegiate Institute Athletic Association has, as was prophesied in The Examiner the other night, decided to place a team in the ranks of the junior O.H.A., provided they be placed in a group with Lindsay and the Peterborough junior O.H.A. team. In view of this fact the Collegiate will not have a team in the Senior City League, as was intended, unless the O.H.A. scheme falls through in the event of the suggested group not being possible. With the school team out of the City League, the Chieftains, who were champion of junior City League last year, will have a better chance, as a number of their men would have been with the Collegiate had the latter been represented in the local hockey body. The new arrangement suits both parties and will likely be carried out, the members of the Chieftains who are students at the Collegiate Institute turning out with the red and black team for City League games, while they will play for the school in the O. H. A. ranks. With two teams in the junior series, there will be plenty of hockey for the local lovers of the game, and some very promising juniors should be unearthed during the season. A splendid team can be secured by the Peterborough Club, while the Collegiate last year showed that they had a well balanced, capable bunch of youngsters, who should be even better this season.

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT FOR HARD CITY LEAGUE RACE

These are the days in which the City League manager is in his glory. Nothing delights him more than a still hunt for players and just now the city is being raked with a fine comb by the heads of the different city organizations with a view to corralling a championship team. It is too early to make any prediction as to the result of the race, but it is certain that faster hockey will be played in the City League this year than ever before. The new teams in the running have added ginger to the contest, and the Keene team which will take Lakefield's place in the schedule is feared by all the local sevens. Jack Oldham's West Ends will be strong and so will the Strathconas, who with a record of only one defeat in three years will start the season with the majority of the team that has carried the red and white to victory so many times during the past three seasons. The T.A.S. are always contenders and will have to be watched all the way, while the Chieftains although younger than the other teams are certainly class and have had the advantage of playing together for a number of years so that their team work should be superior to that shown by most of the others. The 57th Regiment say that their team will be strong and there is every reason to expect that it will be so that the race for the Examiner trophy is more uncertain and harder to dope out than it ever was at this stage.

MANY DIFFERENT OPINIONS AS TO SATURDAY'S RUGBY BATTLE

Toronto, Nov. 24.—The sole topic in local sporting circles these days is: "Who'll win the rugby game on Saturday?"

And the answer comes "from the mouth out," according to the location of the person speaking.

Near the University the reply comes quickly and decisively: "Why, Varsity, of course."

From the C.P.R. going east comes a strong and vigorous "Ottawa."

On the G. T. R. going west, first stop beyond Burlington Junction, the answer is indecisive, "Well, Rough Riders should win."

In the downtown district the fans argue out all the pros and cons, and also reach conclusions according to location, viz., King Edward habitues, "Varsity"; Prince George patrons, "Ottawa."

The critics are on the fence. They received such a jolt from the Ottawa victory over Hamilton that they care not to make any more predictions, without hedging them in with all sorts of restrictions. Here is a sample:

"Yes, Varsity will win, if the unexpected does not happen. If Lawson does not break a leg or Hughie Gall does not kick the ball into the clubhouse instead of into the ravine, a la Ben Simpson, Varsity will win away off—well, by at least five points. That is, of course, if there is no wind blowing, or if the wind doesn't shift. You know Rosedale is such an unreliable field on a gusty day. However, Ottawa has a good chance, with Jack Williams bounding those low ones over the scrimmage, and Stronach embracing the Varsity back division ever ytime he goes down under a punt. Queer thing about that fellow Stronach is his method of tackling; doesn't go off his feet at all, merely falls over on his man, and doesn't knock him down; got an awful reach too; can grab a whole back division at one time and smother any attempt t oreturn a kick. If Stronach doesn't step on his foot before the game is over it will be some contest."

Here is another equally as lucid: "Say, wouldn't Varsity have walloped Hamilton, eh? Well, Ottawa will be easier than the Tigers. They beat Hamilton, but how did they do it? The Tigers couldn't get out of their own way and at that Ottawa was lucky, dead lucky—I don't care what anybody says. What's that? McGill beat Varsity and Queen's nearly trimmed them. Yes, that's true. Forgot about that. But Lawson and Gale were not in shape, and they will be on Saturday. Still, I guess Ottawa must be as good as McGill, and has a better chance than some people think. Some of these fellows up at Varsity think there's nothing to do. I will just go up and get some of their money before they pass that anti-gambling law at Ottawa."

The Varsity team had a fine workout last night, and will be in grand condition on Saturday. The team has benefitted by its rest. There is snap and vim in plenty and this is expected to carry the Ottawa team off its feet. The Collegians look for quite a respectable score in their favour.

TO PLAY GAME UNDER CANVAS

Toronto, Nov. 24.—This surely takes the cake!

Hilliard and Herby Birmingham propose to put a canvas top over the old Grand National Open-Air Rink in Brock avenue—this summer the Toronto Senior League used it for a ball grounds—and play professional hockey there.

Hilliard Birmingham wired to Ottawa yesterday for an Eastern Hockey League franchise, and the reply he got was favourable. The Easterners would welcome a Toronto team of the requisite calibre, and with the proper backing.

Will they take a team that plays under a canvas roof?

The canvas roof is the Toronto syndicate's end of the proposition, and if the idea will not take why that is their loss. Anyway the Birminghams have made the proposition.

"Mr. Clark, the manager of the rink, is with us," said Hilliard Birmingham to-day. "We propose to put up wooden sides and a canvas roof as a temporary expedient for this year and build an arena there next year if the crowd will go out there. All we need is $2000, and we are raising that now. If we get in the Eastern Hockey Association, we will have a good team all right, and our canvas-top will seat 4,000 people. If we give the people the proper brand of hockey they will come all right."

"Who are behind the scheme outside of those mentioned?"

"I am not at liberty to say," was the reply.

But what about the building by-laws and restrictions?

What will the City Architect say to the scheme?

Or will this canvas arena stand on the same plane as a circus tent?

RUGBY FANS WAIT TWENTY-FOUR HOURS IN COLD TO GET TICKETS

Enthusiastic Toronto Lovers of the Game Lined Up a Day Before Plan for Saturday Was on Sale.

MEALS IN THE LINE

Toronto, Nov. 24.—When press despatches came from Pittsburg and Detroit this fall announcing that baseball fans were sleeping outside the ticket offices all night to be first in line for tickets for the world's ball series, all Toronto laughed, and said, "Those crazy Yanks."

The plan for the Varsity-Rough Rider football game in the semi-finals of the Canadian Rugby Championship will open at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning, at H. H. Love's, 189 Yonge street.

At 8 o'clock this morning there were three young men in line, who proposed to stay there until 8 o'clock to-morrow morning, and get first choice of the seats. At 9 o'clock there were five, and at 11 o'clock 24 were in the ranks. At noon the line was reinforced by 50 Varsity students, and by midnight it is certain that there will be 300 in line prepared to stand out all night and chance pneumonia, congestion of the lungs, quinsy, sore throat, rheumatism, bronchitis, tonsilitis, charley horse, water on the knee, bowed tendons, corns, bunions, catarrh and tip.

It was below freezing all morning and to-night the weather man promises a litlte more frost.

Can you imagine it?

TWO HUNDRED

Three hundred Toronto people standing out in the cold all night to get seats for a rugby game!

Well, there they are!

Some people will call them crazy yaps, but just the same there are some wise guys in that bunch.

Many are there to buy the limit of six seats at a dollar per, and expect to sell them for from $4 to $10 a seat.

Well, from $18 to $54 isn't a bad return for 24 hours, time!

Beter'n working in the gas house.

While a lot of the boys and young men are there to speculate in tickets, there are a number in the line up who are being paid by fans who have the coin to hold places for them in that line.

But those who wait by proxy are liable to get it where the Tigers got it. Last year half a dozen kids paid $2 to stand out all night for one man sold out tehir places at $5 to chaps who turned up an hour before the plan opened. Well, anyawy the line is there and thousands of curious citizens viewed it to-day.

The first three in line at 8 o'clock were F. Bradfield, H. Taylor, R. Taylor and right on their knees came H. Johnson and G. Coyne. Bradfield undertook hte office of marshall and as the line grew gave each man his number. "What will you do if anyone butts in?" he was asked.

"Just let 'em try and we'll show 'em," chorused hte front row.

"How will you feed?"

"We'll hold each other's places and feed in relays," was the answer.

All the boys in line this morning were warmly clad. They had two or three sweaters and young Taylor admited having three pairs of socks on. The first three brought down suit cases with blankets in, and proposed to sleep right in Love's doorway.

When the line became unwieldly, Policeman Phillips ordered them out to the boulevard.

Valuable Item For Men
Health and strength hitherto unknown will be felt surging in rich red blood through the arteries and veins and life's great est ambitions may be realized as never before, if the following special treatment is followed by those men, and women, too, who are stricken with that most dreaded of all afflictions, nervous exhaustion, accompanied with such symptoms as extreme nervousness, insomnia, cold extremities, melancholia, headaches, constipation and dyspepsia, kidney trouble, dreadful dreams of direful disasters, timidity in venturing and a general inability to act naturally at all times as other persons do. Lack of poise and equilibrium in men is a constant source of embarrassment even when the public least suspects it. For the benefit of those who want a restoration to full, bounding health and all the happiness accompanying it, the following home treatment is given. It contains no opiates or habit-forming drugs whatever. Mix it at home and no one will be the wiser as to your affliction.
The treatment is simple, thorough and correct. Leading druggists supply the main tinctures, extracts and essences in one-ounce bottles, ready to mix. Get three ounces syrup sarsaparilla compound, mix with one ounce compound fluid balmwort, and stand two hours. Add one ounce compound essence cardiol, and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom.) Shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one at bedtime.
The ingredients are used for various prescriptions.

ATTRACTIVE HOMES

From Farm and Dairy.

Mac C., Cutting

There is a woeful lack of effort on the part of the average farmer to improve the appearance of his home. He is usually so engrossed in the business of producing crops that he pays little or no attention to those details which make his house and surroundings attractive and pleasant to live in. The problem of keeping the children on the farm is a constant worry to him, but he does nothing towards strengthening that bond of affection which should hold them. And yet only a little thought and labor is required from the year's work to create a change that will make the old home "a thing of beauty and a joy forever," and help greatly to dispel that spirit of discontent in the minds of the young people which conjures up such alluring visions of life in the city.

Perhaps the greatest effect can be produced by the planting of flowers, and if the desire can be stimulated among the children to look after the flower garden themselves, the results will be so much the better. One reason why more flowers are not grown on our farm homes is because of the erroneous idea that they will require a great deal of care and attention, and that the majority of attractive flowers are not suitable to our climate; but if the farmer will confine himself to hardy perennials, he will find little difficulty in maintaining a beautiful display of blooms.

With proper conditions to start, hardy herbaceous perennials require less care than probably any other flowers, and the greatly improved varieties of these plants make them peculiarly suitable for planting on the farm. Most perennials thrive best where there is plenty of sunlight, and should be protected from cold winds if possible. A good loam soil is best, and thorough drainage is very essential. Prepare the soil thoroughly in the beginning by working in a supply of well rotted manure, as, after planting, perennials should not be disturbed for some time. When growth is well started, keep the surface soil loose and free from weeds. In the summer some of the taller plants will need staking to prevent breaking by the wind. After the plants have ceased blooming, cut off the stalks close to the ground; and before frost sets in, cover with a mulch of about six inches of strawy manure or leaves to hold the snow and prevent severe freezing. In the spring be careful not to remove the mulch too soon, as the greatest damage is often done duing the period of alternate freezing and thawing. When light material is removed, the heavier manure can be dug in to enrich the soil.

A large number of hardy perennials can be sown from the seed, and in this way a great many plants produced. Best results can be obtained if sown in a preliminary seed bed of well prepared loam in rows about six inches apart, and transferred to their permanent position at the end of the first season's growth. Small seed should be buried only sufficiently to keep from blowing away, while larger seeds may be sown half an inch deep. Autumn is the best time to sow the seed, so it will be in condition to germinate in the spring. Transplants can be planted either in autumn or spring.

KINGSTON'S CARS NOT RUNNING

Trouble Between City and Company and the Citizens are all walking Again.

Kingston, Nov. 25.—Kingston to-day is without a street car service, and unless the city council recedes from its position and gives the company a straight five-year power agreement, the cars will remain in the barns. The company has the cars, and the city has the "wherewithal" to run them. Therefore, there can be no car service unless both parties agree. The power agreement made in July, 1905, expired at midnight of the 23rd, and there is no agreement now in force. To get further power the company will have to sign a new agreement with the city, the basis of which was adopted at Monday evening's council meeting.

SPOKE ON MISSION WORK IN CHINA

There was a comprehensive and large attendance at Knox Church last evening on the occasion of the Women's Missionary annual public meeting. The special feature of the service was an address by Mrs. Fee, on Missionary Work in China. Mrs. J. McPherson, President of the Associati.. was in the chair. There was a large number of men present. During the evening Mrs. Ego sang a solo suitable for the occasion.

Mrs. Fee spoke of their work in China, where they spent fifteen years in mission work. Most of the time was spent in the south of China. The immense river that flawed through their district is much larger than the great St. Lawrence. It took them two weeks in a houseboat to get to their destination, whereas now one goes in a day and a half by steamboat, an indication of the immense advance China has made.

The educational system has likewise improved. The Chinese are apt to learn. They are sure to come to the front as a nation, and, considering their many millions that far surpass the people of America and Britain and many parts of Europe, it is important that China should be guided by the right principles. They are shifting from their own religion and there is now an open door for the preaching of the Gospel. Difficulties are removed and missionaries are sought after and respected. The address was most instructive and inspiring.

A vote of thanks was unanimously given to the speaker.

APPLES SOLD BY WEIGHT

From Farm and Dairy..

During the past two years, much interest has been taken by wholesale fruit firms of this district in an idea by which it is proposed that apples should be sold by weight in preference to the barrel, reports Mr. J. M. Misson, Canadian Trade Commissioner, Leeds, England. Although this has not been carried into actual practice to any degree, there still remains a good deal of interest in the question more especially in view of the fact that it is claimed by fruit men here that an average barrel of Canadian-grown apples will be found to weigh more than a similar barrel of fruit from the United States.

In this connection it is suggested that Canadian packers should mark the gross weight on the top of their barrels before shipment. It would greatly aid the sale of Canadian-grown apples on this side in competition with fruit from other sources, and resulting in an advantage both to the buyer here and the seller in Canada in the way of increased business.

THE SPLIT-LOG DRAG

From Farm and Dairy.

The advantages of the split-log drag as advocated by D. Ward King, of Missouri, and previously described in Farm and Dairy, are not as well known through actual experience as they should be. This implement, crude as it is, has proved a marked success in maintaining and improving ordinary earth roads. An outstanding point in favor of the split-log drag is that it can be used to advantage right now.

Earth roads that freeze up while muddy are a terror to those who perforce must use them. Often they are quite impassable until snow comes, and the damage they do to wagons and other vehicles, not to mention the loss of time, is enormous. Those who drag their mud roads on the eve of a freeze-up are public benefactors, the improved appearance of the land adjoining and the favorable impression that it engenders in the minds of those who pass that way, are, or should be, ample compensation for any inconvenience suffered, or time spent. Nevertheless, township councils should encourage more of this work.

Nor is this all. Mud placed in cold storage as it is in frozen roads, is bound to be mud next spring. Levelling up the surface through dragging, even though it be in the mud, will give water that stands in ruts and pools a chance to escape. If left as it is, each passing wheel goes deeper and deeper, and in this way the roads reach that condition for which ours are famed.

POULTRY POINTERS

From Farm and Dairy.

Few farmers realize the necessity of having poultry properly fattened for market, particularly in case it is to be sold privately on the market or shipped a distance. Fat, plump fowl sell much more readily than half-starved looking specimens, and they bring higher prices, besides they more than pay for their feed when fattening.

The crate system of fattening is recommended in all cases. It will produce results more quickly than the usual method of feeding, and it is more satisfactory, besides having many other advantages. The crates for fattening may be constructed by any one in a short time. If only a few fowls are to be fattened a box of suitable size may be used. But the usual method of fattening by crates is to place the birds in crates six feet long, 16 inches wide and 12 inches high, inside measurement. The crate is divided into three compartments by two partitions of solid wood. Each compartment holds four or five birds according to the size of the fowl.

The crates must be placed in a sheltered position out of the rain and wind. They require abundant ventilation. In cold weather they must be placed in a shed or barn. Always keep the birds as quiet as possible, keep the building darkened. When the crate is placed on a box the droppings must be kept from under them by daily cleaning, an inch or two of sand should be placed under the crate to absorb the droppings.

Care must be taken to rid the fowl of lice during the fattening period. The birds should be thoroughly dusted with sulphur before placing in the crate. After each lot of birds have been removed wash the crates thoroughly with six ounces of crude carbolic acid to a gallon of boiling water.

The time that the fowl may be left in the crates depends to a large extent on the constitution of the bird their condition when placed in the coop and the treatment given. Chickens that appear delicate will not do well and seldom pay for the feed and bother, as they will not stand forcing. Select the vigorous looking birds with broad, square shape and short, straight legs set well apart; avoid off-shaped specimens with drooping tails and pale combs and wattles.

Feed them carefully for the first week, avoid overfeeding, never feed quite as much as they will eat at one time. Feed three times daily and give plenty of grit and warm water. Vigorous birds will stand heavier feeding than weaker ones; birds that have had free farm range will generally be hardier than confined stock.

Oats come nearer the ideal than any other single grain, they supply nearly all requirements if the hull be removed. But it is always advisable to feed a variety of grains. One of the best rations is composed as follows: two parts ground oats, two parts low grade flour and one part wheat bran. If possible use skim milk or buttermilk to mix the mash, mix till it is about the thickness of thin porridge. This mash may be varied in composition depending on the grain available, barley may be used instead of oats, corn instead of flour. Another mash may be made as follows: two parts ground oats, it is preferable to have the hulls removed; ground corn one part, two parts shorts, buckwheat or bran, tenderwinos is preferred bran rather coarse with us. When poultry is sold privately or shipped it is well to remember that corn produces a yellow flesh of inferior quality if fed in excess, also that peas will harden the flesh.

When milk is not used to mix the mash feed some green food. Sour milk is more fattening than sweet milk, and is greedily eaten. Beef or pork scrap is valuable as a fat producer and some should be fed.

BISHOP FOR THE BUDGET

He Tells the House of Lords That Upper Chamber Will Prejudice Its Power If It Rejects Measure—Conservatives Are Said to Be Reconsidering Their Stand on Matter—Maiden Speeches.

London, Nov. 26.—"If you win a victory it will be only a temporary one; if you lose, you have prejudiced the position, power, prestige and usefulness of the House of Lords, which I believe every one of you honors and desires to serve as heartily as I do myself."

In this homely candid fashion, Lord Balfour of Burleigh told the members of the House of Lords last evening his opinion of the course they were pursuing with regard to the budget. His speech was the real event of yesterday's sitting of the Upper Chamber. It probably will have greater influence than that of Lord Rosebery, because Rosebery no longer holds the confidence of any party.

The Bishop of Hereford, who intervened late in the debate, said that while he respected the Archbishop of Canterburg's desire that the bishops abstain from voting on the measure, he claimed the right to the exercise of independent judgment.

If the bishops had any function to perform it was to speak for the multitudinous poor, he said, therefore he supported the budget, which was a social welfare budget, based on sound finance. He was convinced, he declared, that the country's answer to an appeal to the ballot would be in such clear English that never again shall the fundamental liberties of the people be endangered by a privileged class.

Many others of the peers spoke, but all of them along ordinary party lines. The debate was adojurned until Monday, when Viscount Morley, Lord Curson and Lord Rothschild are expected to address the House.

Rumors are current to-day that the Conservative leaders seeing the damaging effect that the speeches of Lords Cromer, Rosebery and Balfour of Burleigh is likely to have on the Conservative cause, in an election, are reconsidering their position with regard to the budget. But the best information indicates that Lord Lansdowne's resolution against the adoption of the budget will go to a division and be carried by an enormous majority.

A great pro-budget demonstration took place last night in Parliament square and that locality. Six thousand persons gathered for the demonstration and sang political songs and cheered for David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Police to the number of 1,500 were employed in keeping order, but finally the crowd became unmanageable and they cleared the square. There were some slight scuffles and several arrests were made. The demonstration is likely to be repeated on a larger scale Monday and Tuesday.

There was little falling off in the attendance when the House of Lords met in the afternoon. The benches were again crowded with peers, members of the House of Commons were gathered about the throne and peeresses, diplomats and other distinguished persons filled the galleries.

The extension of the time for debate will give opportunity for more of the Lords to be heard and many maiden speeches will be made. Lord Revelstoke, who has been a member of the lower chamber for nineteen years, made his first speech in the House of Lords this week.

Mrs. Robinson In Penitentiary.

Kingston, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Robinson, the farmer's wife from Warren, Ont., whose sentence of death for causing the death of three illegitimate infants, was commuted to ten years, arrived yesterday afternoon. Her husband is serving a 23 years' term.

Died From Strangulation.

St. Thomas, Nov. 26.—A coroner's jury yesterday decided that Alfred Hastings, found dead last Saturday, had strangled, through an obstruction in the wind pipe, and censured a barkeeper and several others who had not assisted him when they noticed him in distress.

C.P.R. to Halifax.

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 26.—J. A. Johnson, president of the Board of Trade has received a letter from D. McNichol, vice-president and general manager of the C.P.R., re the negotiations to bring the C.P.R. into Halifax on its own rails, promising to send an engineer to go over the suggested routes.

Mr. Pardee Has Appendicitis.

Ottawa, Nov. 26.—F. F. Pardee, chief Government Whip, is seriously ill at Sarnia with an attack of appendicitis.

FIRST VOTE IS TAKEN

He Introduces an Amendment to Act Governing Appeals From Commission's Decisions, But Mr. Aylesworth Opposes—Mr. Northrup's Measure Is Given Another Hoist of Six Months.

Ottawa, Nov. 26.—The first division of the session took place in the House of Commons last night, and resulted in a Government majority of 34. The occasion was Mr. Lancaster's bill to amend the railway act by exempting municipalities from assessment for the cost of protecting level crossings.

Mr. Lancaster's annual onslaught on the railways began yesterday when his bill to amend the railway act came up for second reading. The first of these proposes to make clear that the railway commission, and it alone, shall have the right to adjudicate as to the kind of contract to be made between railways and shippers. He specified the case of a man who had shipped a consignment of horses valued at $16,000. The railway refused to accept them unless in the contract the horses were given the value of only $1,200. The shipper had to accept this. The horses were destroyed in transit, and the shipper could only collect $1,200. He sued for the larger amount, but the Ontario Court of Appeal held that the form of the contract was sufficiently like the authorized contract to be legal.

The point involved is the practice of partial contracting out of damages in return for a lower rate. Mr. Lancaster seeks to obtain for the shipper power to choose whether he can pay the higher rate for partial liability and he wants the railway commission to be the only court which can pass upon such matters. Hon. Mr. Graham consented to the second reading.

The second bill is intended to reduce the number of appeals from the railway commission to the Supreme Court. It would restrict the time within which appeals can be taken to one month, and also confine appeals to doubtful questions of law.

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth did not think that the judgment of lawyers would support anything approaching the abolition of the Supreme Court. He admitted that appeals gave a great advantage to the wealthy, but he was not sure that that advantage should be taken away. The bill was sent to the railway committee.

Mr. Lancaster's third bill was thrown out after a vote had been taken, the first of the session. The Government mustered 87, and the Opposition 53, giving a majority of 34. This bill sought to free municipalities from paying any of the expense of protecting railway level crossings unless there was an agreement between the company and the corporation approved of by the railway board.

Mr. Graham's chief argument against the bill was that the present act, which was passed last year, should be given a chance to work out.

As soon as the division on Mr. Lancaster's third bill was taken, Mr. Graham moved the six months' hoist for Mr. Northrup's bill to amend the railway act providing for a reference to the railway commission of complaints as to the failure of railways to live up to contracts made with the Government.

Galbraith Inspector of Schools.

Brampton, Nov. 26.—At yesterday afternoon's session of the City Council W. J. Galbraith was appointed public school inspector. Mr. Galbraith until two years ago was master of modern languages at the Brampton High School and since then has held the position of principal of the high school at Newcastle. There were nine applicants, but only four received any votes, Galbraith being elected on the second ballot.

Australian House Approves.

Melbourne, Nov. 26.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—In the Commonwealth House of Representatives the Minister of Defence moved that this House approves of the naval proposals, and that immediate steps be taken to provide an Australian unit. The resolution carried by 30 to 9. The minority was composed of irreconcilable Laborites. Mr. Fisher and other Labor leaders voting with the majority.

French-Canadians and the Navy.

Montreal, Nov. 26.—In the presence of 200 members of the Letellier Club, the West Radical Political Association in the province, Honore Gervais, K.C., M.P. for St. James' division, delivered what may be called the first public utterance before an exclusively French-Canadian audience on Canada's naval defence policy. He appealed for support for the Government program.

Josie Carr Dead.

Kingston, Nov. 26.—A report here from the West tells of the death of Josephine Carr, a young girl who four years ago abducted and killed an infant in Toronto.

She spent three years in the penitentiary and was finally pardoned and transferred to the Northwest to begin life anew.

A Conservative Convention.

Ottawa, Nov. 26.—A sub-committee of the Conservative caucus has been appointed to consider the time and place of the party convention, Ottawa, Toronto and Winnipeg each has its advocates. The gathering will not likely be held before next summer, the idea of one in January not meeting with much favor.

Yale: Hon. Richard McBride (Con.) elected, defeating J. Henderson (Lib.), the late member, who had 82 majority.

Ymir: J. H. Schofield (Con.) has large majority over A. M. Oliver, (Soc.).

Mysterious Tragedy.

Detroit, Nov. 26.—A Detroit news special from Munising, Mich., says: Mrs. Harry Ethill, 25 years old, was killed Wednesday night in a road house, 19 miles east of here. Her head was crushed. Frank Fitzpatrick stated that some one outside the house shot through the window and killed the woman.

Three Killed In Wreck.

Lind, Wash., Nov. 26.—Three trainmen dead, two others believed to be fatally injured, five out of six cars on a Great Northern passenger train destroyed by fire, but every passenger safe, sums up a wreck on the Northern Pacific Railroad a mile from Lind shortly after midnight yesterday.

"Hookworm" Cause for Divorce.

San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 26.—Judge Graham has divorced Anita Coover, from David R. Coover.

"My husband was dull, stupid, lazy, languid, slow," said Mrs. Coover.

"He must have been a victim of the hookworm," said the court.

Killed by A Train.

Hagersville, Nov. 26.—Stewart Donnelly, one of Haldimand County's oldest residents, was killed by a train near Hober yesterday. He stepped from one track, to let a freight train pass, directly in front of an express, that did not usually run on that track.

"IT SEEMED LIKE THROWING MONEY AWAY

Until I Tried Gin Pills."

Mr. P. Fitzgerald was completely disheartened. He had suffered so long with his Kidneys, and spent so much money on doctors without relief, that he had made up his mind he could not be cured.

Then, he chanced to read about the wonderful cures by Gin Pills, the great Kidney Remedy, and sent for a sample. The pills did him so much good that he immediately bought two full size boxes. And these two boxes of Gin Pills made him feel like another man.

But let Mr. Fitzgerald tell his own story of a really remarkable cure.

Provincial Asylum, Orillia
June 18th.

I have much pleasure in stating that the sample, which you sent me, led me to buy two boxes of Gin Pills from a local druggist. They are the best remedy for Uric Acidity that I have ever tried. I must say that before using Gin Pills, I had undergone a long and expensive course of treatment by eminent specialists of Chicago. They did me no good—it seemed like throwing money away.

I still keep a box of Gin Pills on hand and take one occasionally. I am pleased to recommend them and bear testimony to their efficacy.

P. FITZGERALD.

After reading such a letter at this, you simply can't doubt the value of Gin Pills in cases of Kidney and Bladder Trouble. If you are a sufferer, write the National Drug & Chemical Co. Dept. B. Toronto, for a free sample of Gin Pills and try them at our expense. After you have seen for yourself just what Gin Pills will do, buy the full size box at your dealer's, and remember that Gin Pills are sold with a positive guarantee of a cure or money refunded.

VIII.—Dangers of the Elevated Nose

"BUT what's the matter with them, honey?" demanded the colonel. "Ain't they good people? Ain't they honest? Don't they behave themselves about as well as any of your friends? Don't they"—

"Yes, papa, yes!" interrupted his daughter. "They're very nice people and I have no fault to find with them, but"— And Mrs. Rollins turned up her pretty little nose and gazed silently at the fire.

"Uh, huh!" grunted the colonel. "I understand. They just ain't in your class, accordin' to your way of lookin' at it. But, honey, I wouldn't twist my face up that way if I was you. It'll make wrinkles quicker than anything in the world, and the worst kind of wrinkles too. You know, there's wrinkles and wrinkles. Some wrinkles light up the plainest face with beauty. Yes, honey, that's a fact. And then there's some that make the most beautiful face look ugly. You're developin' some of that kind when you turn up your nose in that way. Uh, huh! I thought that'd make you drop it. And now you're makin' some of the kind that add to beauty—the wrinkles that come from smiles.

UGLY WRINKLES ON THE BRAIN.

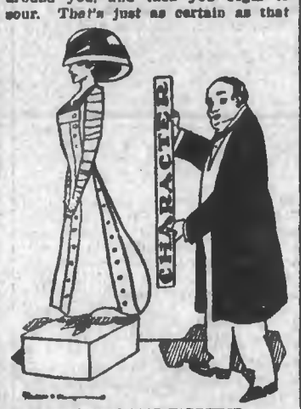
"Yes, indeedy, my dear, the turned up nose is a dangerous thing. It not only makes ugly wrinkles on the face, but it makes ugly wrinkles on the brain. Never thought about that, did you? No, I reckon not, but it's true. I never saw a human brain, but they say it's all covered over with wrinkles, and the scientific fellows have a lot of theories about them. But I've got a notion that they're caused by the same thoughts and feelin's and emotions that put the lines on the countenance. Anyhow, if an elevated nose don't make its mark on the outside of the brain it does on the inside, and it amounts to the same thing, for the movements of the face that go to make up what we call expression are nothin' more than the sign of the workin' of the mind. When you curl up your little proboscis, like you did a bit ago, that's a sign that you was thinkin' yourself a little better, maybe a whole lot better, than the people we was talkin' about.

"Now, honey, I want to tell you that that's a pretty risky attitude for anybody to take. I believe in a man thinkin' well of himself or a woman thinkin' well of herself, but when you begin to make comparisons between yourself and other folks to the disadvantage of the other folks you're gettin' on dangerous ground, for two reasons. In the first place, you're entirely an opinion of yourself that ain't warranted by the facts. You're settin' yourself up on a pedestal that's full of cracks, and one of these fine days it'll crumble to pieces, and down you'll drop like a load of bricks, for whenever a man or a woman raises himself in his mind above his fellows he's gettin' ready for a fall. If he don't topple over of himself somebody will pull out the props from under him, and then the people he's been lookin' down on will look down on him and laugh—just laugh. That's the second reason why the turned up nose is bad business. It spoils you, and then it spoils your friends, for the habit of thought that expresses itself in the turned up nose is fatal to the kind of self esteem that everybody ought to have, and it's fatal to friendship.

A WRONG PERSPECTIVE.

"You see, honey, an elevated nose is a good deal like one of those old fashioned blunderbusses—it hits a whole lot of people that you didn't aim at, and whoever it hits it hurts. Nobody can tell where it's goin' to strike, and so they get in the habit of dodgin' whenever it comes around. There's a good many folks you can scold and abuse and they'll take it good natured and keep on being friends, but just let 'em get the notion that you're sneerin' at 'em and it's all off. Most all of us have an idea that we're about as good as the next one, and nothin' makes us madder than a turned up nose, and the minute the difference between us in wealth or social station the madder we get about it.

"If you're goin' to get the best there is out of the world and out of the people in it you've got to meet folks on the level. You go up to the top of a skyscraper buildin' and look out the window down at the men and women in the street below, and they all look mighty small—not more'n half as big as you are. But when you go down in the elevator and get out on the pavement you find they average up about the same size as yourself. It's all a matter of the point of view, and the turned up nose gives you a wrong perspective. It gives you false notions of your own importance and your own position, while everybody else can see that you're just one of the common run of folks and have no right to feel yourself any better than they are. And so you get out of touch and out of sympathy with the rest of the world around you, and then you begin to sour. That's just as certain as that



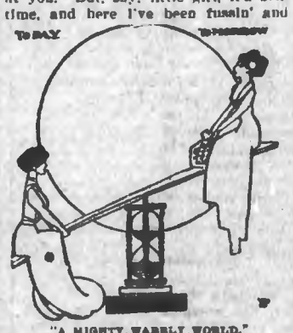
THE ONLY GOOD YARDSTICK.

God made little apples. A sneer in the brain is a sign of fermentation, and fermentation, you know, comes mighty close to bein' rotten.

"Now, then, gettin' right down to brass tacks, as the fellow says, the only reason you've got for elevatin' your nose at the people we was talkin' about is that they don't run in your set. Well, what if they don't? Is your set the standard by which all others have to be measured? I reckon not. It takes all kinds of people to make a world, as you've heard before, and some of the best ones in it make the least show.

"You can't tell by lookin' at the people you meet on the street how many of them's beneath you and how many's above you. You can't tell by lookin' at a woman's clothes or countin' the money she's got in the bank whether you've got a right to look down on her or she's got a right to look down on you. You can't tell by hearin' a woman quote Ibsen whether she's better or worse than you. It ain't money or clothes or blood or culture that counts when it comes to measurin' up men and women. The only yardstick that's good anywhere on earth and in any society is character. That's common, or uncommon, to rich and poor, and your washerwoman may have as much of it and be as much entitled to your respect as the president of your club. One of the two greatest men I ever had the honor to know was a professor of English in the state university; the other was a ditch digger who couldn't spell his own name.

"But even when you size up people accordin' to the standard of your club it ain't safe to turn up your nose, for this is a mighty wabbly world, and the folks that's up today may be down tomorrow, and the ones that's down tomorrow may be up at the top of the heap next week. If you're goin' to judge people by that standard you've got no right to object if they measure you by the same rule, and it's mighty embarrassin', I imagine, to find the folks you've been turnin' up your nose at in a position to elevate their noses at you. But, say, little girl, it's bed time, and here I've been fussin' and scoldin' the whole evenin'. Don't you feel bad about it, though, honey. Your old daddy thinks you're the finest ever, but he don't want you to find it out. Good night."



"A MIGHTY WABBLY WORLD."

Brief Truths.

The female bargain hunter knows all the countersigns.

The married beauty always looks upon her husband as the beast.

No woman wants her offspring to pose as an object lesson at a mothers' meeting.

One of the things a man can't understand is why his enemies seem to have so many friends.

The smile of a good woman will do a man more good than a dozen handed to him by a bartender.

After a man has been married a year he can't see any reason why his wife should want a new hat.

It sometimes happens that a man is kept from buying mining stock because he hasn't got the ready cash.

Once in awhile a man is too proud to beg and too honest to steal. Then the only alternative he has left is to go to work.

Occasionally a married man does a lot of talking when he is away from home, because that is about the only chance he gets.

Heard in a Restaurant.

"Say, waiter, I'm in a hurry. What can you give me for breakfast?"

"Can't give yer nothin', but yer kin git hem an' eggs for a quarter."

"Well, give me two poached eggs on toast."

Calling, "Adam and Eve on a raft."

"And, say, waiter, by the way, have the eggs turned."

Calling again, "Wreck 'em!"

"Oh, say, waiter, how long will my omelet be?"

"About eight inches, I guess."

"Waiter, why don't you put a button on that apron?"

"Asked the old woman to sew a button on last night. She couldn't find one, so she sewed up the buttonhole."

"See here, waiter, don't take that plate away with the apple peeling on. I believe the peel is just as wholesome as the fruit and, in fact, contains more nutriment. The very idea!"

"Well, why don't you live on pineapple skins?"—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The Speed of Light.

Light holds the record for high speed among all moving things that have been measured. It travels at the rate of 328,028,800 yards a second. This is faster than thinking, even by the most quick witted person. Let any reader try to think the simplest thought and then with the aid of a stop watch note how long it has taken him to think it. He will then be able to understand how slow his mental operations are compared to the speed of light.

In Old Bohemia.

"I would like to meet some of the picturesque long haired knights of the pen and palette," said the unsophisticated stranger. "It is worth a dollar to meet a real bohemian."

"Don't worry about its being worth it," hastened the guide. "Just as soon as you meet a real bohemian he'll ask you to loan him one."—Chicago News.

The Intelligent Mule.

"Some people think mules haven't much intelligence, but I know they have," was the way a commercial traveler interrupted a story teller. "Now, take the town I come from. While I was home on a visit last year the place was all wrought up over the systematic stealing of flowers from the graves in our leading cemetery. The thing had been going on some time, and the people were shocked, of course. Finally a guard was posted and the thief captured, and the thief was a mule.

"It didn't take long to get at all the facts. It seems that a certain woman living near the cemetery had held up the mule's owner, who was beating the animal, prosecuted him for cruelty, then bought the mule and turned it out to pasture. The mule was so grateful to the woman that every night it would jump the pasture fence, go into the cemetery, pick up the freshest bunch of flowers it could find, carry them to the woman's house and deposit them on the front stoop, where she would find them in the morning. Now, when you talk of intelligence in animals"—

"Good night," said the man whom the commercial traveler had interrupted.—New York Globe.

The Top Hat.

Tall hats, "perkin up like the spire of a steeple a quarter of a yard above the crowne," as a sixteenth century writer describes them, were known in the time of Elizabeth, and the Puritans affected them until they merged into the old fashioned beavers of our great-grandfathers' days. Top hats of silk appeared first in Florence about 1800, and twenty years later silk hats with felt bodies were introduced into England. About 1840 the French silk hat was placed on the market and at once adopted in the familiar "chimney pot" shape. There were several varieties of it, such as the Wellington hat, with the yeoman crown; the Anglesea hat, bell shaped at the top, and the D'Orsay hat, with ribbed silk binding and a big bow. The color also varied. Thus the Earl of Harrington started a craze for green top hats by wearing one in his garden with the idea of not frightening the birds. He also tested his silk hats by standing upon them. The top hat, however, was never so favored by any great personage as to account for its general adoption.—London Answers.

A Bit of a Bull.

The following entry was discovered the other day in the complaint book of a Melbourne club, which numbers several Irishmen among its members:

"The hot water in the lavatory today was quite cold, and there was none of it."

It was in the handwriting of a well known doctor.

Obeyed Him.

Mr. Newlywed—So you've been buying more useless truck! We have absolutely no use for those curtains. Have I not told you to stop buying things just because they were cheap?

Mrs. Newlywed—Yes, my dear, and I've obeyed you. Those curtains were not at all cheap.

BACK TO CANADA.

What Chicago Tribune Says of the Movement Over the Line.

This is the way The Chicago Tribune looks on Canada's immigration problem:

"Don't be afraid you can't get people," said James J. Hill, encouragingly, to his Canadian hosts the other day. "There is no other place on the American continent where they can go." That was drawing it a little strong, considering the hundreds of thousands of men and women who stream into this country yearly and stay here. There are many Canadians who think this the only place on the American continent they can go to. As Mr. Hill said, about one out of every five persons born in the Dominion emigrates to the United States.

But Mr. Hill says they are going back to the land of their birth—that the land seekers from the Western States who are settling on the virgin Canadian wheat lands are "really former Canadians" who will be all the more useful to the Dominion because they have been educated along American lines.

This hardly squares with the facts. Of the English-speaking Canadians who come here, few take to a farming life. They go into stores, banks and the professions. The great majority of the men who are now leaving the United States to cultivate Canadian wheat lands are American farmers, born and reared here. They understand their business thoroughly, and Canada could have no more valuable acquisitions.

That part of the continent owes much to the United States. There went the loyalists—or Tories—of the American revolution after the close of the war, but prior to the adoption of the constitution there was a large American migration to Quebec and Ontario. Taxes were heavy in this country and light there. The West had not been opened up and Canada was accessible.

Now comes this new American migration. Canada should be profoundly grateful for it. Quality counts for more than quantity, and one American farmer will do more for the Dominion than ten unskilled emigrants from Europe.

G. P.'s Start In Life.

It is interesting to note how Hon. G. P. Graham, one of the shrewdest and most efficient members of the Laurier Cabinet, first got his start in life. At school he was a diligent pupil and excelled in English composition. He was a rural pedagogue for a year, but finding the life too slow, gave it up and entered a general store in the village of Iroquois. There he spent some months behind the counter parcelling sugar, butter, cotton, shirts and overalls.

One day his father, the late Rev. W. H. Graham, who was then a Methodist minister stationed in the neighboring town of Morrisburg, drove to Iroquois and called his son to the front of the shop.

"George," he said, "do you know what I have done? I have bought out The Morrisburg Herald for you and I want you to take hold and run it."

"Thank you, father," answered the youth. "I will do my best to make a success of the paper."

The plant was out of date and the place generally hors de combat. His father had made only a small payment down, but the young man set to work with determination and energy, and things began to move. In a few years, the debt was cleared off and the property greatly improved. The juvenile proprietor has a taste for public life and first entered upon his successful career as a public man by becoming a member of the village council. He discharged those duties so well that afterwards advancement was easy and rapid.

As Told by Col. Clarke.

Col. Hugh Clarke, the humorist of the Ontario Legislature and editor of The Kincardine Review, relates an amusing incident, brought to his memory by the recent big fire at the Parliament Buildings in Toronto. He recalls the fact that the handsome pile in Queen's Park was erected while the Hon. C. F. Fraser was Minister of Public Works in the Liberal Government then in power. Col. Clarke, being a Conservative, takes some pleasure in noting that while the work was cheaply enough done, the building has proved itself to be a veritable fire-trap. Mr. Fraser, observes the colonel, was extremely jealous of his authority, and permitted no one to interfere with him in the administration of his department. When it came to erecting the new home of the Legislature, he insisted on seeing the job through, without any advice from his colleagues. Indeed, he resented hints even from the Premier himself. It chanced that Mr. Fraser died in the building. Next morning, according to Col. Clarke, when the late Hon. A. S. Hardy was apprised of the fact, he said:

"He's dead, is he? Well—now we can drive a nail wherever we like."

Art Museum For Toronto.

An announcement of intention to organize a series of exhibitions of paintings during the coming winter is made by the Art Museum of Toronto, of which institution Byron E. Walker is chairman. The exhibitions will be open to the public and will be entirely free to visitors on Saturdays and at other times to be determined.

The first will be held in November and will consist of a loan collection of paintings from private collections in Toronto. The second will probably consist of one hundred best available examples of the art of Canadian painters; the third will probably be that of the Ontario Society of Artists, and the fourth will probably be that of the Canadian Art Club.

Customs Revenue Grows.

The customs revenue of the Dominion for the month of September shows an increase of thirty-five per cent. over September of last year. The total collections were $6,437,458, an increase of $1,409,531. For the six months of the fiscal year, the customs revenue totals $28,781,068, an increase of $5,913,360.

An Indian Proverb.

A veteran hunter who has spent many years among the Indian tribes in the far Canadian West, speaks interestingly of some wise sayings current among the dusky dwellers in the woodland. One of their proverbs is particularly valuable, because it corrects an ungenerous and too-often quoted proverb among civilized white people. When cruel gossip has caused a lot of talk about some person, we have heard the speech, "There is no smoke without fire." This has been the crutch on which many untrue statements have gone on their blighting way. An ill-report against an innocent person has frequently been kept alive by this proverb.

Now the Indians, who keep a keen eye on the forest and possess much knowledge about the elements that town dwellers never acquire, say, in their own terse manner, "Little fire, big smoke," and then apply this in their dealings with one another. It is a physical fact that slow burning green or wet wood produces volumes of dense smoke, while dry wood burning with a large blaze emits very little smoke. Would not the Indian use of this fact in making a proverb be a wiser and kinder one for us to adopt?

Daring Naturalists.

Among naturalists who have risked their lives to secure a photograph of a charging wild beast are Mr. Edward Preble and Mr. Ernest Thompson Seton, who recently journeyed to the Great Slave Lake. The party sighted a musk ox, a big, shaggy brute, with wicked, red eyes.

"Now," said Mr. Preble to Mr. Seton, "if you'll touch the button, I'll do the rest. He stepped forward, rifle in hand, and Mr. Seton followed with the camera. The moment the musk ox saw them, down he came.

The plucky men waited till he was within fifty yards. Then the camera began to click. At twenty yards Mr. Preble's rifle spoke.

The fierce brute crashed dead at Mr. Seton's very feet.

The Census in Mexico.

Census taking is a difficult business in Mexico, where the masses are in fear that the enumeration means compulsory military service or more taxes. Consequently the coming census is that country will be taken by high officials, priests and men of the greatest local prominence, in order that it may be more accurate than in the past. In the City of Mexico President Diaz himself as well as his cabinet members and the archbishop will personally assist in the work.

More Bread to the Barrel

That extra cost per barrel which you pay for doesn't go into anybody's pocket.

It covers the cost of inspecting the entire wheat crop of the country, and selecting the choicest grain.

It pays, for cleanliness, for purity and for scientific flour-making.

Willing to Entertain Her.

My entrance upon my career as a charity visitor was as a volunteer. I arrayed myself for my first attempt with misgiving in my heart. I was so afraid of my reception. I found my first address on the third floor of a rear tenement, stumbled up the dark stairs and timidly knocked at the door. It was opened instantly by a small boy who peered at me curiously.

"Is—is your mother in?" I inquired.

"No'm," was the prompt reply. "She's gone to see the doctor. But you can come in."

He held the door hospitably open, and I stepped across the threshold and entered. I selected a chair and sat down. The small boy wriggled into a chair opposite.

"I have fits," he announced, with importance.

"Wha-at?" I stammered.

"I have 'em often," he went on eagerly, "fits—real fits. I may have one any time. I might have one right now."

But I was already in the hall.

"You won't stay?" he shouted after me aggrievedly. "She'll be right back."

But a very much upset volunteer visitor was already out of hearing.—New York Herald.

A Long Dive.

"A circus came to a little town in Tennessee," said Colonel Robert M. Gates in the Saturday Evening Post, "and one of the attractions was a high diver, a chap who dove from the top of the tent into a shallow tank, which is a feat common enough, but which created a deal of talk in that locality.

"The wiseacres were talking about it at the store. Many of them thought it could not be done without killing the diver, but one old man insisted that it was perfectly feasible.

"'What do you know about diving?' he was asked.

"'Waal,' he replied, 'nothin' in particklar about that kind of divin', but I used to have a cousin who was the longest diver ye ever see.'

"'Longest diver?' scoffed the other sitters. 'Where'd he dive?'

"'Ohio,' replied the old man, 'fer a thousand dollars he could dive from Liverpool to New York.'

"'Did he do it?'

"'Nop, not that time. Ye see, he kinder miscalculated an' come up in Denver.'"

The Cynics.

Cynics was the name applied to a school of philosophers founded by Antisthenes, a pupil of Socrates. The main tenet of the extreme cynics was that civilization is a curse, and true happiness can be obtained only by gratifying the most primary physical appetites which man has in common with brutes. The general attitude of the cynics as distinguished from that of the stoics, who regarded everything in the external world with indifference, was one of contempt. They were not an important philosophical school numerically, but attracted attention largely by their eccentricities and insolence. On account of their contempt for refinement their name came subsequently to be applied to any one who takes a mean view of human life.

Barrie and His Pipe.

A recently published interview with the famous novelist and dramatist contains the following paragraph, from which it would seem that Mr. Barrie is more attentive than ever to "My Lady Nicotine:" "I spent exactly sixty-five minutes with the great dramatist. When I entered he was smoking a calabash pipe of generous proportions. He smoked it out in a purposeful way and laid it on the mantelpiece to cool. Then he felt in his right coat pocket and produced a handsome brier. This he loaded and lit. When it was done he laid it on the shelf and took out a second brier from another pocket. He smoked it out and then, assuring himself that the calabash was cool again, went back to it. He smoked three and a half pipes within the hour and finished up with a cigarette."

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the majority of women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It Makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well.

Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drugs. Is a pure glycerin extract of healing, native American roots.

THE ENGLISH POMPEII.

Site of the First Roman City Built in Britain.

Early next year it is planned to begin systematic excavation and exploration of the English Pompeii. This is the site of Verulamium, the first Roman city built in Britain, which flourished for four centuries.

The site is about a mile from St. Albans cathedral, and the area is about 150 acres. So far as has been learned, the plan of the city was similar to that of Pompeii.

There are probably few sites in Great Britain which have such a wealth of historical associations as this. Before the Romans came Verulamium was the capital of Cassir, an important British tribe, and there are traces of ancient earthworks still in existence. Tusciovanus ruled there and struck his coins in gold, silver and copper in the city. One of his sons was Cunobelin, Shakespeare's Cymbeline, and Caractacus was his brother.

When the Emperor Claudius sent an army to subjugate Britain in A. D. 42 Verulamium submitted without a protest, and the Romans, finding the city suitable, made it their headquarters and a military colony, and it received its first charter. Less than twenty years later the insurrection under Boadicea occurred, and in the city and the immediate neighborhood over 70,000 Romans were put to death, while the city was burned to the ground. But it was rebuilt in greater magnificence than before, and upon it was conferred the dignity of "municipium," or free city, York being the only other town in Britain sharing the same rights.

Verulamium henceforward until 436 when the Roman occupation of Britain came to an end, was uniformly prosperous. Its streets were lined with villas and all the customary institutions of a Roman city. Temples, baths and a theater were among its possessions.

When the country was overrun by Picts and Scots the city fell on evil times, and the end came when it was taken by the Saxons in 516 and sacked. For nearly three centuries it was in ruins, and from the founding of the monastery in 793 to the dawn of the Norman era it served as a quarry for building materials for the monks and also for the inhabitants of the new town which was springing up under their protection.

But in spite of this spoliation it is believed that the site may, when the deposits of 1,400 years are removed, provide rich results. The partial and sporadic investigations that have already been made prove this to be the case.

It is thought that a great deal of pottery and perhaps interesting art objects may be found in the ruins. A considerable number of Roman coins have been turned up from time to time by the plow. Recently the Verulamium theater was discovered, and interesting "finds" are expected when its site shall have been more fully explored.—Philadelphia North American.

To Swim Without Water.

The election of Mrs. Ella F. Young as superintendent of schools has given Physical Culture Supervisor Suder hope that he may be able to interest the school authorities in "dry swimming," as he calls gymnasium instruction in water locomotion. Statistics, Mr. Suder says, showed that from 80 to 90 per cent of the pupils who were taught "dry swimming" were able to swim the first time they entered the water.

"Between 700 and 800 persons were drowned in the United States in the summer of 1908," Mr. Suder said. "Many of these fatalities could be avoided if the pupils were taught in the schools how to swim."—Chicago Post.

Had Weak Kidneys For Two Years.

Doctor Failed to Help. Doan's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

Mr. Edouard Aspin, New Carlisle, Que., writes:—"I feel it my duty to let you know of the great cure I have obtained by using Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled with my kidneys for two years. I tried a doctor, but he failed to help me. I read in the B.B.B. Almanac about Doan's Kidney Pills, and began using them, and after the first box began to feel better. I only used four boxes and they completely cured me. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure, and would advise everyone suffering from kidney disease to try them."

Perhaps no other organs work harder than the kidneys to preserve the general health of the body and most people are troubled with some kind of Kidney Complaint, but do not suspect it. It may have been in the system for some time. There may have been backache, swelling of the feet and ankles, disturbances of the urinary organs, such as brick dust deposit in the urine, highly colored, scanty or cloudy urine, bladder pains, frequent or suppressed urination, burning sensation when urinating, etc.

Do not neglect any of these symptoms, for, if neglected they will eventually lead to Bright's Disease, Dropsy and Diabetes.

REPORT SEEING SEA SERPENT.

Fishermen, Residents of a "Dry" Town, Declare They Saw Reptile in the Pacific.

Guy Griffith, James Harvey and three other fishermen who were out in the launch Reta, report that when 18 miles off the coast they sighted a sea serpent 40 feet long, with a brown head as big around as a small barrel and eyes as large as a man's fist. The serpent is said to have moved its head from side to side as a snake does, and had a big dorsal fin 15 feet back of the head.

The fishermen say the same monster has been reported within the last few months near the Philippines and along the northern coast of this country.

They furthermore aver that a heavy sinker, which one of the five threw at the sea serpent as the boat was pulling away from the unsafe neighborhood, was caught in the creature's mouth and spit back with such force as to make a deep dent in the fish box on deck.

"Never saw such a spitter," said one of the men; "just like a young cannon." Long Beach is a "dry" town. —Long Beach (Cal.) Dispatch to the New York World.

HAVE PROPER SELF-RESPECT.

One of the Greatest Mistakes Possible to Make Is That of Holding Oneself Too Cheap.

Do not hold yourself too cheap. If you do not think well of yourself others are not likely to think much of you. You are usually taken at your own value. By this is not meant a foolish self-conceit, but a proper self-respect.

Have a regard for the esteem of those whose opinion is worth having. No one can be admired by all. He who has no enemies may doubt whether he has real friends. Try to win the regard of the good and the wise; if the foolish take offense pass it by.

Think too well of yourself to stoop to anything coarse, mean or untrue. However humble your station in life may be, you may think yourself worthy only of that which is good and true. To be genuine puts you on a high level. Whatever your purse, you may be rich in character. Think yourself worthy of the best to which you can attain. Aim for the highest you see, and should you fail to reach it, you will still be higher than if your aim had been low.

Dreamers.

Day dreams, castles in Spain, figments of the imagination—ah, how we laugh at them all nowadays! They are good enough for the little ones, for the boys and girls, perhaps, but as for us—we have long ago outgrown them. With what gusto we speak of So-and-So as a hard-headed chap, a money getter, while we dismiss his rival with a lift of the brows as "an impractical fellow."

Shame upon us for it, too! God give us more dreamers. I pray; more of those whose inner eye is free of cataract. We need them here in America to-day; we are too practical a people. We are young in years, but we have fought an aging battle for the supremacy of a great continent. We have come up out of the struggle with the rich trophies of victory fast clutched in our calloused hands. We have worked desperately hard for them, and they are good to look upon —but ye must have a care now lest we bow down before them in abject fetish worship.—Charles Francis Read, in Smart Set.

Farm Colonies for Tramps.

Perhaps most tramps have no desire to work, preferring to cling to their habits of shiftlessness, but there are doubtless many men in the ranks who would settle down to the serious task of making money and improving their condition if they had the proper training. The latter may and probably will, be rescued by a term on the "farm," but the veteran who has walked rails when no freights were available; who has shied at anything savoring of labor; who has begged or stolen what food he has obtained, cannot be reformed. He will go on until the end in his old way, a scourge to humanity and a disgrace to civilization. Usefulness was never and can never be for him. To the extent of the number constituting this class the farm colony will be a failure.

He Got None.

"What's a pun, father?"

"A pun, my son, is a play upon words. There are three kinds of puns: Good ones, which you laugh at; indifferent ones, which you take no notice of, and bad ones, which make you throw something at the punster."

"Can't you make a pun, father?"

"Of course, my son! Now, you're thinking about your supper, aren't you?"

"Yes, father."

"Well, that's upper-most in your mind at the present time. That, you see, is a play on—Here, you young rascal, what did you throw that book at me for?"

Investing in Nature.

A man must invest himself near at hand, and in common things, and be content with a steady and moderate return, if he would know the blessedness of a cheerful heart and the sweetness of a walk over the round earth. This is a lesson the American has yet to learn—capability of amusement on a low key. He expects rapid and extraordinary returns. He would make the very elemental laws pay usury. He has nothing to invest in a walk; it is too slow, too cheap. We crave the astonishing, the exciting, the far away, and do not know the highways of the gods when we see them—always a sign of the decay of faith and simplicity of man.—John Burroughs.

JUDGMENT OF HUMAN NATURE.

But One Infallible Way by Which Test Can Be Made, According to One Writer.

Some people claim to make a study of human nature. They will tell you they can read character at sight—know faces and what they index. Let us grant all this to be so—maybe they can. Then again, maybe they can't—they only think they can. Faces don't always tell the whole story. Behind the frown and the knitted brow may lurk a big heart and a soul full of healing humor. Behind the easy smile may skulk the worst old wolf of a temper you ever saw. Often you will face a face so closed up you wouldn't ask it for a cent, itching to subscribe heavily to your half-dozen benevolent schemes in your inside pocket. Then again a face so bland you think you could say "Brickelbrit" to it, and see it cough up specie, like the donkey in the fairy tale, will cough up nothing. A man tells me that to study human nature in the wood you need to be a person of little influence, and to go around with a subscription paper for some religious or charitable object. Then you find out. Because you have no personal influence the cause looks the giver (or the non-giver) right smack in the face, and the nature of the person concerned will be as evident as an open-faced watch. Whether much, little or nothing be given matters little, but the spirit matters a whole lot—so the informant tells us.

TOUCHES THEIR TENDER SPOT.

Most Men Have Weakness for Being Photographed on Horseback, Says Observant Photographer.

A young man went out with a camera one morning not long ago and took seven snap shots of early morning horseback riders. He sent proofs of the pictures that turned out well to the men who were photographed and every one of the men sent him an order to finish up a few of the pictures.

"Of course they did," said a more experienced amateur photographer when he heard about it. "A man will always buy a picture of himself on a horse—unless he's an unusually poor rider and looks bad on a horse. No matter how modest a man is, you catch him at the one time when you may appeal to his vanity, when he's mounted on a good riding horse."

The Characteristic National Meal.

It is not only in Scotland that breakfast is the characteristic national meal, says the London Chronicle. Travel where you may, the first meal of the day is the one that strikes the foreign note, luncheon and dinner having gradually absorbed cosmopolitan qualities that are not even confined to hotels. But you never feel so much of an Englishman as when Switzerland gives you rolls and butter and honey, and nothing more, with your coffee, or when France makes this into one exquisite crumbling "croissant," with an inch or two from a yard long loaf, or when Denmark adds cream instead of milk to the coffee and a dangerous piece of pastry to the black bread and round white roll.

Yet our English breakfast became an institution only in the eighteenth century. Before that only royalty breakfasted off meat, bread and cheese and ale. The commoner, such such as Pepys, took merely a morning draught of buttered ale.

Married Women Must Work.

As long as women workers stop work at marriage they will continue to be, as a class, low-paid, over-worked unskilled, looking only to the day and never to the future, entering industry casually without training, retiring from it unexpectedly without warning, hard to organize into trade unions, hard to interest in technical improvements, hard to inspire with financial ambition, behaving, in every respect, with the utmost good sense, just exactly in the manner in which any class of admittedly and consciously temporary workers should behave. It is hard to believe that such a situation can be right either for women or for industry. The women lose opportunities. Industry loses abilities.—Everybody's.

His Business Ability.

In the Adirondacks lives a man too lazy to work, but evidently of great business ability. One winter, when he was sitting around smoking, his family came so near starving that some of his neighbors, who could ill afford to help him, took up a collection and bought for the suffering family a barrel of flour, a barrel of pork and a load of wood. They were not considerate enough to cut the wood, but the business man knew how to manage. He hired some of his neighbors who had not contributed to his donation to cut the wood, and paid them with half of the pork and half the flour.—Lippincott's.

Woman's Right to Fish.

All man's heritage of fresh-air pleasure lies at woman's feet. She may ride, she may walk, and, best of all, she may camp and she may fish. Furthermore, let me remind those lords of creation who may still desire to defraud her of this goodly privilege, that whatever their rights in other directions, to the honest art of angling in a literary sense she has the prior claim. Long before the gentle Walton walked, rod in hand, beside the country streams, long before he wrote his charming classic Dame Juliana Berners, a sporting abbess of the fifteenth century, compiled her "Treastyse on Fyshyng." If the cuts and description of rod and tackle are somewhat ponderous and out of date, the opening argument breathing the love of nature, is eternally young.—Country Life in America.

GOBELINS.

The Rise and Decadence of the Art of Tapestry.

Each year the problem of finding recruits to keep alive the glories of Gobelins becomes more difficult. It is the converse of one of Adam Smith's "canons of wages," the difficulty of attainment does not in this case secure a corresponding remuneration, and youths, or their parents for them, think of occupations which permit their children to become wage earners at a much earlier age than if they settled down as artists of Gobelins.

Gobelins takes its rise from the time of Henry IV. of France, who brought workers from Bearne, near the Pyrenees, as Henry of Navarre. His edict is dated 1607. In their infancy the ateliers produced "Moise sauve des eaux" and "Artemise" and "La fille de Jephte." The zenith of the glory of Gobelins was under Louis XIV. This was under the direction of Colbert.

Under Lebrun marvel succeeded marvel, which found place in the palaces of the kings or princely dwellings. Among the masterpieces, says the London Globe, were "Les Elements" and "Les Saisons," "L'Historie du Roi," "Les Enfants Jardiniers," "Les Mois" and "L'Histoire d'Alexandre." Suddenly there was a change. The workers no longer created, they copied pictures, and with the diffusion of pictorial copies commences the decadence of the art of tapestry.

THE STOLEN BICYCLE.

An Exciting Chase That Ended in an All Around Capture.

A cyclist had left his machine outside a shop, and he emerged just in time to see a man riding away on it. Three other cyclists had put up for refreshments close by, and one of their machines, a tandem, was seized by the victim of the theft for the purpose of pursuit. This hasty act was observed by a passing pedestrian, who instantly and indignantly mounted the remaining machine and dashed after the cyclist who was chasing the thief.

A second later the owner of the last mentioned bicycle rushed wildly out, and, seeing no other bicycle handy on which to give chase, jumped into a cab. Here there were three men on stolen cycles and the fourth man in a cab all racing as if mad. The man on the tandem finally caught the ..., the next man caught him and the next caught him, and so on, until there was a very complicated row.

In the end there was an explanation. The thief was locked up and ultimately sentenced for two months. Evidently his pride was more wounded by the street episode than by the sentence, for he boastfully declared that no single man on a tandem ever would have caught him had he not been riding in long trousers.—Exchange.

The Wealth of Croesus.

Croesus was the king of Lydia, a state in Asia Minor, and ascended the throne about 562 B. C. His name has ever been a synonym for wealth, "as rich as Croesus" having been a proverb from his own time, but the most liberal estimates of his property, so far as descriptions of it have come down to us, make it worth in our money about $10,000,000. His riches were derived from gold mines near Sardis, the capital of Lydia, and from the plunder of numerous surrounding states. The kingdom of Lydia was overrun by Cyrus, the Persian conqueror, and, according to the best authorities, Croesus was taken prisoner and kept in the train of Cyrus. The court of Croesus was considered one of the most refined and elegant of ancient times, and the ruins of the royal palace and the other magnificent buildings are still to be seen on the site of Sardis.

A Costly Experiment.

An enterprising Australian millionaire named Leonard took a trip to Peru some years ago. He saw great flocks of the alpaca wandering on the Andes. Being a woolgrower himself he was struck with their splendid fleece. He resolved to buy some and take them home. He found that the Peruvian government absolutely prohibited their export. He tried by bartering a special ship to smuggle some off, but was unsuccessful. Then the idea occurred to him of taking them out of the country eastward. He bought a large flock, engaged trusty men and had the creatures driven over the passes, 18,000 feet above sea level, and then clean across the continent to Buenos Aires. This little expedition cost him $15,000. But the long march had so weakened the animals that they all died on the voyage.

The Funny Door.

"How children do coin words and phrases for a household!" exclaimed the young mother. "When my little boy first began to talk he called every sort of opening a 'door.' It was an association of ideas for him, and he applied it to everything. One night as his father took off his shoes a hole in his stocking was disclosed. 'Funny door, funny door!' exclaimed the little chap gleefully. And now in our family a hole in the stocking is always a 'funny door.'"

Lady Passenger's Log.

It was blowing rather hard, and there was a nasty sea on an hour and a half before the first breakfast bugle. An officer of an ocean liner hurried along the passage between the staterooms, and a timid voice called to him:

"Oh, Mr. Officer, please stop!"

He turned and saw a dear old lady with a wrapper thrown around her peeping through her half open door.

"Yes, madam," said the officer.

"Mr. Officer, please would you call this a gale?" asked the old lady anxiously.

"Oh, no, madam! There's not the least danger, I assure you."

"Well, is it half a gale?"

"Not even half a gale, and this is such an excellent sea boat that you needn't worry a bit," explained the officer.

"Well, what would you call it, please?" said the lady, steadying herself as the vessel rolled.

"Just a fresh nor'west breeze, madam, with a cross sea running. But, really, there's nothing to fear."

"Thank you so much. I just wanted to get it quite right in my diary, you know."—New York Times.

A Chinese Superstition.

Fengshui is the Chinese superstition that determines good site or locality, and if a town on the Yangtze has not a good fengshui trade will not come to it, and it will be ruined. A town named Peishih had its pagoda in the wrong place—not far enough down the river—and the result was that all traffic which should have come to it was swept past. Peishih being left out in the cold. The people pulled down the pagoda and built another one in the supposed right spot, as nothing would convince them that the depression could arise from any other cause than that of a bad fengshui.

The city of Wanshein, on the other hand, has a perfect fengshui, two fine pagodas, and is very prosperous. But the fact that Wanshein is situated in a fertile valley, where wheat, barley and the poppy flourish abundantly, while Peishih is barren and miserable, does not concern the inhabitants so much as the fengshui site. This remarkable idea in the Chinese mind is only one of thousands like it.

Mastication.

"The body is a manufactory," said a doctor recently. "It has to manufacture bone and blood and muscle and brain out of bread and butter, eggs, beef and milk, and a wonderful process it is. Now, the first part of the process takes place in the mouth, and, as in most factories, the first is the most important. If a wrong start is made, everything that follows is put wrong. If the food isn't well masticated and mixed with the saliva, the stomach, the liver and the intestines are thrown out of gear; consequently most of the more advanced doctors are paying a great deal of attention to the condition of their patients' teeth. They know, to garble Shakespeare a bit, that "good digestion waits on mastication, and health on both."—New York Tribune.

How Letters Strike Our Eyes.

Roman letters of various sizes are commonly called into request by oculists in testing vision. Recent experiments show great differences in the ease with which the various letters are recognised by the same person. T is especially difficult of recognition and is apt to be mistaken for Y. By a similar optical illusion the angle of L is rounded off, making the letter resemble a reversed J. V is the easiest of all letters to recognise, and O presents little difficulty. K is more easily recognized than H, which resembles it closely, and both N and Z are easily recognised. A is easily guessed at from its general form, but is difficult of positive recognition, including distinct perception of the horizontal line. E and F are among the most difficult of all letters.

Discouraging.

A pompous man went into a drug store early the other morning to buy a cigar. The only person he found there was the soda water dispenser. The boy was sweeping out the store.

"Sweeping out, eh?" said the man "Well, that's how I got my start."

The boy looked him over and replied. "Aw, what do you want to discourage me like that for?"

When the man left he was frowning.—Denver Post.

Edifying.

Gentleman (looking for rooms)—Did you say a music teacher occupies the next apartment? That cannot be very pleasant. Landlady (eagerly) — Oh that's nothing. He has eleven children, and they make so much noise you can't hear the piano.—Harper's Bazar.

The Captain's Regret.

"Some years ago," said a military man, "there was a certain German private soldier named Andree. This was a short time after Aeronaut Andree's sensational departure for the north pole in his airship. Well, the kaiser, reviewing some troops one day asked a number of men their names and Andree was among this number. The kaiser smiled at him good humoredly.

"'So your name is Andree, eh?' the kaiser said. 'Do you know you've got a very famous namesake?'

"'Yes, your majesty,' the soldier answered.

"'And who told you that?' said the kaiser.

"'My captain, your majesty,' said the soldier.

"'Aha, your captain, eh? And what did your captain tell you about Andree?'

"'He said, your majesty, that he only wished Andree had taken me with him!'"

The Broom at the Masthead.

There still exists a very old custom among seamen of displaying a broom at the masthead of ships intended to be sold to indicate that they are to be "swept away." The custom originated with the famous Dutch admiral Tromp, who when he appeared off the English coast hoisted a broom to show his intention of sweeping the English fleet from the sea. The English admiral, replying to this impertinent signal, immediately hoisted a horsewhip to the masthead of his ship to show the arrogant Dutchman that he meant to give him a drubbing. For this reason a pennant is oftentimes dubbed "the horsewhip" by seafaring men. Sea lore, of course, is full of symbolism, and the broom is only one of many signs used that have a metaphorical meaning.—London Globe.

Perversity.

"One peculiarity of melancholia," said a specialist, "is that the victim of it actually enjoys the despondency and often doesn't want to be cured. I once told a young woman who had this disease that she must be careful of her digestion and eat nothing fried. After that she tried to eat only fried food. Not only did she insist on having her potatoes and meat fried, but didn't want to eat bread unless it had been fried in a lot of grease."—New York Tribune.

A MAGISTRATE'S EVIDENCE IN FAVOR OF ZAM-BUK

Zam-Buk wins favor wherever tried! The Magistrate whose words are quoted below tried it thoroughly and now tells the result. If you suffer from any skin disease or injury mark well his words!

The Pavilion, Cold Fields, B.C.

After a very fair trial I have proved Zam-Buk eminently satisfactory. It cured me of a skin rash of five years standing which no doctor had been able to do any good for. I do certainly encourage any person to keep Zam-Buk in their homes. It truly does more than you claim for it. Yours very truly,

ROGER F. PERRY, Justice of Peace for B.C.

Chronic Sore Quite Healed.

Mrs. M. A. Harris of 69 Chestnut St., St. Thomas, Ont., says:—"My husband had a running sore on his ankle for about two months. Zam-Buk showed satisfactory results from the first application (although other salves had failed), cleaning and healing the open wound. We have also found Zam-Buk unequalled for Cuts, Burns, Sores, etc., and have great confidence in recommending it to others."

ZAM-BUK CURES eczema, ringworm, scalp sores, ulcers, chronic sores or open wounds, barber's rash, blood-poisoning, cold-sores, cracked hands, cuts, scalds, salt rheum and all skin injuries and diseases. It is also a sure cure for piles.

CHRISTMAS STAMP CAMPAIGN

THE 1909 BATTLE AGAINST THE DREAD WHITE PLAGUE.

Available Beds in the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives Increased Three-Fold as a Result of Last Year's Sale of Christmas Stamps. The Number Can Be Doubled This Year If Everyone Will Help.

STIMULATED by the success of a year ago the National Sanitarium Association have made large preparations for the sale of the Christmas Stamp of 1909-10, issued on behalf of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Nearly $6,000.00 was netted from last year's sale, making it possible for the trustees to increase the available beds for needy patients from an average of fifty-five a year ago to one hundred and forty, the accommodation to-day.

The trustees are hopeful that they may bring the accommodation up to 200 beds as the outcome of this year's sale of this little one cent messenger of hope and healing.

The Christmas Stamp, as a means of fighting the dread white plague, had its origin in Denmark in 1904, the sale from which has financed a hospital for consumptives in that country. The idea was taken up by the Red Cross Society of the United States in 1907, and interest has grown each year.

A year ago a Christmas stamp of special design was put in circulation by the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives with the success already indicated in this article.

The price of the individual stamp is only one cent, but what wonderful things can be accomplished by so tiny an instrument. There is no reason why everyone who writes a letter, addresses a postcard, mails a newspaper or parcel from this day out should not use one of these stamps.

The educational value of the stamp appearing on every piece of mail matter would be enormous. One can hardly figure up the material results. It would mean a routing of the enemy Tuberculosis that would bring hope and joy and gladness to thousands of homes and communities in all parts of Canada.

The stamp of 1909 is more beautiful than that of a year ago. The design is as shown in this article, but printed in red and green, and is of same size as the regular government postage stamp.

This Christmas stamp will not carry any kind of mail, but any kind of mail will carry it—and carry too the happy Season's Greetings from sender to receiver. The stamps will be done up in envelopes of ten, twenty-five, fifty and one hundred for ordinary selling, and large users will be supplied in quantities. The price for ten or for one thousand is a cent each.

The banks, departmental stores, drug stores, book and stationery stores and many other stores will sell them. Women's clubs, church organizations, bible classes and Sunday schools, public schools, and many other organizations and individuals will help this year as last year.

There would seem to be no reason why everybody everywhere may not help in forming an army of willing workers to sell these stamps all over the Dominion. The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives is in the fullest sense a national institution caring for patients from every province in Canada.

The first issue of the stamp for this year is one million, and these will be put into circulation immediately, but there can hardly be any reason why the issue should not be increased many times over before Christmas.

The direction of the sale of Christmas Stamps is in the hands of Mr. J. S. Robertson, Sec.-Treasurer, National Sanitarium Association, 347 King Street, West, Toronto, who will give prompt reply to any enquiries regarding the stamp.

THE HUNCHBACK.

Romance of the Duke de Richelieu and Mlle. de Rochechouart.

The Duke de Richelieu married when seventeen years of age Mlle. de Rochechouart, a little girl of twelve. As was the custom in the eighteenth century, the young bridegroom set out on his travels after the ceremony, and the child wife remained with his relations in Paris. Three years passed, and the duke (then Count de Chinon, who had received many charming letters and a charming miniature from his wife during his absence, determined to return home.

On his arrival he was met on the grand staircase of the Hotel de Richelieu by his family, and, to his horror, instead of the pretty girl of fifteen that he expected to see, the count saw a little hunchback who was none other than his wife. The unhappy young man, who was horror stricken, left Paris that night and for fifteen years remained away.

The poor little wife possessed a beautiful and generous disposition, and, so far from being embittered by her husband's behavior, she did her best to prevent any family dissensions arising through it and went to live on her estate of Courtelles, near Paris. It is said that she was deeply in love with the duke, and in time the accounts of her unselfishness and devotion to his family so touched her husband that he went to visit her.

The first visit led to many, and this strange couple became firm friends, and just before he died the duke contemplated residing permanently at Courtelles with his wife, from whom he had fled in disgust many years before.

TRANSPLANTED A POND.

Showing What an Enthusiast Will Do to Have a Garden.

Many a country laborer will do much for the sake of a garden, but few perhaps would be willing to go to such pains in the pursuit of their hobby as did an enthusiastic navvy with whom Dean Hole once came in contact.

This man, having obtained the position of gatekeeper on a railway, found himself the possessor of a barren gravel pit as an apology for a garden. The dean, who knew the spot well, visited it some twelve months after the man had taken possession, and the sight which met his eyes astonished him.

"Was it a mirage I saw upon the sandy desert? There were vegetables, fruit, bushes and fruit trees, all in vigorous health. There were flowers and the queen flower in her glory."

"'Why,' I exclaimed, 'what have you done to the gravel pit?'

"'Lor' bless yer,' he replied, grinning, 'I hadn't been here a fortnight afore I swopped it for a pond.'"

A further inquiry elicited the fact that this most ardent garden lover had, after an agreement with a neighboring farmer, removed with pick and barrow his sandy stratum to the depth of about three feet and wheeled it to the margin of an old pond, which had been gradually filled up with leaves and silt. The rich, productive mold from the pond he had taken home to his garden, replacing it with gravel and leveling as per contract.—Westminster Gazette.

Antiquity of Nicknames.

The origin of the word as well as the exact date of appearance of the custom of "nicknaming" is unknown. Such names are as old at least as the most venerable chronicles, for upon diving into ancient history we have no trouble at all in proving that Plato was called the "Attic Bee" and Socrates "Old Flat Nose." There isn't the least doubt but that many of our surnames come from nicknames applied to our ancestors, such, for instance, as "Dollarhide," "Oxenrider," "Bright," "Lightfoot," "Walkingshaw," "Redhead," "Longman," "Longfellow," etc. Julius Caesar was popularly styled "Baldhead," and even the third Rameses is said to have been known by an Egyptian word which signifies "limpy." No one has been able to escape the blighting or benign influence of the nickname. Kings, queens, philosophers, divines, statesmen, as well as many other eminent persons, have been made to prosper or suffer by having some appropriate or ridiculous sobriquet bestowed upon them.

I Remember.

I remember, I remember the house where I was born; the voice of dad that bellowed forth to rouse me every morn; the picnic that I always had when winter breezes blew to clear the sidewalk of the snow, the chores I had to do. I remember, I remember, the old time days in school, the lickings that I always got for breaking some darned rule; the moonlight nights I used to go out in the old bob sleigh and hug and kiss the pretty girls beneath the robes and hay. I remember, I remember, oh, no, I'll not forget; I'd like to wander back again to these old days, you bet!

Just a Ruse.

"Will you take something to drink?"

"With pleasure."

The photograph was taken, and the sitter said, "But what about that little invitation?"

"Oh, sir, that is just a trade ruse of mine to give a natural and interested expression to the face."—London Answers.

It Would Not Be.

"It is odd that Peary and Cook found the pole in a mass of ice."

"Why odd?"

"One would naturally suppose the pole to be in a chopping sea."—Baltimore American.

LORD SELKIRK'S COLONISTS.

They Made Up the Only Utopia Britain Has Ever Had.

"Britain's one Utopia—Selkirkia"—is the theme of Dr. George Bryce's spirited new book, "The Romantic Settlement of Lord Selkirk's Colonists." He has connected the writing of the story with the proposed centenary in 1912. Everyone who reads his history must have a similar impression of the founding and settlement of Winnipeg. Dr. Bryce's style is particularly graphic, and he has been at pains to make his history attractive to the average reader. Whenever possible he sets down the recollections of an eye-witness of any event connected with the history of the Selkirk settlement. At the present time he says no one is living who saw Lord Selkirk, but he has conversed with men who remembered him very well and from their description he gives a convincing picture of the Scottish nobleman who could not see his countrymen sent away from their native land without founding a new home for them where they would be as happy as they had been in Scotland, and more prosperous. "He was tall in stature, thin and refined in appearance. He had a benignant face, his manner was easy and polite. To the Indians he was specially interesting. They caught the idea that being a man of title he was in some way closely connected with their Great Father the King. Because of his generosity to them in making a treaty, they called him the Silver Chief. He was the source of their treaty money."

The writer's powers of description are well-known. There is as well in the book a great deal of vivid Celtic imagination. The Assiniboine is likened to the Tiber and the sufferings of the band of Selkirk settlers, who were dispossessed by the North-West fur traders, are said to be out of all comparison greater than those endured either by the Acadians or the U. E. Loyalists. When the historian writes of a buffalo hunt, or the gathering of the fur traders in spring, of Seven Oaks, the grasshopper plague, the floods on the Red River, and the long journey of the settlers from Hudson Bay to Winnipeg, he carries his readers along with him as only a writer of imagination and apt phraseology can.

He claims for the Selkirk settlement that it held the West for Canada and that no other American colony had such a continuous distressing struggle for existence as these Scottish settlers. It is a heroic story of suffering, conflict and rivalry, of slow adaptation to circumstances which no one had yet learned to conquer, and it is a story which everyone should know.

The Birch Canoe.

"I am dying," sighed the Birch Tree, "my life is nearly done, and of what use have I been to the world? Here have I stood for years, warmed by the sun, bathed in the rain, buffeted by the winds of heaven. What good has it all been—now I am dying?"

Through the woods strode a young Indian chief, stalwart and swift of foot, capable and keen-eyed; his gaze wandered from tree to tree as if in search of something, but anon he shook his head; as he came out of the forest he espied the old Birch Tree close to the water's edge. A glad light came into his face, and he cried, "Of the bark of this tree will I make a boat for my True Love."

He cut the tree down and stripped off the beautiful brown and white bark and skillfully shaped it into a little craft the like of which no man had ever seen before. A paddle he fashioned out of a bit of the wood of the tree; when the tiny boat floated like a lily upon the water, he clapped his hands for joy.

Then he paddled across the lake to where his True Love dwelt.

"See," said he, "other chiefs take squaws to carry burdens, but I have made a boat to carry you." And he lifted her in and they went back together to the root of the old Birch Tree and there they pitched their tent, that every day the spirit of the old tree might see itself in its beautiful new life upon the water.

No Jewish Lullabies.

It is remarkable that, notwithstanding the love and devotion of a Jewish mother, there seems to be no trace of a recent Jewish lullaby. Those known are of a recent origin.—American Hebrew.

Her Gamble.

"Did you ever gamble, ma?"

"Only once, my son."

"And when was that?"

"When I married your father."—Princeton Gazette.

Skin Diseases.

Under this name such troubles as Salt Rheum, Eczema, Erysipelas, Tetter, Shingles, Psoriasis, Scurf, Itching Rashes, Eruptions, Boils, Pimples, etc., are included. Skin diseases, as a rule, are not dangerous, but are unsightly, irritating and often terribly annoying to the sufferer; they depend mainly on bad blood, from one cause or another, for if the blood is pure and the circulation good no skin disease can exist, except it arise from lack of proper cleanliness or from contagion.

To get rid of skin diseases it is necessary to observe strictly all the laws of health; maintain regular action of the bowels; avoid high living, eating only plain nourishing food. Cleanse and keep the blood pure by taking Burdock Blood Bitters, which unlocks all the secretions, and makes new rich blood by acting on the entire system.

Had Salt Rheum Six Years.

Mrs. E. M. Myers, East Jeddore, N.S., writes:—"I don't think there is anyone in this Dominion can recommend Burdock Blood Bitters more than I can. I suffered terribly with Salt Rheum for six years, and did everything for it without relief. For curiosity sake I bought six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters, and it completely cured me. I would advise others to use it."

For sale by all dealers. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

TAYLOR'S TUB TALKS

Don't Boil Clothes

It isn't necessary—it's expensive and it means doubling your work. You don't have to boil clothes when you use Taylor's Borax Soap, for it dissolves and removes the dirt in a jiffy—yet it never harms the daintiest textures, nor shrinks woolens.

It leaves everything whiter, sweeter and cleaner than you ever dreamed possible. Try it and see.

TUB TALK No. 2

To wash colored muslins, linens or lawns, first make a strong suds with Taylor's Borax Soap and luke warm water. Wet but one piece at a time. Unless the article is very much soiled, do not run the soap directly on the article. Rub gently with the hands until perfectly clean. Wring out the clothes, and rinse thoroughly in water of the same temperature as that previously used. Never boil colored clothes! A very little Taylor's Borax Soap added to boiled starch will prevent it from sticking, and makes the clothes iron smoother and easier.

MR. JONES IN AN EMERGENCY.

Except for Single Unfortunate Incident He Was Just the Man to Deal with It.

When Jones reached home the other night he found Mrs. Jones huddled up in a corner of the sofa weeping, and about four inches of water on the kitchen floor.

The Joneses hadn't been married very long, so he contented himself with a general remark concerning the nonresourcefulness of women and asked how it happened.

"The water pipe under the sink burst," Mrs. Jones told him.

Jones smiled pityingly, walked deliberately to the kitchen closet and produced a wrench. Opening the cellar door with a confident air he descended to the region below.

After bumping at least seven obstacles he finally reached the wall and reached out for the cock which he had noticed in a pipe which traversed the wall. He applied his wrench and shut it off.

Patting himself on the back for being able to cope with an emergency, he started back upstairs. Just halfway up the steps he bumped into his wife.

Mrs. Jones was the first to speak.

"O, dear," she said, "what in the world did you turn off the gas for?"—Philadelphia Times.

NOT THE SPEAKER'S PROVINCE

Orator to Follow Was Proper Person to Comply with Request of Enthusiast.

Preachers of all denominations occupied chairs upon the platform. They were giving their voices and influence to the overthrow of a political boss. The Presbyterian clergyman had the floor and most vigorously attacked the enemy. He delivered some fierce, telling thrusts, and the audience was with him. The boss received some cruel jabs.

"That's right, soak him!" encouraged a man with a stentorian voice who had standing room in the rear.

As the clergyman warmed up to his subject the interrupting "soak him!" came from the rear with greater power and frequency.

The speaker paused. He was not irritated, but gently threw the audience into a good-natured hysteria by saying:

"The intentions of the gentleman in the rear are good, but wholly inopportune and ill advised. If he'll kindly reserve his comments for the next speaker, Brother Herrick of the Baptist church, he'll be accommodated, no doubt."

QUEER TRAITS OF CRIMINALS.

Sentenced to Prison Terms, They Frequently Mourn for Pets They Are Leaving Behind Them.

The New York central office detective had just sent one of the worst criminals in the city away for a long long rest.

"Did he give you any trouble?" asked a friend.

"No, he did a good deal of crying, though."

"For some woman, I suppose?"

"Woman? Rather not! They never cry for human beings. This fellow had a wife who had stuck by him through the trial, and who, before he was caught, worked her fingers off for him. Then there were two children. But he never mentioned them. He was crying about his flight, his pigeons, you know. He had about 60 fancy ones, and whenever he thought of what would become of them while he was away tears would spring to his eyes. A lot of the worst crooks and gangsters in the city are fanciers, and a kid couldn't be more sentimental than they are. Sometimes, too, they are sorry for dogs. I knew one who was more anxious about his ferret than anything else. At the same time I never knew a criminal, man or woman, who had a cat among the things they were sorry to leave behind."

PUMP AIR INTO DEAD WHALE.

Hunter's Prize Made Sufficiently Buoyant to Float, Marked with Buoy and Set Adrift.

Then began the work of bringing the whale to the surface and blowing it up so that it would float. Taking a hitch about a convenient post, the rope was slacked and run through a pulley block at the mast head to relieve the strain of raising the great body. The winch was set in motion and for 15 minutes nothing was heard save the monotonous grind as fathom after fathom of line was wound in. When the body was brought alongside the lobes of the flukes were cut off and lifted to the deck. Then a long coil of small rubber hose, one end of which was attached to a pump, and the other to a hollow, spear-pointed tube of steel with perforations along its entire length, was brought into play. The spear was jabbed well down into the whale's side, the air pump started and the body slowly filled with air. When inflated sufficiently to keep it afloat the tube was withdrawn, the incision plugged with oakum and the chains cast off. A buoy with a flag was then attached to the carcass and the whole set adrift to be picked up at the end of the day's hunting.—Popular Magazine.

An Instantaneous Cure.

During the cattle plague of 1866 in England a farmer who had lost a number of his cows grew so depressed that he fully persuaded himself he had also contracted the disease. The medical man whom he consulted tried in vain to laugh him out of his fears, but subsequently, being fond of a joke, pretended to agree with the patient's views, and solemnly told him if he would attend to his instructions he would be cured. He then gave the farmer a prescription, which he directed should be taken to a neighboring druggist, but when the latter opened the envelope and read the contents he was as much startled as the farmer. For the prescription was as follows: "This man has the cattle plague. Take him into the backyard and shoot him, according to act of parliament." Needless to say, the cure was instantaneous.

How the "Toast" Originated.

The drinking to one's health is a very old custom, dating way down the ages. In the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries the favorite drinks were sack, canary, claret, sherry—to which were added honey, sugar, ginger and other spices. On the top of this mixture a piece of toasted bread was always floated. It was supposed to give the necessary flavor. Hence the idea of drinking a "toast." The word is used in reference to any sentiment proposed for a speech at a social gathering or banquet. In fact, the making of "toasts" is a very graceful art, worthy of cultivation.

Thin Skinnedness.

"The most unpleasant kind of vanity to meet with," writes a reader, "is thin skinnedness. The thin-skinned person is always on the lookout for slights and takes every allusion to himself. His amour propre must be consulted on every occasion, thereby making every one around constrained and unnatural for fear of hurting him. He is a wet blanket everywhere, and one cannot help a feeling of relief whenever he leaves."—Home Chat.

TALE OF BRITTANY FOLKLORE

Piper Who Played for the Unholy Korrigans, and the Curse Thereby Entailed.

The korrigans are the black dwarfs of Brittany who dwell in the sacred Druidic circles of the menhirs and count their cash in the moonshine. When mere mortals encounter them by night the korrigans force their visitors to dance with them around and around, singing monotonously the names of the days of the week from Monday to Sunday. This is the theme of the best known tradition dealing with them, the story of Lao and the korrigans. Lao was a prize piper and came to set the dance at the pardon of Armor. Women, terrified at their discovery of a korrigan town, besought him to avoid the little black folk, but he laughed them down. Bravely enough he went to the korrigan town, but terror came over him in the dark when he heard whispered sounds and dimly saw dark shadows marching with him in the gloom. Then the moon rose and the little creatures bade him play for their dance. All night long he played upon his pipes and the little people capered about him on the grass. Not a note did he miss until the moonlight faded and the cock crew, sounding dawn, gave the signal for his companions to vanish. All the night he had played, obedient to the magic cry "Pipe, prize piper, pipe and set the dance of the korrigans!" Exhausted with the coming of the day, the bag-piper left his pipes and he fell aheap at the foot of the menhir, and the last sound which fell upon his drowsy ears was "Sleep, prize piper, sleep! Thou hast set the dance of the korrigans; never more shalt thou set a Christian dance!"

CAT WHIPPED GOPHER SNAKE

Reptile Was the Aggressor and Paid for Its Temerity with Its Life.

Now comes an account of a fight that took place near Laton between a large gopher snake and a house cat. This contest was witnessed by Dr. C. W. Hardman, who says that the spectacle was worth going a long way to see. The feline was the victor, but the snake did not succumb until after he had fought for an hour.

The snake started the trouble by striking at pussy while the latter was out searching for stray mice. No sooner had the cat recovered from his surprise after being slapped than he returned the compliment. Of course pussy was rather frightened at the start, but he recovered quickly. As the snake recoiled after the slapping episode, Tabby ran in and with a quick movement dug his claws into the snake's body. The snake struck back but fell short. Then Tabby ran in and scored again. By this time the gopher snake was pretty angry. He struck at Tabby again and again, but he failed to land. Meanwhile the feline kept up its systematic attack until the reptile bled to death from its numerous wounds.—Fresno Herald.

Pie.

There are many people who never eat bread, but always eat pie, and are healthy. There is scarcely one ingredient in either of these articles that is not in the other, and yet tradition praises bread and condemns pie. As a matter of fact, no longer is pie what it was 50 years ago. The pie which nourished Abraham Lincoln, Ben Franklin, the Adamases, Sam and John; the pie about which Longfellow wrote, which Emerson ate three times a day, pie that was once an inspiration, a symphony, a ripe achievement and the most sacred performance of a patriotic duty, such pie is no longer ate—not even in New England.

American Simplicity.

An American bishop who was visiting in England was greatly amused, not to say annoyed, by the way the Englishmen addressed him. Indeed, he became heartily tired of "Your Grace."

"When I returned to America," the bishop would say afterward, "you can imagine my surprise and delight, too, when one of my friends, standing on the pier, caught a glimpse of me as I waited to descend the gangplank, and called forth to me, 'Hello, Bish!'"

Hard to Handle.

"How are you going to keep complaints from arising among consumers?"

"I don't know," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "Consumers are mighty troublesome. Sometimes I think they take advantage of the fact that we can't get along without 'em in our business."

Lightning's Antics in a Church.

Lightning struck the steeple of the little village church of Gassin, near Toulon, France, the other day. The electrical fluid, it is stated, followed the iron cable which is used to ring the church bell and set the bell ringing. Then it tore the door off a cupboard containing a number of candlesticks and lit all the candles as though by enchantment.

It completed its antics by ripping up the floor of the sacristy, but, so it is said, previously rolled up the carpet with perfect symmetry.

Strange Growth of Olive Trees.

Attention is seldom called to a remarkable and curious characteristic of the olive tree. After many years of growth the different large branches of the trees separate gradually from the trunk until they are quite divided from one another down into the root. These then slowly move apart, and in some instances six or seven distinct trees stand in the area which before surrounded the main tree, and they will sometimes be as much as 20 feet apart.

Taxicab Stock

The Story of the Dollars

The ideal way of earning money is to make your dollars work for you. Make your dollar work where it will earn the most by seeking for the investment that will pay the best.

The dollar that earns but 2 or 3 per cent. is almost as bad as the idle dollar which earns nothing. We advise Taxicab Stock at $6 per share, par value $5.00, for beginning January 1910, it can pay a dividend of 10% per annum or 2½% quarterly.

The Idle Dollar

The dollar that is tied up in bad investments—

—the dollar that is invested in (conservative) low interest bearing securities, usually sold at a high premium—

—the dollar that is not invested anywhere, reposing in the old stocking under the mattress, or in the tin teapot on the pantry shelf—

—the dollar that buys the things that you would be better without—

—this is the idle dollar.

The idle dollar gives no man comfort in holding, keeping, owning or wasting.

The Busy Dollar

The dollar that is working for you all the time—

—the dollar that brings you a big percentage of returns—

—the dollar that is invested in good commercial stocks or industrial enterprises and earns away above the ordinary bank interest—

—the dollar that by quick turns and clear foresight doubles, trebles and quadruples itself—

—this is the busy dollar.

To keep your dollar busy make it work for you and earn big returns.

An investment in Taxicab Stock will prove the best known medium.

The Ideal Investment

An industry that fills a long felt want, which supplies an insistent and growing demand, which has possibilities of great future expansion, is the ideal investment.

Such a one is Toronto's system of Taxicabs, for in barely six months it has proved its big earning capacity.

What it may do in the future, with an outfit increased many times, you can only surmise.

Taxicab Stock has a great future, and the time to buy Taxicab Stock is now.

SUBSCRIPTIONS will be accepted up to 100 shares in the order received at this office.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Nov. 25.—The railways reported 166 carloads of live stock at the City Market on Wednesday and Thursday, consisting of 2203 cattle, 3407 hogs, 3305 sheep and lambs, and 150 calves.

Exporters.

One load of choice export steers, 1440 lbs. each, was sold by Maybee & Wilson, at $5.50 per cwt., being the highest price on either market for several weeks. These cattle were brought on the market by Newton Hill of St. Mary's, Ont. T. Connor bought about a load of export bulls at $3.25 to $4.50.

Butchers.

George Rowntree bought 600 butchers' cattle for the Harris Abattoir Co. as follows: Steers and heifers, $4.10 to $5.35; cows, $1.50 to $4.40; bulls, $2.50 to $4.40 per cwt.

Stockers and Feeders.

Harry Murby reports a good trade for the good quality steers with weight, of which there was a scarcity. The light steers also sold higher; farmers and dealers having to take them when they could not get the better class of steers. Mr. Murby bought 400 steers as follows: Best steers, 800 to 1000 lbs. each, $4 to $4.40; best steers, 800 to 900 lbs. each, at $3.75 to $4.15; best stockers, 600 to 700 lbs. each, at $3.40 to $3.80 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a strong market as has been the case for some time. Prices ranged from $35 to $65 each.

Veal Calves.

Good to choice veal calves were in demand. Prices for all classes ranged from $3 to $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts were large and prices steady to firm. Ewes of good quality, $3.90 to $4; culls and rams, $2.50 to $3 per cwt.; lambs, $5.50 to $6 per cwt., or an average of $5.85 per cwt.

Hogs.

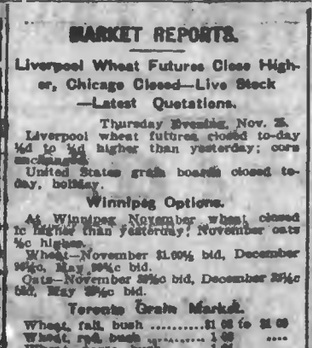
Mr. Harris reports selects fed and watered, at $7.75, and $7.40 to $7.50, f.o.b., cars at country points.

British Cattle Markets.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Liverpool and London cables for cattle are steady, at 12c to 12½c per lb. for live cattle, dressed weight; refrigerator beef slow, at 10c to 10½c per lb.

New York's Mammoth Proposal.

New York, Nov. 26.—Proposals for one of the most remarkable pieces of engineering work ever undertaken were placed before th New York board of estimates yesterday. The plans involve the expenditure of nearly $50,000,000 for the building of a great subterranean aqueduct 300 feet below the streets of the city for the purpose of distributing the water supply which in a few years will be available from the Catskill reservoir. The aqueduct, fourteen feet in diameter, for the part of its twenty-mile stretch would be bored through solid rock.



Three Asphyxiated.

Aurora, Nov. 26.—A startling and gruesome discovery was made here yesterday, when the dead bodies of Mrs. John Flintoff, her granddaughter, Miss Laura Macdonald, aged about 19, and Fred Blake, a young Englishman, aged 19, were all found asphyxiated from gas in the home of Mrs. Flintoff, on Machell avenue.

Coroner Hillary and Dr. Stevenson were hastily summoned, and after an examination decided that death must have taken place at least 24 hours before. An inquest was decided to be unnecessary, the cause of death being plainly evident.

Mrs. Flintoff was a widow, her husband having died about six years ago, and the little granddaughter had lived with her for some time.

No stir had been noticeable around the Flintoff house since Tuesday night, and Mrs. Simpson, a nearby neighbor, secured the assistance of others, and an entrance was effected through a window, when the bodies of the three victims of the deadly gas were found lying in their rooms, apparently asleep.

Can Collect on Insurance.

London, Nov. 26.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A despatch from St. Petersburg says the supreme prize court has awarded the British-America Insurance Co. of Toronto £1,393 and the Western Assurance Co., Toronto £11,621, and the New Zealand Insurance Co., £16,666 in connection with the cargo of the Ikhona, rammed by the cruiser Teretz in June, 1905.

The Ikhona, owned by the British India Steam Navigation Company, was rammed and sunk by the Russian cruiser Teretz in the China Seas in June, 1905. The Canadian companies mentioned in the cable were interested in the loss on cargo by insurance placed with their London branches.

Will Vulcanize Wood.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 26.—By the formation of the Lumber Vulcanizing Co. of Canada, with a capital of one million dollars, a valuable process of treating soft lumber will be placed on the Canadian market.

Fred Wood, who is provisional director of the new company, said last night that the Dominion charter had been received from Ottawa yesterday. The provisional directors are: Fred F. Wood, of the civil service, Francis Griffiths and H. M. Sinclair, both barristers of this city; W. P. Gillespie, broker and financial agent, and P. H. Cronin, company promoter, broker, both of Toronto

Can Control Artificial Eye.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 26.—The successful transplantation of fatty tissue from the abdominal wall to the eye-socket of Peter Rothgery, patient at the city hospital, was announced last night by Dr. A. E. Ibershoff. The tissue was used as the base for setting of an artificial eye, which is now susceptible to precisely the same control as to movement as the living eye.

Disturbed Church Service.

Peterborough, Nov. 26.—Four young men, Lawrence McCracken, Garfield Dunford, Gordon Crowe and Willie Dunford, of Dummer Township, are charged with disturbing the evening service at Bethel Church, last Sunday night, by talking and eating peanuts. They appear in court to-day.

RAILROADERS IN JAIL.

Five M.C.R. Men at Bridgeburg Are Charged With Thefts.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 26.—By the arrest at Bridgeburg of Horner Woodloe, M.C.R. night yardmaster at Bridgeburg; Ernest Finlayson, R. S. Gurvine, John Kee, jr., and Chester Lawson, employes of the railway company, the authorities think they have captured a gang of car robbers who have been operating in Bridgeburg for a considerable time.

The arrested men are members of respectable families, and Lawson is the son of a prominent Government official.

For two years past, railway cars in the M.C.R. yards there have been pilfered and valuable goods have been stolen. The robberies were so frequent and extensive that the railway company sent three special detectives, Moynihan, McHugh and Heenan, to run the gang to earth. The village council were so exercised by the extent of the thefts that they twice requested the Ontario police to put a stop to the robberies, and Inspector of Police W. H. Mains, personally worked on the case.

The united efforts of the sleuths resulted in the arrest of the five employes, and it is stated the investigation will be probed deeper and further arrests made. The five men were arraigned before Magistrate Rathwon at Bridgeburg and remanded until Nov. 30, being admitted to bail of $3,000. Stolen property was found on the men arrested, and at their homes.

About three weeks ago, the general yardmaster of the company, John O'Neil, was arrested and charged with stealing and selling several cars of crushed stone from the company which he sold to Upper and Lebb, of St. Catherines, contractors on the boulevard between Niagara Falls and Fort Erie. A few days later, George Burns, section foreman, was arrested for returning a false pay roll. Both men were committed for trial at Welland.

The arrest of these two men resulted in information being given to M.C.R. Detective Moynihan, which led to the other arrests. The men are charged with stealing quantities of men's clothing, boots and shoes and haberdashery. One of the arrested men wore a pair of stolen boots when apprehended.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

George Thompson, aged 65, of Belleville, had his arm badly crushed in the rolling mills.

At London, Elijah Lambert, aged 5, dropped dead in front of his coal stove as he was fixing the fire.

Mrs. Louis Shaver, an aged woman, was burned to death at Kemptville, her clothing igniting from a stove.

The Toronto viaduct case will be begun at the Supreme Court at Ottawa probably on Monday, and may extend over two days.

The steam barge Flint, loaded with limestone and salt, was burned off North Point, Michigan. The crew reached Alpena safely in their yawl boat.

Donald Geiselman, 17 years old, while out hunting near Orrville, Ohio, yesterday accidentally shot and killed his father, Cyrenus Geiselman, aged 50 years.

A Madrid special to The London Morning Telegram says it is reported here that Sir Maurice Debunsen, British Ambassador to Madrid, will soon replace Ambassador Bryce at Washington.

Bertha Story, 50 years old, was found strangled to death in her saloon, 433 Butternut street, Detroit, yesterday. Investigation indicates that the place had been robbed of about 80 cents.

Six persons, father, mother and four children, were killed yesterday when a car on the Los Angeles and Longbeach trolley line ran into an automobile in which Mr. Jacobs and his family were riding near Latin station.

Paris despatch states that the Compagnie Transatlantique availing itself of the new Franco-Canadian commercial treaty, will run special mail steamers to Canada, receiving a subsidy of 3,000,000 francs, paid equally by Canada and France.

Two Fingers Severed.

Lindsay, Nov. 26.—Albert Quibell, an employe of Crewe's large shingle mill, yesterday morning had two fingers completely severed off his right hand.

Miss Grace Dand, school teacher at Norland, near this place, is the only surviving child of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dand, who were burned to death at Collingwood. Miss Dand knew nothing of the death of her parents until a day or two after the catastrophe occurred.

Dreadnoughts For France.

Paris, Nov. 26.—According to a newspaper report, Admiral de la Peyrere, Minister of Marine, has recommended the construction of an improved Dreadnought of 23,000 tons in 1910, and the building of two battleships annually until, in 1919, the number shall total 19. Of these six will be of the Dreadnought type.

Referred to Canada.

London, Nov. 26.—The invitation from the United States for Great Britain to participate in an international conference with a view to regulate the killing of seals in the international waters of North America, has been referred through the Colonial Office to Canada.

Gets Three Years.

Kingston, Nov. 26.—Hiram Smith, a young Austrian, who pleaded guilty to highway robbery, was sentenced by Judge Price to three years in the penitentiary.

Indians Break Jail.

Hagersville, Nov. 26.—Two Indians of notorious character, Laform and David Gussey, arrested for being drunk, escaped from jail during the night.

A Grain Blockade.

Canora, Sask., Nov. 26.—A grain blockade exists here, all the elevators being full and farmers unable to secure cars.

Gets His Reward.

Brantford, Nov. 25.—Albert E. Harley has been appointed collector of customs for Brantford. He is president of the Brantford Liberal Association. The salary is $1,800.

McLAUGHLIN IS SENT UP FOR TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

Evidence in the Preliminary Examination in Uxbridge Case Was Concluded Yesterday---The Trial Will Not Take Place Until Next Spring.

Uxbridge, Nov. 25.—Archie McLaughlin, the young man whom a coroner's jury yesterday accused of murdering his wife and two baby boys, was this afternoon sent on for trial by Magistrate Hamilton on the charge of wife murder.

Wm. Foster, the foreman of Coroner Sisson's jury, was a witness this afternoon. He swore that he saw McLaughlin and Miss Nix together on some date later than October 20th. The meeting between them was in the door of Miss Nix's home.

Asked to further recall the date, he said it was October 24 or 25.

Miss Nix stated yesterday that she had not seen McLaughlin since the fire or three weeks before the fire.

The prisoner had another attack of weeping this afternoon. The cause of it was a photo of his dead wife reproduced in a Toronto paper. It had been clipped out and as he sat looking at it the tears began to flow, and they continued flowing for some time.

THE LAWYER OBJECTED

When Mr. Foster was called H. P. Cook, McLaughlin's counsel, objected to him being called.

"It is most unusual for one who is to be called as a witness to be on a coroner's jury," he stated.

Silas Griffith stated that McLaughlin told him he had been to Sunderland twice to see Miss Nix.

"Did he tell you about any other expeditions?" asked Crown Attorney Farewell. "Yes, he told me he was going to Toronto to see a girl."

"Did he add anything?" "He said he was going to have a good time."

"Did he tell you who the girl was?" "No."

"Mention other trip?" "Yes, after he had lost his job he said something about going to California."

"Did you say anything to him about this?" "Yes, I asked him what his wife thought and he said she heard about it but did not believe the stories."

TO TAKE HER TO CALIFORNIA

"Did he say anything about Miss Nix?" "He spoke to me about taking her to California, and I understood she was willing to go with him."

"Was he going to take his wife along?" "He did not say that."

"Did he receive any letters from her?"

"Yes, he told me he got some notes.'

"Do you know of any other drives he had with her besides to Sunderland?"

"Yes, he told me of a drive to Epsom."

"In daytime?" "No, after dark."

"Do you know if they met?" "Yes, they used to meet on the street. I used to go home?"

"Were you ever with him when he met her?" "Yes, I was going home with him one day when we passed her and he colored up and tipped his hat."

"Did he tell you anything then?"

"Yes, that they used to meet him?"

"Who do you mean by they?" Miss Nix and Miss Charters."

"What kind of a girl did he describe this Miss Nix as?" "That she was a nice girl to talk to."

"You understood he would go away with her if she would go?" "Yes."

"Did he say she would go?"

"I understood she would go away with him when he mentioned the trip to California."

"Go away with him?"

"Yes."

"Is that the only lady he had in?"

"As far as I know."

"A sweet little Miss out in the country?"

"He did not tell me anything about her."

LETTERS EVERY WEEK

Frank W. Hurd, mail carrier, stated that a week before the fire McLaughlin gave him a letter addressed to Miss Nix at Sunderland.

"Every Friday night for quite a while he used to be putting letters on the train," said Mr. Hurd. "He put them on the train himself, so I did not see them."

Other brief witnesses were Thomas

A NEW CANDIDATE LOOMS UP FOR THE COMING MAYORALTY CONTEST

A new candidate for the Mayoralty contest has loomed up, in the person of Mr. William Langford, the well-known contractor. But when a reporter called on him at his residence, on Water street, this afternoon, he would not state definitely what his intentions were.

"We understand a deputation has waited on you to ask you to come out for Mayor?" the reporter intimated.

Yes, a number of prominent citizens asked me the other day to consider the matter," Mr. Langford answered. "I first thought I would, but am at present considering it, not having decided one way or the other. I think I have been out of public life too long to return to it. However, my decision will be announced in plenty of time."

MRS. GUTHRIE CHARGED WITH PERJURY NOW

She and Her Daughter Were Arrested Yesterday on Charges Based on Evidence Given at Fire Inquest.

APPEAR ON MONDAY

Barrie, Nov. 25. — In connection with the fire inquest now in progress here, a move that was not entirely unexpected by the public was made this afternoon by the Crown, when Mr. Cotter swore out information against Mrs. S. J. Guthrie and her daughter, Clara, charging each with perjury. The charges are based upon evidence given at the inquest, particularly those portions that dealt with their visit to Allandale and the contents of the trunks. The women were arrested at 4 o'clock and brought before Magistrate Radenhurst. Neither showed any emotion. Mr. Boys, their counsel, applied for bail. Crown Attorney Cotter strenuously opposed the application but the Magistrate granted bail, accepting S. J. Guthrie's bonds of $400 for each of the prisoners till they appear again before Mr. Radenhurst next Monday morning at 11 o'clock.

Speaking for the defence, Mr. Boys said that the Crown could not think very seriously of the charge or they would have acted sooner, as they were in possession of all the evidence last Monday. This move on the part of the Crown, taken with startling evidence which the jury discovered at the Guthrie house on Tuesday in the shape of oil-soaked rags, a basket containing light wood soaked in oil, and large quantities of matches strewn about has greatly intensified the already keen interest taken in the case, and it is safe to say that standing room will be at a premium when the enquiry resumes to-morrow morning.

CONTRACTS FOR SNOW PLOUGHING WERE LET

Men Who Will do the Work, Districts They Must Cover and Money They Receive—Saving Over Last Year's Total.

SUCCESSFUL TENDERS

At a meeting of the Board of Works last night the contracts were let for the removing of snow and slush from the sidewalks for the coming wnter. Ald. Phelan occupied the chair and Ald. Bradburn, Duncan, Gillespie, Buller, and Mayor Rush were present.

The tenders were numerous, particularly for District No. 3, and the prices were, in some cases, varied by wide margins.

Two tenders that should have been in on Wednesday were considered. One man had said he did not notice the bills or he would have sent in his tender earlier.

Moved by Ald. Duncan and Gillespie that they be opened with the other tenders.—Carried.

Ald. Bradburn said the committee should depend largely upon the report of the Engineer and Commissioners for the letting of the tenders, as the lowest did not always prove to be the cheapest.

A letter from Engineer Hay dealt with this question along similar lines. The terms of the contract stipulate that snow and slush must be removed from the sidewalks before 9 a.m., and in the event of a storm during the day time the removal must be done as expeditiously as possible.—

Successful Tenderers.

The following are the men whose tenders were accepted and the districts they must cover are also given:

District No. 1 is done by the City.

District No. 2—That part of city north of Dublin street, east of Bridgenorth Road and Bethune street, south of North Boundary and west of the river; awarded to Luke Maloney, at $189. Last year's price, $187.

District No. 3—That part north of Weller and Brock streets west of Bethune and Bridgenorth road east of Monaghan Road, and south of the North Boundary; awarded to Jeremiah Carew, at $129. Last year's price $150.

District No. 4.—That part north of Sherbrooke west of Bethune, east of Monaghan Road and south of Weller and Brock streets; awarded to Nelson Rusaw, at $145. Last year's price, $125.

District No. 5.—That part of the City lying north of Lansdowne street, west of Bethune and Park streets, south of Lake street, east of Monaghan Road and south of and including both sides of Sherbrooke St.; awarded to Robert Nicholls at $130. Last year's price $127.50.

District No. 6.—That part north of Lansdowne east of Bethune and Park streets, south of Lake, west of the river, and south of and including both sides of Sherbrooke streets; awarded to M. Riches, at $110. Last year's price, $110.

District No. 7.—That part of the East ward south of Douro street; awarded to Alex. O'Brien, at $100. Last year's price $144.

District No. 8.—That part of the East Ward north of and including both sides of Douro street; awarded to B. Revoy, at $95. Last year's price $100.

Other Tenders.

Other tenders for Dis. No. 2 were T. Blodgett $180, E. Flaherty $197; District No. 3, Garnet Innis $139; T. Blodgett $170, P. O'Donnell $185, Jas. A. Reid $155, Geo. Foley $134, Nelson Rusaw $148; District No. 4 had only one tender; No. 5 also had but one tender; No. 6, Alfred Cummings, $120; No. 7, B. Revoy, $100, E. J. Ferguson $105, R. W. Mitchell $123, Bert Lee $123; No. 8, P. J. Francis, $[illegible], Thos. E. Ferguson $115.

It will be noticed that Mr. Francis' tender was $3.00 lower than that of B. Revoy, but owing to the fact that the latter had covered District No. 9 last year, preference was given his tender.

Saving of $6.50.

The Board has made a saving of $6.50 by this year's contracts. The total last year was $913.50, and the present season's tender amount to $907, and it may be said that the territory to cover this year is slightly greater than previously.

THE PAINS OF THE AGED
Are usually due to the tendency of the kidneys to wear out as age advances, giving rise to the accumulation of poisons in the blood and causing backache, lumbago, aching limbs and rheumatism. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are particularly prized by aged people because they can be relied upon to invigorate the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels, and so remove the cause of pains and aches.

NEW DAM TO BE BUILT

Bishop & Buchanan Have Been Awarded Contract for the Work at Burleigh—Will Commence Operations At Once.

THE CONTRACT IS $58,000

Special to The Examiner.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—The Department of Railways and Canals has awarded to Bishop & Buchanan, of Owen Sound and Peterborough, the contract for the erection of a new dam at Burleigh Falls. It is understood that the new dam, which is estimated to cost between $58,000 and $59,000, will be considerably higher than the present one, and will so raise the water as to practically eliminate Lovesick lock and create only one level between Buckhorn and Burleigh Falls.

NO ACTION TAKEN

Manufacturers' Committee to Wait for Definite Statement From Mr. Ackerman.

The Manufacturers' committee took up the question of fixed assessment for B. F. Ackerman and Sons last night. Owing to the fact that Mr. Ackerman had not yet presented a definite statement of what he desires, the committee handled it briefly and decided to wait until Mr. Ackerman presented a definite report.

GOTCH FAILED TO THROW THE POLE

Buffalo, Nov. 25.—Frank Gotch lost to Zbysko, the Polish champion wrestler, in a handicap match tonight. Gotch, who undertook to throw the Pole twice in an hour, failed to gain a fall. He got a toe hold and a hammer-lock on the Pole, who broke both of them.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 25.—Stanley Brooks, 13 years old, of Sutton West, while out shooting, leaned his shot gun against a tree. His dog knocked it over, discharging the weapon, the charge tearing away his left heel.

SAY THE MATCHES MUST HAVE BEEN IGNITED INTENTIONALLY

Witnesses in Guthrie Case This Morning Say That it Was Impossible That They Were Lit Accidentally---Police and Firemen Give Evidence.

Special to The Examiner.

Barrie, Nov. 26.—When the fire inquest resumed this morning Constable Wm. Sweeney testified he had gone to the Guthrie house with the jury on Tuesday, and had found a large quantity of burnt matches and oil-soaked rags. He considered it impossible that the heat of the fire had ignited the matches. Chief of Police Robert King and Fire Chief Smith corroborated his statement, and agreed that some one must have lighted the matches. Dr. Lewis, who has attended Miss Montgomery since she fainted in the witness box, on Monday, stated that when she fell in the swoon she fractured a small bone in her back, and would not be able to appear in court for two or three weeks.

YOUNG ITALIAN HANGED RADCLIFFE DID NOT APPEAR

Special to The Examiner.

North Bay, Nov. 26.—Sam Spanelli, the young Italian who murdered Ming Chew, a Chinaman, was hanged at 7:17 this morning. He walked to the scaffold without showing the slightest sign of emotion, and without speaking a word. Radcliffe failed to arrive and at a late hour last night a man, who gave his name as Ike Thompson, of Owen Sound, was secured, who officiated as hangman.

Fraulein Stolle's Splendid Lecture To The Children

Yesterday afternoon was one which will be long remembered by our school children. Over 600 girls and boys assembled in the Collegiate Institute Hall to witness an exhibition of pictures, reproductions of the greatest pictures of the world.

Fraulein Stolle brought her audience in touch with the great masters of the Italian, Spanish, English, French and German schools. Their works, which she copied from the originals in the galleries where they hang, were presented in colours.

The Theme of Angels from the early Angelicos down to the modern art of Burne-Jones was taken up; then landscape was studied from the Dutch through the French and German, ending with Arnold Boecklin and with a modern Madonna walking in the fields, adored by a little shepherd boy, who presents field flowers to the Christ child. This picture is one by Joseph Scheurenberg, who in gives the most modern spirit of religious art.

Fraulein Stolle lectures again tonight in the same place, and we would urge the public of Peterborough to take advantage of this opportunity of practically seeing some of the best pictures of the world's great galleries.

Ten Men Facing Death On Drifting Coal Barges

Special to The Examiner.

New Port, R.I., Nov. 26.—Ten men are facing death off here to-day, drifting before the gale on the barges Conewago and Ewatetaen, both coal laden, from Philadelphia. The tug Patience, which had them in tow when they broke away, off Montauk Point, Tuesday, has put out to sea, in an effort to recover the barges, but it is feared the vessels will not live out the gale.

District Manager Wanted For Coon DeMarvel Company

Mr. Willis H. Coon, President of Coon's De Marvel Co., Limited, of Toronto, is in the city to-day looking for a district manager for the company's business in Peterborough and surrounding counties. From information given, Mr. Coon has one of the best propositions offered in a long time. An investment of at least one thousand dollars will be required. Collier, Cunningham Company manufacture their goods and has taken quite an amount of the stock which is the very best evidence of its value.

Mr. Coon is stopping at the Oriental Hotel, this city, and will show and demonstrate his proposition to any one calling this evening, as he leaves to-morrow morning. He says the investment will pay members from 50 to 200 per cent. in the next twelve months, and there should be no reason to doubt it. It is a specialty and every family is a possible customer. Enquire at the Oriental Hotel this evening for Mr. Coon who will give all particulars.

Fortune Waiting For Show Girl Who Is Playing Canada

Special to The Examiner.

Toronto, Nov. 26.—If actresses will use fictitious names they must abide by the inconveniences that arise therefrom. There is a young opera singer, christened Alvia Fay, who, if she were travelling under her correct name, would have no difficulty in collecting a fortune, but on account of the fact that she is using an assumed one the bare possibility of her reading this article is about the only chance she has.

Her mother, Mrs. Maggie Fay Hansom, formerly Mrs. Maggie Fay, has died in Oklahoma City, leaving her a large fortune, and the executors of the will are unable to locate her.

In some way they have learned, or believe they have learned, that the young lady is touring with an opera company in Canada. Accordingly they wrote to Mr. Jos. Gibson, of Toronto, and requested that he make some endeavour to locate her. Mr. Gibson is connected with the theatrical business in that city, [illegible] at 50 Gloucester street.

Miss Fay will doubtless take the trouble to communicate with Mr. Gibson if she sees this article.

POISONED CREAM PUFFS

Toronto, Nov. 25.—"Death from the consumption of cream puffs is due to the ptomaine poisoning," said Dr. Sheard this morning, in discussing the death of Alonzo Lane at St. Catharines, caused, it is alleged, by eating cream puffs.

"This is caused by the development of tyro-toxicon," said Dr. Sheard, "and is the same poison which is sometimes found in ice cream which has melted and became re-frozen. The same thing may happen in the case of cream puffs after being put in a refrigerator."

"Yes," replied the Medical Health Officer, "it may develop if kept too long a time."

Master Painters' Pleased The Delegates To Big Convention

The Master Painters held their annual meeting on Wednesday night. The attendance was good and the prospects for the coming year appear very bright. An echo of the big convention of Master Painters during the latter part of July was the large number of congratulatory letters from Canadian and American Associations who were represented at the meetings here. The local Painters were complimented upon the able manner in which they provided the details for the Canadian meetings and the enjoyable social time incidental to the convention. Among the scores of letters was one from Detroit and another from Boston.

Peterborough's Association won many praises for the success of the convention which was largely due to their efforts. The officers elected for the coming year were as follows:

President—Mr. W. J. Watson.

Vice-President—Mr. Wes Edwards.

Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. Geo. H. Duncan.

After the business was concluded a smoker followed and a pleasant hour was spent. Meetings are held every Wednesday night during the year.

Dan Whetung Crossed Chemong Lake On The Ice Yesterday

Examiner Special.

Chemong Village, Nov. 25.—Mr. Dan Whetung walked across Chemong Lake on the ice yesterday, and if the weather doesn't moderate he expects to drive across in a few days. He crossed earlier this year than last, the date of the first time across a year ago being the tenth of December. It is interesting to note how much earlier it freezes some winters than others. Thirteen years ago, on the third of December, he crossed Chemong Lake with a team of horses, and on the same date in 1900, he paddled across.

The Chemong young people were skating on Buckhorn Lake last night. There is good sleighing on the reserve and the people are busily engaged hauling wood.

Broke Through The Ice And Had Narrow Escape From Drowning

Examiner Special.

Chemong Village, Nov. 25.—Isaac Johnston, of this village, had a narrow escape from drowning yesterday afternoon while attempting to cross the ice on Buckhorn Lake. While it was quite safe in most places and Mr. Dan Whetung walked across safely, Mr. Johnston was not so fortunate and broke through. His cries for help were heard by his son William, who went to his rescue. He was taken to the shore where a fire was built and after rubbing him for some time he revived. He is a man eighty-five years of age, and it will be a while before he fully recovers from the effect of his cold dip.

Lakefield Wins Suit Against One Of Its Citizens At Assizes

The action brought by the village of Lakefield to compel Mr. J. G. Brown to move his boat house on Water street was tried by Mr. Justice Britton at the Assizes in Peterborough this week. Judgment was given in favour of the village and Mr. Brown will have to remove the boat house which has caused all the trouble, and pay the village their costs. The case was reached on the list on Wednesday just after noon adjournment, and all the evidence was in, and judgment given at about nine in the evening. By the judgment the village got all it asked, which was to have it declared that part of Water street was a public highway and under control of the village; an order compelling the defendant to remove his boathouse; an injunction restraining defendant from further obstructing, and the costs of the action. A number of witnesses were heard on both sides, but the judge when giving judgment, pointed out that the plaintiffs had clearly made a good case for the relief they sought. Mr. O. A. Langley has been solicitor for the village throughout the case, and Mr. Biggelle, of Peterborough, for Mr. Brown. At the trial, Mr. Kerr, of Peterborough, appeared with Mr. Langley for the plaintiffs.—

PRICES AND PRICES!

All the jewellers are bound they shall cut jewellery prices just a little lower than the other fellow. So far Mr. Oliver Milburn of 349 George St., seems to hold first position in the race for low prices. This is the same jeweller who sold the alarm clocks at 25c. each. Now he has his window full of cut glass, and the prices marked are so low as to make you wonder if it is really glass.

When questioned by an Examiner reporter as to its genuineness Mr. Milburn proved to him that it was the best of American glassware, also that the cutting was beautiful.

Mr. Milburn's explanation of the lowness of price was the simple fact of his having bought it direct from the manufacturer when on his last buying trip to New York, thus saving the middleman's profit.

He showed the reporter a number of other lines of jewellery at marvelously low prices that should take well with the Christmas shoppers.

ST. CATHARINES GETS BIG FACTORY

Electrical Concern to Establish There With Hundred Men.

St. Catharines, Nov. 26.—In locating the Canadian branch of the Crooker Wheeler Manufacturing Company of Ampere, N.J., St. Catharines considers that it has got the biggest industrial thing of the year. One contract it has on hand now is for the [illegible] of windmills in connection with the big power works. This contract alone amounts to $250,000, it is said. This machinery will be made in St. Catharines, and it will be necessary to greatly enlarge the factory building the company have purchased from the city. While they agree to start with a hundred first-class mechanics, the company say that within a few years they will be employing perhaps a thousand.

AT THE PRINCESS TO-NIGHT

There will be a change of specialty attractions at the Princess theatre tonight, Miss Vera Brown and Mr. Lewis Julius appearing in a new number that should prove most popular. The opening last night was attended by big crowds who heartily enjoyed the bill.

MORE POWER AT BURLEIGH.

In our news column is found the statement that a new dam is to be built at Burleigh Falls. This dam, it is said, will be considerably higher than the old dam, and will, by raising the water, improve navigation, and at the same time provide a greater head for power development. Our Board of Trade and City Council are interested in noting the developments in connection with the power problem at this point. Peterborough will soon need new additional power for industrial purposes—if it should not do so, the city is not progressing satisfactorily. If the new Commissioner to be appointed does his duty as it is expected he will do, the power to be offered to incoming industries will soon be exhausted. It would be wise for the City Council and Board of Trade to look ahead, and provide for additional electrical power to be available for the use of new industries.

LOOKING FORWARD.

There is every indication that Peterborough will continue to grow—to expand in every direction and in every interest; especially if the present spirit of activity becomes developed into a fixed policy of aggressive endeavour. The first step in building a structure is in finding the site and laying the foundation.

Peterborough already needs, and will need more urgently as time goes forward, new City Buildings, the present collection or rather jumble of apartments, will not long continue to serve the purpose of an expanding civic administration. We shall soon have to have new city buildings. The site occupied by the present buildings monopolizes a ground better adapted to commercal purposes. The city should look ahead and secure a suitable site for new city buildings. In this matter, if the policy of concentrating important buildings is adopted it might be pointed out that an excellent site is represented by the land lying upon the east side of George street, between Dr. Yelland's old residence—north west corner of Murray and George streets—and the block known as the old post office. Another excellent site would be the land lying upon the east side of George street, between the new Public Library building and the Metheral tenement terrace at Murray St. Whilst either of these plots are available and not occupied by buildings too expensive to be reasonably removed, either of them—or some other that may seem preferable—should be acquired by the city. This acquirement should involve no question of financing, because, if secured now, the rentals from the buildings will far more than pay the interest upon the money representing the purchase price, might even produce a net revenue, till such time as the land is required for a City Hall worthy of the city, and in keeping with the fine structures in the vicinity, such as the Armouries, the Collegiate Institute and Y. M. C. A. buildings, the Public Library and the new Murray Street Baptist church.

MUST HAVE TRANSPORTATION.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is splendidly optimistic in regard to the future of Canada, and alive to the importance of providing means to realise that future by provision of transportation media as aids to development. But in one point he is not as sanguine as the circumstances seem to warrant. On Thursday, at Ottawa, he told a deputation that waited upon the Government to request the deepening of the Welland Canal, that he had that project at heart, and was convinced of the feasibility and usefulness of the Georgian Bay canal, and even a believer in the practicability of a water communication from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the foothills of the Rocky Mountains, and that the westernmost link in this great navigable chain was in the initial stage by the Government works in process for making the Saskatchewan river navigable from Edmonton to Winnipeg. Provision of ample transportation, was, he said, necessary; for Canada could look forward in the immediate future to the work of handling 250 million bushels of wheat per year. It was here that Sir Wilfrid rather fell off in his optimism. If, with less than one tenth of the Western wheat growing area under tillage, we had last year a crop of 140 million bushels, with 100 millions available for export, it is evident that 250 millions of bushels for export would result in only a comparatively partial realization of our crop production possibilities. Indeed, it does not seem unwarranted to expect that before the century has run a quarter or at the most, half of its span, we shall see the wheat production of the Canadian West, nearer 500, than 250 millions of bushels of wheat, not to speak of a proportionate expansion in volume of other grains to find a transatlantic market. When that stage of production is reached the transcontinental railways throwing their wheat cars into the hoppers at Fort William and Port Arthur, will glut all the avenues of traffic to the Atlantic seaboard, though relieved by the outlet at the West, and, by the way, of the Hudson Bay. The Welland Canal, the Trent Canal, the Georgian Bay Canal, if it is then in operation, will all be overloaded. We must provide for getting the products of our soil to the market, and the deepening of the Welland Canal, the completion of the Trent Canal must speedily come, and the Georgian Bay Canal may very soon be forced upon us by the tyranny of necessity.

A STRUGGLE FOR HUMANITY.

(Montreal Herald.)

The Liberal party in Great Britain has committeed itself to far-reaching measures of social reform—so far-reaching, indeed, that they in some degree deserve the character attributed to them by Lord Rosebery in his Glasgow speech, when he described the propositions of the Budget as revolutionary. It is the consecration of the energies of the historic party of reform to work of social regeneration that is arousing the enthusiasm of the masses and the apprehensions of the classes. New and vital political issues have been raised by the Budget and hence it is that the fast-approaching election campaign is arousing a degree of interest certainly unprecedented since Gladstone's Home Rule campaign of the middle '80's, and perhaps involving results, as Lord Rosebery said last night, as momentous to the nation as any that have been discussed since 1832.

It is on the eve of such a compaign that Rosebery again elects to plough a lonely furrow, and thus adds not only to the picturesqueness of the political field, but to the perplexities of the Conservative party, which had justly been expecting much valuable assitance from his pronounced opposition to the Budget. That opposition he has not withdrawn, but he tells the Lords that the methods of warfare they are adopting are bound to end in disaster. He tells them that the existence or powers of the House of Lords should not be made an issue, as they are making them. This certainly appears to be a common-sense proposition. If the Lords strain their powers and reject the Budget, they precipitate a struggle against their very existence, thus creating a new issue; and diverting attention from the Budget and the tariff. All of which should make for the consolidation of the forces to which the Government may reasonably look for support, for there is no question but that the proposals of the Budget are the crystallisation of public opinion, steadily increasing in volume, against the tyranny of land monopoly, and of the rule of that plutocracy which has taken the place of the aristocracy of the early part of the nineteenth century.

The great work of the Liberal party in that century was the emancipation of the individual. It fought the battle of individual liberty against the forces of the state, as represented by the aristocratic influences which then controlled the state. When that struggle was finished and won the party marked time for several decades, and appeared to lose its reforming zeal and fire. It failed to realize that its next fight was to be on different lines—a struggle for the right of the state against the individual. But so it has proved. The gross inequalities of conditions which time has developed, and modern industrial methods have accentuated, the growth of land monopoly; the ever-increasing powers and privileges of wealth without corresponding improvement in the conditions of the poor—all these influences have combined to create a state of public opinion of which the Budget and the Old Age Pensions measure are the first tangible expressions.

The movement which the Budget typifies is not towards socialism or confiscation. It is humanitarian and economic. It is based on the deep-rooted conviction—which is finding more and more recognition in the legislation of all nations, but the decaying ones—that the state owes a duty towards the poor and the unfortunate; that it must not leave the individual to the privation and suffering that follow from accident, or unemployment, or advancing age, without making some effort to mitigate these evils; that it must, as a body, look after the interests of its weaker members. This implies, of course, the imposition of enlarged duties and responsibilities on the stronger members, and hence it is that the landowners and the capitalists in Britain are, in large numbers, protesting against a measure which threatens to impose on them these increased obligations to the state.

It will be seen, therefore, that the principles involved in the struggle now about to be precipitated are world-wide in the interest they create. They are as universal as humanity itself. There may be crudities, there may actually be injustice, within the four corners of Lloyd George's Budget, but the Liberal party, by that Budget, has committed itself to reforms which promise to secure greater equality in conditions of life in Britain, which give hope to the poor but deserving citizen that he will no longer be made to bear unassisted the burden of accident or unemployment, and that he may, in his old age, escape the ignominy of the workhouse; which indicate a way that may lead the people back to the land from which they have been driven. To such reforms, meaning so much to the people, the Liberal party is now committed, and in its fight for power to inaugurate these reforms in the social life of Britain should have the good wishes of all, the world over, whose sympathy goes out to the masses who are struggling upward.

FOUNDED IN HONOUR

No doubt you have seen in the papers such announcements as this concerning some medicine or other: "If, on trial, you write that this medicine has done you no good we will refund your money." Now, we have never had reason to speak in that way concerning the remedy named in this article. In a trade extending throughout the world, nobody has ever complained that our medicine has failed, or asked for the return of his money. The public never grumbles at honestly and skilfully-made bread, or at a medicine which really and actually does what it was made to do. The foundation of is laid in sincerity and honour, the knowledge of which, on the part of the people, explains its popularity and success. There is nothing to disguise and conceal. It was not dreamed out, or discovered by accident; it is palatable as honey and contains all the curative properties of pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. This remedy is praised by all who have employed it in any of the diseases it is recommended to relieve and cure, and is effective from the first dose. In Anaemia, Scrofula, Nervous and General Debility, Influenza, La Grippe, and Throat and Lung Troubles, it is a specific. It is precisely what it is said to be, and has won the confidence of the public on that basis. You may resort to it with a faith and hope that arise from the history of what it has done for others. Dr. F. Gordon says: "The continued use of it in my practice convinces me that it is the most palatable, least nauseating, and best preparation now on the market." One bottle proves its intrinsic value. Sold by all chemists everywhere, and Warne Drug Co.

'ROUND THE STORES

It will be interesting store news to the ladies of Peterborough to know of the remarkable coat bargains at Adams' for the next fifteen days, commencing Saturday, Nov. 27. Owing to the backward season coats have been slow. Adams has, therefore, decided to commence a slaughter sale of all his Ladies, Misses and Children's Coats. This sale is known as the "Blue Tag Coat Sale." Look for the blue tags with the cut prices. These Ladies', Misses' and Children's Coats are made of very fine qualities of cloths in long, loose, tight-fitting, and semi-fitting styles. Every woman who is in need of a warm Winter Coat for herself or girls, should visit Adams' Coat Department and share in these extraordinary Coat bargains.

The market, meat, fruit, and delicatessen departments of the big store of S. A. Oke, 340 George street, are places that should be visited by the housekeeper in her round of daily shopping. Here she will find standard articles of food in the best grades and many of the choicest delicacies of the season at very reasonable rates. Fresh meats, oysters, and fruits are always in abundant supply; also poultry, venison, game, and fancy meats. A crisp supply of celery, parsley, and other toothsome trimmings for the dinner table to fill the bill.

Many bakers will have more trouble than usual this fall with newly-ground wheat flour, says Paul Richard. In other years a fair amount of old wheat flour has been available to be blended with the new crop, which has eliminated much of this trouble when changing from old to new wheat. This fall, if reports are true, there is hardly any of the old wheat left. The millers will be compelled to grind the wheat fresh from the thresher, and many bakers if they have not any old flour on hand will have to use fresh ground wheat entirely. New flours work slack and wet in the sponge and feel slimy, the dough feels wet and heavy, and the colour of the baked bread is darker than when made of old flours of the same grade. An addition of old flour to the new flour is the best remedy. Messrs. Kilgour & McKay, the bread makers on the corner of George and Edinburgh streets, are provided for the future in a way that will ensure them a continuance of their excellent home-made bread.

This is the time of the year when merchants should be on the lookout to rearrange their stores and begin to make them as attractive as possible for the holiday season. It is to the best interest of every up-to-date dealer to make some changes in the appearance of his store. The first impression a customer gains of the interior of a store is very important, for from it he forms his judgment of the place and decides whether he will purchase there or not; in nine cases out of ten it either incites confidence or destroys it, it is, in other words, the first wedge into a sale. Le no one imagine because his place is small, his capital limited, that material is lacking to make his store attractive. This is a great mistake, all these ideas are feasible in a smaller, inexpensive place by the use of a little good judgment, and artistic taste to avoid overcrowding, the great fault exhibited by nearly all dealers. A good instance of this is furnished by Milburn, the jeweller. His store is always a gem in the art of window dressing, as well as interior trim, the exception being when he was forced to run a fire sale recently. It is nothing unusual to see his small, single window crowded round with lookers in the evenings.

The new "Knickerboker" store opened out on George street last week, is another addition to our clothing firms. The leading lines are men's and women's ready-to-wear clothing, furs, dry goods, boots and shoes, etc.

Visit this store and make a thorough investigation. There is no penalty if you do not buy, and learn all about its methods. The man who likes to look well, the man who is fastidious and likes the new things, the business man, the everyday, the solid working man. No matter what station of life you are in, this store will interest you.

Women, too, will surely find at the "Knickerboker" some of the coveted bargains they are looking for in coats, skirts, waists, furs and other lines.

There are hundreds of business men, called small dealers, who will not advertise at all because they cannot advertise big. They fear that their modest little ad, will be hopelessly overshadowed by great pages of the big dealers. Of course there are some that by their regular ads. and enterprise prove the above, but the vast majority of small store keepers give it as an excuse for not advertising and sit back and allow their business to go where it will. True, there are some satisfied to get what they term the "overflow" from the big stores, whatever that is. There is no valid excuse for not advertising a legitimate business, no matter how small it may be. If it is big enough to open a door every morning and run up a shade it is big enough to be in the daily papers. Take the case of Pillsworth, the enterprising picture man and picture framer on George St. Have you noticed how well his store is advertised and how fast people are finding him out? There is a splendid money-spending class that likes the small storekeeper, prefers to trade there, and will do so if you will keep your name where they can see it pretty often; and the only place in which it will be seen often enough is in the daily paper. Remember, too, that even your own people will not come your way uninvited not very often, anyway. If you depend upon what comes without being sought you are doing a precarious business, purely transient. No good business can live and thrive on such trade; it must have an established custom, even though it be small. The customers who become acquainted with you and like you, and come back to you are the ones that will make business increase.

McLAUGHLIN SENT UP ON MURDER CHARGE

This concluded the case and Mr. Cook announced he would not call any witnesses in reply. "I submit there is absolutely nothing in the evidence to connect the prisoner with the death of his wife, or setting fire to the house. Therefore he ought to be released and the investigation terminated here and now."

"I regret I cannot agree with the counsel for the defendant," said the magistrate. "I am not acting as a judge, and I have no doubt in my mind that the evidence demands that the prisoner be committed for trial at the next assises."

NO TRIAL TILL SPRING

McLaughlin was then asked to stand up, and the charge was read to him. He was asked if he had anything to say and his counsel replied no.

McLaughlin then had a final talk with his counsel, and was afterwards taken to the Bascom House, where a few belongings were packed up. Later on in the afternoon he was taken to Whitby jail, where he will remain till the Spring Assises, when the final trial will take place.

MORNING'S EVIDENCE

At the resuming of the inquiry this morning Fred G. Vicars, clerk in Nichols drug store produced his poison book and testified that McLaughlin bought twelve morphine pills on Sept. 10 and ten grains of strychine, in crystal form, on Oct. 28, the day before the fire.

To Mr. Cook, lawyer for McLaughlin, Mr. Vicars stated that McLaughlin had asked for something to make rat poison. Mr. Vicars told him that five grains of strychine would kill a great many rats.

C. E. Rainey of the Uxbridge Journal, who is also a fireman, told of what he saw at the fire. Mrs. McLaughlin's body, he said, was well covered with bedclothes, which apparently hadn't been disturbed. Her hands had not fallen down from their position over her breast when the body was taken from the bed.

LOCATION OF FIRE

Town Constable W. W. Johnston testified that the fire seemed to have been heaviest about the stairway.

Similar testimony was given by Malcolm Graham, who is a member of the fire brigade.

"Mr. McLaughlin started to write a telegram in Mr. Chinn's house to Mrs. Watson, Sarnia," testified E. D. Wilcox, G.N.W. telegraph operator. "Mr. McLaughlin wrote: 'Mary burnt in f'. He had evidently meant to write fire, but he threw down the pencil and said to Dr. McClintock, 'You finish this doctor, I can't.'"

THE TELEGRAM

Mr. Chinn finished writing the telegram. Mr. Wilcox testified that the telegram sent to Mrs. Watson ran: "Mary and two younger children burnt to death early this morning. Monta safe."

"A similar telegram was sent to Mrs. John A Rice, Wyoming, I would judge it was an hour or more after the telegrams were sent that the bodies were found," said Mr. Wilcox. "I sent the telegrams at 1.45. Our chief in Toronto said he wanted me to write something for the morning papers. I wrote that before going back to the fire."

"I heard him speak of her as 'his fair one,' " said Miss Ruth Lott, clerk in Alexander & McPhail's store in which McLaughlin worked. "Mr. McLaughlin showed me a letter from Miss Nix. It was signed."

SHE SIGNED THIS ONE

"Miss Nix swore that she signed no letters to McLaughlin," said the Crown Attorney

"Well," said Miss Lott, "she signed this one."

"Miss Nix swore that she never sent a letter to McLaughlin that was more than a sheet and a half," said the Crown Attorney.

"This one was more," said Miss Lott.

"Was there anything in the letter that would cause you to make a remark?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"Yes, I said 'is it possible that Miss Nix wrote that', and he said "can't you read."

Telling of McLaughlin having spoken of spending an evening at the home of Miss Nix, Miss Lott said, "He said he sent Mr. Dennis out and got a couple of Lottles of champagne."

Asked if McLaughlin had spoken of meeting Miss Nix out of town, Miss Lott said, "Yes, he said he met Miss Nix in Sunderland and that he had her out for a drive for a couple of hours."

"I heard Mr. Alexander remark that he was not going to put up with it," said Miss Lott, when asked if the prisoner's employ[illegible] and noticed his conduct.

"When he showed you the letters did he say whom they were from?" asked the Crown Attorney.

FROM HIS FAIR ONE

"He generally said they were from his fair one," said Miss Lott.

"Did he have different terms of endearment?"

"Generally he said his fair one."

"That was naughty of him because there were other ladies there," said the Crown Attorney, with a smile.

"He was careless," said Miss Lott; "I thought he might be in fun."

"Did you ever remind him that he had a wife?"

"I've heard him say he didn't want Mrs. McLaughlin to hear about it and that he must cut it out."

"Unsatisfactory," said Mrs. Annie Bant, when the Crown Attorney asked her whether McLaughlin's conduct was satisfactory or unsatisfactory.

"Why?"

"Because he never stayed home. He hadn't any interest in it."

"Did Mrs. McLaughlin tell you anything of this?"

"Yes, she told me she had to give up going to Sunday School because when she got home the children's hearts were broke. She said that her husband led his life and that she led hers. She said; "I've shed my last tears for him."

Asked if Mrs. McLaughlin showed any preference concerning her children, Mrs. Bant said that Mrs. McLaughlin looked forward to the day when the boys would be a help to her.

LOST ALL CONFIDENCE

"Do you know of any event that happened that caused her to lose confidence in him?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"Yes, a traveller paid him a visit, the two of them sat so long down stairs that she listened at the pipe hole. She then heard something which caused her to lose all confidence in him and he didn't deny it when she told him she had heard it from his own lips."

"And she said she didn't believe her husband when he said that nothing was wrong."

"Yes."

"She was not convinced of that?"

"She wasn't. I think Mrs. McLaughlin, in her heart, loved Mr. McLaughlin, but I think she thought he was getting farther away from her."

Questioned further, Mrs. Bant said, Mrs. McLaughlin said that relatives on her side of the house would go for weeks without speaking. She said the worst her husband ever called her was a sneak. She said he never used threats or violence to her, and that he never swore around the house.

NEVER TOOK HER ANYWHERE

"Did McLaughlin ever take his wife anywhere?" asked the Crown Attorney of Mrs. Jennie Morden.

"Not to my knowledge," she answered.

"Was there anything in the closet under the stairs to cause spontaneous combustion?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"No, said Mrs. Morden, "the gasoline and coal oil were all kept out in the woodshed."

Dr. W. S. Shier, being recalled, the Crown Attorney asked him if there was anything in his prior examination referring to a conversation he had with McLaughlin on the Sunday following the fire. "Did he wish you to make some arrangements for him?"

"On Sunday afternoon," said Dr. Shier, "he talked about making arrangements for the funeral, and said he wanted a grip. He told me he had met Arthur Nix, and asked him if he could get into the store to get a grip, and Arthur told him 'I don't know you.' He felt sorry afterwards, and calling him back asked him if he was going to stick by Alma, and he said he was."

WANTED TO MEET HER

"Did he say anything about wanting to meet the girl?"

"Yes, he said he wanted to have a talk with her, but I advised him not to. He wanted to know if it could take place in my office, and I told him not under the circumstances."

Bert Lott repeated the evidence he had given at the inquest concerning McLaughlin and Miss Nix.

While Mr. Lott and Mr. Nolan were giving their evidence McLaughlin read the Toronto morning papers' accounts of yesterday's proceedings. He read with deep interest, but he might have been merely an outsider for all the interest he showed meantime in the proceedings then going on.

Percy Kempt was the last witness taken this morning, his evidence gave no new light on the case, and the inquiry was adjourned till one o'clock this afternoon.

HER BABY HAD ECZEMA

Mrs. F. Clark, Belmont, Man., writes:—"My baby had eczema on her ear. The sore was very bad and nothing seemed to help her. Hearing of some remarkable cures Dr. Chase's Ointment had made we began using it and with the third application the sore began to heal. The cure was thorough and complete and we give all credit to Dr. Chase's Ointment."

APPEARED IN COURT

An Aged Woman Had Been Causing Trouble.

An aged woman, who, on account of her advanced years has lost her reason, was before Magistrate Dumble at the Police Court this mornig. It appears that she had been staying at a public institution for the past two years, but lately has got beyond their control and persists in wandering away. It was decided to take her back to the home where everything will be done for her comfort.

WOLVES PLENTIFUL AROUND MARMORA

ecs in Pack Above the Village—Destroy Calves and Sheep.

Bancroft, Nov. 26.—There is a large increase of wolves in the woods north of Madoc. Their depredations are getting to be a serious matter to the farmers, many having lost calves and sheep from their farm yards, and the destruction of deer has been enormous. A hunting party had to move their location owing to the wolves in the vicinity. They were seen last week in a swamp a few miles north of Marmora, by parties driving along the road. In the northern part of Grimsthorpe hunters report several packs, and the damage they are doing is very great. The Government might well raise the bounty to $25 or $30, and hunters and settlers would then have an inducement to make a systematic effort to exterminate the animals.

STORM STORIES

Mr. Geo. Cochrane's Fast Work Through Township - Story of Senator Cox.

From the tenor of the many stories about the recent storm it appears to have been of varying violence in different districts. In Peterborough's surrounding townships orchards did not suffer as heavily as might have been expected. Mr. Geo. Cochrane who made a rapid trip through Dummer and Douro on Wednesday states that the most damage seems to have been in and near Lakefield and Peterborough. The intermediate and outlying parts escaped with less serious loss. From the Grove School to Lakefield there were many trees down and in one particular place they were down for a quarter of a mile. Mr. Cochrane left Peterborough on the morning train to Lakefield, drove east and north to a point three miles north of Warsaw. He had considerable driving here and there in that locality and went as far as Clear Lake, returning south again and home on the afternoon trip the same day. He delivered 36 papers, summonses and subpoenas, which may be said to be "going some."

Only Soda Biscuits.

The following story is told of a member of Parliament regarding his experiences on the C.P.R. going to Ottawa.

"We had our interesting experiences. Senators, Mayors and civic officials were all together and everybody was as good as the other fellow. It was funny to see Senator Cox and Senator Jaffray walking down the railway tracks, each with a handful of soda biscuits for breakfast. We were at Central Ontario, when the search for something to eat began. After walking a considerable distance we could get nothing better than soda biscuits. We couldn't even get some cheese to eat. When we arrived at Tweed the C.P.R. provided us with coffee and sandwiches, and we felt considerably better.

"When six miles from Sharbot Lake the train caught up to a tramp who was on his way east. I proposed to the conductor that we give the poor fellow a lift, but he asked me if I wanted him to lose his job. To show how quick we were travelling, we caught and passed the tramp four time sin the six miles, and when we arrived at Sharbott Lake, the tramp was there to welcome us. Five of the boys contributed a quarter each and presented him with $1.50."

JUDGE HUYCKE IN LAKEFIELD

Judge Huycke held a sitting of Division Court in the town hall, Thursday of last week. In several cases of garnishment judgment was given the plaintiffs, Mr. Langley appearing for plaintiffs in each case.

Pope vs. Freeburn.—An action brought for rent, to which the defendant pleaded that the plaintiff had agreed not to charge rent unless he repaired the premises, which defendant had not done. This the plaintiff denied. After a lot of witnesses had been heard the Judge reduced the rent plaintiff claimed by $1.50 a month, plaintiff getting judgment for $36.00 and the costs of this and a former trial. O. A. Langley for plaintiff and G.W. Hatton for defendant.

Kelly vs. Lawless.—This case was adjourned peremptorily until next court, the question of costs reserved until the case is heard. Plaintiff appeared with his witnesses and ready to go on, but defendant was not there.

O. A. Langley for plaintiff, Bennet & Goodwill for defendant.—Lakefield News.

THIS DEVELOPS BUST, MAKES ARMS AND NECK ROUND

"If your bust lacks development or firmness you can rely on both increase and firmness from the persistent use of the following: Obtain from the druggist two ounces of glycerine and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom), mix and let stand several hours; then add a teasponful of borax and three ounces of rosewater. Shake well and apply to the neck, arms and bust, rubbing and massaging until it is completely absorbed; then wash the parts treated with very hot water and soap and dry thoroughly. Apply the treatment morning and night regularly for several weeks or months as the case may require, and the most exquisite fullness and rounding out of hollow places will reward you.

COUNCIL THINKS IT IS IMPORTANT

Question of Sewerage Construction to Residences Outside City Limit.

During the past year the Board of Works has on several occasions been requested to give sewerage connections to residences outside the city limits. Up to the present no action has been taken. The Board realized that a precedent would thus be established and other requests of the same nature would soon be coming in. The Fire, Water and Light Committee has granted lights on a boundary road, which accommodate persons living outside the city limits. A petition for a service to a residence on the Township side of Wolsely St. has been considered several times, but the committee has not yet given it their "serious consideration." Ald. Bradburn last night said it should be discussed at a meeting of the whole Council. If a man living across the boundary is given sewer connection he should pay the difference between his township taxes and those he would have to pay if he were within the city is practically the idea suggested by Ald. Bradburn. The matter has not yet been dealt with, but it is likely that before the new term it may be taken up.

Lifebuoy Soap is delightfully refreshing for bath or toilet. For washing underclothing it is unequalled. Cleanses and purifies.

SECURED MIXER

Mr. E. Conroy Asked for City's Cement Mixer and Got It.

Mr. E. Conroy asked the Board of Works last night for the use of the city's cement mixer for a week or so. The request was granted on condition that he return it in as good condition as it is at present. The Antrim St. sewer will not be built for the present and not likely until spring.

FOWL SUPPER WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Annual Dinner and Entertainment of St. Luke's Ladies' Aid Surpasses All Others.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Luke's church is again to be congratulated on the grand success achieved in the annual dinner and entertainment which was held last evening in the Foresters' hall, Simcoe St. The past reputation for providing unexcelled fowl suppers, was responsible for one of the biggest crowds that ever assembled in the Simcoe St. hall, and this year, as in former ones, everyone went away highly pleased and well satisfied with the appetizing repast, the splendid service and the systematic way in which the immense throngs were handled. The members of the Society under the able leadership of Mrs. Wm. Gibbs and Mrs. Wm. Hickey, had a most complete line of meats and fowl and the choicest delicacies, and ample provision was made for all. Booths where fancy articles and candy were sold received a liberal patronage.

Shortly after eight o'clock, an entertainment of vocal and instrumental numbers was given the rector, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, occuping the chair.

The programme rendered was as follows:

Instrumental duet — Misses Leary and Shearer.
Vocal solo—Miss Ruby Quartermaine.
Reading—Mr. J. H. Burnham.
Vocal duet—Misses Georgie and Prudence Long.
Vocal solo—Mr. K. Shook.
Violin solo—Dr. Park.
Vocal solo—Mr. C. Coleman.

During the evening short addresses were delivered by Rev. Robert Pogue of St. Paul's Church, and Rev. E. A. Pearson of George Street Church.

Miss Charlotte English acted as accompanist for the evening.

CURE FOR DRINK HABIT DISCOVERED

The publication of brief announcements in Chicago that Dr. Alexander Lambert, of New York, believes he has discovered a cure for the liquor and drug habits has aroused a wide interest and a desire to learn more of the matter. Dr. Lambert is a physician of high repute, and for years has been the Roosevelt family physician.

Here is a statement of the matter reprinted from the New York Times:

The announcement made by Dr. Alexander Lambert, of 36 East Thirty-First street, visiting physician at Bellevue Hospital, and professor of clinical medicine at the Cornell Medical College, that he has discovered a speedy cure for the drug habit and alcoholism has aroused much public interest. Men of his profession are particularly interested.

The fact that Dr. Lambert is a physician of high repute and a recognized authority in the matter of specifics, leads credence to his contention that the most confirmed drug fiends are not beyond cure.

Theobliteration of the craving for narcotics is not a matter of months or weeks," says Dr. Lambert, "but is accomplished in less than five days. The result is often so dramatic that one hesitates to believe it possible."

The physician says he obtained the specific about five years ago from Charles B. Towns, of 119 West Eighty-First street, who spent some years in China studying opium cases among the hospitals there. Since that time he has been experimenting with it extensively in his practice at Bellevue. Here is the specific:

Fifteen per cent. tincture of belladonna, the fluid extract of xanthoxylum (prickly ash), and the fluid extract of hyoscyamus, mixed in the certain proportions.

The cure, according to Dr. Lambert, can be effected with a minimum of suffering, and no matter how long the patient has been addicted to the habit, or in what quantities he has been accustomed to take drugs he will be placed in the same attitude toward them as before he fell into the habit. His health will be in no way impaired by the treatment or the deprivation of the drug; on the contrary, a physiological change comes about, whereby, all desire being eliminated, self-confidence is restored to the patient, and his system adjusted to do without it.

Dr. Lambert says, however, that he has no intention to call the specific an infallible cure. He says:

"This treatment is not a cure all for disease, a rehabilitator of all the disturbed functions of the body.

As to the method of treatment, as Dr. Lambert explains it, after employing it in Bellevue in the cases of 28 patients, all of whom he cured, it begins in the usual way of getting the patient into proper physical condition. Then, in cases of cocaine or morphine, the specific is being administered, the drug of which the patient is a victim is still taken. For this reason practically all suffering is absent. Regarding this Dr. Lambert says:

"Give with the first dose of the specific from one-half to two-thirds of the usual daily dose of the opium, morphine, or cocaine which the patient is taking at the time of his treatment. Divide the amount of the narcotic in three doses and give them at half-hour intervals by mouth or by hypodermic, as the patient is accustomed to take it."

Of alcoholism Dr. Lambert says:

"The same specific is used in the same doses, but it does not have to be continued for so long a time, although there may be exceptions. Much closer observation is necessary in treating the alcoholic in regard to the intoxication of belladonna."

Dr. Lambert's record of his drug patients in Bellevue shows that treatment and results vary little with age, or with the period of addiction to the habit, or quantity of the drug taken.

One case is that of a woman 50 years old, addicted for 20 years to the morphine habit. She had brought her dose to an excessive point daily, having acquired the habit to obtain relief from pain. She was in a feeble and nervous condition when admitted to the hospital. In thirteen days, after 46 hours of the specific treatment, she was discharged in good condition. No supplementary treatment was needed."

MUCH DAMAGE DONE AT BRIDGENORTH

Monday's Storm Played Havoc With the Trees and Wires.

Examiner Special.

Bridgenorth, Nov. 23.—The rain that fell and froze yesterday has done no end of damage. The orchards and fruit trees are very badly broken down, and trees of every description are badly smashed; in some cases, the woods are all down. The telephone wires are badly broken and quite a few of the poles are down. The amount of damage done cannot be estimated. Chemong Park has suffered severely. It was impossible to drive through any of the roads this morning on account of trees and limbs broken off.

Mr. P. Hurd and T. McCall left this morning with a load of men to cut logs in their limits in Verulam Township. They took axes with them, expecting to have to cut trees off the road before they could reach their destination.

Entertaining and Hospitality.

I have no sympathy with the tired murmur of the straining women who speak of entertaining as "a duty to society." We all have duties to society, but entertaining is not one of them. There is no more obligation for a woman to entertain than there is for a man to swap horses with a neighbor. The conditions as they now exist are identical. The neighbor may desire to swap his horse, but no man feels bound on that account to exchange his own for it against his will. Since I have recognized the market value of my own horse and how much I am always expected to give "to boot," I never swap.

The real and usually neglected duty to society is hospitality, and that has an important distinction from entertaining. It is hospitality only when the entertainment is without hope of reward. The moment the host hopes to receive in exchange even a good opinion, a little affection or admiration it ceases to be hospitality and becomes entertaining. The foundation of hospitality must be perfect unselfishness.

The question left us to solve in individual cases is, Which will give the most satisfaction as society is now organized?—Mabel Davis in "Dishonesty and Caste."

Time at the North Pole.

At the north pole time is nothing, and if one were residing at the north pole it would be unnecessary to wind one's watch. You are always at 12 o'clock and can't walk out of the hotel without walking south. All times of day meet at the pole as the meeting place of all the meridians. A man sitting with the invisible mathematical point right under him would be in all twenty-four hours at once, or a twenty-four hour watch placed on the pole could be made to point to the correct time to every part of the world. There used to be something of an approximation to this in the extreme north of Norway, where the degrees of longitude squeeze in, until recent days. Captains of Norwegian coasting schooners will tell you how inconvenient it was to change between the time of Holland at Bergen and that of Crete at the North cape while correct local time was maintained. General Norwegian time became indispensable.

A Traveler's Tale.

The passengers were beguiling the journey with pleasant conversation. One man in particular, who had the look of a traveler, told of long sojourns in foreign lands and kept them all interested with his anecdotes. "Yes, gentlemen," said he, "there is nothing like travel to expand the mind. Now, I don't suppose, for instance, that many of you have ever seen a beet root putting on a waistcoat?" His fellow passengers stared in surprise. "No; we certainly have not!" "Or a lettuce donning a pair of trousers?" "No!" "Or a spring onion fixing on its tie and collar!" "No, not even that!" "Well, gentlemen," said the traveler as the train drew up at the terminus and he prepared to alight, "you may believe me or not, as you like, but several times in my travels I have seen not only a beet root or a lettuce or an onion but a whole salad dressing."—London Mail.

Paupers' Paradise.

The authorities of Samoa, the little island upon which Robert Louis Stevenson lived and died, provide board and lodging absolutely free to strangers who are unable or unwilling to pay for their keep. Every village on the island has a guest house, called a "faletale," and here the tourist is invited to come and be fed, lodged and entertained without any payment whatever.

The officials of the town of Klingenberg-on-the-Main, in Bavaria, are exceptionally generous, for they not only provide free beds and free board to poor people, but give away big puddings every year end to all who ask for them. Klingenberg owns several pottery clay pits that bring in so much money to the town coffers that they pay all the town expenses and leave a good round sum over, which is distributed to charity. Klingenberg is one of the few places where taxes are unknown.

Her Logic.

A United States senator in one of his campaigns told this story to illustrate the logic of an opponent: Did you ever hear about the young woman in Fort Dodge? One spring morning she sat on the piazza of her pretty little home sewing a button on her husband's coat. The husband himself appeared, and she said fretfully: "It's a perfect shame the careless way the tailor sewed this button on. This is the fifth time I've had to sew it on again for you."

"Sparks."

"I wonder," said young Mr. Staylate, hunting around for subject matter of conversation, "why they used to call beaus 'sparks'?"

"Perhaps," replied the suffering maiden, deftly showing a yawn as the act of apparently concealing it, "it was because sometimes they went out."—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Lesson in Politeness.

He was dining at a French restaurant, and while he was sipping his black coffee and firing 500 gimlets to the minute at a girl in a fluffy pink and white dress a stranger gracefully commandeered his overcoat. He had just reached the door when the owner tapped him on the shoulder.

"Pardon me, sir," he said meekly, "but would you allow me to get another cigar from my coat pocket in case I do not meet you again?"—Tit-Bits.

Why She Wept.

Mr. Styles—What are you crying about, dear?

Mrs. Styles—I'm crying because I didn't spend that $20 you gave me this morning.

Mr. Styles—Well, you shouldn't cry about that. You're better off not to have spent it.

Mrs. Styles—No, I'm not, either. I lost it.—Yonkers Statesman.

Yearly Occurrence.

"It is only once that we return to dust," said the solemn looking person in serious tones.

"Then I guess you don't take a two weeks' vacation," laughed the homecomer with the tan and scratches. "I find two inches of it in the old home village every year."—St. Louis Republic.

Educated Up to It.

Gunner—By jinks, I'd like to join one of those north pole expeditions and take the trip up to the land of purple snows.

Guyer—What! And live all the winter in a packing box?

Gunner—Sure. I wouldn't mind that. I'm a flat dweller.—Chicago News.

"Mum, could you give a poor man a dime who had both feet frozen off in arctic exploration?"

"Arctic explorer indeed! I think you're a fraud."

"No, mam. I could prove it only I left my records at Etaw."—Kansas City Times.

A Building Paradox.

"Houses are notoriously unsafe in an earthquake region, and yet they should be the steadiest built."

"How do you make that out?"

"Because in an earthquake region aren't they on a rock?"—Baltimore American.

The Only Way.

Florence (sighing)—Ah, Reginald dearest, but how can I be sure that you will not grow weary of me after we have been married a little while?

Reginald—I don't know, unless we get married and see.

The Power Of Song

Thirty men, red-eyed and dishevelled, lined up before a judge of the San Francisco police court. It was the regular morning company of "drunks and disorderlies." Some were old and hardened, others hung their heads in shame. Just as the momentary disorder attending the bringing in of the prisoners quieted down, a strange thing happened. A strong clear voice from below began singing:

"Last night as I lay sleeping,
There came a dream so fair"

Last night! It had been for them all a nightmare or a drunken stupor. The song was a contrast to the horrible fact that no one could fail of a sudden shock at the very thought the song suggested:

"I stood in old Jerusalem,
Beside the Temple there,"

The song went on. The judge had paused. He made a quiet inquiry. A former member of a famous opera company, known all over the country, was awaiting trial for forgery. It was he who was singing in his cell. Meantime the song went on, and every man in the line showed emotion. One or two dropped on their knees; one boy at the end of the line, after a desperate effort at self-control, leaned against the wall, buried his face in his folded arms, and sobbed, "O, mother, mother."

The sobs, cutting to the very heart of the men who heard, and the song, still welling its way through the court room, blended the hush. At last one man protested. "Judge," said he, "have we got to submit to this? We are here to take our punishment, but this—" He, too, began to sob.

It was impossible to proceed with the business of the court, yet the judge gave no order to stop the song. The police sergeant, after an effort to keep the men in line, stepped back and waited with the rest. The song moved on to its climax.

"Jerusalem! Jerusalem! Sing for the night is o'er!
Hosanna in the highest! Hosanna forever more!

In an ecstacy of melody the last words rang, and then there was a silence.

The judge looked into the faces of the men before him. There was not one who was not touched by the song, not one in whom some better impulse was not stirred. He did not call the cases singly—a kind word of advice, and he dismissed them all. No man was fined or sentenced to the workhouse that morning. The song had done more good than punishment could possibly accomplish.

FEEDING AND CARING OF FOWL

From Farm and Dairy.

Half-starved hens show a poor idea of economy. Better over-feed than under-feed.

If the chickens are confined to a run be sure that grit and lime are provided for them.

Clover hay cut in half-inch lengths cooked and mixed with bran and a little meal makes a good morning feed.

Birds that are in the moult and desired for show, can be hurried along with a little oil meal in the mash.

Galvanized iron feed troughs are better than wood, as they are much easier to clean and are more sanitary than wood ones.

Litter at least eight to 12 inches in depth should cover the hen house floor, into which all grain should be fed. Straw and leaves makes about the best litter.

You can always learn something from your neighbor's plans in poultry matters.

Cracked oyster shell and grit is more necessary at this time of the year. See that the fowls have a good supply on hand.

Poultry that is sold upon the market should be fat when sold. It is better flavored, sells more readily, and at a higher price.

The breeder who has a flock of pullets that are now in prime and just beginning to lay has a bright prospect before him, and if given proper care will continue to lay throughout the winter months and be very profitable.

GAS, HEARTBURN AND DYSPEPSIA VANISH

Makes Your Out-of-Order Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes.

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of Indigestion or Dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach if you will take a little Diapepsin occasionally.

Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes Belching, Dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea, Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Bitterness, Heartburn, Water brash, Pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapepsin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. A single dose will digest all the food you eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour and upset the stomach.

Get a large 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist and start taking now, and in a little while you will actually brag about your healthy, strong Stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery and every particle of impurity and Gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives of any other assistance.

Should you at this moment be suffering from Indigestion or any stomach disorder, you can get relief within five minutes.

THE OTTAWAS FEAR LAWSON AND VARSITY'S ON SIDE KICK

Senators are Busy Inventing Plays to Block the Tactics That Have Proved so Successful for the Students in the Inter-Collegiate Race---Expect to Stop Lawson.

Ottawa Free Press.

Everyone knows Varsity's strength. It lies right behind the line. One, Lawson, a human traction engine, built something on the lines of the Siwash College giant, is the main dependence of the students. The ball is placed in his hands and he runs. That is all he can do. But he is so massive and powerful, that he makes quite a success of that department of the game against weak tacklers. He can neither catch, nor kick. When he does fumble, the other backs are standing right beside him to stick the ball in his hands again and start him on his way. It will take men like Ferguson and Sheriff to stop Lawson. But then he may not have the chances against Ottawa that were given him in the Inter-Collegiate.

Besides Lawson, 'Varsity has a couple of good ones in Gall, the star punter of the team, and Newton, who is a good catch and runner. Youth and vigour will also help them considerably, but that will hardly compensate for their deficiency on the line. Their outside wings are below the standard and their middle and inside wings are nothing to boast of. The team has a strong scrimmage, but will be up against a more experienced and probably stronger one in Kennedy, Sherriff and Ferguson.

From this angle it looks as if 'Varsity's only hope of winning out is by the trick route. The back line will be worked overtime. Likewise the on-side kick. That, and Lawson, are 'Varsity's best ground getters. Clancy believes he has the onside kick countered. In order to block it, it will become necessary for the Ottawa backs to join in the defence as well as the line. By covering both of the side halves, the onside runner should be effectually stalled.

'Varsity will hardly attempt any straight football. The kicking and running game has been their forte all season. But they work innumerable half and quarter back runs right from first and second scrimmages that are dangerous. Indeed in the Inter-Collegiate they were constantly pulling off that passing run Ottawa so cleverly countered against Tigers last Saturday. Lawson is played far back so that he can get way up.

It is not amiss for the Ottawa management to call the attention of the referees to the great amount of interference that is rife in Inter-Collegiate ball. Every team in that union has used it all season. It is the only way half back runs can be pulled off successfully.

Up west they are calling Ottawa to lose through the fumbling of the backs. There is no doubt that three of the red, white and black did a wholesale amount of muffing against Tigers. But they always hung on to the ball at critical stages. If the Ottawa wings hold, the backs will have quite as much time to recover as they did last Saturday. That 'Varsity line should be easier to handle than Tigers. But the 'Varsity backs will have to be blocked. Every kicker will attempt to follow up his own boot, and will necessitate watching.

HAVELOCK TO PLAY NO MORE

Consider That They Should be Awarded the Football Championship and Refuse to Continue.

Special to The Examiner.

Havelock, Nov. 26.—At a meeting of the Match committee of the Ontario Football League at Toronto this week, the Brussels-Havelock dispute was disposed of by ordering the match replayed next week at Havelock However, Havelock refuse to play next week or any other week. Havelock considers they have already won, and should be awarded the championship. The locals have not been treated square ,and consider they have had several raw deals handed out to them by the officials on previous occasions and they are determined that they stand for no more.

The concert in the town hall on Friday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church was a rather delightful success. The principal entertainer was Miss Tate, of Belleville, an elocutionist of excellent merit, who rendered many selections, which were pleasantly received. She was encored several times, and on each occasion willingly responded. Other numbers on the programme were as follows:

Instrumental duett—Miss Howe.
Vocal Solo—Mrs. Geo. Chiles.
Vocal Duet—Dr. and Mrs. Kindred.
Vocal Solo—Mrs. P. J. Wright.
Chorus by members of the choir.
Vocal Solo—Miss Bessie Rose.
Vocal Duet—Miss McGill and Mr. Rollie Graham.
Instrumental Duet—Misses Smith and Kitchen.
Vocal Solo—Mr. Rollie Graham.
Closing chorus by choir.
God Save the King.

Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P.P., ably filled the position of chairman. After the concert, those who assisted were banqueted at Mrs. Jack's residence, a member of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Mr. Rollie Graham spent Sunday at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Callander, of Norwood, were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Kindred on Sunday. Mrs. Callander rendered two solos in the Methodist church in the evening, which were highly appreciated.

Mr. Douglas Shields, of Toronto, spent Sunday with friends at Trent Bridge.

Miss Loretta Bennett spent Sunday with friends at Peterborough.

Mrs. Harry Burnett was in Peterborough on Monday.

No service was held in the Presbyterian church on Sunday, on account of the illness of the Rev. J. A. G. Sterling.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burnett have taken up residence on King St.

Messrs. Dr. Holdcroft, Alex Rose, W. Bryans, Thos. Bennett, Thos. Curtis, Firm Haig, Wm. Matheson and George Matheson, are in Peterborough, attending the electric light trial, which commenced this morning (Monday.)

Mrs. Barlow, of Belleville, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Dan. Kennedy.

Mrs. Carman Holcombe and Mrs. Inkster, of Marmora, were the guests of their sister, Mrs. Chas. Roberts last week.

Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P.P., was in Peterborough last week on business.

Miss Julia Choate, of Peterborough, was in town on Tuesday.

Mr. T. E. Pace, of Cordova, was in town Tuesday.

Mrs. Wm. Cole and family left on Wednesday for West Toronto, where they will reside.

The marriage of Miss Lilian Campbell, daughter of Mrs. Jas. Campbell, of town, to Dr. Harry Andrew, of Toronto, was solemnized on Monday, Nov. 1st, at Peterborough, by the Rev. Mr. Potter. The bride is one of Havelock's popular young ladies, having been born and brought up here, and with her loving and winning ways, has won many friends, who regret her departure from town, but join in wishing the young couple much joy and happiness. Dr. Andrew has bought out a profession, and drug store at Sundridge, and left on Tuesday to commence his duties. Mrs. Andrew will join them next week. Mrs. Andrew received many beautiful gifts from her many friends testifying the high esteem in which she is held.

Messrs. Wm. Hitchens, Walter Vare and W. B. Hart, C.P.R. firemen, have been transferred to West Toronto, and left for that city on Monday.

The marriage of Miss Idella Spring, of Newmarket, to Mr. John J. Flynn, of Mountain Grove, took place at the Presbyterian Manse, Medicine Hat, on Nov. 11th.

The groom, formerly resided in town, and is a brother of Mr. Robt. Flynn, who at present resides here.

The wedding was solemnized at Norwood by the Rev. Mr. Tucker, on Nov. 11th, of Miss M. B. Marshall, of Rush Point, to Mr. R. B. Howard, of Coe Hill. Miss Violet Meads, of town ,officiated as bridesmaid, while Mr. Robt. Seeney, of Rush Point, was groomsman. Mr. and Mrs. Howard will reside at Coe Hill.

Miss Florence McWilliams, of Marmora, was the guest of her sister, Miss Minnie McWilliams, on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Holcombe, who have spent the past month at Marmora, the guest of the latter's mother, Mrs. Archer, returned to town on Wednesday.

The anniversary services of the Havelock church, held on Sunday last, were most successful. The Rev. Jas. McMullen, of Frankford, officiated at both services, and delivered excellent sermons on each occasion. The music rendered on the occasion by the choir was splendid, and much credit is due Dr. Kindred, leader of of the choir. Mrs. Callander, of Norwood, and Mr. Rollie Graham, of Peterborough, assisted the choir, rendering several solos.

The evening service was very largely attended, as no service was held in the Presbyterian church. Rev. Dr. Balfour preached missionary services on Frankford circuit last Sunday.

Messrs. John Bannon and Harry Marshall, of Rush Point, have returned from Victoria Harbour, where they have been engaged on the mammoth C.P.R. elevator at that point.

ATHLETICS

From the crowd that witnessed the Longboat-Shrubb contest in Winnipeg last night, long distance racing in the middle West as well as in the east is upon its last legs. Coming in like a lion the Marathon game is just as surely going out like a ewe lamb and a race in Toronto wouldn't pull a crowd that would fill a telephone booth. Last night in the Prairie City, "Gaim little Alfie," as the speedy Englishman is known in Peckham Rye, placed several city blocks 'twixt himself and the late protege of Tom Flanagan, defeating the Indian on the bit. It appears the overseas gentleman was in good condition, while it is said Longboat has not had a shoe on his dainty foot for weeks.—Toronto Telegram.

Arrangements Made for Complete Report of the Ottawa-Varsity Struggle To-morrow at Rosedale — An Expert Will Handle the Story for The Examiner.

ALL IN THE LAST EDITION

The chief topic in sporting circles in Peterborough at the present moment is the Rugby battle between Ottawas, the Inter-Provincial champions, and Varsity, the winners of the Intercollegiate title, which takes place to-morrow afternoon at the Rosedale Grounds, Toronto.

Realizing this fact the Examiner has made arrangements for a complete story of the big game, to be published in to-morrow's edition of this paper. As much as possible of the play will be printed in the first edition, but as it is not desired to keep customers waiting for their papers beyond the usual hour, it will not be possible to give the whole story in the earlier issue. A later edition will, however, be out at 5.30 o'clock, giving a comprehensive account of the game, so that readers of the Examiner may have the story before them at their evening meal. Gone, indeed, are the days when the people of Peterborough have to wait until noon on Monday to learn the details of some big game played on Saturday afternoon.

Arrangements have been made by which the services of an expert sporting writer, a man who knows every detail of the game, and is familiar with every player, will be at the services of Examiner readers to-morrow afternoon. This critic will be on the side lines at Rosedale to-morrow, closely following every detail of the play, and his impressions of the game will be wired to the Examiner by the C. P. R. Telegraph Company, as rapidly as the story can be flashed over the wires. At the Examiner office the linotype operators will set the matter as it comes in and a few minutes after the game is over the big press will be turning out the Examiner with a "moving picture" story of the game, with all the important details of the play and all the interesting incidents fully recorded.

Do not fail to secure a copy of the last edition of the Examiner to-morrow if you are in any way interested in the notable football struggle.

FAVOURS VARSITY

Toronto Critic Says Tigers Were Beaten by Inferior Team and That it Will Take More Than Two Men to Beat Varsity.

THE TELEGRAM'S VIEWS

This chap figures from the McGill game he saw 'Varsity play in Montreal when the students were disorganised and at their worst, and the Tiger game in Toronto when Riders played, in the opinion of most football critics, just a little above their heads. And still his dope is hardly right. Ottawa gained more ground on high punts that went over the heads of the sleepy Hamilton back division than they did on the low bounding chaps that figure so dangerously in print, and while they held the Tiger line all right, their pounding of it to pieces wasn't noticeable to the naked eye. In fact, the showing of that line has given added confidence to the students who feared the famous Tiger line but not the Tiger line that couldn't make an impression on Ottawa's bunch of beef.

As a matter of fact last Saturday's game upsets all dope. It proved that Hamilton were either playing away below their form or have been carrying a reputation they could not live up to. It showed Ben Simpson at his worst, for his great punts had a happy knack of landing in Williams' hands, and Williams is the only man on the Riders 'back division who is licensed to catch a ball much oftener than once in three times. It took McCann so long to get hold of that ball that he went over with a try, that with any speed anywhere among those Tigers he would have been nailed and probably lost the ball as well. And then you know if that try hadn't been counted against them Tigers might have kept off playing football instead of looking like a lot of rank quitters in the last quarter.

As a matter of fact all the critics agree that Saturday's game was anything but good football. It looked as if Hamilton starting with an overdose of confidence couldn't get back to their natural stride when the pinch came, and, on the whole, were beaten by an inferior team. For two men don't make a football team, and so far as heard Williams and Stronach appear to have beaten the HamiRon Tigers by their little loneliness.

Curlers To Have An Open And Two Local Bonspiels This Winter

Decided Upon at a Meeting of the Club in the Bank of Montreal Chambers Last Evening---Thirty-two Skips Selected---Committee Appointed to Draw up a Schedule of Season's Games.

After a great deal of discussion the Curling Club finally decided to hold an open bonspiel and two local ones, att a meeting held last evening in the Bank of Montreal chambers, for the purpose of selecting skips for the coming season. The president, Mr. W. G. Ferguson, was in the chair, and there was a large number present.

Following the selection of skips an enthusiastic discussion took place on whether there should be an open bonspiel held this winter or only two local ones. Some were in favour of the latter idea, stating that when good players came from outside towns, the best curlers here were chosen to play against them, and the young men just learning the game were deprived of nearly a week's curling. On the other hand Mr. S. T. Medd pointed out that it would be going back a step to drop the big bonspiel, Kingston, Galt and other towns held them. It brought a number of men here and did much to advertise the town. He was very much in favour of the open bonspiel.

A number of others spoke on the matter, some favouring an open one and others wanting only local ones.

Mr. Merritt moved, seconded by Mr. Brightman, that there be two local bonspiels held this winter.—Carried.

Mr. Medd moved, seconded by Mr. D. Davidson, that there also be an open bonspiel, the same as heretofore. Upon a vote being taken, it resulted in a tie. The chairman thought it should be unanimous and asked for a standing vote. Upon it being taken only a very small number held out against it.

It was moved by Mr. Medd, seconded by Mr. Brightman, that Messrs. Giroux, Foote and P. Laing be a committee to draw up the schedule.

It was moved by Mr. Brightman and seconded by Mr. Merritt, that the President, Vice-President and Dr. Wightman be a committee to appoint a caretaker.

The Skips.

The following skips were appointed:—C. N. Brown, J. H. Connell, Dr. J. M. McCulloch, W. G. Morrow, W. G. Ferguson, T. Brightman, Dr Greer, R. Hicks, S. T. Medd, D. Davidson, R. Neill, T. F. Matthews, E. B. Clegg, J. H Ferguson, W. J. Thompson, G. B. Stevenson, D. Fraser, G. H. Giroux, S. Ray, Wm. Laing, J. E. A. Fitzgerald, W. G. Reid, W. E. Talbot, Dr. Eastwood, H. Foote, A. Moore, W D. Campbell, T. E. H. Yeates, Dr. Wightman, Rev. E. A. Pearson, R. M. Waddell and W. McIlroy.

HOCKEY

Cutting the age limit of junior O.H.A. teams to nineteen years should help out the intermediate series a bit. Heretofore said intermediates have generally been made up of players too old to play junior and not good enough to catch places in senior teams. With some good 20-year-olds in the line-up the intermediates may now be good enough to draw expenses at the gate.—Toronto Telegram.

TRENTON WILL HAVE TWO O.H.A. TEAMS

A most enthusiastic meeting of hockey players and enthusiasts was held in the town hall on Monday evening last, being the occasion of the annual meeting. The prospects of a covered rink, no doubt, was the cause of so large a turnout. Some 30 or 35 gave in their names as willing to join and obtain certificates from the O. H. A. to play this year. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Rev. F. W. Armstrong President.
Mr. R. L. Haines, Secretary.

The elected officers and Messrs. Siddall, G. Matthews and Harry James were appointed a committee of management. It was decided to enter an intermediate and junior team in the O. H. A. series. Rev. F. W. Armstrong was elected representative to O. H. A.

The enthusiasm of the annual meeting augurs well for the success of the teams. With some good material, in addition to our old standbys, the boys ought to give a good account of themselves.—Trenton Courier.

RUGBY

The Toronto Telegram says of to-morrow's game. With the fans and speculators standing out all night looking for tickets, the experts are busy in another line. They are sitting up nights working out new dope on the game. One chap in Montreal, who evidently didn't see the game, calls Ottawa to win, because the Rider line "pounded Tigers into submission" and Williams' low bounding kicks prevented a punting duel.

OWING TO EXTRA EDITION THE SCORE WILL NOT BE BULLETINED

As announced in another column on this page, The Examiner will to-morrow issue a special edition containing a complete story of the Dominion championship final game between Ottawas and Varsity. Every feature that is of interest to local followers of the game, will be attended to, but in order to make this possible The Examiner staff will be kept busy and it will therefore be impracticable to bulletin the results as they are received or to give any information over the telephone as to the progress of the game. In order that the paper containing the full account of the great struggle should be on the street as early as possible, the staff will have its hands full, and The Examiner asks its friends to assist in the work by reducing the number of telephone calls to a minimum while the edition is being prepared. While this paper always is anxious to keep the public informed as to what is going on, it will be seen in this case that it becomes almost impossible. The last edition containing the story of the game should be on the street shortly after 5.30 o'clock.

NEW JEWELERY
AT THE Lowest Prices!

No matter what our opposition prices are we can give you a little lower price.

Since the fire we have disposed of all the old Stock, renovated the store and procured the very newest lines of Jewellery, Cut Glass, etc., on the market.

Everything new from the very heart of the largest Jewellery centre in America. Mr. Milburn went to New York and bought direct from the manufacturer.

Having no old stock to dispose of we cannot run a sale, but buying direct we can give you prices far below even sale prices.

Take for instance our Crystal Pure, full size Cut Glass Bowl for - $2.45
Or a Bon-Bon Dish for - - 98c
Something Swell in a Handled Olive Dish for - $1.35

This is a lower price than any other Jeweller can buy it for in Peterborough.

Just Another Hint

We lead in all engraved jewellery.

Even our opposition will not dispute the fact that we can give you the best engraving of any jeweller in the city.

If you want anything in cuff links, tie pins, signet rings, or lockets why take poor engraving when you can get the best free of charge. As for the prices of the goods, they are just a little lower than our competitors, and you take no chances of having old stock forced on you by

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

James Deyon has returned to Enismore after several weeks' visit in Peterborough.

Mr. W. J. E. Gillott, Millbrook's well-known furniture dealer, is in the city to-day.

Mr. T. W. Harper, for the past four years in the Bank of Toronto here, latterly teller, was promoted this week to the chief branch in Montreal, for which place he left yesterday morning. "Billy" was not only a favourite with the staff and bank's customers, but was generally popular, and his friends, while glad to note his advancement, regret his departure. A number went to the train to see him off and presented him with a pair of pipes. He is succeeded here by Mr. A. S. McMatch, of Montreal.—Gananoque Reporter.

Mr. Leo Quinn, who has been in Oshawa for the past few months, arrived home on Thursday morning. Leo has been laid up with a bad attack of typhoid fever, but is slowly recovering.—Lakefield News.

CHOICE LINE OF HOCKEY GOODS

Mr. C. N. Banks is Ready for the Opening of the Season With a Splendid Stock

With the opening of the hockey season only a few weeks away, Mr. C. N. Banks, proprietor of the Banks Sporting Goods store, is ready to outfit the hockey clubs of the city, and offers them the most complete line of winter sporting goods that has ever been displayed in Peterborough. The stock includes thousands of hockey skates and boots, and some new varieties that will no doubt prove popular, shin guards, ankle supports, sweaters; in fact everything that a hockey team requires. In the hockey boot line a feature is being made of the MacPherson steel toes boot, which is fitted with a steel cap such as was successfully used by the Ottawa Hockey Club. Another feature of the stock is a wood fibre shin guard that is very light, but at the same time gives splendid protection. A large golden skate has just been placed in position at the door, and makes an attractive sign. Sporting organizations should remember Banks at the sign of the "Golden Skate," beneath the town clock.

OBITUARY

SISTER ST. EGBERT.

Sister St. Egbert, a distinguished member of the congregation de Notre Dame, who had charge of the important educational establishments of the community in Montreal, Ottawa, Waterbury, Conn., and elsewhere, passed away quite unexpectedly a few days ago at the latter place. The remains were brought to Montreal for interment.

Sister St. Egbert had been superior at the Convent of Mount St. Mary, Guy street, and at St. Ann's Academy, McCord street, and was held in high esteem by a large circle of ladies of Montreal who had graduated at these well-known establishments. News of her death came as a great surprise as she had only a few weeks ago visited Montreal evidently in the enjoyment of excellent health.—Montreal Witness.

Sister St. Egbert will be remembered in Peterborough, as she was at one time superior of Notre Dame Convent here.

TO RE-BUILD THE STEAMER MAJESTIC

Mr. W. J. Hickey, Peterborough's well-known shipbuilder, was in Young's Point yesterday, making arrangements for the rebuilding of the steamer "Majestic," during the coming winter. The "Majestic" has been pulled out and next summer will see this popular boat gliding through Stony Lake waters in a much improved appearance. Those who are familiar with navigation on the Trent Canal, are satisfied that the "Majestic" owes its owners the Stony Lake Navigation Company, nothing. The "Majestic" has always been busy, its crew always popular and obliging, and the service generally excellent.

The tug "Beaver" owned by Messrs. Joseph and Andrew Lajeunesse, has just closed a busy, and from all accounts a profitable season. The "Beaver" during the past season brought to Peterborough fully 2,000 cords of wood, the greater part of which was for the Peterborough Fuel & Cartage Company, Limited.

Navigation generally on the Trent Canal has closed somewhat earlier this year than last, although the steamer "Rainbow" is expected up to Peterborough from Rice Lake on Saturday. The lockages at Young's Point, which is pretty generally recognised to be the criterion of traffic on the Trent Canal, will it is understood, exceed that of any previous year.

The entire fleet of the Trent Canal, with the exception of the tug "Empire," has been laid up for the winter at Lakefield. The "Empire" has been hauled out at Peterborough, preparatory to being rebuilt, and it is understood that her name is being changed to the "J. B. McColl." The reason of this is that all Government boats must be registered the same as any other vessels, and the name "Empire" is possessed by some other craft already registered.

MONTREAL LIKES "BILLY"

Herald Says the Shubert Farce Which Comes to the Grand Next Week Is Very Funny.

The Montreal Herald says of "Billy," which appears at the Grand on Wednesday night:

That three-acts of unrestrained and continuous, but perfectly innocent and healthy merriment can be obtained from the inability of a young man to say "Beatrice" without his false teeth, is the highest testimony that could be asked to the dexterity and skill of George Cameron as an author of farce. "Billy" is thoroughly and unqualifiedly amusing.

Billy Hargreave, football hero, loses most of his front teeth in a rush, and has them replaced with a 'plate.' He loves Beatrice Sloan, but being morbidly sensitive about his deficiency, he takes a trip to Cuba to get used to his new speaking materials. Unfortunately, these turns up on the same ship Beatrice, who is accompanied by her mother and a person named Sam Eustace, who is Billy's dead rival. Billy is in the act of making the terrible avowal of his dental falsity when, crash, the ship lurches, somebody bumps into him, and—the false teeth are gone.

If you have any false teeth, take them out and try to say "Beatrice" as if you loved her. You will then have an idea of what the rest of the play is like. Its amusing qualities are mainly due to the fine work of that sterling actor, Edgar Atchison-Ely, as Billy, and of Jane Marbury, another artist well known to Broadway, as his younger sister.

LINDSAY WON GAME

Brock Street Roller Rink Team Was Defeated Last Night by 4 Goals to 1.

The Brock St. Roller Hockey team journeyed to Lindsay last night and were defeated by the team representing the Lindsay Roller Rink by four goals to one after a lively game. The score at half time was two to nothing in favour of the winners. The teams were fairly even in the matter of age, but the Lindsay team had a little the better of it in weight. The game was hard fought but was clean all the way, only two players being penalized. Bill Stoddard, the rover of the Lindsay Midgets, refereed the game satisfactorily. The teams were as follows:

Peterborough—Goal, Clute, point, Godfrey, cover-point, Nelson; forwards, Thompson, Halpany, Smith, Kennedy.

The Lindsay team will come down here for the return game on Thursday, when the locals hope to reverse the score.

DR. COOK IS TAKEN ILL

As Result of Long Work in Preparing His Proofs to Be Presented to the Danish Scientists, Explorer's Health Has Failed—False Portfolio Taken on Shipboard to Deceive Enemies of Explorer.

New York, Nov. 27.—The Herald says: As a result of the mental strain under which he has labored in preparing his records for the Danish scientists, Dr. Frederick A. Cook, discoverer of the North Pole, has suffered a nervous breakdown. He is at the home of an intimate friend in New York, but his condition is such that not even his closest personal friends are allowed to see him.

Looking haggard and ten years older than when he arrived from the Arctic regions in September, the explorer left his hotel, the Gramatan Inn., Bronxville, at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon for a visit to New York. There was such a change in his condition he did not return to Bronxville Thursday night and Mrs. Cook joined him here.

Although it was announced that Walter Longsdale, who left New York Thursday on the United States, of the Scandinavian- American line, for Copenhagen, was conveying the explorer's original data and the comprehensive analysis he had prepared in support of his assertion that he was the first to reach the North Pole, it was learned that the data and report in reality were sent to Europe several days ago on a fast steamer and were due to arrive at Copenhagen several days before Mr. Longsdale, who is due at the Danish capital on Dec. 7.

"Dr. Cook's records are in the safe of a transatlantic liner now in mid-ocean," said Henry W. Wack, the explorer's counsel. "The large portfolio which Mr. Lonsdale carried aboard the United States was only a dummy to trap the conspirators, who have resorted to every means to gain possession of Dr. Cook's data. I am convinced that an effort will be made to rob him of the package which he has in his possession before the United States reaches the other side."

Melilla, Morocco, Nov. 27.—Gen. Marina has left at the head of a considerable force of Spanish troops with the intention of surrounding Mount Boni-Biufur and isolating the Riff tribesmen who are still entrenched there

CRITICIZE THE DELAY

Mr. Borden Objects to Him as New Governor of British Columbia—In Reply to Judgeship Structures Mr. Fielding Says the Province Seems to Be In No Hurry—Major Currie's Bread Bill.

Ottawa, Nov. 26.—The first real scrap of the session took place yesterday over the delay in the appointment of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, and the judges of the Court of Appeal of that province until the result of the election was known.

R. L. Borden describes the tactics as disgraceful and intolerable as regards the proposed appointment of F. C. Wade, one of the defeated Liberal candidates as Lieutenant-Governor. J. D. Taylor said that Mr. Wade, in the course of the recent provincial campaign, had made charges against the McBride Government which could not be substantiated. It was intolerable, he said, that a man who had made such charges should be named as the advisor of the Government, which he had accused. Mr. Taylor declared that no man should receive a public office as a reward for taking part in a political campaign.

Major Currie introduced a bill to amend the Inspection and Sale Act by fixing the weight of loaves of bread by federal enactment. He said that the Dominion House possesses jurisdiction as to weights and measures and that Parliament has fixed the weights of certain articles and things such as a bushel of grain, a barrel of salt, etc. There was, therefore, no valid reason why it should not do likewise as to the weight of bread. The various Provincial Governments and many municipalities had struggled with the problem, but with indifferent, and, on the whole, unsatisfactory results. Under the provisions of his bill there would be three weights for loaves of bread—one, two and four pounds.

A discussion followed as to whether or not the bill should have been preceded with by a formal resolution, it being a matter which affects trade, and the bill was allowed to stand until the officials of the House could give a decision.

Incidentally Sir Wilfrid Laurier expressed the opinion that the matter of the weight of bread does not come under the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government, but should be dealt with by the Provincial Legislatures.

Hon. William Templeman's bill to amend the inland revenue act was considered in committee. It provides for an increase in the cost of an inland revenue bonding warehouse from $20 to $50, and provides that for the doing up of cigarettes in packages of 25 as well as 20. The bill stood over at the request of Richard Blain (Peel).

On motion to go into supply, J. D. Taylor (New Westminster) brought up the question of the delay in the appointments of the lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, and of the judges of the Court of Appeal. He said it had been freely stated in the press that certain persons who had figured prominently in the provincial election there were to be given these appointments, and ascribed it as disgraceful that this should be possible. He mentioned the case of a man languishing in New Westminster jail because there was no Court of Appeal to which he could take his case.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier deprecated criticism until the appointments have been made. "We shall then be open to censure or approval," he said. "We are liable only for what action we take."

Martin Burrill said that F. C. Wade, who had been mentioned for lieutenant-governor, must necessarily be a partisan, since he took part in the provincial election.

Others whose names had been bandied about in the Liberal press had been mentioned as judges for the Court of Appeal. He mentioned that Mr. Macdonald, the Opposition leader, who was expected to become chief justice, and who had stayed out of politics and was complimented for doing so, had eventually entered in the political campaign as the result of pressure.

R. L. Borden asked how it was possible to be decent in the eyes of the public under the circumstances, that a man who entered into a political campaign and made serious charges against a Government should immediately afterwards be placed on the judicial bench. Nothing more disgraceful or intolerable could be imagined than the case of the man being compelled to languish in jail because wheels of justice must stop because Hon. Mr. Aylesworth had to go to Europe. This excuse for delay in the appointment of judges was absolutely unworthy of consideration. The appeal court should have been constituted in September last.

Hon. Mr. Fielding said Mr. Borden's remarks were unfair to Mr. Aylesworth. The British Columbia Government had shown no haste to have the Court of Appeal constituted.

Mr. Burrill asked if it was not the case that during the time the British Columbia Government delayed there was an appeal court in existence

Mr. Burrill pointed out that Mr Aylesworth had promised to make the appointments six days after the British Columbia election, thus showing that the result of the elections would determine the personnel of the bench.

Berlin Not Informed.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—It was officially stated yesterday that nothing was known here of the reported financial irregularities in the naval meat supply at Kiel.

OLIVER MAY HAVE SEAT

British Columbia Premier Is Reported to Be Contemplating a Request to His Yale Constituents That They Elect Oliver — Latter Says He Has Retired From Politics—Socialist Seeks Honor.

Vancouver, Nov. 27.—Premier McBride yesterday received more than three hundred telegrams of congratulation, one message being from D. D. Mann of the Canadian Northern Railway.

John Oliver, leader of the Liberals in Thursday's elections, announced yesterday that he had retired from politics. Speaking over long distance telephone from his Ladner Farm, he said:

"The leadership of the party was forced on me when McDonald resigned. I did not seek this honor. From this time I am out of politics. After Thursday, I will merely be a spectator in the political game. The farm is good enough for me."

There is rumor to-day that Premier McBride, being elected in two places, will ask his constituents of Yale to allow Oliver to take that seat. In spite of his announced retirement, it is likely he would readily agree to sit in Yale. Conservative leaders here declare that Oliver fought a square fight, abstaining from the personalities which characterized the Wade-Tupper end of the campaign.

Oliver is an experienced legislator, too, and many Conservatives openly declare that the House would be all the better for his assistance. Without Oliver, the Opposition would be a joke, and it would require hard work in the House to prevent the proceedings approaching the ridiculous.

Returns received up to a late hour last night, show thirty-eight straight Conservatives elected out of 42 seats in the House.

During the afternoon, Lillooet moved out of the Liberal column, giving 20 majority for McDonald (Con.) as against former member Eagleson, with a couple of unimportant places to hear from.

Jardine is elected as Liberal representative in Esquimault against Harry Helmsken. The latter was formerly a member of the House, but did not stand very high as a party man. Jardine had made a strong fight in the last two or three years against Asiatics and the workingmen of his district stood by him.

Though Alberni returns are not in yet in full, both parties concede that Brewster (Lib.) is re-elected. Two Socialists complete the House.

The House when it meets on Jan. 20 will consist of 38 Conservatives, 2 Socialists and 2 Liberals. It is expected Hawthornthwaite of Nanaimo may claim the first position on Mr. Speaker's left by virtue of seniority in Parliamentary affairs, but this will hardly be conceded in consequence of the established recognition throughout Canada of the Liberal party as the natural opponents of Conservatives.

Body Riddled With Bullets.

Meridian, Miss., Nov. 27.—Morgan Chambers, the negro who was taken from Town Marshal Broadway and Deputy Joe Camp at Meehan by a mob, who riddled his body with bullets Thursday night, had earlier in the day beaten and robbed Martin Dressler, an aged citizen of Point, a small station two miles west of Meehan. Dressler was taken to Meehan for medical treatment, and the negro, captured at Chunkey, a few miles further west, was taken to Meehan, where he was positively identified by his victim. After the identification Marshal Broadway and Deputy Camp started with the prisoner for the town prison. On the way they were confronted by the mob, who took the negro by force. Marshal Broadway had his cheek grazed by a bullet in the scrimmage.

Oxford, N.S., Fire Swept.

Amherst, N.S., Nov. 27.—A fire entailing a loss of $50,000 occurred at Oxford, N.S., yesterday morning in the main business section of the town. The fire started in W. R. Slade's building occupied by The Oxford Clothing Co., completely destroying building and contents; spreading to the building of A. S. McIntosh, druggist, Peter Slade's building, occupied by John Hill, general store, Alex Ross' tailoring establishment, and the property of Henry S. Smith, his shop in which was the Canadian Express Co.'s office, insurance office, etc. His residence, barns, and warehouses were in the rear, all of which, with contents were totally destroyed. The insurance is exceedingly small. Hill's loss being total.

Former Banker Sentenced.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 27.—Phil Allen, jr., former vice-president of the First National Bank of Mineral Point, Wis., yesterday, pleaded guilty to four out of 26 counts, and was sentenced to 10 years in the Federal Prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, the maximum under the law of any one count. Allen was charged with embezzling $168,000.

Deliberate Murder.

Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 27.—Without explanation or warning, Charles Strohl, an employe of a bakery, walked into the reading-room of the Buffalo public library yesterday, pulled a revolver and shot and killed Franz Stantz. The murderer rushed out and turning into an alley exchanged shots with his pursuers, wounding one policeman, and sheltered by a brick wall, and occasionally firing, he held the crowd at bay for fifteen minutes, until the police surprised him from the rear. He is mentally deranged.

House Committee Chairmen.

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—The chairmen of the standing committees of the House of Commons were elected yesterday. They are as follows:

Railways, Guthrie (Wellington); banking and commerce, Miller (Grey); public accounts, Warburton (Prince Edward Island); marine and fisheries, Sinclair (Guysboro); privileges and elections, German (Welland); private bills, Ethier (Two Mountains); standing orders, McCraney (Saskatoon); debates, Gervais (St. James); agriculture, Schell (Oxford); mines and minerals, Conmee (Thunder Bay); forests and waterways, Hon. Clifford Sifton.

A Triple Tragedy.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 27.—After he had cut the throats of Burt Woods and John S. Smith, Jesse Altman was shot and killed yesterday by Smith. Altman and Smith first quarrelled with Woods, and Altman slashed Woods' throat, leaving him dead in the street. Smith and Altman made their escape to a suburb, where they also quarrelled and Altman cut Smith's throat. As he fell, Smith snatched a revolver from Altman's pocket and fired, killing him. Altman had twice been arrested for murder, his victims being negroes.

"Spotters" Didn't Show Up.

Windsor, Nov. 27.—An echo of the recent wholesale prosecution of Windsor, Walkerville and Essex County liquor dealers, was heard by Judge McHugh yesterday, when Jacob Maillour of the Colonial Hotel, won an appeal against his conviction and fine of $200 by Magistrate Breault of Sandwich. The Government "spotters" failed to put in an appearance. For the same reason, Magistrate Breault at Sandwich, yesterday afternoon, dismissed a complaint against the prisoner of Lagoon Park Hotel.

No Jurisdiction.

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—It has been decided by the Railway Commission that it has not the power to force American railways connecting with the Grand and Canadian Pacific Railways to quote through rates from points in the United States to points on the Canadian Northern in Muskoka.

A LITTLE SPECULATION

By GEORGE APPLETON

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

Two men drove into the yard of Farmer Spence and offered to pay for the privilege of painting this sign on the barn:

BLUFF'S BITTERS WILL CURE QUICKLY, PERMANENTLY, THE WORST CASE OF DYSPEPSIA. SHUN ALL QUACK STUFF. THE GREATEST FAMILY MEDICINE ON EARTH. CURES ALL. NEVER FAILS.

The farmer was ready to go to market, and was in haste to depart. He told the painters that they must consult his wife; if she were willing, they could paint the sign, and he drove away. The farmer supposed that his wife was in the house, but she had gone to her daughter's home—a short distance away across the fields.

The sign-painters, finding no one in the house, put up their ladders and began to make black letters on the board side of the long, white barn. Probably they had had experience. If the farmer's wife were willing; so much time were gained; if she were not willing, and the sign were up when she appeared, they must arbitrate.

Mrs. Spence, looking from the window of her daughter's house, saw the painters at work. Calling to her son-in-law and Major, the farm dog that had accompanied her, she hastened to interview the painters. The black daubers had planned, evidently, to paint the sign in sections to save time and labor. When Mrs. Spence arrived she read:

BLUFF'S BITTERS
THE WORST
QUACK STUFF
ON EARTH.

"What's goin' on here?" demanded Mrs. Spence.

"Putting up a sign."

"I see ye be! Who give ye leave?"

"Man we met in the front yard just's he was driving off."

"Don't b'lieve he said ye could do it 'thout askin' me! No sech thing!"

Mrs. Spence now discovered the import of the sign on the barn and bent nearly double as she laughed. "Wust on earth! Wal, ef thet ain't ther livin' truth! We had some o' thet stuff, an' it near killed us. I was 'fraid ter throw inter ther field there rest on't, fer ther chickens might git it. I just burried it!"

"When we paint the rest of it it'll be an ornament to the barn."

"Don't talk! Not ernother dab."

"Of course we expect to pay—"

"Not ernother dab."

"We'll blot it out, then," said the boss painter, who saw that it was useless to argue, and he raised a ladder and started to get a pot of paint.

"Frank," said Mrs. Spence, sharp as a file, to her son-in-law, "take down that ladder an' drag it off. Here, Major! Stand Guard! We'll see who's runnin' this 'ere barn! Ye won't put no more blackin' on ther barn, an' ye won't take none off! Ye can go erbout yer business!"

"But, ma'am, we can't leave it that way."

"Ye'll hevter! What ye gotter say 'bout our barn? What's on it b'longs ter us! Ef ye covered it with diamon' stuns 'twould be our barn, includin' ther dimon's. Ye can—"

"But, ma'am—"

"Don't ye 'ma'am' me! I don't see why we'd orter pervide a barn fer ye tell ther truth on, but them 'ere letters'll look better'n er black smudge, an' I kinder like ter hev ther neighbors know 'bout thet 'ere Bluff 'em stuff."

"We'll paint over with white—"

"Ye can't! 'Twon't be dry till termorrer."

"We'll rub off the black and—"

"Ye jest pack right off! Thet's our sign! I like it! Fust time I ever knowed anybody ter tell ther truth 'bout ther' stuff."

"We'll rub out, paint over white, and give you two dollars."

"Git off'n ther place!"

"Give you five dollars."

"Be er-movin'."

"Give you ten dollars."

"Frank, ye harness ther colt an' go fer ther sheriff! I'll see—"

"Give you fifteen dollars."

"Hurry, Frank."

"Give you twenty dollars."

"Frank, ye tell ther sheriff ter bring his deperty! Sech men's these be's likely ter be upstrep'rous."

"Give you twenty-five dollars."

"Wa—l! let's see ther money!"

Immense Pile of Steel Shapes.

At Bayonne, N. J., there is what is said to be the largest pile of steel shapes which has ever been got together in this country. The pile weighs about sixty thousand pounds and is estimated to be worth $2,500,000. The stack of metal is 800 feet long, 35 feet high and 85 feet wide. It was manufactured at Phoenixville, Pa., and is designed for the construction of the Manhattan bridge across the East river at New York. It required 16,000 flat cars to transport it to Bayonne, where it was run over a spur of the New Jersey Central railroad to the yards. The steel has all been painted red and treated with a thick coating of [illegible] and oil to prevent its [illegible] the elements. Some of it has been exposed to the weather for a year and shows no bad effect. Already the tower pieces, weighing 1,000 tons each, have been taken away for erection and it is said that the pile will have entirely disappeared within two months.

TAKEN ON TRIAL

The man whirled about.

"I'll try you for a week," he snapped, "and your pay will be $10."

The girl paused on her way to the door.

"Thank you," she said. "I expect to make myself worth more than that."

When he came down the next morning and tramped into his office, he found the girl seated at her table, her brown head bent over her work. He was just a little surprised to find her there. Persons he had engaged had a way of promising to come back and failing to do so. He knew that he was to blame for this, and he rather gloried in the thought. But here was this strange girl at her place and looking as if she meant to stay there. She was a neat-looking girl. Her hair was tidy and there was a bit of white about her neck that softened the effect of the black frock. And in a little vase in front of her was a flower—a red flower of some kind—a flower he told himself, that looked strangely out of place in the dingy room.

And then the man suddenly stared about him. Both the windows were open, and they were clean, and the sunshine was streaming in. And there was a general air of freshness about the place that was quite amazing—and the odor of cleanliness was fairly pungent.

"Good morning," said she sweetly. This girl was going altogether too far. What did she mean by taking such liberties? He would show her that he was not the sort of man that could be imposed upon. No doubt she had been spoiled in the office of her father—her dead father.

He looked up. The girl was standing by the desk.

"The men from the telephone company will be here at ten o'clock to arrange for moving the 'phone," she said, "and the typewriter is being put in order. Do you feel the draught from the windows?"

He growled an inarticulate word or two and the girl turned away.

"Oh," she said and turned back. "Mary, the woman who cleans, asked me to tell you that she wasn't in any way responsible for the improved appearance of the office. She said she was quite willing to let me take all the credit. It seems much nicer here, doesn't it?"

Here was his chance to assert his authority. But, strange to say, the only form of expression his anger took was another vicious slam of the much suffering private drawer.

The girl brought new methods into the business, the labor-saving and time-saving devices he had despised. And with the departure of the old-fashioned methods his old-fashioned brusqueness seemed to depart, too. Customers who had been offended at his irritability and plain speaking came back. The business was in better shape than ever.

"I'm losing my grip," he growled to himself. "I don't know anybody who fears me. And yet, confound it, the old house seems to have a new lease of prosperity. If only Robert—"

He had been thinking a good deal about his son. No doubt it was another proof of his fatuous weakness. He arose suddenly and took the vacant chair by the girl's table.

"Miss Morris," he abruptly said. "I'm troubled."

"Not about the business, Mr. Thurber?"

"No, the business is all right. Perhaps, if it wasn't, I could keep my thoughts on it. It is my son Robert who bothers me."

"Yes, Mr. Thurber."

"But you don't ask me why?"

"I know something about the story, sir. You disagreed. Your son felt that you were treating him like a child. He rebelled. You drove him away."

"It is all quite true," said the man. "It's very hard for me to think I was wrong. Robert was a good boy. Perhaps I forgot that he had grown to be a man."

The girl leaned forward.

"Mr. Thurber," he said, "what is my position here?"

He looked at her blankly.

"I hardly know," he answered. "I will have to think it out. Is there any special title you want?"

She smiled.

"Let me be your confidential adviser for just a moment or two," she said. "You told Robert you would never call him back."

"Yes."

"Will you let me call him?"

He stared at her.

"Let you call him! Do you think he will come?"

"I am sure he will."

"Then you know Robert?"

"Yes. I knew him before I came here. I talk with him every day."

He drew his breath sharply. "Is—is this a game?" he demanded.

"It's a game in which the happiness of three persons is at stake," the girl answered.

"And you came here to—to tame me?"

"I came here because I promised to marry Robert, and I wanted his father's consent."

And the girl leaned forward, waiting.

Presently he looked toward her. Then he pointed with a shaking hand at the 'phone.

"Ring him up," he said.

A DESPERATE AFFAIR

NEITHER of them had spoken for some minutes. Out at the end of the pier the waves washed up idly and the distant lights on the farther shore zigzagged across the water. Behind them the music from the hotel dance swelled and died alternately.

"It's been an awfully short three weeks," said the young man, at length. That he was extremely young served only to accentuate his woe. "I've hardly been here, and now in half an hour I take the night boat for Chicago!"

"Don't talk about it," said the girl in the pink, fluffy dress. Her tones were tragic.

"Do—do you really feel that way about it?" he asked, eagerly.

"Wh—what way?" parried the pretty girl.

"Why, will you miss me?" the young man insisted. "Are you sorry I'm going?"

"You know I am," she told him. "It's going to be perfectly awful after you go."

"Really?" inquired the very young man, tempestuously. "It would make me so happy to feel that was truly so. You know how I feel about it. Why, I don't think about anything but you! I haven't since I met you that first day! I don't see how I am going to stand being back in Chicago, where I can't see you or talk to you! And you—you'll be having a gay time over here with the other fellows and forget me!"

The pretty girl kicked her heels against the pier. "You know I won't," she murmured. "It—it's going to be just as bad for me as it will be—as you say it will be for you!"

"Don't you believe me when I say it?" asked the young man tragically, getting hold of her hand under cover of the friendly dimness of the pier lights. "I—I never meant anything so much in all my life. Haven't I been telling you so over and over again ever since since we got well enough acquainted so I could? You—you know I'm just crazy about you!"

"Are you, truly?" inquired the pretty girl, with a tremble in her voice. "Men say those things, but—"

"But I am," insisted the very young man, in deep tones. "Meeting you has changed my whole life. Yes, it has! Of course I've gone about with lots of girls, and some of them I've liked mighty well—but, oh, this is different! You—you mean so much to me! Don't you know it is different?"

"I—I suppose it is," agreed the pretty girl. "Ever since I woke up this morning and remembered it was our last day—well, I've come awfully near crying several times!"

"I couldn't bear to think of you crying," said the young man. "Why, it would break me all up!"

"I'll try not to," she promised, in sad tones. "There won't be a thing to do after you leave. There isn't a soul here I like well enough even to dance with or go canoeing with to kill time. I—I should be thinking of you every minute even if I did!"

"You—you angel!" said the young man huskily. "But you must try to bear up! Promise me that you will!"

"It'd be no use," said the pretty girl. "I am frightfully blue already. I wish I was going home too! I don't see why mother wants to stay on!"

"You'll write every day?" asked the young man. "I shall be so worried if I don't hear from you that I can't attend to business. I shall write every evening. I won't have any heart to go anywhere. I'd rather think about you!"

"That is lovely of you," said the pretty girl, tremulously. "Oh, here comes the launch for you!"

They stood up and the young man held both her hands. "To think it I had gone to any other resort I should not have met you!" he murmured. "I can't begin to tell you how the world seems to have come to an end, now that I have to go! You won't forget me an instant?"

"Never!" sobbed the pretty girl. "I just can't stand your going!"

"Good-by!" he murmured to her pompadour.

"Good-by!" she whispered to his coat collar.

Ten minutes later, back in the hotel, the pretty girl found herself whirling about in a splendid waltz with a divine dancer, and postponed her tears and memories till some time when she should have leisure not so entertainingly occupied.

Fifteen minutes later the very young man paused, smitten, on the saloon stairway of the Chicago boat, as he saw a vision in blue linen, with glorious eyes, also ascending. The very young man took a fresh grip on his suitcase and accelerated his steps as the vision floated along to the upper deck.

"Gee!" he breathed. "If she isn't a runner! Hope I know somebody on board who knows her!"

Could Not Sleep.

DOCTOR SAID HEART AND NERVES WERE RESPONSIBLE.

There is many a man and woman tossing night after night upon a sleepless bed.

Their eyes do not close in the sweet and refreshing repose that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right. Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease has so deranged and irritated the nervous system, that it cannot be quieted and causes nightmare, bad dreams, starting in the sleep, twitching of the muscles, restlessness, etc.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are a specific for all people troubled in this way. They have a soothing and calming effect on the nervous system.

Mrs. Calvin Stark, Rosemore, Ont., writes:—"About two years ago I began to be troubled with a smothering sensation at night when I would lie down. I got so bad I could not sleep in the dark, and would have to sit up and rub my limbs, they would become so numb. My doctor said my heart and nerves were responsible. I saw Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills advertised and got a box to try them. I took three boxes and can now lie down and sleep without the light burning and can rest well. I can recommend them highly to all nervous and run down women."

MRS. HOMEBODY.

I'VE been a plain homebody, now,
For more than thirty years, right in this town,
And everybody says I should get out,
So when my daughter married young Sam Brown
I thought I'd visit 'em, and took the cars,
But, land, I felt like I'd gone up to Mars!

I rubbered out the window, but the smoke
Hung round so thick I couldn't see the things,
And we flew by at such a fearful rate,
It seemed to me the world was all on wings!
And when we'd stop, if only for a minute,
There was a freight train, with some cattle in it.

So talk no more of travelin' to me!
I've been a plain homebody all my life,
And in these walls I find enough to do,
As housekeeper and mother, cook and wife,
And when old Gabriel blows his trumpet-song,
He'll find me here, at home—where I belong!

Allowance for Refreshments.

It is puzzling to know how much to provide at entertainments, and a careful estimate is necessary to guard against waste, or, worse, against a shortage of refreshments.

For 50 people, provide, roughly, one pound of tea or two of coffee. Three or four sandwiches a head is a liberal estimate, and a quatern loaf (such as bakers furnish), will make 50 sandwiches, and for this amount a pound of butter will suffice. Remember, when buttering them, to spread the butter on the loaf before cutting: and if the butter is creamed it will spread more easily.

Reckon lemonade at a gill to a half pint a head, and claret cup at one gill a head. With ices, allow a quart for ten helpings, or eight, if more liberally inclined.

For iced coffee, allow four table spoons freshly ground and roasted coffee to a pint of boiling water, two ounces lump sugar, and half a pint of cream. This will make ten helpings

Fancy Baked Potatoes.

Select large, well-shaped vegetables and when baked, cut in two and scoop out the centers. Mash these fine with milk, butter and salt, then return to the skin. Over the top sprinkle a few bread crumbs and brown in the oven. Add a tiny bit of chopped parsley and a dab of butter and serve.

Prehistoric Oyster Shells.

That the oyster was in common use by primeval men has been conclusively shown by the discovery in the "kitchen middens" of Denmark of many thousands of oyster shells, showing every evidence of having been artificially opened. In ancient Greece also, the oyster appears to have been a recognized delicacy, for Dr. Henry Schliemann, the eminent German archaeologist, in his historic search for the ancient and somewhat mythical city of Troy, found many oyster shells in the ruins of the five prehistoric settlements of Hissarlik. But it was Rome in the height of her power and opulence that, by singling out the oyster as the piece de resistance of the Roman banqueting hads, conferred upon the oyster its just title as one of the most delicious and appetizing foods within the grasp of man.

The Popular Girl.

The popular girl is found in every city, village, and hamlet. She is a girl full of fine sympathy and wide understanding; she talks to the talkless and listens to the talkative, and leads on the bashful and flirts with the flirty. She is full of simple tact and kindness (when in company), coupled with a merry, cheerful disposition (when anyone besides her family is around), and a sufficient amount of reserve and dignity (when reserve and dignity is necessary), to be popular with men. The popular girl has many sweethearts to choose from—and nearly always chooses the wrong one. She nearly always gets married more or less, and sometimes makes a perfectly good match.

Dog Tried to Save Woman.

Following the death in Bellevue of Mrs. Mary Gasper it was revealed she had inhaled gas with the intention of killing herself, and that for an hour Hector, a powerful St. Bernard dog, had worried tirelessly and fruitlessly to drag her to safety before she was taken to the hospital. If her head had not been jammed between the kitchen stove and a partition in her home the faithful animal would have dragged her from a tube through which the gas flowed. Many rents in Mrs. Gasper's frock showed how desperately the dog had worked to save her life.—New York Press.

Salt Seasoned Timber.

A workman was packing salt about a pile of timber. "Seasoning timber with salt, eh? It sounds like a joke, doesn't it?" he said. "It is often done, though, especially in ship timber. Ships built of salt-seasoned timber get a better insurance rate. Some very rich woods are seasoned in boiling oil. That's an ancient and costly process. A new dodge is electrical seasoning. With strong electric shocks the sap is driven out of the wood and replaced by a solution of borax and resin. The scheme is cheap; not half as good as salt."

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN.

The matter appearing in this space from time to time is furnished by the Temperance and Moral Reform League of this City, who have arranged for its Publication.

THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND AND LOCAL OPTION.

The Anglican Church of Canada is opposed to the bar, and in favour of the enforcement of local option by-laws wherever possible. People who state the contrary are not acquainted with the facts. The General Synod is the highest Council in Canada of the Church of England. The journal of proceedings of the fifth session of this Synod held in Ottawa, September, 1908, shows that the Synod then placed itself on record as in favour of the adoption of Local Option by-laws. The portion of the report dealing with this matter, that was adopted, reads as follows:

In glancing over the provinces of the Dominion it is manifest that there is a great concensus of opinion concerning the bar under our present license system, viz., that it is a public manace."

"Your committee recognises the difficulties which beset the enforcement of any system for the control of the liquor traffic, and are not surprised to find that breaches of the law continually arise, but when Local Option is enforced they are confident that the younger generation growing up without the inducement of the bar, and the change of sentiment regarding the use of intoxicants in the family, will prove immense factors in the promotion of temperance habits."

Answer.—The manufacture of liquor will be stopped just in proportion as the manufacturers find that they are not making liquor at a profit. The manufacturers of liquor are not the type of men who will make liquor and give it away. When Local Option was carried in over 20 counties in Michigan, within the past year, the liquor manufacturers estimated that the loss in trade to them would be about 20 million dollars.

Since the Local Option wave has been spreading through Ontario, the business of the breweries has been falling off at a rapid rate. Take the case of Owen Sound. Before Local Option came into force, Owen Sound had two breweries. In 1904, these breweries produced an average of 22,113 gals. of liquor per month. In 1905, 24,727 gals. per month. On May 1, 1906, Local Option came into foce. For the first four months, the average was 18,094. For the last eight months of 1906 the average was 13,440. For ten months in 1907, the average was 10,111 gals. per month.

PRODUCE MERCHANTS OBJECT TO ANY ALTERATION IN INSURANCE

An important resolution was adopted by the Montreal Produce Herchants' Association at a meeting held November 5th, 1909.

It reads as follows:

Whereas certain sections of the Bill called "An Act respecting Insurance" that is to be introduced at the coming session of Parliament, will have the effect of increasing the cost of fire insurance to evry user thereof:

Whereas any increase in the rates of insurance on farm and dairy produce will have an injurious effect, and therefore become burdensome to the farming and proluce industries of Canada;

Whereas the general fire insurance companies located in Canada are asking for legislation which will tend to confine or to give control of all fire insurance in the Dominion to their own companies to the dtriment of all the insured throughout Canada;

Whereas the Fire Insurance Companies, nown as the Regular or Tariff Companies, have an organization known as the "Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association," which Association fixes the rates of insurance on any or all property, the members of which Association control about 88 % of the total insurance reported to the benefit of the insurance companies;

Whereas it has frequently been found impossible to obtain all the insurance required from registered companies, which companies frequently limit or refuse the acceptance of risks which do not suit them;

Whereas it is not proposed to tax registered insurance companies for re-incuring a portion of their risks with unregistered companies, the insured also should have the privilege of placing insurance with such unregistered companies without having to pay a tax for so doing;

Whereas for many years past eventual recourse to Underwriters at Lloyd's, London, or other unregistered concerns, has been the owners' chief safeguard against the excessive rates of a virtual combine, and the only means of placing all the incurance required;

Therefore resolved that this Association places itself on record as strongly opposed to any alteration in the insurance laws that will in any way restrict the freedom of our members in securing insurance to the fullest extent of their requirements, or that will deprive the assured of the right of placing such insurance with strong financial companies operating outside of Canada; and

Further, Resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Minister of Agriculture, asking for and claiming his special interest in the Bill, on behalf of the dairying and produce industries of Canada, which we realize will be so vitally and adversely affected if the proposed legislation be enacted.

What Good Has the Bar-Room Done You?

"One of the greatest evils in connection with the use of intoxicants is the treating habit. To eradicate this evil should be the aim of every man. Your committee look forward to the day when those who feel at liberty to use intoxicants will at least make the rule never to treat or accept a treat of intoxicating liquors."

"Your committee would make the following recommendations:

1st.—That wherever it is not now the case it should be made illegal for minors to enter the bar where intoxicants are sold.

2nd—That where Local Option does not reign the hours of sale be shortened by the provincial authorities.

3rd—That full advantage should be taken, where practical, of the adoption and putting in force of Local Option under the present License Law.

Other Objections to Local Option and Answers to Them.

Now that the Local Option fight is becoming interesting, new arguments are being trumped up every few days and old ones are being re hashed, aften with the idea of fooling the persons hearing them, and who may not be in a position to answer them offhand. The following arguments are being advanced occasionally. Partial answers to them are given:

The Brewery Cannot Sell in Peterborough.

Objection No. 1.—The local brewery has a Dominion license. If local option carries the brewery will still have the right to fill orders for liquor and can even canvass around the town for orders and fill the orders later. Local Option, therefore, will only hurt the hotels, but benefit the brewer.

Answer.—This is absolutely not the case. Its Dominion charter does not permit it to override the provisions of the Ontario License Act. Breweries are not allowed to sell liquor in any form or style of package in Local Option districts.

At the last session of the Ontario Legislature the section of the liquor license act governing the sale of liquor by breweries in Local Option districts was amended by the addition of the following words: "But After Local Option carries the law does not permit of a brewer's warehouse license being issued while Local Option is in force. To make doubly sure that the local brewery will not be permitted to sell liquor in Peterborough after Local Option carries enquiries were made from the license department of the Provincial Government with the result that Mr. E. Saunders, the head of the department, in answer to a question on this point, has sent the following reply:

"With regard to brewers, no brewer operating his brewery in a Local Option municipality is permitted to sell his beer to persons residing within the municipality no matter whether the order is received at the brewery or not. He can sell only to persons living outside the Local Option municipality.'

Will the Law Be Enforced?

Objection 2—The law cannot be enforced. Liquor will be sold on the sly and in this way more harm will be done than under the present systems.

This claim has been made in other municipalities where Local Option contests have been started. So many hotel keepers and others who have tried to evade the law have been sent to jail that this argument is losing its force. In Owen Sound no less than five men who tried to break the law have been sent to jail. When the Local Option campaign was in progress in Owen Sound these five men were loud-mouthed in saying: "The law will not be enforced. You can not enforce it." Since then they have served time behind prison bars for having tried to violate it. Experience of the several hundred municipalities in Ontario, where the law is in operation, shows that it is being well enforced. The harder and tighter and more severe you make the law regarding the sale of liquor, the less violation you will have.

Commercial Men Follow Trade.

Objection No. 3.—Commercial travellers will not come to a town where there is no open bar in the hotels.

Answer.—They wont, eh?

Commercial travellers will go wherever there is an order to get, if they have to hang by their toes on a clothes line over night.

Commercial travellers go to the town because there is business in it. There will be more business done in a town under Local Option. There will be more travellers come and the question of hotel accommodation will not hinder them.

It would never do to have the impression go abroad that commercial travellers are a lot of softies. You will find them up in New Ontario stopping at a one-roomed shack with a mud floor. You will find them out West sleeping in an Indian tepee. You will find them in a country stopping at a licensed hotel full of the vilest orders of stale beer and dirty cooking. You will also find them in Local Option towns in clean, quiet, orderly, respectable stopping places. They follow the trade, and trade follows Local Option.

It Will Paralyze Business.

Objection 4.—If Local Option is carried it will paralyse business.

Answer.—How do you know? Prove it. Show us some cities where Local Option has been carried, where business has been paralyzed. The temperance workers in Peterborough have been bringing temperance speakers from cities where there is Local Option, who claim emphatically and provide proofs to substantiate their claim that Local Option has benefitted, not injured business. Why do not the anti-Local Option workers bring forth proof of their statements. They cannot do so, or they would. We have published numerous letters in this column to show that Local Option has benefitted large cities in the United States. Here are some figures to shew how Local Option has paralyzed trade in a few, out of a number of places that might be quoted.

In Southampton a canvass of the business men showed that their opinion was, 19 to 3 that Local Option had been a benefit to business. In Owen Sound, a canvass of the leading merchants showed that out of 27 interviewed, only 4 were found opposed to Local Option. In Brighton, 48 business men signed a statement that Local Option had benefitted their town. Not one would make a contrary statement. And so we might go on. So long as the paralysis is confined to the bar room, and the evil that emanates therefrom, decent citizens have no right to complain.

Stop the Manufacture First.

Objection 5.—There is no use trying to get Local Option as long as liquor is manufactured, for as long as it is manufactured, it will be sold, no such beers, or spirits shall be sold to any unlicensed person in any municipality having a population of less than 4,000, nor shall any such beers or spirits be sold or delivered by or on behalf of any holder of a brewer's warehouse license within any municipality in which a by-law is in force."

Our Country's Future Depends Upon Our Manhood and Womanhood. The Bar-Room Business Is Built Up By the Ruin of Both.

THE HEART A GREAT WORKER

What a wonder is the heart! Day and night it works away pumping tons of blood through the body and never tires or wears out so long as it is supplied with rich, red blood, such as is formed by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. While sending supplies of nutrition to other parts of the body the heart renews and rebuilds its own wasted cells and so retains health and strength.

The More Bar-Rooms the More Drunkenness

Fake "Nobleman" At Last In The Clutches Of The Law

Parfis, Nov. 26.—A versatile hypnotist and swindler who calls himself Rene Defer, Count of Chambert, has come to the end of his rope at last. Prefect of Police Lepine personally arrested the pseudo Count a few days ago and locked him up.

Lepine says the false nobleman is Robert Etienne, who, besides being an expert hypnotist, knows much about the fine arts. Etienne wasted his mother's fortune, sorrow hastened her death.

Then Etienne went into partnership with his sister in the business of restoring paintings. The sister supplied the capital; the brother spent it before the "firm" got a customer. Then Etienne persuaded his sister to sign in blank, which he filled in, papers making over to him her share of the business. When she protested he showed the papers to the authorities, persuaded them that his sister was insane to make such charges against him and had her sent to an asylum.

Then says Lepine, Etienne transformed himself into the Count de Chambert. The title quickly gained for him the affection and confidence of an aged and wealthy widow. As she is a firm believer in spiritualism, Etienne and his accomplices called before her the shades of all her ancestors, who advised her to give her whole fortune to Etienne.

He then conceived the notion of marrying the widow to a genuine marquis. Before the wedding was celebrated the future marquise certified in the marriage contract that she was bringing a bridal portion of $40,000 to her husband. When he asked her for the money later she answered, much surprised, that she had given it to him—and she honestly thought that she had—through the "Count de Chambert," who had vanished. The marquis divorced the broken-hearted and impoverished old woman.

After spending her money, Etienne, still posing as a Count, turned his attention to Mme. Roussel, a wealthy widow, with a young daughter. To them Etienne represented himself as an artist with a marvellous process for restoring old paintings. Besides, he said, he had an assured income of $16,000 a year, and much greater prospects; his father had left him $1,,600,000, which he was to inherit on the day that he married.

Mme. Roussel immediately saw in the "Count de Chambert" the right husband for her daughter. And the Count found Madame a good hypnotic subject. He won her confidence and persuaded her that her family was trying to deprive her of her fortune. She gave him full charge of her bank account.

He lost no time in buying a fine house on the Rue Vernet, near the Champs Elysees, and spared no expense in furnishing it with tapestries, Oriental carpets, paintings and statuary.

But in this crisis Mme. Roussel's relatives got possession of her and carried her off to the country. There she recovered from Etienne's hypnotic influence and lodged complaint against him with Lepine.

Etienne's arrest followed,

FOUGHT ON ROOF

New York Man Has a Terrific Battle With a Maniac—Policeman's Narrow Escape.

FIGHT NEARLY AN HOUR

Special to The Examiner.

New York, Nov. 26.—William Lowe, who lives in the apartment at No. 480 Prospect place, Brooklyn, was taking his bath yesterday morning when his wife called to him that there was a strange man in an apartment on the floor below, and the women living there could not get him to leave.

Clad only in a bathrobe and slippers, Lowe went downstairs and found a well dressed young man in the hall. When asked what he was doing there the man said he lived in the flat. He refused to leave and Lowe told his wife to go for a policeman.

Locks Man Out on Roof.

Some one got Mr. Lowe's shoes, and while he was putting them on the man ran up another flight of stairs and got out on the roof. Lowe locked the trap door and then finished dressing. Policeman Noil came a few minutes later, and from the sidewalk asked the man on the roof what he was doing there.

"Looking for the North Pole," was the answer. Noil went to the roof and tried to compel the crazy man to come down. Then a thrilling fight began.

The man who was later identified as Charles Wygant, of No. 380 Lincoln road, Flatbush, was forcing Noil to the edge of the roof when the policeman called to Lowe for help. Lowe took a hand in the fight, but the lunatic was a match for both. Several times he had them almost to the edge of the roof, and it was only because each time they ran against a chimney that they were saved from a fall.

After the battle had gone on for nearly an hour, and Wygant had winded both his antagonists some one ran for another policeman, who sent in a call for reserves. Soon a great crowd gathered in the street watching the struggle.

Roll to Roof Edge Again.

Wygant was getting stronger all the time while the policeman and Mr. Lowe were weakening. Finally all three went down, the policeman under the lunatic, who was choking him and Mr. Lowe on top. All three rolled to the edge of the roof again and it looked as if all three would fall off and be killed.

Just then the reserves gained the top of the house. It took only a moment to overcome Wygant. He was bound hand and foot and carried to the patrol waggon uttering maniacal yells.

Said He Lived in Airship.

At the Grand avenue police station Wygant said his name was John Sweeney, ninety-two years old and lived in an airship. Letters found in his pockets established the fact that his name was Wygant, and that he lived with an aunt, Mrs. Marietta Clark. He was removed to the King's County Hospital's observation ward. His aunt said he had been under a physician's care for some time and had escaped from the house at daybreak. She could not explain how he got the key to the apartment house at Prospect place.

COLD WAVE AT FIRST

Prof. Irl Hicks Expects December to Start With a Lowered Temperature.

WEATHER FOR MONTH

Prof. Irl Hicks has the following to say of the weather conditions that may be expected during the coming month.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 4th, 5th and 6th. But the probabilities are that last storm in November will last one or two days into December, with rain and snow, especially in eastern part of the country. A cold wave of much intensity will prevail over western to central sections of the country as we pass from November into December. From the 4th to the 7th, the cold will relax, the barometer will fall, and renewed storms of rain and snow will prevail over most sections of the country, passing in regular progressive order from west to east. Behind these storms look for return of rising barometer and clearing, cold weather.

A regular storm period extends from the 9th to the 14th, being central on the 11th. This period embraces New Moon at an eclipse on the 12th. The eclipse of the Moon, it must be remembered, falls on November 27th, and the eclipse of the Sun on December 12th. About the 8th to the 15th of December is also a time of maximum magnetic perturbation, due to certain relations of Earth and Sun—the Earth's south magnetic pole being most inclined to the Sun's equator. Very low barometer and marked rise in temperature will begin in western sections about the 10th, and during the 11th to 14th violent winter storms will sweep eastwardly across the country. Fierce gales and high tides will prevail on the Atlantic Ocean generally, at this and following December periods. Blizzards from the northwest, followed by a cold wave and high barometer that will reach far into the south, about the 12th to the 15th. A seismic period is central on the 12th to the 15th, coincidental on the 12th, covering the 9th to the 14th.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 16th, 17th and 18th. The strain of December solstice will be manifest by continuous boreal storms through this period and throughout all this part of the month, especially over the north Atlantic coasts and seas.

A regular storm period, central on the 22nd, covers the 20th to 25th. This period is at centre of the winter solstice. In all reason it will bring heavy winter storms on land and sea. The Mercury period begins at this time and will increase the intensity and prolong the existence of storm conditions. This means hardship and danger to unprotected live stock and unwatchful men. These storms are apt to continue over the limits of the period in consequence of the Mercury disturbance and the opposition of the Moon on the 26th.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 27th, 28th and 29th. On these days renewed storms of sleet and snow will sweep over most parts of the country and will be followed by high barometer, blizzardous winds and very cold.

CHEESE FACTORY REGULATIONS

From Farm and Dairy.

Proprietors, presidents and secretaries of cheese factories and creameries throughout Ontario are being notified that only those factories, creameries and other establishments for the manufacture of milk products which are duly registered can legally manufacture milk products after the beginning of January next.

Those factories which are undertaking the manufacture of milk products for the first time in 1910 will be required to have their plants approved of by the Minister of Agriculture so far as equipment and sanitary conditions are concerned. Those who contemplate the erection of factories or creameries should notify the Director of the Dairy Branch, when a representative of the Department will be sent to confer with the persons interested. A valuable service can be rendered the manufacturers of cheese and butter by having a representative of the Dairy Branch consulting with them and making recommendations before sites are selected and plans are completed for the building of new factories or the equipment of old ones.

It has been the policy of the Department to give the advice as to location, equipment, etc., and often serious mistakes have been avoided by following the advice of instructors who have had the opportunity of inspecting factories and creameries in different sections. These men are placed at the disposal of the Dairymen of the Province, and it is hoped that the Department will have the hearty co-operation of all interested in the cheese and butter business in its endeavor to place the industry upon a permanent basis.

Windy's Ascension

His Pride Was Broken Unceremoniously

"Windy" Hobbs was a person of distinction in the third grade of the village public school. In the first place as one of the largest boys in his class and naturally endowed with much self assertiveness, he assumed a superiority that commanded a certain amount of respect. Furthermore he had won fame and the title of "Windy" through a boastful, blustering manner of speech, noticeably vaporous even to his unsophisticated fellows.

But the cornerstone of his pedestal of renown rested upon the fact that he carried in proper place—the left hand vest pocket—a real watch, anchored to his apparel by a ponderous chain. This was the only sure-enough watch in the third grade, and was looked upon with profound admiration, bordering on awe, by the rank and file of that department of learning. The timepiece was of white metal, weighed something less than half a pound, and ran with a noise resembling that of a wheezy traction engine in the not-too-remote distance.

Windy Hobbs' appreciation of his own eminence among his fellows became so keen at times that he neglected to shake off the mantle of arrogance when entering the school room, and at times manifested a disposition to be insubordinate to rules—a tendency that occasionally resulted in trouble for the teacher. This teacher—named Jenkins, like many other schoolteachers—was a ponderous individual with a violent disposition.

In fair weather and when the routine of study and recreation proceeded satisfactorily, Mr. Jenkins sat in a chair tilted against the wall in the rear of the room near an open window. But when there was misbehavior among the pupils, woe to the evil doers. Mr. Jenkins corrected the unruly by means of large wooden paddles, whittled out with a jack knife during the intervals of leisure between classes.

"My pa says," declared Windy Hobbs one morning before school had "taken up," "that old Jenkins had better not whip me with them paddles any more, or he'll fix him.

As if to test "pa's" ability as a fixer, the fates decreed that Windy should have cause for complaint that very day. Made bold by his sire's threats of vengeance, the wearer of the white metal watch manifested such a bold and surly temper in class that, just before the school was dismissed for the noon hour, he came to close quarters with Mr. Jenkins. The paddle was brought into active and vigorous service, and its vicious "spats" punctuated the yells of Windy. And in the scuffle the crystal of the only real watch was shattered into fragments!

The news of this dire catastrophe was communicated to "the fellers" by the tearful and wrathful Windy after school was dismissed. He took up his post in the playground under the windows of the third grade room, and set about explaining in detail the fate that awaited "Old Jenkins."

"I didn't holler 'cause the paddle hurt," declared the victim of chastisement, "but when I heard my watch bust it made me so mad I just bellered. If I'd a had a rock I'd a busted him in the head with it."

A sympathetic crowd of us jostled about Windy, elbowing one another for a chance to inspect the damaged timepiece.

"Just wait till my pa hears about this," he continued. "I'll bet you he comes down here to this school and whales the stuffin' out of old Jenkins—drat him! He'll show him how to beat me 'round with clubs and bust a solid silver, seven-jeweled stem-wind—"

And just then occurred the ascension of Windy. In the very midst of his threats, with the clatter of heels, he disappeared "from our midst." He did not go through or around the surrounding crowd. He went up! There Windy had been; an instant later he was not. His astonished auditors looked about in all directions, but failed to discover any sign of him. For a few seconds the mystery was thick and dark. But only for a few seconds. Suddenly there broke upon the tortured air a staccato of paddle strokes and a series of howls and wails such as the pupils of the third grade never before had heard. The whereabouts of Windy was settled.

The mystery of Windy's aerial flight was easily solved. In voicing his complaints against "Old Jenkins" and vowing vengeance, he had indiscreetly taken his stand beneath the open window of the third grade where the teacher was wont to sit. "Windy's" oration floated in at the open window where Mr. Jenkins was in the act of untying his lunch basket. That ponderous person, though somewhat overheated from recent exertions, did not hesitate. He quietly leaned out of the window, reached down until he could grasp a handful of jacket collar, and deftly removed Windy from the rostrum of his indignation.

Baltimore's Satisfactory Growth.

Baltimore is congratulating herself on the figures shown by the new city directory, just issued. A decided growth commercially and a gain of nearly 12,000 in population in the last year are indicated. The population is placed at 597,128, which is a gain of 11,941, according to the directory editor's estimate.

It is anticipated that the anti-opium crusade in China will be the means of opening up a new market for American tobacco.

The Kiddies.

The increasing respect for children is beginning to make itself felt on all sides. Little boys and girls are no longer put off with careless words and second rate toys. They are studied with constant thought by parents, scientists devise their playthings, and literary and artistic "celebrities" make the books. Of these things modern children are not unappreciative. If they are growing hypercritical in some directions they are becoming very tolerant in others, and not infrequently they understand their parents' little shortcomings much better than do these humiliated "elders" themselves.—Philadelphia Record.

WAS NO PLACE TO LINGER IN.

Farm Hand's Isle of Refuge Already Had a Tenant.

Prof. A. L. Lowell, the new president of Harvard, paused in one of his recent lectures and smiled.

"That governmental difficulty," he said, "was great—as great as the difficulty of Lincoln's farm hand.

"Two farm hands, Lincoln used to say, were set upon by a huge bull while crossing a rocky field. One managed to gain a tree. The other took refuge in a hole that proved to have an exit in the rear.

"The man who had chosen the hole was no sooner in at one end than he was out at the other. With a bellow the bull made for him. He turned and again shot like lightning through the hole. The bull once more bore down upon him, and once more he was in and out of his hole.

"This strange pursuit kept up some ten minutes or more. At first it mystified the farm hand up in the tree. Then it angered him.

"'Hey,' he shouted, 'ye danged nincompoop, why don't ye stay in the hole?'

"The bull was dashing from one end of the hole to the other at great speed, and the man was bobbing in and out desperately. He heard, however, his comrade's shout and found time before his next brief disappearance to shout back:

"'Danged nincompoop yerself! There's a bear in the hole!'"—Chicago Journal.

Volunteer Hangman.

North Bay, Nov. 27.—Sam Spanelli, a young Italian, was hanged early yesterday morning. Radcliffe, P.E., failed to attend or send any word in reply to urgent messages, the gap being filled at the eleventh hour by a man who gave the name of Ike Thompson, of Owen Sound, and arrived late Thursday night. Spanelli walked calmly to the scaffold, making no sound or sign.

He was convicted of killing a young Chinaman, in a restaurant brawl at Haileybury, July 30, using a dirk twelve inches long.

Special precautions were taken by Sheriff Varin Thursday night in view of rumors that the prisoner was a black hand leader, and that Italians were coming into town in large numbers to dynamite the jail.

Hermit Charged With Burglary.

Brockville, Nov. 27.—The police have taken into custody George Hoover, an ex-convict who is being held on a charge of robbing summer homes at resorts on the St. Lawrence, between here and Butternut Bay. Hoover made his home in the woods close by, and for a long time baffled the efforts of the officers to catch him. He is a hermit, and since the cold weather, has almost frozen to death on a couple of occasions, being scantily clad. His unkempt hair and beard, grown out of all proportions, gives the prisoner the appearance of a wild man.

Two officers came upon Hoover huddled beside a fire in a clump of hemlocks.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

It is officially denied at London that Ambassador Bryce at Washington is to be replaced.

A despatch from Seward, Alaska, says that town was party destroyed by fire yesterday.

Ten more assistant weighers have been dropped by Collector of the Port Loeb from the New York customs service.

Sir George Drummond, who has had a severe cold for two weeks past, is better, and expects to be out in a week's time.

Austen Chamberlain, speaking at Hackney, said his policy included a two-shilling tax on foreign corn, with preference to the colonies.

The volcanic eruptions at Santa Cruz, Teneriffe, are diminishing. One of the craters has ceased activity. The lava is advancing slowly and will not reach Santiago and Tamains for several days.

A new chief accountant of the Marine and Fisheries Department, Ottawa, has been appointed in the person of A. Boyle, formerly agent of the department at Prescott. He succeeds W. Owen, resigned.

It is unlikely that the Duke of Connaught will become Governor-General of Canada. The duke and his family leave for Cairo in January, remaining for some weeks, and then he purposes going to East Africa on a shooting expedition.

The Almonte Knitting Co. mill is shut down by the strike of 25 girl finishers. Three weeks ago they "struck" because a girl was dismissed; then, going back, they struck again when the strike leaders were let go, and, after returning to work they decided yesterday to strike again.

The Quebec Battlefields Commission yesterday awarded the massive gold medals, struck in honor of the tercentenary celebration last year, to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Earl Grey, Sir Louis Jette (then lieutenant-governor), Premier Gouin and Sir George Garneau, mayor of Quebec.

Second Victim Dies.

Parry Sound, Nov. 27.—Foreman A. C. Jones of the mechanical department here, who was so terribly injured in the explosion of the acetylene gas generating plant Thursday, died last evening.

Assistant Commissioner of Lights Noble of the Marine Department will hold a searching investigation. That the accident had no more serious results seems a marvel when at least six men were within 50 feet of the exploding dryer.

Agent Brais is more hurt than at first reported, having the calf of one leg cut and torn, face and ear cut and singed and blackened by the gas. Smith, another man, has a scalp wound, and another employe, Craven, had a thumb torn off.

An inquest on the body of Engineer Kerr will be held Dec. 6.

Congressman Burned.

Butler, Mo., Nov. 27.—Hundreds of prominent public men of Missouri, and many from outside the state, joined the citizens of Butler yesterday in paying respect to the memory of the late Congressman David A. De Armond, who was burned to death here last Tuesday in a fire that destroyed his home. Congressman De Armond died in a vain effort to save the life of his favorite grandson, David A. De Armond.

The bodies of both victims were buried in the local cemetery in one casket, following simple services at the Methodist Episcopal Church, where the late Congressman had been a member.

Robbed Man While In Stupor.

Parry Sound, Nov. 27.—Robbery from the person of John Hall of Depot Harbor, by G.T.R. Constable Powell, stationed at that place, was the charge tried by Judge McCurry here yesterday. Powell was convicted. The two men were drinking together in Powell's room, and Hall fell into a drunken stupor, from which he awoke to find himself lying across Powell's bed minus his money. Two $10 Bank of Toronto bills, identified by Hall, were found on the constable. He was given two months' imprisonment. Powell came here from Montreal a short time ago.

Rameses In America.

Boston, Nov. 27.—Rameses, King of Egypt, in mummified form, is resting aboard the steamship Aragonia, while the vessel is discharging a portion of her cargo here preparatory to proceeding to New York. The monarch's age is estimated at about 3,000 years. Although the remains weigh but 125 pounds they are so carefully packed in lead, iron and wood that in their case they weigh more than 1,000 pounds. On the outside of the case are the words "Valued at $30,000." The mummy is consigned simply to the Hamburg-American Line, New York.

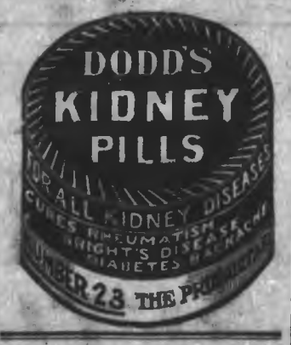
Aeronauts Killed.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—Dr. Brenckmann and Hugo Francke, the two most daring members of the Aero Club, of Berlin, have been killed through the collapse of their balloon Kolmar. Their bodies were found yesterday near Fiume, Austria-Hungary. Near by was their balloon, a huge rent in the envelope telling the story of their death.

Dr. Brenckmann had been the third person to insure his life with the newly-formed company which makes a business of air navigation risks.

Bloodhounds on Trail.

Bedford, Ind., Nov. 27.—The countryside was aroused yesterday to a pursuit of robbers, when it was found that following the murder of George Moss, in his store near here, on Wednesday night, that the safe in the postoffice at Tunnelton was blown open and cleared of cash and stamps Thursday night. Sheriff Box, with deputies and bloodhounds, with which he attempted to follow the trail of the men that robbed and murdered Moss, went immediately to Tunnelton



CLOTHES FOUND ON BANK.

Apparel of Young Woman Betokens Suicide at Falls.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Nov. 27.—Evidences of what the reservation officers and local police believe to be unmistakably a case of suicide were discovered yesterday. While patrolling his beat along the edge of the river between the foot of Falls street and Goat Island bridge, Reservation Officer Martin found on the brink of the river a woman's coat, a black felt hat trimmed with velvet and a black wing. Pinned to the coat was a card bearing the name of Miss Margaret Callan, trained nurse, No. 269 Glenwood avenue, Buffalo. Two other cards and 96 cents in change were also found.

Miss Callan left her boarding-house on Glenwood avenue Thursday afternoon without saying where she was going. The clothes found are said to answer the description of those worn by her. Miss Callan's friends say she was always of a cheerful mood, and they are unable to assign a motive.

Slavery Stories Untrue.

New York, Nov. 27.—Allegations that slave trade exists in Portuguese East Africa were pronounced as unwarranted fabrications by Col. J. A. Wyllie, Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, England, who arrived on the steamer Teutonic on a two-months' investigation of conditions in Portuguese East Africa.

Col. Wyllie says he found a spirit of friendliness and perfect freedom between the white man and black.

"The African's condition is wonderfully improved as a laborer for the Portuguese in contrast with his home environment in Central Africa," said Col. Wyllie. "They come down the coast, many of them cannibals, and all of them barbarians, and are glad to hire out to the planters to escape tortures of their own tribal barbarities."

Girl Held For Murder.

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 27.—The mystery attending the shooting of Clarence F. Glover in his laundry last Saturday night, is still unsolved. State, county and city authorities admitted yesterday that their investigations had progressed but little since the arrest on Wednesday of Miss Hattie Leblanc, whom the dying man accused of firing the fatal shots.

The rigid investigations of the girl's story in which she denied the accusations of her employers, and the examination of Mrs. Glover, the widow, has apparently thrown very little light on the case. The police, however, believed that the two women have not told all they know, and yesterday they again sought the Cambridge jail, where the 16-year-old girl is locked up on a charge of murder.

Boy Hangs Himself.

Des Moines, Nov. 27.—Harold Perkins, 16 years old, hanged himself to his bedroom door Thursday because he had been refused permission to attend a football game. It is said he expected his aunt, with whom he lived, to discover him and cut him down before he died.

Fatal Fight With Burglars.

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 27.—One of two robbers was instantly killed and Deputy Sheriff Andrew Johnson was fatally shot yesterday in a fight following the dynamiting of a safe in the village of Puposky, 17 miles northwest of Bemidji. The other robber escaped.

Tore Up Sidewalk.

Hagersville, Nov. 27.—Lawyer Aegar and ex-Chief of Police Coates of Simcoe were arrested here yesterday by Constable Rispin on a warrant charging them with stealing pieces of scantling from the sidewalk of this town, to be used as evidence in a civil action on Tuesday.

Strange Asphyxiation.

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 27.—A high wind which blew down the chimney and closed the damper of a parlor stove, caused the deaths by coal gas asphyxiation of Chas. Herrick and Miss Ida Lydston, his housekeeper, in East Lynn.

Jay Go to Asylum.

Chatham, Ont., Nov. 27.—Mrs. Mary Rumble, the woman charged with dynamiting her husband's house in Harwich Township and who comes up for trial to-day, will likely be sent to the London Asylum. Experts have been working on the case, and it is understood that the result will be that she will be pronounced insane.

Graft In German Navy.

Kiel, Germany, Nov. 27.—Extensive financial irregularities have been discovered in the department which furnishes meat for the navy. The discrepancies are especially serious in the division through which torpedo boats are supplied. It is likely that arrests will be made very soon.

Gave $5,000 Reward.

Paris, Nov. 27.—A special to the Figaro from Madrid says that Eugene Higgins, the New York yatchsman, has made a present of $5,000 to the man who rescued him when the Varuna was wrecked on the northwest coast of the Island of Madeira.

Mrs. Snowdon Coming.

Toronto, Nov. 27.—Toronto is to be favored with an address by Mrs. Philip Snowdon, the wife of an English M.P., who is considered to be the greatest woman speaker living. Not since Frances Willard has there been an English-speaking woman with such a gift of oratory as this lady, who is the idol of the moderate wing of the suffragist party. She has a wide acquaintance among English legislators, and since her marriage to Mr. Snowdon she has virtually lived in the House of Commons. Shortly after her graduation at Liverpool she became interested in the social conditions of England and led a vigorous crusade against the heavy drinking of those days in labor clubs.

London, Nov. 27.—Lawrence's famous portrait of the Duke of Wellington was sold at auction yesterday for $10,000.

The Agnews have bought in St. Petersburg Rembrandt's portrait of "An Old Jew." The painting was sold to the Agnews by M. Delaroff, a private collector, for $72,500. M. Delaroff bought the picture a few years ago for $30,000 from Countess Adlerberg.

Not Guilty of Murder.

Macleod, Alta., Nov. 27.—John Kulcychi, a Russian, was found not guilty by the jury in the Supreme Court Thursday night on a charge of murdering Angus Ruis, at Frank, Alberta, on 17th July last. A game of cards led to a quarrel, which resulted in Ruis being fatally stabbed.

Two Women Killed.

Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 27.—Mrs. Margaret Smith, aged 35 years, and Mrs. Minnie Wright, aged 35 years, were killed by a gas explosion in a boarding-house at 129 North street, here, yesterday. A jet in their room had leaked all night. The landlady detected gas and traced it to the room. She burst in the door just in time to see flames envelop the room.

DISTURBING MEETINGS HAS BEEN PRACTISED FOR YEARS

Effervescing Spirits of Youth Had Been Tolerated But Young Men Went Too Far—Annoyed Audience at Entertainment in Bethel Church Near Warsaw.

ALLOWED TO GO WITH COSTS

Four boys, ranging in age from 16 to 20 years, paid into the Police Court yesterday afternoon $20.00, the cost of a case in which they were charged with having unlawfully and wilfully disturbed an assemblage of persons met for religious worship, by rude behaviour, and by making a noise within the place of such meeting, contrary to the provisions of the criminal code. This charge was changed slightly, the words "for religious purposes" being changed to "for moral and benevolent purposes." The affair occurred at the Bethel Church, north of Warsaw, on Friday, Oct. 29, and consisted of an entertainment, but of such a nature that it was largely religious. Magistrate Edmison said it was immaterial whether the disturbance had occurred in a church or a barn. The law referred to public meetings of any kind, and was for the purpose of maintaining order and decorum.

The young men were Garfield and Willie Dunford, Gordon Crowe, and Lawrence McCracken. The charge was laid by Mr. W. F. Payne, Superintendent of the Bethel Sunday School. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. F. D. Kerr represented the accused. When the prosecution had concluded its case, and before evidence for the defence was to be adduced, Magistrate Edmison addressed both parties, suggesting that from the nature of the case, the youth of the young men, and other considerations it would be advisable for them to get together, and endeavour to settle the matter. This was done with the result that no fine was imposed or conviction made, but the young men were allowed to go after receiving some good advice and paying the costs, which amounted to $28.00.

Nature of the Affair.

William F. Payne, who laid the charge, was one of the most important witnesses. It was the worst disturbance he ever saw at any meeting. The entertainment was for the purpose of securing funds for improvements to the church. When he saw the boys enter, one of them exclaimed: "Now, boys, get out your peanuts," and they soon began cracking and eating them, and even throwing them around. He could see all four of those mentioned above, and there were others who were making noises, but he noticed the four boys in particular. The objection was not to applause that followed each number, but to the uncalled for talking and disturbance that was carried on while different selections were being rendered." I don't think I heard half of the programme," witness said.

To Mr. Kerr he stated that he thought these boys participated in the charivari exactly one month previous. He was not positive that they were there, but he suspected them. Witness did not lay the information because of any desire of revenge.

The evidence of Mr. Payne, in reply to Mr. Kerr was mostly general, as far as the four boys were concerned. He saw Garfield Dunford lean over the back of a seat and "hammer" on it. He did not see him throw anything. He saw Wellie Dunford eating peanuts. Could not distinguish anything he said.

James Matthews.

James Matthews stated that there was "a lot" of loud noise. He was within hearing, but owing to the loud talking he could hardly hear a thing. He did not think there would be any law over it. There never had been any in the past years.

Jacob White.

Mr. White is an elderly gentleman, well known throughout the county, and one of the trustees of

MR. D. W. DUMBLE PRESENTS KING EDWARD STREET TO PETERBOROUGH

New Highway Extends From George Street to Lock Street South of Dunkaine Street---Mr. Dumble Reserves Strip of Twenty Feet on South Side Adjacent to the Best Property.

King Edward street is the name of Peterborough's newest street. It is the gift of Mr. D. W. Dumble to the city and extends between George St. and Lock St. Mr. Dumble waited on the committee of the Whole Council last night for the purpose of securing the city's acceptance of the street and of having the necessary by-law passed in order that deeds of the park lots might be registered. On motion of Ald. Morrow and Phelan, the street was accepted, but when the by-law was read it was found that three quarters of the aldermen had to be present, and as there were more than three absentees it was necessary to defer the passing of the by-law until the December meeting of the Council.

King Edward St. runs east and west about 600 ft. and is almost in the same line with Ware St., King Edward school and the park of the same name are both in the neighbourhood and the name is also a suitable one Mr. Dumble stated. It is the regulation of feet wide, but Mr. Dumble reserves 20 feet on the south side adjoining Mr. Best's property. He had tried to get the latter to give 33 feet and Mr. Dumble would give the other 33 feet, but Mr. Best refused and Mr. Dumble reserves the twenty feet for trees and grass. If Mr. Best or any one who at any time may own the property adjoining on the south desires the use of the street they must cross this 20 ft. strip and to do so will have to make compensation to Mr. Dumble Ald. Duncan suggested that a strip one foot wide would serve the same purpose, but Mr. Dumble for reasons of his own wanted the 20 feet. He would give an understanding that no building would ever be erected on it. He intends to plant trees on both sides of the street next spring.

Should Secure Sites For Location Of A City Hall

To the Editor of The Examiner:

I notice, with pleasure, your editorial in Friday's Examiner, regarding the selection of a site for a City Hall. I quite agree with your remark, that the City Council should be on the lookout for some site that would be suitable for the erection of city buildings, when the time arrives. For my own part, I do not see any better than those you have suggested—one opposite the Y.M.C.A. hall, the other opposite the Central Park, both convenient to the street cars and about as centrally located as city buildings could possibly be. Of course, there are other places that perhaps might be selected but it is the principle that I am particularly approving of, the city looking ahead, and obtaining options upon which suitable buildings can be erected in the near future. The present buildings are a disgrace to an ambitious city, and, while not advocating the erection immediately of city buildings, we should be having our plans prepared and ideas gotten together, so that when the time does come, there will be no delay.—Yours faithfully,

RATEPAYER.

VARSITY MADE ROUGH RIDERS LOOK LIKE BUNCH OF NOVICES

Students won To-day's Canadian Semi-final Game by 31 to 7 in Ridiculously Easy Fashion--Ottawas Were Never in the Running for a Minute and Were Always Hopelessly Beaten.

Special Wire to the Examiner.

Rosedale Field, Toronto, Nov. 27.—Over ten thousand people saw the final struggle to-day between Ottawa Rough Riders and Varsity. The weather was simply perfect. Bright and with very little breese. It was the game of the year and they began to gather early indeed. Those who were there say that they began to line up at six o'clock this morning. Afterwards every succeeding hour saw the line growing bigger and bigger till at noon to-day an enormous crowd patiently awaited the opening of the gates. After noon hour it seemed as if the whole of Toronto was Rosedale bound. There was over a hundred active newspaper men on the job and the game received plenty of publicity. The 48th Highlanders band provided accompaniments for the students.

Standing room sections at the ends of the field were completely sold out at two o'clock, half an hour after the gates opened. The moving picture machines were in evidence and the game will be shown in theatres all over Canada which will be consolation to those who were unable to purchase tickets for the game.

The crowd tried to rush the gates but six stalwart cops at each entrance prevented any such happening. The Varsity rooters were first on the job ,the most unique effect of the day was the arrangement of the student rooters in the northwest bleachers. By a colour arrangement skilfully laid out there was a human outline made by blue and white sweaters on a black background and stood out so all could see, "Toronto, '09."

Secretary W. J. Elee,, of Canadian Rugby Union had charge of the playing field and the arrangements were perfect. He was assisted by Dr. Barton and Constable Christie, of Varsity. The Varsity team arrived on a tally-ho about 2.15. The impatient crowd asked "Where is Ottawa?" Thinking perhaps the Rough Riders would carry out their threats of not playing. The arrival of the Ottawa team was heralded by the 48rd buglers. Hal McGiverin and Tom Clancy preceded the Rough Riders.

An interesting sight was the appearance of King Clancy and Referee Hendry on the field discussing the situation.

The Hamilton team came down on a special train. All of last Saturday's defeated players were on hand and rooted hard for Ottawa. The Varsity team appeared on the field at 2.30 led by Capt. Jack Newton.

The Line-Up.

The teams lined up as follows:

Ottawa—Johnstone, full back; McCann, right half; Williams, centre half; Gerard, left half; Kilt, quarter back; Sherriff, C. scrimmage; Kennedy, right scrimmage; Ferguson, left scrimmage; Phillips, left inside wing, McGee, left middle wing; Stronach, left outside wing; Church, right inside wing; Vaughan, right middle wing; Christie, right outside wing.

Varsity Scores First.

The ground was a trifle slippery, and the breese favoured those defending the east goal, but this was offset by the brilliant sun in their faces. Ottawa had benefit of kick off, but Varsity quickly transferred into Ottawa territory on long punts by Gall. Then Thompson and Lajoie carried the ball over for a touchdown. Ritchie took the kick on goal and apparently converted, but the referee over-ruled the goal umpire and refused to allow the additional point. Score 5-0 in favour of Varsity.

Like a flash and before Ottawa woke up Thompson ran around the left end for twenty yards, and a second later Lajoie repeated. Varsity fumbled, but recovered. Gall punted over Ottawas' heads; Williams got it and was downed on his 35-yard line. An end run gained Ottawa ten yards. Ottawa kicked but Gall returned, out-punting Williams. Dixon took the return and dodged Stronach. An outside kick by Gall to Newton placed the ball in Ottawa territory.

Varsity lost the ball for offside, but got it back a moment later. Varsity kicked over, but Kilt and Rankin engaged in a scrap,and the whistle blew, taking a sure rouge from Varsity. An offside kick by Gall which fell into Christie's hands, saved Ottawa, but Lawson ran back one of Williams' punts to Ottawa's 35-yard line. Gall kicked over the Ottawa line and Johnstone was forced to rouge. — Varsity 6, Ottawa 0.

Lawson's Long Run.

Williams punted to Lawson, who dodged the whole Ottawa team and plunged over for a try, only to be called back because Hume blocked Stronach. Hume was put off for five minutes. Gall continued to punt and Ottawa was forced back on the defence. The Varsity wings smothered Ottawa backs. Williams kicked to Gall, who was downed. He punted over the line to Newton, who grabbed it and carried to Ottawa's 20 yard line. The next play made Ottawa look like novices. Varsity formed up for a kick, but Foulds made a beautiful long pass to Gall, who caught it neatly, and, dodging Gerrard went over for a touch down behind Ottawa goal posts. Ritchie failed to convert. Varsity 11, Ottawa 0.

After the kick-off McCann muffed one of Gall's punts, but Williams saved a kick out. Gall continued to kick and Varsity wings were all over the Ottawa backs. Gall tried an onside kick, but Kilt blocked Gall and was fenced for five minutes.

The Varsity wings continued to smother all end runs and the middles took care of Ottawa backs in surprising style. First quarter over.—Varsity 11, Ottawa 0.

Second Quarter.

Varsity are now playing against the wind, but Ottaw has the sun in their eyes. Varsity immediately forced Ottawa upon defence. Williams tried an on-side kick,but Gage caught it. Gall missed a long pass but recovered and ran it back. Gall made a long punt to Williams who muffed on his own line. He recovered but was chased back over the line and downed for a rouge. Varsity 12, Ottawa 0.

McCann muffed a punt 20 yards out and Varsity recovered the loose ball. Gall booted on-side to Newton who nailed it and ran over for an easy try before the bewildered Ottawa Ottawa players knew what had happened. Varsity converted. Score—Varsity 18, Ottawa 0.

For First Time Ottawa Press.

Ottawa got the ball in Varsity territory and had Varsity on defensive for the first time. Then Ottawa commenced to get dirty. When Lawson took Williams' punt and was tackled by two men Kilt rushed in and kicked him in the back and got away with it. Ottawa for offside got ball on Varsity line but Varsity held them for downs. A moment later Lawson smashed throuhg Stronach's end for his yards. Ferguson tried to tackle high but Lawson sent him flying.

On a punt Varsity failed to give yards and it was Ottawas ball, 25 yards from Ottawa's line. Williams promptly kicked over the line to Gall, who was downed for a rouge by Stronach.—Varsity 18, Ottawa 1.

Varsity forced ball back to centre. There an offside by Stronach gave them possession. Varsity smothered everything. Ottawa tried and their tackling was magnificent. Williams tried an offside kick, but Gall got it and ran it back 25 yards. Lawson tore through on Stronach's end again. He came like a steam engine, breaking tackle after tackle. Finally they got him and he went down and was battered in shameful manner. Stronach and Lawson came together in spectacular fashion just at half time, when the big Scot grabbed Lawson. Both went down, but Lawson scrambled up and dragged the big Scot along.

Half-time (4.18 p.m.)—Varsity 18, Ottawa 1.

Third Quarter.

The sun and wind have both disappeared and there is no advantage to either team now. Ottawa kicked off short, and then punted to Dixon, who returned to centre. Williams kicked to Gall, who fell. Church came up on run and kicked him in the head, and the crowd groaned. Gall kicked into touch at Ottawa's 40-yard line. A moment later Varsity recovered at Ottawa's 30-yard line. Gerrard marked a punt. Lawson took his punt and ran back thirty yards, but was called back for Ritchie's interference. Gage got five minutes for scrapping. Hume was penalised for mixing it up with an Ottawa wing.

Varsity was now playing twelve men to 14. Johnstone went around right end for a 20 yard gain and on the next punt Lawson was downed on his own 30 yard line. Varsity played desperately to hold out while they were short handed. They were driven back upon the defence and for first time Gall's kicks were blocked. Christie and Kennedy broke through and blocked three but Gall and Newton dived in fearlessly and recovered. Finally Varsity lost the ball 20 yards out and Williams kicked to Lawson who muffed on his own line. Dixon recovered and ran out five yards. Gage was ruled off again and Ottawa got the ball right on the line for offside interference. The first buck was blocked but on the second Kilt bucked over for a touch. Williams converted. Varsity 18, Ottawa 7.

Ottawa was coming strong now in an effort to break up Varsity, and were giving the students an awful gruelling. Varsity went right at Ottawa again. Gall's kick was partly blocked by Ottawa but went over line. Bell broke through and got possession on Ottawa's 35 yard line. Gall kicked over to Williams, who passed to McCann, who was downed for rouge. Third quarter score—Varsity 19, Ottawa 7.

Fourth Quarter.

Varsity went right at Ottawa again Gall kicked over to Johnston who made a long pass to Gerrard. Letter muffed but dribbled out to Dixon who tell on it, and while he was on he ground an Ottawa wing man kicked him in the head and escaped penalty. Hume and Phillips who had a dispute over dirty work were fenced. Williams tried a long pass out to Johnston but the latter was nailed. Ottawa failed to run it out and lost the ball right on their own line. Gage was fenced and Varsity tried to run it over but failed. Gall kicked over to Johnston who was downed by Bell for a rouge. Varsity 20, Ottawa 7.

Ottawa's dirty work roused Varsity and came back. Lawson took a punt from Williams and ran 40 yards, dodging six tackiers. Stronach ran him down, however. A moment later Newton broke through and ran well into Ottawa's territory. Kilt was hurt. Gall kicked a bounder off an Ottawa wing. Bell broke through and grabbed it, fell when tackled and passed to Hume, who carried it to Ottawa's ten-yard line. Lawson smashed through for Varsity's fourth touch. Ritchie converted. Score, Varsity 26, Ottawa 7.

Varsity got the ball. Foulds followed his kick and took it from a crowd of Ottawa wings. Thompson and Lawson made a combined spectacular thirty yard run. Gall kicked over. Ottawa ran it out, but McCann lost ball. Varsity had ball right on Ottawa line, but lost for offside. Williams kicked to Lawson, who flashed through for another touch. Ritchie failed to convert. Varsity 31, Ottawa 7.

Lawson made another spectacular 40 yard run. McCann made a nice dodging run in his own quarter. Game ended with Varsity in possession at their own quarter.

Final score—Varsity 31, Ottawa 7.

HAD TO CUT ITS WAY THROUGH ICE ON RICE LAKE

The steamer Monarch made a trip this morning from Gore's Landing, and as long as the lake and river remains open the trips will be continued. The stout little traveller had considerable difficulty this morning in negotiating the ice in the lake and as a result was an hour and three quarters late. The ice is not very thick, but it covered the lake for a large area according to one of the passengers. It was rather thick in places and the Monarch was compelled to proceed slowly in order to prevent its bow from being torn by the jagged ice. The season is already over two weeks longer than last year, and as long as the weather permits the vessel will continue working. It was unable to call at Norwood this morning owing to the ice, but the river was open and the remaining part of the trip was easily made.

DESERVED PRAISE

The Lethbridge Daily Herald has the following nice words to say about Mr. E. R. Wood, who began life in Peterborough ,and is now one of Canada's best known financiers.

A few years ago a young man laboured diligently as a messenger boy in a telegraph office in Peterborough, Ont. He worked hard and took an interest in his work. His employer was George A. Cox and he was rapidly promoted until to-day he is recognized as one of the great financiers of Canada. During the past week he came into prominence by reason of his having acquired the control of the Dominion Coal and Steel Co, and paved the way for peace in these great industries on our Atlantic seaboard. E. R. Wood is a business genius and has been for years the right hand of his first employer, Senator Cox. His methods are clean and upright and nothing derogatory has ever been offered to his reputation. He is a type of young man who is ambitious and rose from humble circumstances to the top. There is always advancement ahead for young men who take life and business as seriously as Mr. Wood.

BONUS BY-LAW TO REQUIRE TWO-THIRDS OF VOTE POLLED

One of the Items in Manufacturers' Committee Adopted at Council Meeting Last Night—Wiring Contract for Library Goes Back to Property Committee.

THE MAYORALTY FIELD.

The time is drawing nigh when the City Council will be looking forward to the election of a mayor for 1910. Already several names are mentioned in connection therewith. Several of the aldermen are being suggested as suitable candidates by many citizens, and two or three names are mentioned who were in the City Council in years gone by. Prominently before the people, at the present time, are the names of Mr. W. G. Morrow, Mr. W. H. Bradburn, Mr. H. Morgan, Mr. Robt. Hicks, and the name of Mr. William Langford is also suggested, but who will be candidates, of course, no one can say at the present time, but it is hoped that a capable and energetic gentleman will be selected, who will be acceptable to the people of Peterborough, with ideas that will be for a Larger and Greater Peterborough.

HOW TO REDUCE FAT WITHOUT DRUGS, DIET OR EXERCISE

After the summer is past and there are no more hot, stuffy days, this is the time when fat people should be thinking about reducing their weight and should stop making the fat that is such a burden to them. The best way and the easiest way is the one about which so much has been said and written this past year. This way is the Marmola way. The famous Marmola Prescription has been prepared in tablet form. These little tablets contain nothing but the elements that go to change the things which produce fat into good, strong blood, nerves, tissues and bone. More than this, these tablets absorb and remove the fat remaining at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces per day. You must not confuse Marmola Tablets with harmful patent drugs and hurtful reducing methods. These tablets go into your stomach just like the food you eat. They build up the juices of the digestive organs and correct these juices so that they produce no more fat. They are harmless, yet thousands of men and women all over this land to-day are of firm figures and normal size because of these little tablets. This is why every druggist everywhere carries them in stock, and will sell them to you. If your druggist does not have them, or you would rather send 75 cents, the price of a case, to The Marmola Company, Detroit, Mich., they will send them to you at once in a plain pocage, postage paid.

LINDSAY MAY HAVE TEAM

Mr. E. Roy Clarke, secretary of the O.R.F.U., was in town recently and had a chat with Manager Simpson, of the local Rugby team. He condoled with the manager on Lindsay's sudden exit from the junior series, and expressed the hope that the town would have another team next year. A good suggestion was made by Mr. Clarke when he suggested that a double schedule be formed in this district between Lindsay and Peterborough, and more games be played. The idea is a good one and would increase interest in the game here. The cup will have to go back to Toronto, after abiding in this town for a year. So long, old fellow !—Lindsay Warder.

THE OTHER BUSINESS

A meeting of the City Council was held last night, with Mayor Hall in the chair, and Ald. Morrow, Phelan, Bradburn, Duffus, Butler, Morgan, Metheral and Duncan were present. In the adoption of the reports Ald. Bradburn asked that clause 5 of the Property Committee report be sent back to that committee. That clause was as follows: "We recommend that the tender of F. B. J. MacPherson & Co., for the wiring of the Public Library, at $480, be accepted, providing they agree to furnish the certificate of the Fire Underwriters' Association at the completion of the work." After the specifications were passed the architect called for 18 plugs in the floor of the book room, and as they range from 40c to $3.00, the committee did not know what price Mr. McPherson had contracted. Before the contract was let some wiring had to be done and Messrs Alexander and Miller were called upon. Their bill amounted to $12.00, and the Property Committee wants to know "where Mr. McPherson stands." The rest of the report was adopted, Mc. Gregor & Reid getting the plumbing, heating, and tiling at $2,250.

Ald. Morrow enquired into what arrangements the committee had made to inspect the heating and plumbing. The trouble experienced by the Collegiate Institute building committee should be avoided in this building. Ald. Bradburn said the architects would likely inspect the work. They should know where it is done properly. He did not know where a man could be secured in Peterborough for the work.

The snow ploughing contracts were affirmed by the passing of the Board of Works' report.

Careful Work.

Mr. Dumble called attention to the manner in which the sidewalks are cleaned. In some places the plough goes to one side, and the walk is left uneven and remains in that condition all winter. Mr. Dumble thought these places should be shovelled clean. The even walk would be appreciated by the citizens. Ald. Duncan asked that the Engineer have a fallen willow tree on Ware street removed. Ald. Morrow asked what had been done in regard to Wills Chipman's report of the Dunsford St. sewer. Ald. Phelan stated that it had been received and a special night would be devoted to its consideration.

Manufacturers' Committee.

The report of the Manufacturers' Committee read by Ald. Morrow was adopted as follows:

1. We gave instructions to have a by-law prepared to grant the Wm. Hamilton Co. a fixed assessment for municipal purposes of $10,000 for ten years, on condition that they employ 75 hands.

2. We recommend that the City Solicitor draft a Bill to amend the municipal Act to provide that a Bonus by-law may become law on a favourable vote of three-fifths of the electors who vote, and that Mr. T. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., be asked to take charge of it in the Legislature.

Rev. J. Russell McLean To Give Lecture At St. John's

The Rev. J. Russell McLean, Rector of Colborne, will conduct the services at St. John's church to-morrow, Advent Sunday. Formerly lecturer at Toronto University, Mr. McLean is doing a splendid work in the parish of Colborne, and at his first Sunday at St. John's not long ago quickly made himself at home, spending a most happy day, notwithstanding a hard day's duty. Mr. McLean is a thorough Scotchman, and the Anglican Young Peoples' Association has persuaded him to stay over Monday and deliver a lecture on Scotland in the schoolroom. A hearty invitation is extended to all to come and hear a native born Scotch Highlander deliver a most interesting description of "My Ain Countrie," which is singularly appropriate, coming, on the eve of St. Andrew's Day. The romantic history of clansmen life in Scotland is not easy too well known and it is hoped that a large crowd will assemble to spend a most interesting Scotch evening.

Too Much Publicity Not Good For City's Interests

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—If I may be allowed to criticize, I am of the opinion that it is not desirable for the Peterborough papers to always place in large type on the front page, the name of any industry that is being negotiated for by the City Council. I notice that Hamilton is appointing an Industrial commissioner, Lindsay likewise; Peterborough not moving yet, and attention is drawn to what Peterborough is doing by unnecessary and uncalled for publicity. If the city fathers would take the press into their confidence and tell them what to publish and what not to, it might be agreeable to all concerned. I believe, myself, in the principle of an industrial commissioner, but not giving everything to the public before it is completed. Business men, as a rule, do not make known or discuss any private business transactions until they are completed. The city business should be done in the same way.

PERMANENCY.

In this world of transitory conditions there is no such thing as absolute permanency; but well built concrete pavements or good, well-laid, hard-headed macadam, come as near permanency as is practically possible. The city of Peterborough is rather well supplied with concrete walks, durable and satisfactory notwithstanding their somewhat erratic lines and levels. Of course, it seems incongruous that on the same street the walks are, on one side, outside the tree line and on the other, inside, and even in some cases the two conditions obtain on the same side of same street. But this is a minor defect and is not surprising when we recollect that there is a complete and absolute absence of order or system or settled policy in the administering of street construction.

As regards the driving surface of our streets the no-oyster system "gets in" its deadly work of street waste and defective results in a most uniform and consistent manner. There are a few cardinal principles in the matter of road construction upon which hinges all satisfactory work. The first principle is good draining. Street surface and foundation drainage are ignored as completely as if it had no existence, and was not vital to permanently good driving surfaces; and that in spite of the fact that in no city on earth, either in the matter of soil porosity or continuous relation of levels are there such ideal conditions of surface and sub-surface drainage. When this neglect is intensified by the application upon our streets of the most unsuitable possible material, dumped carelessly upon its kindred mud—with no attempt at providing proper foundation or drainage, what can we expect in the way of approximate, not to speak of anything like permanent, results? What can we expect but waste of the money contributed by the long suffering ratepayers such as has been going on for years.

Is there no remedy? Is there no way of relief? Certainly, and a very easy way too. The way is to put the constructive and maintaining administration of our streets under systematic control; to apply ordinary business principles to the civic street service. A man who undertakes to build a permanent structure in the first place provides a proper foundation upon which to place proper materials—materials of a lasting character, capable of withstanding the wear or pressure to be put upon it.

For years we have had the most execrable, unsuitable and, in the matter of permanency, worthless material dumped upon our streets. When it was not gravel mingled with miniature boulders, it was crushed stone, mingled with limestone and granite, two incompatible materials making permanent smoothness of driving surface impossible, the soft limestone and occasional granite wearing unevenly and producing a rough, uneven surface and developing depressions or holes, which by the way are never filled. Thus the street surface rapidly degenerates and is left to its own speedy destruction. Is it remarkable that such street building is not anything like what produces permanent work? Is it remarkable that wasteful and unsatisfactory and short-lived as it is, it costs nearly as much as really permanent work, done with proper materials and in a proper manner?

Stony Lake granite is one of the best possible materials for street macadam, and with the completion of the Trent Canal to Peterborough and the opening of granite quarries at the lake, is easily obtainable. Compared, with the mixed—soft and hard—limestone or granite material crushed from field stone it is as hydraulic cement concrete compared with ordinary lime mortar for sidewalks. If the granite, pure and unmixed with baser materials, were employed in building streets, if proper drainage were provided and proper foundations laid, we should have streets as lasting, with proper care and maintenance, as the old Roman roads built in Julius Caesar's time in Britain, 1960 years ago and in some parts of Britain still in use.

It would be surprising to be told, but it is nevertheless a fact, that the City Council "turned down" a proposal made by a reliable gentleman, to furnish Stony Lake granite, crushed and ready for the streets, laid down at the Wolfe street wharf at the same price, the same cost to the city, as the comparatively worthless crushed limestone provided by the city. The only condition was that there should be a five-year contract, to make it worth while to install the necessary crushing machinery and provide barges for transportation. The city fathers though recognizing the merits of the proposal of the ratepayers, rejected it because it would alienate an interest associated with the teaming of gravel.

This was an excuse without an excuse for being an excuse. The condition of our streets certainly justifies the employment of all available teamsters for hauling crushed granite—the employment of as many teamsters as are now used for drawing the makeshift material, called gravel.

The city fathers do not seem to have a grip of the situation; do not seem to have a sense of their responsibility. In this they do not differ from the ordinary City Council of the past. The fault is not with the individuals, but with the system of waste in street administration which is the only system applied to the administration of our streets. Since it has been such a failure; since it has resulted in thousands of dollars of wasteful expenditure with annoyingly disappointing, and temporarily, fairly decent results, the conviction is forced that we must resort, sooner or later—and the sooner the better—to the expedient of placing our street under the control of a commission. It will not be wise to continue the present wasteful way, which no alderman present or past will for a moment justify. To secure permanency in street administration results, we must begin by the establishment of permanent administration machinery, in the form of something like a commission, permanent in character, in order to admit of the adoption and application of a personal policy and permanent system based on the experience of expert road builders. The whole mixed with strong common sense and business ability and entirely divorced from all considerations of popular favour except those associated with the securing of the best results from the most skilful and effective expenditure of the peoples' money.

ROUSING SLEEPING DOGS.

There are some Conservative journals affectingly solicitous for Canada's reputation for unreasoning loyalty—of the not-to-answer-why, do-and-die variety. The Mail and Empire a day or two ago, the day of the ice storm, used the deadly parallel to differentiate the ready willingness of Australia, to enter the lists with the Commonwealth Navy, and the calculating coldness of Canada as expressed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the debate on the address.

This was given by the Mail as the position of Australia:

> In time of war or emergency, or upon a declaration by the senior officer representing the British Government that a condition of emergency exists that all the vessels of the naval force of the Commonwealth shall be placed by the Commonwealth Government under the orders of the Lords of the admiralty—Australia's offer of April 16th, 1909.

And this is the position of Canada:

> Whether we have such a navy or not we shall not lose our rights of self-government, and if we have a navy it will go to no war unless this Parliament chooses to send it.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the address.

There is nothing incompatible in the two declarations. The Australian position is taken from an ample memorandum of the Australian Government, dilating at length on its position in the matter of naval defence. The Mail chooses to contrast it with a sentence in a speech in which the reference to the naval question was necessarily incidental and not a formal state document as in the case of Australia. Would any person claim it as proper that, in the event of Canada going to the expense of building a navy, it should in times of peace pass from her own control to that of the Imperial authorities, which it would do if the consent of the Canadian parliament were not necessary to its employment in war? This idea is contrary to the spirit of the Imperial Defence Conference of last summer. Premier Asquith, in summarizing the result of the conference in the British House of Commons, stated that the resolutions passed and proposals, as far as the Dominions were concerned "must be taken to be ad referendum, and of no binding force unless and until submitted to the various parliaments. Here the principle of option is conceded to all the dominions, though in no case was there to be entertained for a moment the idea that that option would be exercised adversely, to imperial unity of action in case of emergency. In regard to military defence the conference decided that "without impairing the complete control of the government of each Dominion over its forces" these should be standardized on the model of the imperial forces, so that "while Dominion troops would, in each case be raised for the defence of the Dominion concerned, it would be made readily practicable in case of need for that Dominion to mobilize and use them for the defence of the Empire as a whole." This was the spirit of the conference in regard to the relations of the Dominions to the Empire in the matter of military and naval defence in times of peace and war—independent control of military and naval forces, subject to imperial unity of action in time of need. If Canada is daughter in her mother's house and mistress in her own, it stands to logic that whatever naval forces this country may originate, should be as subject to parliamentary sanction in their control as in their creation.

The Mail and other Conservative organs which asperse the loyalty of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in respect of his declaration, that the naval forces of Canada will go to no war unless Parliament chooses to send them, would be as loud in condemnation of a proposal to send military or naval forces to an imperial war without the consent of Parliament. What other power than the Parliament of Canada is competent to direct and control the movements of a Canadian navy if one is created? Sir Wilfrid's position is correct as constituting a declaration of Canadian autonomy, which the mother government fully recognises as was newly illustrated a day or so ago. The United States Government proposed to the British Government the holding of an international conference in regard to the taking of seals in the international waters of North America, and the proposal was referred by the Imperial Government to the Canadian Government, whose interests indicated this country as the proper one for dealing with a matter of domestic concern. If our autonomy is thus recognized, if we are permitted to make our own commercial treaties, is it to be regarded as anomalous that the Canadian Parliament should have a voice in deciding—as very much a matter of form—as to the disposition of her own navy?

The position of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, while consistent with the closest identification of Dominion and Imperial action in time of need, is a similar, though not less courteous position to that taken by Sir John Macdonald at the time of the Soudan war in 1885, in declaration of Canadian autonomy in declining to send aid to the British Government, a position that the present Canadian Government did not take in the Boer war, and a position the Canadian Government and Parliament does not contemplate taking in the matter of her navy if its co-operation is necessitated by the needs of the Empire.

The Conservatives are as unfortunate in the press as in Parliament, in uttering condemnations that invite precedents of Conservative acts, and actions which emphasize the inconsistency of their criticism. The Mail's attempt to contrast the patriotic liberality of Australia with the unpatriotism of Canada was matched in parliament on Thursday night, when Mr. Northrup, of North Hastings, monotonously condemned the Liberal Government as a consenting party to the filching of $21,000 from the public chest, shown to have been done 20 years ago, with the sanction and concurrence of the Conservative Government of the day.

MR. FOSTER AT HIS BEST.

There is a wide difference between Hon. Mr. Foster at his best, and Mr. Foster at his worst, or rather worse. His speech in Parliament on Wednesday, in dealing with the various Colonial Conferences suggests in contrast with his usual moods, the little girl, who, when "she was good she was very, very good, and when she was bad she was horrid." Mr. Foster is a man of great oratorical ability, and on the occasion referred to, rose to the plane of a statesman in summarizing the results of the various Colonial conferences, which he happily referred to as constituting the only Imperial Parliament, and the development of the principle of consultation and cooperation in the same way as the British constitution had come into being. Mr. Foster does not often make an oration on a quasi political subject, that earned the encomium that Sir Wilfrid gave it, of being "fair and accurate."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The election of Duncan Marshall, the journalistic Minister of Agriculture, in the Alberta Government, by a majority of 500 over his Socialist opponent, illustrates the power of the press.

The result of a row getting in front of a railway locomotive as expressed by George Stephenson, the first railway magnate—"So much the worse for the coo"—seems to fit the Liberals of British Columbia, who got in front of a C. N. R. locomotive in Thursday's elections. They elected only two members out of 33 constituencies, reported to date.

We should not be surprised if the Liberals win in B. C., or rather the Opposition, which many Conservatives have joined. Mr. McBride appears to have done "some things."—Peterborough Review.

This illustrates the Review's usual brilliancy in computing political events, and further illustrates that its readers, in taking its leading, are following a guide as blind as the proverbial bat. Mr. McBride's Government will be returned by a large majority, as any one who knows the trend of political events in British Columbia can plainly see.—Peterborough Examiner.

The result of the election, Mr. McBride's return by the tremendous majority of twenty-four, shows clearly which of the two above predictions was correct, and once more proves conclusively that the Review does not know what it is talking about.

Blacksmithing and Woodworking Business For Sale

The undersigned offers for sale his blacksmithing and woodworking business, situated on the [illegible] Peterborough and Norwood, at Jerseyn P. O. The blacksmith shop building is two stories, 26 x 46, brick cutside floor and cement floor. The upper story is the full size of the blacksmith shop (draft). Attached to the blacksmith shop is the post office building, which may be entered from the blacksmith shop. Adjoining is a first class brick dwelling, with frontage 18 and 20 feet, with kitchen. It is an L-shaped house with cement cellar. Also verandah and beautiful lawn. There is a good stable with cement floor; three stalls, with straw barn attached. The land comprises one half acre. This is one of the best blacksmith stands in the County of Peterborough. The farmers all patronize this shop. My reason for giving up business on account of having one of my legs fractured I am unable to continue the shoeing. For further particulars, write to Article Written for The Examiner Shows How the Dread Disease Spreads From Bad Water.

LOOK AFTER WELLS

(By Dr. A. P. Knight, Queen's University.)

How often I have heard farmers boast of the purity of their well water. One farmer in particular, who thought that no well in the whole countryside could compare with his, had actually dug it in the middle of his barnyard. His barnyard, too, lay in a hollow, so I leave you to imagine how pure the water was in spring, when the snow was melting, and in autumn when the rainy season came on.

Of course, the well was very conveniently situated for watering his cattle in winter, or in summer during drought. But you would suppose that the mere sight of the filth, which abounded up to the very covering of the well, might suggest to him the possibility of some of the liquid filth leaking in at the top, and polluting the water.

"How does well water become polluted?" you ask. In many ways, and with different kinds of filth. But perhaps the most dangerous kind is that which is derived from human excreta,—not from the excreta of cattle. Both kinds are, of course, dangerous to health; but the special reason why a water polluted with human filth is more dangerous than that water polluted with the filth of cattle, is because the former often contains the germs of typhoid fever.

"What are germs?" you ask. Well, the simplest answer to this question is to say that the germs of disease are nearly all plants. "How wonderful" you exclaim. And it is wonderful, and all perfectly true. Let me explain a little, but first let me ask you what is the smallest young plant. All plants when very young are small. Even our giant pines when they first start to grow are no longer than the head of a pin.

I mean what plants are very small even when they are full grown. And you say pansies are, and sun-dew, and the mosses which grow upon old fence rails and upon the bark of trees. You are quite right in naming these; but I am waiting to hear you name some plants that are still smaller than these. Ah, I see you are unable to name one. And yet you do know some plants that are smaller than the mosses.

Moulds! "Are moulds plants?" you ask, and after the manner of a Scot I ask you "What else can they be?" They grow upon bread and cheese just as oats and wheat do upon soil. They need moisture and warmth just as farm grains do; they produce seed during the summer, as beans or peas do. The seeds of the mould are not called seeds, but they serve the same purpose. The seeds or spores, as they are called, float away in the air in drafts; they stick to floors, walls, clothes and furniture, and whenever they fall upon suitable soil, such as cheese or jam, or waste from the kitchen, they start to grow.

Now the germs of typhoid fever are very much like the spores of mould. They are so small that they cannot be seen with the naked eye. During the past fifty years, scientists, like Louis Pasteur, have discovered between five hundred and six hundred plants, all of them so small that they can only be seen with the aid of a powerful microscope. Not all of these, of course, cause disease. Only between thirty and thirty-five of them do, and among them there are the germs of typhoid fever.

Now typhoid fever in place of being a disease that is most prevalent in cities, is in reality more common in country districts. It is always spread by the germs, or seeds, and most frequently it gets into the human body from filthy drinking water that is, from wells.

But how does it get into wells? Always from human filth, either directly or indirectly. For several several years after a person has had typhoid fever, and while he is perfectly well, he continues to pass the germs from his body. If these germs happen to pass into a well, by means of surface water after rain, the well becomes polluted, and thenceforward so long as the germs live; become the means of giving the fever to others.

A polluted water with few germs in it may not of itself produce an outbreak of typhoid, but it may do so through the medium of the milk supply. How this may happen can be very easily explained. If the milk is pure, that is, if it comes from healthy cows, it cannot give typhoid fever to anyone, but if milk cans are washed out, as they sometimes are, with impure water, that is, with water which contains typhoid germs, and if such water has not been sterilized by boiling, then the germs in even the few drops of water which remain in the can may increase vastly in number in the milk which is afterwards put into the can. The fact is that typhoid germs grow better in warm milk than in anything else. Enormous numbers of them may develop in the milk from a few drops of infected water; and if this milk is drunk it becomes the means of setting up the disease just as surely as by drinking polluted water.

How many of the germs of typhoid fever must a person take in drinking water, in food, or in milk before the disease is set up in the body? No doubt the number will vary much in different people, because some people are born strong, and others delicate; some people take good care of their health, while others are quite careless about it; some follow a healthful calling, and others follow an unhealthy one. Moreover, some people are poorly housed, are ill-clothed, and ill-fed. Hence, it always comes to pass that in an outbreak of any infectious disease, the sickly, delicate or ill-cared for are the ones who suffer most.

When it is remembered that cold cannot kill the germs of typhoid fever, that they may therefore lie dormant on the snow, or be frozen in ice all winter; when in addition, we remember that a person who has had typhoid fever continues to pass the germs from the intestines even for years after he has recovered from the disease, we can readily see how difficult a matter it must be to prevent the germs from leaking into wells during the heavy rains or spring freshets, or draining into rivers and lakes, and thus keeping the disease alive from season to season.

HOW CROUP IS DEFEATED

If there is any doubting use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and prevent the terrible struggle of the little one for breath. If you know instead of it till the struggle comes, dosing the child to vomit and then use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine frequently in small doses to prevent repeated attacks. This great medicine is wonderfully effective in curing croup and bronchitis.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

THE CASH GIRL.

Take a company of forty, mostly girls, and pretty girls at that, mix well with eighteen song hits, and an abundant supply of fun, garnish with superb scenery and attractive costumes, and serve with a dash of ginger. That is May Ward's recipe for an evening's amusement, and those who saw the clever little comedienne in "The Cash Girl" at the Grand last night found the dish toothsome and palatable, and best of all it left no wry taste in the mouth. There was not a large audience, the fact that the appearance of the company last night was arranged at the eleventh hour, interfering with the attendance, but the house was enthusiastic and the principals and chorus were recalled frequently with heartiness that left no doubt as to the feeling of the audience.

"The Cash Girl" is one of the brightest, cleanest little shows of the season, with music galore, amusing situations and bright lines. There is not a dull moment from start to finish, and there is nothing hackneyed in the action of the many features introduced.

The "Cash Girl" has a doll chorus number that is suggestive of something we have seen before in "Babes in Toyland," but it is more cleverly evolved than the similar act in the older show and made a big hit with the audience last night. There is a moon song that opens the second act and that is just a little different from those other Luna numbers that have been heard in other musical shows. There is a quartette that can sing fairly well, and that can dance better than any four that the Grand has ever welcomed. Their work was one of the features of a feature show and they were recalled half a dozen times. There is a pony ballet that has more spice than an Indian relish, and that is worked over time. There is a host of good song numbers; in fact, there is everything that goes to make up an enjoyable musical show.

May Ward, around whom the action centres, makes the part of Daisy Day the Cash Girl, a delightful one. She is winsome and pretty, sings nicely, and throws life into the role. She is ably assisted by a clever company. Harry Watt, as Sherlock, a mere detective, making good from the start. His stuff includes a reference to the North Pole controversy that delighted the audience last night.

The production has costumes and scenery that are away above par and the whole show is well worth seeing. "The Cash Girl" appears at the Grand again to-night, and the enjoyment of last night's audience seems to presage capacity business to-night.

POST CARD COLUMN

The following letter to the President of the City Temperance League shows the interest that is being taken outside the city, and also proves that Lakefield citizens know a good thing when they have it:

Peterborough, Nov. 26, 1909.

Dear Sir,—A young men from Lakefield who believes that local option will mean much for Peterborough, every way, left with me to-day the enclosed to help on the campaign here. Kindly hand over same to the Secretary of the Association, and oblige,

Sincerely yours,

W. B.

Post card

Dear Editor,—I have seen Voice of a Great Need, before your readers for some time now, but what about the Georgian Bay, and seaboard junction, with main line in the city. The C.P.R. has done more for Peterborough than tongue can tell, and still offer to do more. What are we doing, we are kicking, nothing more. We want a circulous route, that's all. I say stop such twaddle.

A LARGE RATEPAYER.

Are We All Made Good Angels When We Die?

We are not inviting a theological discussion by the above query, but have been tempted to the question by the reading of many epitaphs, and the remarks which we have heard made use of by many people on mortals who have died.

It seems to be quite an ordinary thing for men to say when scand so has shuffled off this mortal coil, no matter how wildly he has lived, something to this effect: "Ah, poor fellow, his errors are forgiven, and now he is in Heaven and at rest." What do they know about it? This sort of sanctimoniousness is really suspiciously akin to blasphemy. It would seem that the most that beings with finite minds are entitled to is to hope for the best and not to speak as if we were intimately acquainted with the mind of the Almighty. But it shows that men possess charity. The only trouble is that we do not know how to dispense it to the best advantage. If we would bestow a larger portion of it on our fellows whilst they are alive and less of it on them when they are dead, the chances are that the world would be a considerably brighter one to live in.

DISTURBED MEETING HAD TO PAY FINE

the church. For some time there had been young men in that community who seem to delight in disturbing public meetings, he said. Some people do not appreciate a sermon, or a song or things of that kind. They did not care much how the young people behaved. "When I was a boy my father would have cuffed my ears in two minutes if I attempted to behave in that manner. I respect the boys and I advised them to have respect for themselves and their character. It was not so much because they misbehaved but in a church or at a meeting they should learn to respect themselves and act like gentlemen. In a house of worship they should be even more particular of being gentlemanly in their manner and behaviour." Mr. White felt ashamed that the older men of the district had not acted long ago, and not left it to a young man like Mr. Payne to try to put a stop to actions which, he said, had characterised public meetings for years in that community. Mr. White had prepared the programme himself and it was mostly of a moral and religious tenor.

Rev. Dr. Marvin.

Rev. Dr. Marvin, pastor of the church, was chairman on the occasion of the entertainment. He explained the nature of it, saying that it was more or less religious throughout and was for the benefit of the choir and Sunday School. He described the disturbance as very marked and annoyed everybody in the hall. He could not spot all the young men who were making the noise. Lawrence McCracken talked after he had been spoken to. The annoyance came from three parts of the hall, and was not applause at the end of a number, but was continued while selections were being rendered. He noticed the older people getting restless, and was nervous himself, but endured the noise until Mr. Matthews arose and asked "if nothing could be done to stop this." The boys were given a final warning, and after that there was comparative good attention. The young men were all of respectable families, were bright and intelligent. Dr. Marvin stated that he intended to give the boys another chance, and had not wished to take proceedings on that occasion. Other witnesses were called, but nothing further in the form of evidence was adduced.

WONDERFUL REPRODUCTIONS OF THE WORKS OF THE GREAT MASTERS

MANY IN ATTENDANCE

The assembly hall of the Collegiate Institute was filled with a very large audience last night on the occasion of the lecture given by Fraulein Antoine Stolle on "Old friends and new in the realms of art." It was a most interesting and instructive talk and could not fail to interest the immense gathering of citizens. It must have certainly been very gratifying to Fraulein Stolle, and also to the Women of the Art Association to see such a large representation of people present. Especially must it have been a source of gratification to the latter organization, to know that their efforts in bringing notable lecturers here are appreciated.

Previous to the beginning of the lecture, the Misses Gladman gave a splendidly rendered instrumental duet, and Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, of Boston, who is visiting in the city, gave a most appreciated vocal solo, Miss Helen Davies playinb the accompaniment most acceptably.

Fraulein Stolle is an artist, who received her diploma from the Royal Art Gallery of Berlin and a woman with a charming personality. Her voice is low, sweet and remarkably penetrating, and she speaks with a slight foreign accent. She very cleverly describes and knows well every line and curve, every tint and shade and colour peculiar to the artist whose picture she discloses, dwelling upon the simplicity that characterises her favourite paintings. The slides which were most excellent reproductions of the works of the great masters of the Italian, Spanish, English, French and German schools, were made by the lecturer and to the observer are most pleasing and instructive. They are reproduced in absolute faithfulness of colour, every individuality of the great masters being revealed.

The Theme of Angels from the early Angelicos down to the modern art of Burne-Jones was taken up, then landscape was studied from the Dutch through the French and German, ending with Arnold Boeklin and with a modern Madonna walking in the fields, adored by a little shepherd boy, who presents field flowers to the Christ child. This picture is one by Joseph Sohenrenberg, who in it gives the most modern spirit of religious art.

A vote of thanks was tendered Fraulein Stolle and Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie, of Boston, who very kindly consented to sing, Mr. L. M. Hayes making the motion, which was seconded by Inspector Mowat.

The very interesting lecture was closed with the singing of the national anthem.

FOSTER'S WEATHER BULLETIN

Special to The Examiner.

Note.—Meridian 90 runs north and south through Memphis and Saint Paul. "Pacific slope," all west of Rockies. Latter, a strip 400 miles wide. East of Rockies to north and south line through Atlanta and Pittsburg are "great central valleys." East of that are "eastern states" and "provinces" of Canada. "Southwest" is Texas, Okla., Mo. "Northwest" is middle Canada, Dakota, Winn., Wis. "Extreme northwest" is British Columbia, Alberta, Oregon and Washington.

Washington, D.C., Nov. 27.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent Nov. 30 to Dec. 4, warm wave Nov. 29 to Dec. 3, cool wave Dec. 2 to 6. This disturbance is expected to inaugurate a long period of rising temperatures, unusually warm weather, a lack of snow and very little rain.

Second disturbance of December cross Pacific slope by close of 5, great central valleys 6 to 8, eastern states 9. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about 4, great central valleys 6, eastern states 8. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about 7, great central valleys 9, eastern states 11.

Winter wheat will take on a large growth and farmers will take advantage of the good weather in delivering large quantities of grain to the markets.

These conditions will have a large influence in depressing prices of grain. A large acreage of winter wheat has been sown and the splendid weather of December will give it a large root and top growth. If later weather should be severe this heavy top growth of wheat will protect the roots and seem to indicate a large yield of wheat next year.

Severe winter storms will come during the week centring on 30, and blustering weather not far from 29.

Following from Secretary of a business men's club in this city explains itself:

Brookland, D.C., Nov. 13, 1909.

At a regular meeting of the Brookland Brotherhood, an organization for the religious, intellectual, physical, and social development of the men of Brookland, D.C., held Nov. 9, 1909, Mr. W. T. Foster, the Long Range weather forcaster of Washington, delivered a lecture on the relations of astronomy magnetism and our weather changes.

The interest of the audience was manifested by the twenty minute quiz which followed the address, hearty applause and the unanimous rising vote of thanks extended Mr. Foster as an expression of appreciation for the interest and instruction converged in his remarks.

THANKSGIVING EDITION CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

A copy of the Thanksgiving number of the Christian Science Monitor, Boston, has reached us. It contains eight elaborate sections of twelve pages each, making a total of ninety-six pages, 16 1-2 x 21 inches. Each section is devoted to subjects of especial importance, from a national, industrial and moral standpoint. It is profusely illustrated and the character of the matter is judged from high ideals. It is a remarkable edition in many ways, especially in a newspaper so young in years, and evinces a development of growth perhaps unequalled in the history of modern journalism. As a demonstration of progress and strength, Christian Scientists may well be proud of their Monitor.

DANGEROUS DANDRUFF

Will Make Canada a Baldheaded Nation If Not Checked.

M. Pasteur, the great French Physician of Paris, once said: "I believe we shall one day rid the world of all diseases caused by germs."

Dandruff is caused by germs, a fact accepted by all physicians.

Dandruff is the root of all hair evils. If it were not for the little destructive germs working [illegible] persistency worthy of a [illegible] cause, there would be no baldheads.

Parisian Sage will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in two weeks or money back.

Wm. Madill guarantees it. It will stop itching scalp, falling hair and make the hair grow thick and abundant.

It puts life and lustre into the hair and prevents it from turning gray.

It is the hair dressing par excellence, daintily perfumed and free from grease stickiness. It is the favourite with women of taste and culture, who know the social value of fascinating hair. A large bottle costs only 50 cents at leading druggists everywhere and in Peterborough by Wm. Madill. The girl with the auburn hair is on every package.

BUILDING PERMITS SHOW DECREASE LAST MONTH

According to the Figures Given by "Construction"—Total Here for October Was Less Than for the Same Month Last Year.

"Construction" has the following on the business operations for the month of October:—

Predictions ventured earlier in the season as regards fall building operations, are being fully borne out as the late months materialize. October was another period of activity in which the volume of new work undertaken greatly exceeded that of the corresponding month of last year, and as yet nothing has turned up to indicate otherwise than a continuance of this prosperous condition for some time to come. Two gains are noted to every loss, and the average increase for the month, as based on comparative figures supplied Construction was slightly in excess of 42 per cent.

Calgary again reports the biggest increase for the month, following her phenomenal advance of 369 per cent. in September, in another sweeping gain of 355 per cent. Sydney is second in the list, with 341 per cent. to the good, while Berlin again boba up in the third highest place with a substantial increase of 173 per cent. to her credit.

Of the places to suffer a reversal—two of which are noted in the east, three in Ontario, and two in the West—St. John and London, which experienced a decline of 67 per cent. and 47 per cent. in order named, were hit the hardest. It may be mentioned, however, in the case of London, that the total value for permits issued up to date, is just double the amount expended for new buildings during the entire year of 1908; and also that the outlook there at the present time is anything but discouraging.

Aside from the losses at Edmonton and Regina, which fell behind their last year's figures for the month, to the extent of 15 per cent. and 10 per cent., respectively, the West, in general, more than held its own. Vancouver registered an increase of 15 per cent.; Winnipeg 10 per cent.; and Victoria 5 per cent.; while Lethbridge looms up with $190,270 for new work undertaken, which brings the total value of permits for the year well over the million mark for the first time in her history. In all these places, the immediate prospects are all that could be desired. Winnipeg is displaying an activity in the realty market seldom before witnessed at this time of the year, and, as for Vancouver and Victoria, the present indications are that both of these places are just beginning to grow.

In Ontario, besides the gain in Berlin, other advances recorded were: Toronto 51 per cent.; Fort William, 39 per cent.; and Hamilton 16 per cent. Windsor, which registers an amount of $19,500, can also be included in the list of gains, while as for Port Arthur, which had $271,000 to her credit last month, it might be explained that the small amount ($3,500), is not representative of the new work undertaken at that place, owing to the fact that there are no building regulations outside of fire limits, and hence no means of obtaining a complete record. The two set backs noted in addition to that of London's, mentioned above, are: Peterborough, 43 per cent., and Stratford, 32 per cent. In both cases, however, the corresponding amounts for the month are relatively small, and the losses, therefore, can hardly be regarded as seriously affecting the general situation. Practically all the places mentioned are substantially ahead of 1908 in the season's work, while the amount already recorded in Toronto is greater than any previous yearly total in the history of the city.

Farther east, Montreal again comes forward by noting an increase of 48 per cent. and as yet nothing has occurred to stay her progress. This is the tenth consecutive gain recorded and in this respect, Montreal has perhaps showed the most consistent development throughout the year of any city in the Dominion. Halifax, however, once, more lags behind her former figures, her loss for the month being 25 per cent. It is quite probable, though, that a strong reaction will take place before very long, as the increasing importance of Halifax as a port entry, clearly indicates that the city has not as yet, in any way approached the limit of its growth.

LEFT TEAM STANDING

From Early Morning Until Long After Dinner.

Some farmer left his team of horses standing on Charlotte St. early this morning until late this afternoon. No one knew the whereabouts of the owner of them and finally some person took pity on them, and put them in a stable.

Some others may be good, but without doubt Miller's Compound Iron Pills are the best.—Wm. Medill, druggist.

SHIPPED TURKEYS

Over three thousand dollars was paid to farmers at Indian River and Lakefield on Tuesday by Flavelles Limited for large shipments of turkeys. P. G. Towns had acted as a buyer for the firm and to each station a large number of farmers brought their turkeys, some of which were dressed and the others alive. The shipment from Indian River was the largest in the history of the place. There was not a sufficient supply of crates and a large number were let in the car loose. They were shipped to Lindsay to be shipped for export trade.

Scene from the latest Farce Comedy, "BILLY," which will be presented at "The Grand" next Wednesday, Dec. 1, under the direction of the Shuberts', direct from a long run at Daly's Theatre, New York. Plan opens Monday A. M.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM MR. LASTAR

This letter and any others that may follow, under the signature of Mr. Lastar, are independent of any other party or parties, and are paid for by him for their insertion.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—In following up my letter in your paper some time ago, in regard to my opinion of local option in Peterborough; speakers in favour of local option, have claimed that local option will be necessary here, just as it is in the United States. But what is spreading out all over there? Yes, I will agree with the speaker in the United States, it is a necessity, where here, it might be to a number of the citizens a calamity; or at any rate absolutely of no benefit to any one. I cannot understand how a local man can go so far as to disgrace the citizens of Peterborough, in comparing them to some of the outlaw towns of the other side; where there is necessarily local option. Gentlemen, in towns where you can find 10,000 inhabitants taking the law into their own hands, and killing a human being, as happened only two weeks ago, in Cairo, Ill., to cut off his head, and raise it on a pole, as a show, and to tear out his heart in a hundred pieces and to cut off pieces of his body, and dip them in blood, and keeping them as souvenirs. I am ashamed of the speakers in degrading the inhabitants of this city by comparing us to them. As a citizen of Peterborough, I protest against such insinuations, directly or indirectly. Besides, a town like that should not only have local option, but should be made a prison of the whole place, where 10,000 people join in such a spectacle without a protest. Such acts cannot happen in any town under the British flag, and among British law abiding people. In places like those, local option is necessary, and also to deprive people of intoxicating drinks. In those places are those water waggons, and those filled with water, good. But we are surely too far above them, to compare ourselves with them, or to think of bringing local option in here for the same reason. Surely there are more decent ways to help out the little drunkenness we have here. Why don't those people who are instigating this movement to limit drunkenness, go the same way about it as the T. A. S., or as the Roman Catholic priests have done; or as the Salvation Army have done, by educating by degrees, their fellow men and make another, or join the same T. A. S., and, by using their influence with other men, and bring them to join in a peaceful way. I am sure that every sensible man or woman must agree with me that it will help the people physically, mentally and financially than more than a dozen local options, and by that you would not have to deprive a good many citizens of their means of making an honest living. And now, I would like to ask those local option gentleman or ladies who are trying to induce others, (especially those who are going and telling, and ladies principally) those kind of hoodoo stories, and asking them to use their influence with their husbands, brothers or sons, that they should vote for local option in Peterborough, that they will be able to stop the use of all kinds of liquor in the house of the rich. I say, and if they like it or not, they have to agree with me, "No." Although they are claiming that crimes and misery belongs only to the poorer classes. But if you take and study the statistics of crime, you will find that poverty from drink is in most cases in the poorer classes; but misery and crime you will find in houses who are independent of the open bar, and who have their cellars full of all kinds of liquors. That means by closing the open bar that the rich people will be able to get all kinds of drinks, and more than they want; but will deprive the poor working man, who is working from eight to ten hours a day. In most cases where a man takes a drink of beer just to give him an appetite, that he should be able to work again. Or, in most cases, where a man takes a drink of liquor to make him rest and sleep well, and be fresh for the next day's work. Now would you make me believe, or even do you believe yourselves, (I don't care who you are, preachers, or speakers, or private people) how good your intentions are to save misery and poverty, it is just because there are twenty or fifty men who cannot control themselves in using liquor, and are a nuisance to their neighbours, or if there are a dozen families who are suffering from neglect of their husbands through drink, if by proper way could be limited, and might be avoided altogether should in a city of 17,000 inhabitants, by giving the privilege to a small part of the rich, because they can afford to buy in quantities, and have all kinds of luxuries in drink, and the majority of the working class should be derived of their necessities. Do you believe that such a by-law would be allowed by the majority of the public who are working, and middle class men. I say, under these circumstances, that local option here in Peterborough is unjust, unfair and disgraceful, and not necessary.

B. LASTAR.

P.S.—More reasons why local option should not be carried here, will follow.

WAS PLAINTIFF

Judge Huycke's Case Was Heard by Judge Roger in Cobourg.

Judge Roger in hearing the cases at Cobourg Division Court this week had a case in which Judge Huycke of Peterborough was the plaintiff. The World refers to it as follows.

Huycke vs. Thoms.—This was an action brought by His Honour Judge Huycke against Mrs. E. K. Thoms for $63.20, being the amount of the plaintiff's bill against the defendant for legal services and moneys advanced. On motion for judgment, the plaintiff had recovered an order for judgment for $25 and costs covering the amount of cash advanced, leaving only the solicitor's bill to be contested. As Judge Huycke had appointments in the County of Peterborough that prevented his attending Court, the case was adjourned to be heard in Court on Nov. 24, if not settled in the meantime. It was stated that negotiations for settlement were in progress. Mr. F. M. Field, K.C., for plaintiff; Mr. A. J. Armstrong for defendant.

FOUNDED IN HONOUR

No doubt you have seen in the papers such announcements as this concerning some medicine or other: "If, on trial, you write that this medicine has done you no good we will refund your money." Now, we have never had reason to speak in that way concerning the remedy named in this article. In a trade extending throughout the world, nobody has ever complained that our medicine has failed, or asked for the return of his money. The public never grumbles at honestly and skilfully-made bread, or at a medicine which really and actually does what it was made to do. The foundation of is laid in sincerity and honour, the knowledge of which, on the part of the people, explains its popularity and success. There is nothing to disguise and conceal. It was not dreamed out, or discovered by accident; it is palatable as honey and contains all the curative properties of pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. This remedy is praised by all who have employed it in any of the diseases it is recommended to relieve and cure, and is effective from the first dose. In Anaemia, Scrofula, Nervous and General Debility, Influenza, La Grippe, and Throat and Lung Troubles, it is a specific. It is precisely what it is said to be, and has won the confidence of the public on that basis. You may resort to it with a faith and hope that arise from the history of what it has done for others. Dr. F. Gordon says: "The continued use of it in my practice convinces me that it is the most palatable, least nauseating, and best preparation now on the market." One bottle proves its intrinsic value. Sold by all chemists everywhere, and Warne Drug Co.

CAESAR'S DUE

(Mrs. E. L. Potts.)

In the beauties of creation,
In the fragrance of the flower,
We may realize the presence
Of an all creative power.

In the cooling wind now blowing,
In the sunshine, in the shower,
In the ocean or high mountain,
Can be seen a wondrous power,

All creative, all sustaining
Power which rules by might of word,—
(Choose as pleases each one better)
Call it God, or call it good.

Whatsoever name ascribing,
Give to Caesar, Caesar's due;
Give it freely, nothing sparing,
As would'st thou have done to you.

As the wonders of creation
All proclaim His wondrous power,
So let man, the great God's image,
In His praise o'er all else tower.

THE WRONG DIAGNOSIS.

Prompt the Use of Worthless Remedies.

Even an experienced physician will sometimes make a mistake in diagnosis, in which event his entire treatment is wasted and may even be injurious to the patient.

The advocates of all other hair restoratives save Herpicide have wrongly diagnosed the cause of Dandruff and Falling Hair.

They figure on a functional disease whereas it is now known and generally accepted that hair loss is due to a parasite germ which Newbro's Herpicide destroys.

There is no substitute for Herpicide, accept none.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Spider Superstitions.

In many parts of England it is considered unlucky to kill a spider. An old English couplet tells us that "If you wish to live and thrive let the spider run alive."

Hungry Birds.

Some birds will eat twice their own weight in twenty-four hours.

Washington's Appearance.

Washington stood six feet two inches in his boots and weighed 200 pounds. His hands and feet were unusually large, and his strength was enormous, but his voice was always meek, and his lungs were never in keeping with his otherwise powerful physique. His nose was large, his eyes of a bluish gray, and his hair chestnut brown, his mouth was large, and the lips were, as a rule, tightly compressed.

Oil in Greece.

Greece is a large consumer of edible oil. Her population of about 2,500,000 uses annually 20,000 to 25,000 tons of oil, or eight to ten kilos per capita.

Cedar Wood Oil.

According to German chemists, the largest quantity of cedar wood oil is obtained from the tree known popularly as the Virginia juniper (Juniperus virginiana). The same oil is also obtained from the Oleum ligni cedri, the Cedrus lebani and the Cedrus deodara. The oil is obtained by the distillation of the wood with water.

Brazil.

Brazil is a Portuguese word signifying "a live coal." It was given in allusion to the abundance of red dye-wood found in the forests.

Puzzling Tails.

No naturalist can explain why some varieties of the domestic dog carry their tails curved up over their backs. No wild dogs do this. The fox, the wolf, the Australian dingo and the African wild dog all carry their tails or brushes straight out behind them. Neither have any of these the habit of wagging the tail as domestic dogs do.

Australian Natives.

A Climbing Crab.

In Batavia there is a crab which ascends trees, and Mr. Sluiter, a Dutch naturalist, has observed it climbing a cocoanut palm sixty feet high. The object of its excursions is not very clear, but Mr. Sluiter thinks it was after the young cocoanuts, to open them and eat their contents.

House of Commons Divisions.

When a division is taken in the house of commons a two minute sand-glass is turned to allow members time to enter the house, after which the doors are locked.

Special Notice.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 181 Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

SIRES AND SONS.

Rodney Wanamaker of Philadelphia, John's partner, has bought a Bleriot monoplane.

The youngest master plumber in Massachusetts is said to be George H. Malone of Leominster, who recently secured his license, having passed the examination in practical work with a percentage of 97. He is twenty-two years old.

Ferdinand Schleifer of Nashville lays claim to be the oldest active hunter in Illinois. He is eighty years old. He still has a license, of which he made use during the season, hunting quail and other small game. He strongly belies his years, being hale and hearty.

John Skinner, eighty years old, is thought to be the oldest bell ringer in England. He has rung at all the principal events of the last seventy years at Exeter cathedral, including Queen Victoria's coronation in 1838, her wedding in 1839, both her jubilees and King Edward's birth and coronation.

Louis Nicolovian, ninety-seven years old and for fifty-two years cashier and office manager for a New York firm, has been pensioned. In more than half a century he has been away from the office only fourteen days, and he told his associates that he disliked to see Sunday come because it interrupted his work.

The new dean of the national capitol guides appears in the person of Ben Cady. Guides to the capitol are appointed for life. There are fourteen of them, and they divide the profits of their work. It is up to one of the number to take the earnings of all and divide it. Cady has been a guide for fourteen years.

Things Theatrical.

Charles B. Hanford, a Shakespearean actor, and Marie Drofnah are appearing this season in "The American Lord."

Miss Julia Marlowe was one of the invited guests lately to a suffragette function and so is being hailed as a convert to the cause.

Willis P. Sweetnam has been engaged by Lew Fields and the Shuberts for "Sweet Sixteen," a play with music by Victor Herbert and George V. Hobart.

Elsa Ryan, who has an important part in "The Belle of Brittany," supporting Frank Daniels, is the wife of Ambrose Millen, a well known theatrical manager.

In "The Lottery," the new comedy by Rida Johnson, which the Shuberts produced recently, Jameson Lee Finney is playing the part of a New York newspaper reporter.

Sporting Notes.

Numbering football players is growing in popularity.

Michigan university is giving basketball another trial.

Pittsburg bowlers have taken up the large size duckpin game.

Beloit college has challenged Notre Dame to a wrestling tournament after the holidays.

Roy Mercer, the freshman pole vaulter at the University of Pennsylvania, has a record of 12 feet 1⅛ inches, which is also the eastern scholastic record.

Although Stanford university has dropped rowing, a club called the Lake Lagunita Boat club has been organized among students and has arranged a race with the University of Washington's crew.

College and School.

Simmons college, Boston, boasts it is the only place in the world where women can be trained to plan and to manage lunch rooms.

Miss Helen Donovan, formerly of Rochester, has been elected by the Milwaukee board of education to take charge of the new trade school for girls.

With a brilliant record of fifty years' service in the public schools at Philadelphia, Miss Lydia A. Kirby, director of special schools and sewing, has resigned.

Professor Henry Carter Adams, statistician for the interstate commerce commission, is in charge of a new department at the University of Michigan, where students may have a four year course in railway administration.

The Cookbook.

Never serve sausage at breakfast without its ideal accompaniment of fried tart apples.

An experienced pie maker says she never has any "run over" pies if she adds the sugar before the fruit is piled into them.

If you overboil potatoes you can drain off the water and dry them out over the fire. Afterward they can be mashed and beaten in the usual way.

Put stale crackers into a pail, throw over them a handful of salt and brown. Shake off the salt and the crackers will have a delicious taste as good as when new.

Facts From France.

France has an aeronautical club for women.

In France people can insure against balloons.

Of 110 tons of sausage offered for sale at a recent fair in Paris, nine tons were made of horse meat and seventeen of mule or donkey flesh.

In Paris there has been formed "the association commemorative of the great forgotten ones." It is announced that shortly a statue will be erected to the inventor of the corkscrew.

Following Fashion.

The millionaire's wife had demanded divorce.

"Oh, well," she explained, "it's the usual course."

NO KIDNEY TROUBLE OR BLADDER MISERY

Just a Few Doses Will Overcome Any Kidney Disorder and End Backache

The most effective and harmless way to cure backache and regulate disordered kidneys, or end bladder trouble, is to take several doses of Pape's Diuretic.

You will distinctly feel that your kidneys and urinary organs are being cleaned, healed and vitalized, and all the miserable symptoms, such as backache, headache, nervousness, rheumatism and darting pains, inflamed or swollen eyelids, irritability, sleeplessness, or suppressed, painful or frequent urination (especially at night) and other distress, leaving after taking the first few doses.

The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary disorder, or rheumatism, begin taking this harmless preparation as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure as a fifty-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker, or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape, of Cincinnati, is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Don't be miserable or worried another moment with a lame back or clogged, inactive kidneys or bladder misery. All this goes after you start taking Pape's Diuretic, and in a few days you feel and know that your Kidneys, liver and urinary system are healthy, clean and normal, and all danger passed.

Accept only Pape's Diuretic—fifty-cent treatment—from any drug store—any where in the world.

The Call of the Wild.

Twenty thousand pairs of arms that beat the frantic air.
Twenty thousand pairs of eyes that gleam with gloat or glare.
Twenty thousand voices with that scream and yell and swear—
Football, that's all.

Strength Misplaced.

"There are some strong features mentioned in Mrs. Fakir's boarding house advertisement."

"Then I'll bet she put in the coffee and left out the butter."—Baltimore American.

Plant That Colors Butter.

Investigations by the department of agriculture have shown that every section of the United States demands for its market a particular shade of butter. The shade varies from light yellow to a decided reddish hue. But the coloring substance is always the same, more or less of it being used according to the shade desired. It is called "annotto" and is derived from the seeds of a pretty shrub that grows in Mexico.

Chinese Astronomers.

The Chinese have astronomical records which go back to 2356 B. C.

Bank of England Notes.

A Bank of England note is not of the same thickness all through. The paper is thicker in the left hand corner, to enable it to retain a keener impression of the vignette there, and it is also considerably thicker in the dark shadows of the center letters and beneath the figures at the ends.

Morocco.

In the absence of any form of census the population of Morocco is estimated as between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000. The great majority reside in the interior.

World's Highest Garden.

The highest garden in the world is that situated at a height of 4,000 feet on the Petit St. Bernard, in the Alps. It was started on a small scale a number of years ago, and under the patronage of Queen Margherita it has grown to a garden of considerable importance. There are mountain plants from all over the world.

British Prime Ministers.

The longest term a British prime minister has held office during the last two centuries is 20 years, 326 days (Robert Walpole); the shortest, two days (the Earl of Bath).

Uses For Old Parchments.

Good prices are paid for old parchments of all descriptions. Certain dealers have a process for removing the ink, and eventually the cleaned stuff comes back to us as the finest French kid gloves. The clippings left when the gloves are made are not wasted. Mixed with vellum and leather they are boiled down for size. The coarse shavings, with odds and ends of seal and other skins, come in handy for filling cheap tennis balls.

Rats' Teeth.

The outer edge of the incisor teeth of rats is covered with a layer of enamel as hard as flint, while the under side is much softer, consequently the layers of enamel on the under side wear away much faster than those on the upper surface, and a keen cutting edge is always presented.

The KITCHEN CABINET

"Have you a lobster?" asked the Prof.
The student scratched his head.
"Well, it must be in the backyard;
For I've not seen it
And surely am sorry indeed."

"You're right—it ain't but just three things
The tenderloin multiplied.
"A lobster backward does not walk
'Tis not a fish—nor red.

"It is crustacean, and its limbs
Are well articulated.
And when you say it's red, my son,
You have anticipated.

"It walks, too, sometimes with me," he added. "Beg your pardon, sir, Compliments are odious."

Mildew.

Mildew is alive! This very fact makes the problem more difficult, while it renders it more interesting. To take out stains of mildew seems a commonplace process until we realize that patches of mildew are communities of tiny living organisms whose multiplication and growth account for the so-called "stain."

This fact, however, makes it easier to understand why mildew is often eradicated merely by exposure to the air and sun. Unless process which is aided by boiling, or, in stubborn cases, they may be removed by a solution of chloride of lime. This must, though, be well rinsed as the lime will rot the material.

Mildew will sometimes yield to ammonia, the quality and color of the material determining the strength of the solution.

Among the other kinds of troublesome stains, are grease spots which are usually easily removed by pressing with a hot iron, having a piece of blotting paper between the goods and the iron. This will absorb the grease. In valuable silk or woolen materials, a few drops of ether or eau de cologne will usually remove the grease.

For paint spots, use turpentine.

For ink, use milk.

For paint on glass, hot vinegar is good.

Tea stains may be effectively done away with by the use of glycerine, and all fruit stains may be taken from linen by pouring boiling water over them at once.

Rust spots on steel will yield to olive oil, well rubbed in; two days later, apply unslaked lime, finely powdered.

MR. GOSLINGTON IS SENSITIVE.

Can Stand a Man's Snubs, But Hates to Be Ignored by a Woman.

"I don't suppose I ought to be so sensitive," said Mr. Goslington, "but it seems to be the way I'm built. I can stand being snubbed by a man, but it hurts my feelings to be ignored by a woman.

"This morning coming in at a door through which from within I was about to go out was a woman. When I saw her coming I of course opened the door for her as politely as I could and stood back to let her pass.

"Did she as she passed through thank me or graciously incline her head to me or by any token acknowledge my deference to her? By not so much as the bat of an eye or the quiver of an eyelash; she simply ignored me; she passed me by as if I had been the knob on the door instead of the man holding the door open for her.

"Do you know that hurt me. Hurt my feelings sorter. I don't suppose I ought to be so sensitive, but I seem to be built that way."

Carrier Pigeons for Country Doctors.

Provincial medical men have made and are making considerable use of pigeons in connection with their practice. They will take with them a basket of pigeons in their motor cars.

After visiting the patients the necessary prescription is written out and forwarded home by pigeon post; the dispenser at once makes up the prescription and practically before the physician has finished his rounds and long before he has reached home again the boy in buttons starts off to deliver the bottles of medicine in his bicycle car. In many provincial districts it is of course useless to write out prescriptions, to be sent to the local chemist, for the nearest is often some miles away.—London Tit-Bits.

Ordered to Muzzle Rooster.

In Mount Vernon, one of the suburbs north of New York a man was arrested the other day because his rooster had disturbed his neighbors by crowing at the break of day. Although there is no ordinance in the village which prohibits the keeping of chickens on a man's premises, the owner of the aforesaid rooster was found guilty of maintaining a nuisance and warned to keep his rooster from crowing early in the morning like other roosters in this sensitive neighborhoods. Now the amateur chicken raiser has the choice between muzzling his rooster or exchanging him for one of a "crowless" brand.

Juvenile Astronomy.

On her third birthday little Elizabeth was allowed as a special concession, to postpone going to bed until eight o'clock. As she stood at her bedroom window she saw for the first time in her life the full moon in all its silvery glory.

"Oh, Lucy," she cried to her nurse, "come quickly! There's a big hole in the sky and you can see right through to heaven."

DAN'S SECOND WIFE

"MAN," said Louise, as they rose from the pretty table where the wedding silver shone with undimmed luster, "I've been thinking that if anything were to happen to me I'd really prefer to have you marry again."

Dan glanced toward his wife, but perceived no symptoms of an early demise.

"Should you?" he said, as he settled himself in his easy chair and reached for the evening paper.

"Yes," said Louise, "I really should. I've heard of women who were actually jealous of an imaginary successor, but I should never feel that way. I want you to do whatever was best for your happiness, Dan."

"Well," said Dan, "you might pick out a girl and have her ready—sort of an understudy, you know."

Louise smiled. diplomatic. "And teach her your likes and dislikes, so that she need not spend a whole afternoon making a dessert only to be told, at dinner time that you hated anything with gelatine in it," she said.

"I thought I'd been forgiven for that," said Dan, a trifle stiffly.

"Oh, it's all right," went on Louise, hastily. "Now, the kind of girl I'd choose for you, Dan, would be one like Clara Barker—not her, of course, but that kind. She's so intellectual. Her last paper at the club was simply grand. It was about a man named Masterlinck. She told me that she had simply lived on his books for weeks beforehand and that she didn't dare let herself read a newspaper or go to a comic opera all the time she was writing her study of him, for fear of getting out of the spirit of the thing. A girl like that would be a real companion for a man."

"It would be bad enough," said Dan, "to live with a woman who wears No. 7 shoes and looks as if she never combed her hair, but Masterlinck every morning for breakfast certainly would be the limit."

Louise settled an amber comb more firmly in her neat blonde locks and glanced complacently at a dainty kid pump which was just visible below her skirt.

"She's the best real girl in town," insisted Dan's wife. "I always feel like a little goose when I'm with her."

One might almost have inferred from Dan's smile that little geese were, to him, the most charming inmates of the aviary.

"Grace summons me a good girl," continued Louise. "She never touches candy in Lent and—"

"She'd drive a man to drink," declared Dan, "and as for looks—"

"Well, I think you are very hard to suit," said Louise. "How would Laura Faxon do? She's fine looking."

A happy sparkle appeared in Dan's wife's blue eyes as Dan shook his head with emphasis. She settled her small figure in her chair with an impulsive motion.

"Don't you really admire the tall, dark, calm kind, Dan?"

"I don't admire Laura Faxon, thank you. But since you speak of it I'll tell you a girl I do rather admire, and that's Ruth Hall. There's something about her—"

"Oh, so you've already picked out one for yourself?"

"Don't be silly, Louise. I didn't begin this conversation. I only said—"

"I've noticed that you liked to talk to her, but I never dreamed—"

A sob choked her.

Dan, wise beyond his years and experience, threw his paper on the floor and, resolved to do the thing handsomely.

"If I were going to pick out some one to take your place it would be better to do it now," he said, with an expression of deep gloom.

Louise removed her handkerchief from her face.

"Why?"

"Well, an important choice like that ought not to be made by a man bereft of his senses."

The corners of Louise's mouth began to curve upward.

"What do you mean, Dan?"

"I mean that if I were to lose you I should never again be capable of acting rationally. I should lose my judgment, my reason, my—"

"Don't you think it is rather silly, Dan, dear, for us to discuss such a subject at all?" asked Louise, with a dimple in each cheek.

"Quite unnecessary," agreed Dan, with a sigh of relief.

Louise meditated in silence until her husband had finished the sporting page. Then she said with an air of finality:

"Ruth Hall is a girl I've always distrusted. There's something about her—probably a man wouldn't notice—but depend upon it, dear, a woman knows."—Chicago Daily News.

NEW YORK'S OPINION OF "BILLY"

A SHOW THAT WINS THE SOLID APPROVAL OF THE CRITICAL NEW YORK DAILIES MUST BE AN EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD ONE, "BILLY" DID:—

EVENING SUN—Can be heartily recommended. If anyone can see it without laughing until his sides ache—well, he ought to see a doctor.
HERALD—"Audience began to laugh after fifteen minutes and continued until the final scene."
SUN—"Every promise of proving prosperous."
TIMES—"Very funny. A capital farce."
TELEGRAM—"Billy" is bully. Like a "comfy little dinner."
GLOBE—Fine entertainment for those who go to the theatre to be amused
TRIBUNE—"Frolicsome farce, merrily acted. Destined to be a success."
COMMERCIAL—"Filled with comic situations and funny speeches destined to create a laugh."
TELEGRAPH—"Literally bit its way into humoriand."
AMERICAN—"A laugh in every line. Audience liked it immensely."
MAIL—"Cleverly written and acted. Scenes unique."
WORLD—"Altogether it is worth while. Produced many a hearty laugh."

"BILLY" is due to arrive at the "GRAND" on WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 1st.

The Route Of The Temperance Parade To-morrow Afternoon

The Sabbath School procession will start from two points to-morrow afternoon, namely, from George Street Church in the North and St. James' Church in the South.

Grace school and Auburn School will arrive at the George Street Church at 2.30. Then forming up at George Street Church the procession will proceed at 2.45 to Water Street to meet with St. Paul's School. The route then will be down Murray Street to George street where St. Mark's Bethany Tabernacle and Gospel Hall Schools will join the procession at 2.55. Then proceeding down Murray Street, the Murray Street Baptist Schol will fall in line. The procession wil turn South on Aylmer and at Brock street will be met by St. Andrew's School at 3.05. This large procession will proceed down Aylmer and will be enlarged by the Salvation Army on its way to Charlotte Street, where the large procession is due at 3.15.

The South procession begins at 2.40 from St. James Church, going direct to Park Street Baptist Church where it is due at 2.50. Then the procession proceeds to Kno xChurch by 3.00 and to Charlotte Street via Reid Street my 3.10. Here Charlotte Ctreet School falls in and the two sections meet at corner of Charlotte and Aylmer at 3.15.

Then the whole procession goes down Charlotte street headed by the Northern section, to George street, to the Opera House.

On arriving at the Opera House the men who are leading the procession form up and allow the children and ladies to pass into the Opera House first, where they take seats on the ground floor as each school comes up the men will step aside and allow the children and ladies to pass in. When the ladies and children have all passed in the men will counter march and will occupy the first gallary.

A Panhandler's Luck
Troubles of the Hungry Hobo

A business man left his office the other night in a hurry.

As he stepped off the walk he felt a caressing hand upon his arm and turned to see a dilapidated specimen of humanity who looked like a man who had not eaten in a month.

It was a touch, all right, and for once in his life the business man was not going to be taken in.

"What do you want the money for?" he asked, trying to look like Sherlock Holmes.

"To get a little something to eat, sure, boss," said the man.

"Sure you are hungry?"

"Hain't had a thing to eat all day."

They were near a certain dairy lunch, and a bright idea struck the business man.

"Come on, then," he said. "I'll stand for a feed, but you don't get any of my money for a drink. Not me. I'm wise to you and your kind."

And he led Mr. Specimen into the lunch room.

"Give him all he can eat for this," he exclaimed, throwing down half a dollar. "But make him eat it. If there is any change, keep it for me."

"I don't want the change," he said to himself when he was outside. "They can keep that for profit and loss. But those fellows don't work me again."

He dashed for a car and was gone.

Inside the specimen selected a good feed. He had heard the orders, and decided there would be no change. And he was hungry. He disposed of the lunch quickly and left looking better.

Ten minutes later, in front of the same lunch room, a man was stopped by a dilapidated looking specimen of humanity, a man who looked like he had had nothing to eat for a week.

The specimen make the usual touch. "Could you give a man a dime, mister?" he said. "I been walking the streets since morning. No, I don't want it for a drink."

"I'll give you something to eat," said the victim, "I'll stand for that. But no money, see."

"I want to git a bed," whined the specimen, beginning to edge away from the door of the lunch room.

"Bed, nothing," said the man. "I'll give you an order for a bed at the mission when you get something to eat."

He took hold of the specimen in a kindly manner and led him into the lunch room.

"Give this fellow all he can eat," he said to the man at the counter, throwing down half a dollar. "And when he is through give him this."

He threw down his card, with "give this man a place to sleep," written on it, and an address.

"Mind you," he said, "keep the change. I am not buying this man anything but what he needs."

As he went out the man at the counter looked at the specimen.

"Well, Jack," he said, "what'll you have this time?"

The specimen looked at the pile of good things on the counter and sighed.

"Give me a piece of pie and a cup of coffee," he said.

Then he sighed again. He had heard the orders about the change.

When he emerged from the lunch room he looked like he had been attending a Waldorf Asteria banquet.

Five minutes later he touched another.

"I've got an order for a bed, old pardner," he said, "and I want to get a bite to eat. Could you give a dime?"

"You are hungry?" said the victim. "Well, that's too bad. But come on in here. We'll get you something."

The specimen avoided the lunch room as though it were a pestilence.

"Just gimme the dime, old pardner," he said. "I know a place around the corner where they give a man a square meal for that."

"I'll give you no dime," said the victim. "I'll take you right in here. I buy no drinks, see?"

And the specimen was led to the slaughter meek as a lamb. When you touch a man on the street and complain of feeling hungry, you have to go through with it. At least, this hobo tried it.

"Here," said the victim, inside. "I want you to give this man what he wants to eat. Speak up there, now, what if you never don't be hungry with yourself."

The specimen remarked feebly that he would take a piece of pie and a cup of coffee.

"My digestion's gone back on me," he said. "I can't eat much."

"Pie, nothing," said the victim. "I know what's good for you. Give him meat. That's what. Meat'll keep him warm."

And meat it was. This victim had a forceful way about him.

For 20 minutes he sat near that specimen and watched him stow away the hot meat pie. Then he left, and the specimen walked up to the counter.

"Say, old pardner," he whispered to the man there. "If any d—— fool brings me in here again to-night, refuse to serve me. See? Refuse to let me eat in the place!"

Outside, he walked away from the lunch room, avoiding every man who looked sympathetic until he had left it a block behind. Then, when there were no lunch signs in sight, he made a touch.

"Say, old pardner," he said, "I hain't had a drink for a week. Could you stake me to a dime?"

"Sure, old scout," said the man addressed. "It'll keep you warm."

RUGBY

A Bad Year for the Tigers.

The Philadelphia Inquirer, in a recent issue, remarks: "Looking at it from all sides, it has been a bad year for the Tigers. First, Detroit via Pittsburg; then Princeton by the Lafayette route, and now the Tammany mascot. Are there any more tails to twist?" How about the tail twisting that took place last Saturday on the north side of the Rosedale Ravine at Toronto?

LINDSAY MAY HAVE TEAM IN O. H. A.

Lindsay Post: The Post has been informed that there is a movement on foot among local hockey enthusiasts to have a team placed in the O.H.A. this winter. It is felt that there is sufficient material in town for an intermediate team, and it is understood a meeting will be held at an early date to discuss the situation. Those behind the proposition claim they have assurances from the majority of last year's septette that they will stand by the town should a team be formed. Lindsay certainly cannot afford to be without a team, and it is hoped no time will be lost in calling a meeting and deciding on some plan of action.

The KITCHEN CABINET

POT LUCK.

NEIGHBOR used to say to me:
"Come, take 'pot luck,' Mirandy,
I shan't make company of you;
I'll serve up just what's handy."
And so she'd give me anything—
A driblet and a snippet,
Stale cake, left-overs, tea so weak,
It warn't worth while to sip it!

Now, I'm not very much on style,
And please don't think me hateful,
I know, when we're asked out to meals,
We should always be grateful.
And yet I think, once in a while,
We should not grudge the labor
Of taking just a bit of pains
To nicely serve our neighbor.

We feed ourselves and family
Year out and season in;
"For extra guests, this extra pains,"
Is solid reasoning.
It is a simple way to prove
Our interest, you see,
And so, when I'm invited out.
Please—no "pot luck" for me!

Care of Utensils.

Nowadays the cooking utensils are work of art, as one enthusiastic woman said. They are, certainly, not the unsightly things of years ago, and a kitchen may be made to wear a most attractive look with slight expense. But the drawback to these new earthenware pots and pans is that they need extra care to make them last. To do this, however, requires less "elbow-grease" than formerly; only forethought and attention to a few rules.

The earthenware fireproof vessel is the ideal thing in which to cook vegetables, as they retain their color better than if cooked in tin or ordinary granite. They should not be put on a fierce fire and of course, they should never be allowed to be empty of water. They should not be dropped, nor brought in contact with a rough metal any more than if they were china, and when first used they should be put on with cold water over a slow fire, and "tempered." Granted these precautions, the high grades of fireproof kitchen ware should not prove expensive.

They should be put on with cold water and brought to a boil. This tempers them and granted a few precautions, the better grades of kitchen stuff are not extravagant luxuries. Anything which beautifies the kitchen and lightens labor is worth a slight economy in other directions.

Olive Barton Hostess

Spanish Executioner's Remorse.

A curious story comes from Seville On Sunday night the local executioner died, his death being due to remorse. For several years he had not carried out any executions, but recently he was summoned to Cordova to inflict the final penalty on some criminals.

The impression made upon him was so painful that he was unable to face the ordeal when summoned to execute the last criminal condemned in Seville and the sentence will have to be carried out by the Madrid executioner.

Cheerfulness and Mirth.

"I have always preferred cheerfulness to mirth. The latter I consider as an act, the former as a habit of the mind. Mirth is short and transient, cheerfulness fixed and permanent. Those are often raised into the greatest transports of mirth who are subject to the greatest depressions of melancholy. On the contrary, cheerfulness, though it does not give the mind such exquisite gladness, prevents us from falling into any depths of sorrow Mirth is like a flash of lightning that breaks through a gloom of clouds and glitters for a moment; cheerfulness keeps up a kind of daylight in the mind and fills it with a steady and perpetual serenity."—Joseph Addison.

Where Friendship Ceased.

"Never heard what broke up their friendship? Dear me! I thought every one had heard that. Brown is engaged, you know."

"Oh! yes. I've heard that. Was White in love with the same girl?"

"No, no. Not at all. But White saw her portrait in Brown's room and asked whose it was.

"'It's a picture of my fiancee,' said Brown.

"White examined it critically and then put it down, with the remark that she must be very rich. I don't know what happened after that, but White was taken home in a cab, and neither of them was seen out of doors for a week."

Of Two Evils, the Lesser.

There are other destructive forces in nature, and even earthquakes have rivals. This happened at the time of the trembler at Charleston, South Carolina, several years ago. A resident of the shaken city, while he felt that his duties required him to remain there to do what he might for the sufferers, sent his six-year-old son out of the danger and confusion to the youngster's grandfather in New York. Three days after the boy's arrival the Charleston man received this telegram from his father: "Send us your earthquake and take back your boy."

NEW JEWELERY
AT THE Lowest Prices!

No matter what the prices of our opposition are we can give you a little lower price.

Since the fire we have disposed of all the old Stock, renovated the store and procured the very newest lines of Jewellery, Cut Glass, etc., on the market.

Everything new from the very heart of the largest Jewellery centre in America. Mr. Milburn went to New York and bought direct from the manufacturer.

Having no old stock to dispose of we cannot run a sale, but buying direct we can give you prices far below even sale prices.

Take for instance our Crystal Pure, full size Cut Glass Bowl for - $2.45
Or a Bon-Bon Dish for - - 98c
Something Swell in a Handled Olive Dish for - $1.38

This is a lower price than any other Jeweller can buy it for in Peterborough.

Just Another Hint

We lead in all engraved jewellery.

Even our opposition will not dispute the fact that we can give you the best engraving of any jeweller in the city.

If you want anything in cuff links, tie pins, signet rings, or lockets, why take poor engraving when you can get the best free of charge. As for the prices of the goods, they are just a little lower than our competitors, and you take no chances of having old stock forced on you by

OTTAWA DECIDED AT LAST MOMENT

Ottawa, Nov. 26.—(Special)—The Ottawa Football Club came within an ace to-night of not sending its team to Toronto for to-morrow's game against Varsity. The trouble was caused through the appointment of Dr. Hendry as referee, the Ottawas holding a meeting immediately on receipt of word from President McKeand of C. B. F. U., and decided not to go on the field under him.

Some of the executive officers were bitterly opposed to going to Toronto at all, and Tom Clancy was instructed to inform McKeand of the circumstances. This, he did, but McKeand announced that his decision was final. To-night another effort was made to get in touch with McKeand. This was not successful, and at 9 o'clock, after the streets were lined with people waiting for the procession, the Ottawas decided to go. They left at 10 o'clock, and President Nagle said positively that they would not start for the Rosedale grounds until they were notified that Hendry would not referee. The Ottawas have no personal objection to Hendry, but maintain that he should not have been appointed because of the fact that he is a former Toronto University student. Trouble may be expected when the team reaches Toronto.

Another hitch in the Ottawa programme occurred when a telegram was received from Secretary McCarthy of the Toronto University Athletic Association stating that owing to the threats of the students the police had issued orders that the Ottawa Bugle Band was not to be allowed on the field. A roar of indignation went up when this word was received, and the buglers who were at the O. A. A. C. were told that the trip was off. The Executive reconsidered, however, and the buglars went along. It was also intimated that they would not be allowed to play on the streets of Toronto, but they assert that they are within their rights in playing anywhere so long as they are in uniform, and will challenge molestation from any of the Varsity students.

The Ottawa team is in great fettle. Feeling is running high over the appointment of Hendry as referee. The Ottawas are now favourites at 3 to 2. All the team were in favour of going to Toronto to play under any old official.

There was trouble this morning resulting in a strike of several players over the matter of tickets. The men have many friends for whom they wished to buy seats for the game in Toronto, but the executive of the club gobbled up most of the available supply, and doled them out to those with pull enough to secure them. The players were at first refused, but, on Williams, Phillips, and a few others threatening to jump the team the seats were forthcoming and harmony restored.

Thousands were at the station to give the champion Ottawas a great send-off to-night, the departure of the team being one of the most memorable events in local sporting circles for years. The team and a couple of thousand supporters paraded the main streets of the Capital on their way to the depot, the route being one continuous uproar. The 43rd Brass and Bugle Bands accompanied the team to the station, and both musical organizations will be on hand at Rosedale for the big game.

Fifteen Pullmans comprised the special train leaving an hour later, carrying a heavy load also. Coach Tom Clancy is confident of the ability of his proteges to land the Canadian honours, stating that his team was in the very best of shape.

PRICES AND PRICES!

All the jewellers are bound they shall cut jewellery prices just a little lower than the other fellow. So far Mr. Oliver Milburn of 348 George St., seems to hold first position in the race for low prices. This is the same jeweller who sold the alarm clocks at 25c. each. Now he has his window full of cut glass, and the prices marked are so low as to make you wonder if it is really glass.

When questioned by an Examiner reporter as to its genuineness Mr. Milburn proved to him that it was the best of American glassware, also that the cutting was beautiful.

Mr. Milburn's explanation of the lowness of price was the simple fact of his having bought it direct from the manufacturer when on his last buying trip to New York, thus saving the middleman's profit.

He showed the reporter a number of other lines of jewellery at marvellously low prices that should take well with the Christmas shoppers.

BROTHERHOOD HELD SPLENDID CONCERT

At the Charlotte Street Methodist Church Last Evening.

The Brotherhood of the Charlotte of new music for the Brotherhood Orcert in the school room last evening. A large number was in attendance and judging from the applause everyone thoroughly enjoyed the programme presented. It was well arranged and the numbers were all excellent. The receipts were for the purchase of ne wmusic for the Brotherhood Orchestra.

DO JUST WHAT IS CLAIMED FOR THEM

That's What Joseph Macklin Says of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

They Cured His Neuralgia, Cramped Muscles and Heart Disease From Which He Had Suffered for Two Years.

St. Paul, de Metis, Alta, Nov. 26.—(Special).—Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for me all that is claimed for them." So says Joseph Macklin, a well known farmer of this district. "I was ill for over six years with Neuralgia, Cramps in my muscles, Backache and Heart Disease. I called on different doctors but got no help. I heard that Dodd's Kidney Pills were meant for just such cases as mine, and bought eight boxes of them. Now I feel just like a new man. I recommend them to all as a sure cure for Rheumatism and all troubles arising from diseased Kidneys."

Thousands of farmers all over the west relate similar experiences to that given by Mr. Macklin. They find that Dodd's Kidney Pills do just what is claimed for them—cure all diseased Kidneys and all diseases arising from diseased Kidneys.

LITERARY SOCIETY HAD A VERY ENJOYABLE EVENING

Delightful Programme Given by St. Peter's Ladies Last Night—Many in Attendance.

GREAT INTEREST TAKEN

Those who were fortunate enough to be present at the Ladies' Literary at St. Peter's T.A.S. rooms last evening Friday, Nov. 26 enjoyed a literary treat of exceptional merit, in listening to the reading of Miss O'Connell's ably written paper, entitled, "The River St. Lawrence, its Science and Historic Environments."

As Canadians, we should know our own country first and best, and as Canada, especially old Canada, is inseparable from the St. Lawrence in thought, I shall in this essay, try to deal with one phase of this majestic river it's scenic and hihstoric environments.

This lordly river of Canada reaches to its very heart and connects the world's greatest chain of lakes with the Atlantic Ocean, thus forming one of the grandest systems of inland navigation in the world. It extends from the head waters of Lake Superior to Gaspe, a distance of 2,109 miles and with the exception of a few hours during which no land is visible, the traveller luxuriates in magnificent river and coastal scenery all steeped in historic and romantic associations.

Commencing our trip at Kingston, we pass through the Thousand Islands perfect bowers of beauty, past the spires of scenic Brockville, the old stone windmill of Prescott and as the last glimpse of this pretty town fades in the distance we pass the first vexed waters of the river, the Galops Rapids. These are only a foretaste of what is to come; the Long Sault, Coteau Rapids, about two miles long and very beautiful, Cedar Rapids, Hell's Hole, the Cascades and the Lachine Rapids to Montreal. Forty-five miles from Montreal the Richelieu flows into the St. Lawrence. Continuing our voyage, we pass Three Rivers and now the banks begin to show a bold, picturesque appearance as we near Quebec, the grand gateway of the St. Lawrence. The lofty fortress looms up before us. The historical battlefield which saw the most momentous struggle in the early history of North America claims our attention. Let us stop here for a while in Old Quebec. Of all the cities on the continent the quaintest. It is a mighty rock, graded and scraped and made to hold houses and castles, which by a proper natural law ought to slide off its back. But still they stick. Here is a small mediaeval Europe perched upon a rock and dred for keeping. A curiosity that has no equal of its kind on this side of the ocean. Here is the place where the refined luxury of Old France first came in touch with the barbaric wilderness of the new.

Seven miles above Quebec sings Montmorency's cataract, ruggedly beautiful. Nestling at the foot of Mount St. Anne lies the celebrated shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre. The story of this wonderful shrine, built in honour of St. Anne is too well known to require mention here.

The next point of interest is Grosse Isle, the scene of the untold sufferings and martyr-like deaths of nearly 6,000 Irish immigrants who, forced to leave their Mother land, perished in Black '47.

Our journey onward from Grosse Isle is most delightful, the scenery beautiful beyond description. The mountainous capes and bold banks of the St. Lawrence are covered with pine and spruce and cedar charming the eye with every hue and blend of green and impregnating the salt air with their wholesome fragrance.

The point where
Saguenay's dark waters roll
To swell St. Lawrence's tide."

Is soon reached. Here is the old village of Tadousac. This is the most historic in Canada. It was here, in this small corner of the earth, that the French founded their first establishment on Canadian soil. From this centre went forth the first Jesuit Missionary Fathers, whose task it was to convert and civilise the region of the Saguenay and the mysterious north. Historians are not agreed as to where the first mass was celebrated in Canada, but tradition says it was on the spot where now stands the old Mission Church of Tadousac. The history of the old Mission church covers three centuries.

As our steamer proceeds, great ocean liners are met from time to time as this is one of the world's great highways of commerce. At Father Point this noble stream is twenty-five miles wide.

Away to our left is the dim outline of Anticosti Island and on the right the wonderful coast of Gaspe stretches, marked by sublime scenery, lofty cliffs alternating with beautiful bays, and high above all the serrated peaks of the Perce mountains. Calls are made at quaint old-world, little French fishing hamlets each with its beautiful Catholic church standing out in contrast to the small white houses. Here is the most striking and impressive sight of the whole voyage—the famous Perce rock. About it clusters many fascinating legends. The Gaspe coast recalls reminiscenses of Jacques Carter's visit in 1536, when he planted the cross, the emblem of our faith on the lonely coast of the Gaspe Peninsula.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT TO ONE OF THE WITNESSES IN THE GUTHRIE CASE

Miss Montgomery Still Unable to Attend the Inquiry—Physicians Say It Is Most Unusual Case.

THE FIRE INQUEST

Barrie, Ont., Nov. 26.—The continued absence of one witness, Herbert McDougall and a serious injury sustained by another, Miss Jessie Montgomery, resulted in a further adjournment of the fire inquest here this morning, after the taking of some evidence which threw additional light on the two simultaneous outbreaks, which damaged the residence of Samuel J. Guthrie, and destroyed the Music Hall block, in which Guthrie's moving picture theatre was located. When Jessie Montgomery swooned in the witness box under the strain of examination at Monday's session of the inquest, she struck the back of her head on the edge of the stand. The blow threw her head forward and caused the fracture of the hyoid, a horseshoe-shaped bone in the throat which partly encircles the windpipe and to which the muscles of the tongue are attached. The injury is one of the rarest known to surgical science, and many surgeons have practised a lifetime without seeing a case. It is also, owing to its nature, a dangerous injury. According to the evidence of Dr. Lewis, given at this morning's session, Miss Montgomery will not be in a condition to continue her evidence for at least two or three weeks as any movement of the vocal chords prevents the fractured bone from reuniting.

Mrs. Samuel J. Guthrie, arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of perjury, arising out of her evidence at previous sessions of the inquest, was in the court-room this morning with her husband. Her daughter, Clara, who was also arrested yesterday, was not present, as she had not been bound over to reappear as a witness.

OBITUARY

ELIZA DUMBLE.

The late Mrs. John Hayden, who died on Monday last, Nov. 22, was a daughter of the late Thomas Dumble, Senior, for many years a much respected resident of Cobourg. She was born on the 29th of May, 1833, at Banbridge, County Down, Ireland, where her father was at that time engaged in a survey at the direction of the Government. He came in 1849 to Canada and took up his residence in Cobourg. Of her father's family there yet survive, Mr. D. W. Dumble, barrister, of Peterborough; Mr. Albert Dumble, of New Smyrna, Florida, U.S., Mrs. Munson, widow of the late Alfred Munson of Cobourg; and Mrs. Bain, widow of the late Prof. A. R. Bain of Victoria College, Toronto.

In the year 1854 Eliza Dumble became the wife of Mr. John Hayden, and she was a true helpmeet to him, till death did them part, some five years ago. Of her children there survive Mr. John D. Hayden of Roseneath, Ont.; and Mrs. Reynar, wife of Rev. Professor Reynar of Victoria College.

Mrs. Hayden's last illness was not of long duration, and there was no fear of a fatal issue until a few days before her death. But for some time past, and even when in her usual health and good spirits, she did not forget that "the days of our years are three score years and ten" a limit which she had already passed by more than six years. Moreover, by an intuition, more frequent perhaps with good women than with men, she seemed to know that the time of her departure was at hand but there was no dread of the change. She referred to it from time to time as a thing to be welcomed, rather than dreaded, and she began to set her house in order in all cheerfulness, before her journey to that far Country from whose bourne no traveller returns.—Cobourg World.

NO LONGER TORTURED

A Sergt.-Wheeler in R.C.A. Finds Cure From Agonizing Skin Disease.

Sergt. Wheeler Thos. P. Bennett, R.C.A., who lives at 706 Albert St., Ottawa, describes the relief which he got from D.D.D. Prescription:

"It gives me pleasure to commend D.D.D. to sufferers from skin diseases. For three years I suffered intensely from a skin disease which I developed on the back of my neck. It grew continually and sometimes cast off scales. Neighbours' advice, prescriptions, salves and expensive blood medicines were lavishly used.

At last I found relief in D.D.D., used according to directions. It required just one bottle to effect a cure. I am no longer tortured so I have no hesitancy in acknowledging to the world the worth and great virtue of D.D.D."

Blood medicines cannot kill the germs in the skin which cause eczema and other skin diseases. Salves fail because they cannot penetrate. D.D.D. goes right into the pores, kills the germs and cures.

For free sample bottle of D.D.D. Prescription write to the D.D.D. Laboratory Department P.E., 23 Jordan St., Toronto.

For sale by all druggists.

Correspondent Refers To The Ward Election System

Editor Examiner,

Dear Sir,—The clouds of Municipal Warfare are hovering over our heads, and the battle will soon be on. Along councillors en bloc ,from the whole other questions of paramount importance to our citizens generally to wit. "Are you in favour of returning to the Ward System instead of the present system of electing twelve councillors enbloc, from the whole city? Then we will be asked to vote for School trustees, for local option, etc.

What I intend to say a few words about is the "return to the Ward System." The present system of electing the councillors ,twelve in number, from the whole city, is a most pernicious one. Just imagine us, electing all our Legislators in Ontario from the whole of Ontario, instead of from each constituency as at present, or all of our members of the House of Commons at Ottawa, from the whole Dominion en bloc, what would be the difference? None whatever. In any one of the three cases, the elector would know as much about the qualifications of any one of the candidates as we do now in the city at the present time except you vote as a party man, "deep dyed in the wool," and vote regardless of the man's goodness, badness, qualification or in fact anything, except you vote for him because he belongs to the same church you do. You know Mr. Editor, there are a good many of us. Therefore the candidate who (on to-day who) vote for our fellow churchman just because he (the candidate) kneels at the same altar with us. Therefore the candidate which gets such support is tied hand and foot to answer to every beck and call of the church which elected him. There are other reasons why the present system is of an antediluvian nature. Who is there from the North Ward or from the South Ward, who has in any way represented the North or the South end of our fast growing city adequately? Have these wards been justly treated? I have been told that the North end has not been represented in the city for several years. No doubt some will say that the present system represents all. Does it? Not by any means. The present council are like a lot of old grannies. In fact I really believe if there were a few of our educated, go ahead women in the council they could do better than our present representatives. Imagine a Council calling for tenders for a certain position and receiving tenders to do the work for $1.000 or more and because a certain class of our citizens demanded that a certain man should be appointed more than half of the Council fell over themselves to appoint this man to the position and instead of making some money out of the work the city is losing $400 or $600 every year. This is what the grafter would call business, but ask any first-class business man if it is according to his ideas of business and what will he tell you? Decidedly no. We have had extravagance galore, and procrastination by the bushel. Where is our isolation hospital? only in the windy talk of our city representatives. Would the Ward system remedy this, you may ask? I say yes! Each ward would elect men from their own vicinity to represent them, and to look after the interests of, and around their own home, in that way every part of the City would be equally dealt with and no partiality shown to any one section and all would get justice as far as the money went. Imagine a superintendent of one of our large manufacturing firms here in the city being ordered by the Company to perform certain work and instead of performing the work, doing something else, with the money allowed for the work, and then when the time came to do it he shut up the shop and said he had no more money(a la Charlotte street sidewalk like) what would that company do with the superintendent, I can answer it "Kick him out." That is what should be done with the man who served his own friends and ignored the vote of the Council and let the people of Charlotte street wallow in the gutter for another season. Remember this next when you get the chance and tell him with your ballot you do not want him. Don't forget. And don't forget that this man was one of those who voted to say you should not have a voice this year in saying whether we should return to the Ward System again, or not. Vote for it, and don't allow any certain class to rule our city. Don't let the grafters squander our hard earned taxes and they are squandered, right and left. Vote them out. Later on the vote of the councillors on certain questions will be published.

Yours, etc.,

PROFESSOR HERING'S LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

We have been requested to publish the following almost verbatim report of the lecture on the above subject delivered by Professor Herman S. Hering, C.E., of Concord, N.H. Many who listened to the lecture, as well as others who were unable to be present, have expressed a desire for a full report.

Prof. Hering spoke as follows:

In addressing an intelligent audience upon the subject of "CHRISTIAN SCIENCE: THE SCIENCE OF SALVATION," it is well, first of all, to reach a mutual understanding as to the meaning of the terms. Science means exact, systematized, and demonstrable knowledge of facts, laws, and causes, while according to Smith's Bible Dictionary salvation means in substance that demonstrable knowledge which affords deliverance from evil.

Salvation to be Worked Out.

St. Paul admonishes us to work out our own salvation with fear and trembling. This Scriptural command means far more than the common belief that salvation is assured by simply having belief or faith in Jesus as the Son of God. Such saving faith is vitally necessary, but is only the beginning of our salvation—its spiritual basis.

Then must follow the working out of our deliverance from evil, our separation from sin, from the bondage of this world, from limitation, failure, sickness, disease, death.

"Saving faith," the recognition that Christ Jesus is the Son of God and that He brought salvation to all mankind, includes not only the glad acceptance of what Jesus was and did, but of what He said we can and must do. He said, "I am the way, the truth and the life," and He also said, "He that believeth on me the works that I do shall he do also."

Working out our own salvation means to secure the mastery over the ills of this world, to destroy them by the demonstrable knowledge of God received through Christ Jesus and to establish harmony, health, happiness in every day life. Hence our salvation is not fully worked out until we have dominion over all discord and everything that causes it. This necessarily includes dominion over matter and its laws, to which we are in such bondage, dominion over evil and its sensation, sin and sorrow, dominion even over death and its terrors. It means to attain to perfect harmonious living to bring about God's kingdom on earth.

Unless we work out our salvation, we will not gain the victory over the world, the flesh and the devil, as we are commanded.

If mere faith or belief in Jesus is all that is necessary for salvation, why are so many promises in Revelation made to "him that overcometh," and especially

"He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God and he shall be my son?" (Rev. 21: 7.)

It is our aim to show that Christian Science is the Science of salvation is and through Christ; that it reveals the Principle of being and awakens that spiritual understanding which enables us to work out our own salvation practically and effectively; that is discloses the cause and occasion of discordant conditions here on earth, the nature of the bondage that holds us to evil; that it reveals the absolute truth of being, the truth about God and His universe, including man, and the modus operandi, by which we can proceed to free ourselves from evil and attain true manhood and womanhood, in "the liberty of the sons of God."

Salvation Through Mind.

In working out our salvation we must first see that salvation or deliverance from evil is a mental process, takes place in mind, that it is a transformation through Mind and that it is both ethical and philosophical.

The Bible declares that "to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace."

All will admit that evil is primarily mental; that evil aims, and purposes, all misjudgment, hatred, envy, jealousy, are mental, and that the correction of these mental conditions must be mental, through education and experience, the awakening and establishment of right thought.

If law is mental the supposed law of disease must be mental. Therefore such wrong law can be altered, corrected and repealed by the law of Truth and right, the law of God.

We are all familiar with the physical effects of fear, anger and other strong emotions. Such effects having a mental cause obviously can be healed mentally and Christian Science teaches that all disease, whatever its name or nature, has a mental origin and a mental phenomenon, an experience of the mortal material human mind, which is healed by the divine Mind.

Objection to Giving Up Matter.

This leads to the troublesome question, What shall we do with matter? The world has always resisted strongly the idealistic teaching of the supremacy of Spirit over matter, which is taught everywhere in the Bible; and one of the leading objections to the Bible to-day is this, that many of its statements are visionary and impractical; in fact, the endeavour has been made to discredit the Bible records of spiritual demonstration and to explain them materially, or flatly deny their reliability.

In "Retrospection and Introspection" Mrs. Eddy says:

"During twenty years prior to my discovery I had been trying to trace all physical effects to a mental cause; and in the latter part of 1866 I gained the scientific certainty that all causation was Mind, and every effect a mental phenomenon."

The importance of the mental factor, the power of mind in human affairs, is being more and more generally conceded and the day is hastening on when the truth of Mrs. Eddy's statement will be recognised.

The world hesitates to admit that matter is only a mental phenomenon because such admission refutes matter's fundamental claim to be substance and life. Especially is mortal thought disinclined to consider that the divine Mind and its idea are real and that human phenomena are merely projected human concepts, because this means that a large part of what the human mind has believed to be true must be classed as false.

Regarding Material Causation.

Christian Science teaches that matter and material existence are phenomena of mortal mind, a concept of existence obtained through the physical senses, a misapprehension of reality held by human consciousness when uninstructed by Science, an appearance instead of an actuality. It is simply an imitation or counterfeit. Now it is not the appearance but only the original that has power, intelligence and substance. The manifestation of growth, action or being in matter is but a material concept of spiritual facts.

The objects, action and power expressed in a "moving picture" are not in the picture and we do not associate them with the picture but with the original which the picture reproduces. Similarly, life, growth, action, power, substance, law, et cetera, are not in matter, physical existence or the material consciousness; but in divine Mind, the only cause and Principle of being, and should be so thought of.

When we recognize God as the only Mind, the only cause, Truth is reflected in consciousness and existence is harmonious. When we believe causation to be material or in mortal mind, we put our trust and dependence in a shadow, a false belief, and existence so-called, is discordant, liable to disease, disaster, death. In order to work out our salvation we therefore need to understand causation.

Consciousness is Existence.

Our conscious existence is obviously what we are conscious of. Of our real existence we may not be conscious. Everything that we know or see or believe, all our thoughts acts, or experiences go to make up our universe, our sense of existence, our consciousness.

As we gain our concept of existence largely through the physical senses, it is very important that we be able to weigh and sift their testimony. We all know how deceptive these senses are. The distant house is not actually small because it seems to be so, neither does the sun move because it appears to move. So also hearing, taste, touch and smell are all fallible. In fact, the impressions received by the senses and recorded mentally require explanation and rectification to make them coherent and intelligible.

These senses bring to our consciousness only impressions from which we form a concept of things. If therefore the testimony of the physical senses is so unreliable and unsatisfactory it is apparent that the consciousness gained through these senses, cannot be true and reliable.

Matter a Sense-Impression.

Material objects may be defined as objectified mental impressions, and since material sense is unreliable and untrue, these impressions are a seeming only, that is counterfeits of reality. What is the true nature of substance, or what is back of these appearances, material sense does not and cannot determine. Only a sense that can perceive truth and reality can declare this. A mortal's universe is a projection of the concept of existence which he has obtained through his five senses and through the educational influences of his childhood and youth.

If we can see existence as mental instead of physical, we have taken a great step onward. The next step is to learn what is true and real and thus correct our impressions and obtain a truer consciousness of existence.

The Mortal Body is Mental.

Through Christian Science we are beginning to understand that the mortal body is mental; that it is an embodiment of conscious and unconscious mentality, the developed mortal thought of self-hood, the externalization of a personal sense of physical being. This explains why it is so responsive to thought.

The prevailing belief that life is in matter, in a mere sense-impression, accounts for the ills of the flesh. Is it any wonder that the body gives out under the strain put upon it so long as we declare that our life depends upon it, upon a false concept that cannot even sustain itself? Think of the responsibility, the burden, we place upon it, making it not alone our dependence in normal living, but also the scapegoat of all excesses! Is it any wonder it does not "make good?"

We take an advanced step when we see that the body is mental instead of physical and that we do not live in a matter-body but in consciousness.

Bodily conditions are relieved in so far as we realize that God, the infinite divine Principle, is our Life.

Mrs. Eddy says in Science and Health (Page 14.)

"Become conscious for a single moment that Life and intelligence are purely spiritual,—neither in nor of matter,—and the body will then utter no complaints. If suffering from a belief in sickness, you will find yourself suddenly well. Sorrow is turned into joy when the body is controlled by spiritual Life, Truth and Love."

What is Mind?

The ordinary human concept of mind is that which thinks, feels or wills, the intellect, or the activity of the brain. Christian Science reveals the fact that Mind is divine Principle, the infinite Life, Truth, Love, omnipotent, omniscient, omnipresent, the all-inclusive, eternal, unchanging, all-wise being, the only cause and creator.

This is a very different Mind from that which is supposed to result from the action of the gray matter called brain.

Christian Science makes it clear that material existence is not the manifestation of this divine Mind, but the phenomenon of the counterfeit, called mortal mind.

It is this false concept of existence that does all the wrong thinking; that believes in sin, disease and death; that claims there is life and intelligence in matter.

Since God is Mind, this Mind is good, and its effects must always be good, never evil. As real thinking is the activity of the divine Mind, the only real thought or ideas are good. Therefore everything that is evil, pertains to evil or results in evil is not Mind nor included in mind, hence is not real. Human thought, will power, hypnotism, mental suggestion or magnetism are all capable of evil, and hence are not Mind or the activity or Mind, are not of God, and so are not good but essentially and entirely evil.

Healing Methods.

The difference between the method of healing through mental suggestion, or hypnotism, and that of the divine Mind, the Christ healing, must be clearly seen.

When the effort is made to heal by suggestion, the operator endeavours by means of hypnotism to make the patient believe that he is not sick. He attempts to change the belief but the cause of disease remains and in time manifests itself even in worse forms. The patient is no better off, he has not risen in the scale of being, he has no more manhood, or moral courage, and does not know any more about God and His Christ than before.

How is it possible for anyone to believe as has been said, that Christ Jesus healed through hypnotism, when hypnotism is the dominating activity of the carnal mind, and the Bible declares "the carnal mind is enmity against God?" How could Jesus as the Son of God use a power that is opposed to God? He said "Of mine own self I can do nothing. The Father in me he doeth the works."

It may be needless to say that the teachings of Christian Science are in no wise the same as those of the Emmanuel Church Movement. The projectors of that movement themselves have emphatically declared this.

Christian Science Healing.

The true Christian Scientist reflects the divine Mind, stands on the basis of God, man and the universe as Spirit and spiritual, as Love and its manifestation, as Mind and its ideas—perfect and harmonious. Hence he understands the unreality of matter and evil and knows that man is not sick but that the patient is simply suffering from a false mesmeric belief. From that standpoint he proceeds to correct the errors of belief with the Truth of being and thus establishes harmony on a spiritual, scientific basis.

The patient is not improved merely physically, but morally and spiritually as well, because the divine Mind, God, has reached his consciousness. His belief in matter, sin and disease is lessened and the understanding and love of God, of His Christ, and of the Bible is greatly increased. He has begun to let that mind be in him which was also in Christ Jesus, the "sound mind" which St. Paul declared God has given us.

Thus it is seen that it is not the human mind that does the healing, but divine Truth which is brought to bear upon the case by reflection. Truth is reflected by knowsing. The human mind reflects Truth by knowing Truth, knowing God aright.

This is a cardinal point in Christian Science healing, that it is God, divine Mind that does the healing and not human thought. In Christian Science healing the human sense serves only as a vehicle for Truth. It is the Truth alone that effects results.

Two-Fold Process in Healing.

Another cardinal point in Christian Science healing is that it works from the standpoint of the unreality of matter and evil and thus proves the allness and supremacy of God. It includes the knowing and affirmation of Truth; the recognition and denial of error.

Some people do not understand why it is necessary to deny matter. The reason is simply this, that the belief in the reality of matter seems so strongly established in human consciousness throuhg heredity, environment and education that the mere acknowledgment or declaration of the allness of God does not always beget the conviction of the unreality of matter; and the specific denial of matter aids in destroying or lessening this claim in the human consciousness.

Cause of Sickness and Sin.

Sickness is the result of mesmerism, illusion. The human thought listens to the arguments of mortal mind instead of refusing to believe them,—hence its ills. The sick are asleep in the mesmerism of material sense and ned to be awakened to man's true existence as God's child. Christian Science shows us the way to do this.

So also sin and all evil are mesmeric illusion. Sin is indulged in because the sinner believes that there is some god or pleasure in it, some advantage to be gained by indulgence. This belief in evil's reality and the pleasure it promises is it own strength, and when Christian Science reaches the thought of the sinner and convinces him that sin confers no pleasure and is but an illusion, and that indulgence in it results only in suffering and bondage, the foundation of his belief is broken and through the Christ love he awakens to a new life nad is healed. If God is the infinite all, is omnipotent, omnipresent, omniscient good, as the Bible teaches, evil can have neither power nor existence.

Jesus said of evil simply, "It is a liar and the father of it," and he proceeded to solve the problem of evil in the only way it can be solved, viz., by denying and destroying it.

Mrs. Eddy Loved and Honoured.

It is not to be wondered at, indeed it is inevitable, that Christian Scientists should love Mrs. Eddy for having brought to the world this Science of Salvation, the true knowledge of God and man, the spiritual understanding of the Holy Scriptures which enables them to know themselves and to demonstrate that "saving faith" which alone leads to heaven.

We love her not only for the revelation of the demonstrable Christ Truth which is contained in her wonderful book "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" and her other writings, but for her consecration and devotion in continuing to lead the great religious movement she has inaugurated. She has remained steadfastly at her post of duty, and continued to instruct, guide, advise, admonish her followers and to lead on her great Cause in its stately progress.

Those of us who have known her personally and who have had the great privilege of being under the supervision realize in some degree what an extraordinary woman she is.

Her spirituality, her love to God and her desire to be obedient only to Him, and to follow the example of the Master—these characteristics make her the great Leader that she is.

Mrs. Eddy did not simply state her discovery to the world; she first demonstrated it and then offered it as a demonstrable Science for all mankind to profit by. The Science overcomes evil, by giving a true knowledge of God and His Christ, it enables all humanity to work out their own salvation and reach that pure consciousness, which Jesus called the "kingdom of heaven."

Closing Appeal.

"Glory be to God, and peace to the struggling hearts! Christ hath rolled away the stone from the door of human hope and faith, and through the revelation and demonstration of life in God, hath elevated them to possible atone-ment with the spiritual idea of man, and his divine Principle, Love." (Science and Health, p. 25.)

The stone of material sense has been rolled away and the possible atone-ment with Truth and Love has been demonstrated. The truth about God and man and the universe has been revealed to the human understanding, and the healing Christ is at our door.

A measure of this true understanding has already been attained, and by entering into the closet and closing the door of material sense,—by thinking rightly about God and his reflection, realizing the spiritual fact and denying matter and all evil, we can purify consciousness, obtain clearer and safer views, experience greater freedom and harmony, better health, improved morals and a final overcoming of all evil.

In closing let me read to you Mrs. Eddy's scientific statement of being which epitomizes the Science of Salvation.

"There is no life, truth, intelligence, nor substance in matter. All is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation, for God is All-in-all. Spirit is immortal Truth; matter is mortal error. Spirit is the real and eternal; matter is the unreal and temporal. Spirit is God, and man is His image and likeness. Therefore man is not material, he is spiritual."

GENERALLY SPEAKING

By F. M. O.

A day or so ago a gentleman well known in Peterborough was speaking to the writer on the subject of success in life and instanced the names of two or three gentlemen, natives of this city, who had risen to great prominence in the financial and industrial world. He said "here are these men; they started in life with no special advantages, one or two of them, in fact, with less than come to the ordinary run of humanity, and simply by dint of their energy, perseverance, and integrity, they are to-day universally recognized as leaders in their respective lines of endeavour." He asked, "Can you explain why they should have so far distanced their competitors in the race?" The answer seemed to be an easy one. It is comprised in the one word, "Character."

As a definition of what this word implies one cannot do better than refer to the excellent volume which Dr. Smiles, the author of "Self Help" has written on the subject. As guides to youth his series of four books, "Self Help," "Duty," "Character," and "Thrift," are not to be surpassed. Let us see what he says in his excellent preface to the first volume named in this series. He says that it was written to illustrate what cannot be too often urged, "that youth must work in order to enjoy,—that nothing creditable can be accomplished without application and diligence—that the student must not be daunted by difficulties, but conquer by patience and perseverance,—and that, above all, he must seek elevation of character, without which capacity is worthless and worldy success is nought."

To the young men of this city no better advice could be given than to read the books we have mentioned. To the average reader the titles may not seem very inviting, but any one who has a wish to rise to something higher and nobler will not only find them helpful, but of most enthralling interest.

Domestic Service.

Are the days of domestic service going, never to return? Are those who can afford to hire servants going to be compelled to do their own work, in the near future? It looks very like it, and the leisured class has itself to blame to a very large extent, for the changed condition of things. Fifty years ago people lived a simpler sort of life than they do at the present time. Servants had not to work so hard then as they seem to have to now, and not so many meals were prepared. To-day there is a lavish expenditure on trifles, selfish indulgence and a general want of self restraint and servants naturally ask themselves "Why should we have all the rough parts of life and our employers all the sweets?" The servant only judges by what she sees, she knows nothing of the worries entailed by all the extra display, all the responsibilities and anxieties. She does not know whether times are good or bad, all she feels is that she has a good deal of extra work to do year by year, and that she gets no more pay for doing it. She is too often treated with very little consideration by her employers, and it is not to be wondered at that she should prefer the freer life of the factory to one where she is too often made to feel that she is looked on as little better than a slave. It must be borne in mind that in writing this, we are not aiming at the whole body of householders, but at a certain class amongst them.

Of course, there is another side to the question, but as the servant is naturally only interested in her own side, it is not of much use as ammunition for an argument. All girls are not angels. They have their limitations, to quite as great an extent as their masters and mistresses. They have tempers, too, some of them, and often seem to be possessed with the idea that their own comfort is to be taken into consideration first, and that of their employer afterwards. Some of them think they know everything—and they don't. They are not always quite as careful with the china and glassware as they might be, and their idea as to what constitutes a well cooked meal are often hasy in the extreme. Sometimes they are not as anxious to work as they are to be parading the town, looking into the shop windows, and the way they take a refusal to a request for a night off is really often very shocking. We know, because we have had several years of experience in house-keeping, and have come across some shining examples. Sometimes when they are zealous to show what they can do their efforts end disastrously.

A few years ago a friend of ours had a damsel in his employ who was quite a well-read young woman. She had found out in some work on pictures that it was a good thing to wash them occasionally, and she made her initial attempt in this line on a much-prized water colour that had been presented to him by a lady now well known throughout Canada as one of its foremost painters. Hot water and a stout arm can do a good deal of damage in a very short time to a water-colour painting. When the gentleman arrived on the scene, the picture, which originally represented a pretty sylvan scene of a girl tending a flock of goats, had undergone a complete metamorphosis. The damsel's head had vanished, the hind quarters of the goat were missing, and there was a ghastly smear across the picture that reminded one of Turner's sunsets. And all that the domestic had to say about the matter was that she never knew that paint could come off so easily. The same friend some years afterwards had an application from a girl in which she stated that as she was somewhat delicate she would not undertake to get up and get breakfast, and expected to have hers brought up to her bedroom. She was not engaged. This is only the experience of one amongst many householders.

Yes, there are two sides to the domestic service question, but of course it cannot be expected that either party will see more than one of them.

SIR NIGEL

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Copyright 1906, 1908, by A. Conan Doyle.

Pommers had met his match that day. The white horse, two parts Arab, bore the lighter weight, since Nigel was clad in full armor. For five miles over the open neither gained a hundred yards upon the other. They had topped the hill and flew down the farther side, the stranger continually turning in his saddle to have a look at his pursuer. There was no panic in his flight, but rather the amused rivalry with which a good horseman who is proud of his mount contends with one who has challenged him. Below the hill was a marshy plain, studded with great Druidic stones, some prostrate, some erect, some bearing others across their tops like the huge doors of some vanished building. A path ran through the marsh with green rushes as a danger signal on either side of it. Across this path many of the huge stones were lying, but the white horse cleared them in its stride and Pommers followed close upon his heels. Then came a mile of soft ground where the lighter weight again drew to the front, but it ended in a dry upland and once again Nigel gained. A sunken road crossed it, but the white cleared it with a mighty spring, and again the yellow followed. Two small hills lay before them with a narrow gorge of deep bushes between. Nigel saw the white horse bounding chest-deep amid the underwood.

Next instant its hind legs were high in the air, and the rider had been shot from its back. A howl of triumph rose from amidst the bushes, and a dozen wild figures armed with club and with spear, rushed upon the prostrate man.

"A moi, Anglais, a moi!" cried a voice, and Nigel saw the young rider stagger to his feet, strike round him with his sword, and then fall once more before the rush of his assailants.

There was a comradeship among men of gentle blood and bearing which banded them together against all ruffianly or unchivalrous attack. These rude fellows were no soldiers. Their dress and arms, their uncouth cries and wild assault, marked them as banditti—such men as had slain the Englishman upon the road. Waiting in narrow gorges with a hidden rope across the path, they watched for the lonely horseman as a fowler waits by his bird-trap, trusting that they could overthrow the steed and then slay the rider ere he had recovered from his fall.

Such would have been the fate of the stranger, as of so many cavaliers before him, had Nigel not chanced to be close upon his heels. In an instant Pommers had burst through the group who struck at the prostrate man, and in another two of the robbers had fallen before Nigel's sword. A spear rang on his breastplate, but one blow shore off its head, and a second that of him who held it. In vain they thrust at the steel-girt man. His sword played round them like lightning, and the fierce horse ramped and swooped above them with pawing iron-shod hoofs and eyes of fire. With cries and shrieks they flew off to right and left amidst the bushes, springing over bowlders and darting under branches where no horseman could follow them. The foul crew had gone as swiftly and suddenly as it had come, and save for four ragged figures littered amongst the trampled bushes, no sign remaining of their passing.

Nigel tethered Pommers to a thorn-bush and then turned his attention to the injured man. The white horse had regained his feet and stood whinnying gently as he looked down on his prostrate master. A heavy blow, half broken by his sword, had beaten him down and left a great raw bruise upon his forehead. But a stream gurgled through the gorge, and a cap-ful of water dashed over his face brought the senses back to the injured man. He was a mere stripling, with the delicate features of a woman, and a pair of great violet-blue eyes which looked up presently with a puzzled stare into Nigel's face.

"Who are you?" he asked. "Ah yes! I call you to mind. You are the young Englishman who chased me on the great yellow horse. By our Lady of Rocamadour whose vernicle is round my neck! I could not have believed that any horse could have kept at the heels of Charlemagne so long. But I will wager you a hundred crowns, Englishman, that I lead you over a five-mile course."

"Nay," said Nigel, "we will wait till you can back a horse ere we talk of racing it. I am Nigel of Tilford, of the family of Loring, a squire by rank and the son of a knight. How are you called, young sir?"

"I also am a squire by rank and the son of a knight. I am Raoul de la Roche Pierre de Bras, whose father writes himself Lord of Grosbois, a free vavasor of the noble Count of Toulouse, with the right of fossa and of furca, the high justice, the middle and the low." He sat up and rubbed his eyes. "Englishman, you have saved my life as I would have saved yours, had I seen such yalping dogs set upon a man of blood and of coat-armor. But now I am yours, and what is your sweet will?"

"When you are fit to ride, you will come back with me to my people."

"Alas! I feared that you would say so. Had I taken you, Nigel—that is your name, is it not?—had I taken you, I would not have acted thus."

"How then would you have ordered things?" asked Nigel, much taken with the frank and debonair manner of his captive.

"I would not have taken advantage of such a mischance as has befallen me which has put me in your power. I would give you a sword and beat you in fair fight, so that I might send you to give greeting to my dear lady and show her the deeds which I do for her fair sake."

"Indeed, your words are both good and fair," said Nigel. "By Saint Paul! I cannot call to mind that I have ever met a man who bore himself better. But since I am in my armor and you without, I see not how we can debate the matter."

Surely, gentle Nigel, you could doff your armor."

"Then have I only my underclothes."

"Nay, there shall be no unfairness there, for I also will very gladly strip to my underclothes."

Nigel looked wistfully at the Frenchman; but he shook his head. "Alas! it may not be," said he. "The last words that Sir Robert said to me were that I was to bring you to his side, for he would have speech with you. Would that I could do what you ask, for I also have a fair lady to whom I would fain send you. What use are you to me, Raoul, since I have gained no honor in the taking of you? How is it with you now?"

The young Frenchman had risen to his feet. "Do not take my sword," he said. "I am yours, rescue or no rescue. I think now that I could mount my horse, though indeed my head still rings like a cracked bell."

Nigel had lost all traces of his comrades; but he remembered Sir Robert's words that he should ride upon the sun with the certainty that sooner or later he would strike upon the road. As they jogged along over undulating hills, the Frenchman shook off his hurt and the two chatted merrily together.

"I had but just come from France," said he, "and I had hoped to win honor in this country, for I have ever heard that the English are very hardy men and excellent people to fight with. My mules and my baggage are at Evran; but I rode forth to see what I could see, and I chanced upon your army moving down the road, so I coasted it in the hopes of some profit or adventure. Then you came after me and I would have given all the gold goblets upon my father's table if I had my harness so that I could have turned upon you. I have promised the Countess Beatrice that I will send her an Englishman or two to kiss her hands."

"One might perchance have a worse fate," said Nigel. "Is this fair dame your betrothed?"

"She is my love," answered the Frenchman. "We are but waiting for the Count to be slain in the wars, and then we mean to marry. And this lady of thine, Nigel? I would that I could see her."

"Perchance you shall, fair sir," said Nigel, "for all that I have seen of you fills me with desire to go further with you. It is in my mind that we might turn this thing to profit and to honor, for when Sir Robert has spoken with you, I am free to do with you as I will."

"And what will you do, Nigel?"

"We shall surely try some small deed upon each other, so that either I shall see the Lady Beatrice, or you the Lady Mary. Nay, thank me not, for like yourself, I have come to this country in search of honor, and I know not where I may better find it than at the end of your sword-point. My good lord and master, Sir John Chandos, has told me many times that never yet did he meet French knight nor squire that he did not find great pleasure and profit from their company, and now I very clearly see that he has spoken the truth."

For an hour these two friends rode together, the Frenchman pouring forth the praises of his lady, whose glove he produced from one pocket, her garter from his vest, and her shoe from his saddle-bag. She was blonde, and when he heard that Mary was dark, he would fain stop then and there to fight the question of color. He talked too of his great chateau at Lauta, by the head waters of the pleasant Garonne; of the hundred horses in the stables, the seventy hounds in the kennels, the fifty hawks in the mews. His English friend should come there when the wars were over, and what golden days would be theirs! Nigel too, with his English coldness thawing before this young sunbeam of the South, found himself talking of the heather slopes of Surrey, of the forest of Woolmer, even of the sacred chambers of Cosford.

But as they rode onward towards the sinking sun, their thoughts far away in their distant homes, their horses striding together, there came that which brought their minds back in an instant to the perilous hillsides of Brittany.

It was the long blast of a trumpet blown from somewhere on the farther side of a ridge toward which they were riding.

"It is your camp," said the Frenchman.

"Nay," said Nigel; "we have pipes with us and a naker or two, but I have heard no trumpet-call from our ranks. It behooves us to take heed, for we know not what may be before us. Ride this way, I pray you, that we may look over and yet be ourselves unseen."

Some scattered bowlders crowned the height, and from behind them the two young Squires could see the long rocky valley beyond. Upon a knoll was a small square building with a battlement round it. Some distance from it towered a great dark castle, as massive as the rocks on which it stood, with one strong keep at the corner, and four long lines of machicolated walls. Above, a great banner flew proudly in the wind, with some device which glowed red in the setting sun. Nigel shaded his eyes and stared with wrinkled brow.

"It is not the arms of England, nor yet the lilies of France, nor is it the ermine of Brittany," said he. "He who holds this castle fights for his own hand, since his own device flies above it. Surely it is a head gules on an argent field."

"The bloody head on a silver tray!" cried the Frenchman. "Was I not warned against him? This is not a man, friend Nigel. It is the monster who wars upon English, French and all Christendom. Have you not heard of the Butcher of La Brohiniere?"

"Nay, I have not heard of him."

"His name is accursed in France. Have I not been told also that he put to death this very year Gilles de St. Pol, a friend of the English King?"

"Yes, in very truth it comes back to my mind now that I heard something of this matter in Calais before we started."

"Then there he dwells, and God guard you if ever you pass under yonder portal, for no prisoner has ever gone forth alive! Since these wars began he hath been a king to himself, and the plunder of eleven years lie in yonder cellars. How can justice come to him, when no man knows who owns the land? But when we have packed you all back to your island, by the Blessed Mother of God, we have a heavy debt to pay to the man who dwells in yonder pile!"

But even as they watched, the trumpet-call burst forth once more. It came not from the castle but from the farther end of the valley. It was answered by a second call from the walls. Then in a long, straggling line there came a wild troop of marauders streaming homeward from some foray. In the van, at the head of a body of spearmen, rode a tall and burly man, clad in brazen armor, so that he shone like a golden image in the slanting rays of the sun. His helmet had been loosened from his gorget and was held before him on his horse's neck. A great tangled beard flowed over his breastplate, and his hair, hung down as far behind. A squire at his elbow bore high the banner of the bleeding head. Behind the spearmen were a line of heavily laden mules, and on either side of them a drove of poor country folk, who were being herded into the castle. Lastly came a second strong troop of mounted spearmen, who conducted a score or more of prisoners who marched together in a solid body.

Nigel stared at them and then, springing on his horse, he urged it along the shelter of the ridge so as to reach unseen a spot which was close to the castle gate. He had scarce taken up his new position when the cavalcade reached the drawbridge, and amid yells of welcome from those upon the wall, filed in a thin line across it. Nigel stared hard once more at the prisoners in the rear, and so absorbed was he by the sight that he neglected the rocks and was standing sheer upon the summit.

"By Saint Paul!" he cried, "it must indeed be so. I see their russet jackets. They are English archers!"

As he spoke, the hindmost one, a strongly built, broad-shouldered man, looked round and saw the gleaming figure above him upon the hill, with open helmet, and the five roses glowing upon his breast. With a sweep of his hands he had thrust his guardians aside and for a moment was clear of the throng.

"Squire Loring! Squire Loring!" he cried. "It is I, Aylward the archer! It is I, Samkin Aylward!" The next minute a dozen hands had seized him, his cries were muffled with a gag, and he was hurled, the last of the band, through the black and threatening archway of the gate. Then with a clang the two iron wings came together, the portcullis swung upward, and captives and captors, robbers and booty, were all swallowed up within the grim and silent fortress.

CHAPTER XX.

For some minutes Nigel remained motionless upon the crest of the hill, his heart like lead within him, and his eyes fixed upon the huge gray walls which contained his unhappy henchman. He was roused by a sympathetic hand upon his shoulder and the voice of his young prisoner in his ear.

"Peste!" said he. "They have some of your birds in their cage, have they not? What then, my friend? Keep your heart high! Is it not the chance of war, to-day to them, to-morrow to thee, and death at last for us all? And yet I had rather they were in any hands than those of Oliver the Butcher."

"By Saint Paul, we cannot suffer it!" cried Nigel distractedly. "This man has come with me from my own home. He has stood between me and death before now. It goes to my very heart that he should call upon me in vain. I pray you, Raoul, to use your wits, for mine are all curdled in my head. Tell me what I should do and how I may bring him help."

The Frenchman shrugged his shoulders. "As easy to get a lamb unscathed out of a wolves' lair as a prisoner safe from La Brohiniere. Nay, Nigel, whither do you go? Have you indeed taken leave of your wits?"

The Squire had spurred his horse down the hillside and never halted until he was within a bowshot of the gate. The French prisoner followed hard behind him, with a buss of reproaches and expostulations.

"You are mad, Nigel!" he cried. "What do you hope to do then? Would you carry the castle with your own hands? Halt, man, halt, in the name of the Virgin!"

But Nigel had no plan in his head and only obeyed the fevered impulse to do something to ease his thoughts. He paced his horse up and down, waving his spear, and shouting insults and challenges to the garrison. Over the high wall a hundred jeering faces looked down upon him. So rash and wild was his action that it seemed to those within to mean some trap, so the drawbridge was still held high and none ventured forth to seize him. A few long-range arrows pattered on the rocks, and then with a deep booming sound a huge stone, hurled from a mangonel, sang over the head of the two Squires and crushed into splinters amongst the bowlders behind them. The Frenchman seized Nigel's bridle and forced him farther from the gateway.

"By the dear Virgin!" he cried, "I care not to have those pebbles about my ears, yet I cannot go back alone, so it is very clear, my crazy comrade, that you must come also. Now we are beyond their reach! But see, my friend Nigel, who are those who crown the height?"

The sun had sunk behind the western ridge, but the glowing sky was fringed at its lower edge by a score of ruddy twinkling points. A body of horsemen showed hard and black upon the bare hill. Then they dipped down the slope into the valley, whilst a band of footmen followed behind.

"They are my people," cried Nigel joyously. "Come, my friend, hasten, that we may take counsel what we shall do."

Sir Robert Knolles rode a bowshot in front of his men, and his brow was as black as night. Beside him, with crest-fallen face, his horse bleeding, his armor dinted and soiled, was the hot-headed knight, Sir James Astley. A fierce discussion raged between them.

"I have done my devoir as best I might," said Astley. "Alone I had ten of them at my sword-point. I know not how I have lived to tell it."

Given Up To Die

No. 100 George St., Sorel, Quebec.

"I suffered from womb disease for seven years, with dreadful pains over the front of the body, over the back and down the legs. I had indigestion and chronic constipation and the constipation was so bad that I went sometimes for ten to fifteen days without any action of the bowels. I was ill in bed for one whole year. At one time I was so low that everyone thought I was going to die, and the last Rites of the Church were administered to me. I was treated by six different doctors without any benefit.

MADAME JOSEPH LIRETTE

Then I got a sample of "Fruit-a-tives," but I had no faith in them at all, and I would not have taken them only my husband begged so hard for me to try them. As soon as I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" I grew better, the bloating was relieved, the sleeplessness was cured, my stomach acted, and the bowels were moved, but above all the fearful womb pains were made easier.

I have taken eighteen boxes in all and I am now perfectly well again."

Had a Bad Cough For a Number of Years.

Was Afraid of Consumption.

Mrs. A. E. Brown, Ottawa, Ont., writes "I have had a very bad cough every winter for a number of years which I was afraid would turn into consumption. I tried a great many remedies but only received temporary relief until I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after taking two bottles my cough was cured. I am never without a bottle of Norway Pine Syrup."

Too much stress cannot be laid on the fact that when a person catches cold it must be attended to immediately or serious results may follow.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It strikes at the foundation of all throat and lung complaints, relieving or curing all Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Asthma, Sore Throat, etc., and preventing Pneumonia and Consumption.

So great has been the success of this wonderful remedy it is only natural that numerous persons have tried to imitate it.

Don't be imposed upon but insist on getting "Dr. Wood's."

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Don't Lose a Good Cook Through Poor Flour

And because scarce all the more precious.

It is this very condition which induces Mrs. Neighbour to win over your Sally by honeyed words and fulsome flattery, cunningly interningled with promises of a free kitchen, higher wages, early risings off.

So that the way of a man with a maid is smooth compared with the thorny path of a mistress with the modern kitchen queen.

An unfortunate remark let drop brings forth a cutting "Here's me notice."

Why not place the blame where it rightfully belongs, Madam?

Don't lose a good cook on account of poor flour.

Why, fully half the "baking scot-deets" are the fault of the flour.

Even the highest salaried chef in the sunny land of France itself could not turn out an appetising, nourishing batch from a cheap brand.

It is not fair to expect it. Is it, Mistress Housewife?

* * * *

If there's something wrong in your kitchen, try FIVE ROSES before increasing the cook's temperature. Give her a "square deal," as the business man would say.

Buy her just a small bag to test her real efficiency. Next time you'll want a barrel.

The least care and attention given to a good recipe, backed by FIVE ROSES, will accomplish marvels of culinary art.

For cunning cookery is really a rare art, Madam.

FIVE ROSES fits in surprisingly with every page in your favorite cookbook, even Mrs. Rorer's tested recipes.

How many flours can do that, really and truly?

Very few indeed, Madam.

* * * *

And—

What about that "square deal" to your folks?

AFTER TREATMENT

He was surprised at how the sores healed—"I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, pains of the hands scaling, redness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 6 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish." W. IX.—The Friends That Stick

"BUT, you see, papa," protested young Mrs Rollins, "we've got to keep up appearances. I don't think people are like they were when you were young. You must make a show nowadays if you're going to stay in society. As Will says, if we don't trail along with the procession we'll get left at the post. I'm not sure that that's exactly the way he put it, but I know he means that if we didn't do as our friends do we wouldn't have any friends."

"Uh, huh," grunted the colonel. "It's a sort of an up to date version of the Golden Rule—splurge for others if you want others to splurge for you. I've got no particular quarrel with that if you can afford it. It helps to make business good. But I don't think you can afford it. Moreover, it don't make friends and it don't keep friends. Moreover, again, there ain't a bit of difference between the world now and when I was a boy, or when Julius Cæsar was a boy, for that matter. It's always been that way, and I reckon it always will be that way. It's been a continuous procession from Adam's time down, and there's always been a lot of people fallin' over one another tryin' to keep the head of it in sight.

"But there's a whole lot more, a great many more, now as well as then, who don't care a continental rap about keepin' up with the procession; most of 'em don't even know that there is a procession, and if they did they wouldn't take the trouble to go to the window to see it pass by, much less trail on behind the band wagon, for, honestly now, honey, what's the use? Does the procession ever get anywhere or do anything? Not on your life. It just prances around in a circle and blows its horn. It puts on a lot of style, to be sure, and it looks mighty gay with its ribbons and its feathers flyin', but the people that's on the outside watchin' it get more entertainment out of it than the ones takin' part in it."

"But what else are we to do, papa?" interrupted his daughter. "You don't want us to stay at home all the time and wear our old clothes, do you?"

"No, sir-ee, little girl, and you know I don't. I want you to wear just as pretty dresses as you can afford and have all the fun that's comin' to you, but don't do things you've got no business to do just because other people do them, and don't imagine that you'll lose any friends if the procession gets away from you. Maybe some of the people you call your friends would get somethin' the matter with their eyes when you came along the street if you didn't put on as much style as they did, but that kind of cattle ain't the stuff that friends are made of. There's nothin' finer or sweeter in the world than a good friend, and the man or the woman that hasn't got real friends is mighty unfortunate, but you can't get 'em and you can't keep 'em by makin' a show, as you call it. Just try it by your own standard, for instance. Take the women that you like the best. Why do you like them? Is it because they wear fine clothes or live in big houses or give swell parties that you like them? No; you bet it ain't. It's because there's somethin' within them that's better than any show they could make if they had millions. And don't you suppose the same women love you for the same reason? Don't you suppose it's your character and not your dress that draws them to you? I'm mighty sure it is, and I'm also mighty sure that they'd keep on lovin' you, no matter whether you had your gowns made in Paris or by the little dressmaker around the corner. If they didn't, why, they wouldn't be friends. That's all there is to that.

NOT GOOD FOR FRIENDS.

They'd just be make believes, and if you lost 'em you wouldn't lose anything worth grievin' about.

"What I'm tryin' to get into your pretty little noggin—and, by the way, honey, I like that new way of fixin' your hair; it's mighty becomin'—but, as I was about to remark, the point I'm tryin' to get you to see is that fine feathers don't make fine friends, and you'll make a mighty big mistake if you think the only friends worth havin' are the ones that wear the gayest raiment. You will find good, true friends, no doubt, in swell garb, but it ain't the clothes that make them so, for real friendship has nothin' to do with dress or position in life. It springs from qualities of the mind or the heart, which don't cost a red cent and which millions can't buy.

MILLIONS CAN'T BUY IT.

"You can't have too many friends, my dear, but you've got to depend upon somethin' besides appearances to get them and to keep them. The friends that stick are the ones that love you for what you are, not for what you wear, and you'll find material for friends of that kind among the high and the low, the rich and the poor. Some of the best friends I've got don't know where the next dollar's to come from, and some of the others don't know what to do with their money, but they're all in the same boat in the matter of friendship, and any one of them would go through fire and water for me. I know, because I've tried them.

"But you can't make friends without doin' somethin' or bein' somethin' worthy of friendship, and you can't keep friends unless you give as much as you take—not in money, understand, but in friendly words and friendly deeds, in a little sympathy or a little help when it's needed, and particularly when it's badly needed. One friend that sticks, no matter what comes, whether you lead the procession or are trampled under its feet, is worth more than a thousand of those that pat you on the back when you're in the swim and forget you're on earth when trouble comes. When you've got friends you can count on, no matter what happens, you ought to hang on to 'em with a death grip, for there's nothin' more precious on earth except a good wife or a good husband and children. But you needn't be afraid of losin' 'em by failin' to keep up appearances. The real ones, little girl, ain't lost in that way."

"LOVE YOU FOR WHAT YOU ARE."

Mind's Mastery Over Matter.

Striking instances of the mastery of mind over matter are seen almost every day in dining cars. Not only are they seen, but they are experienced.

Frequently I go into a diner thinking: "Well, I'm feeling pretty tolerably punk. I tell you. I'm fairly puny this morning. Maybe I can worry down as much as a little bit of buttered toast and two soft boiled eggs."

I think this because I have been counting on an a la carte breakfast.

But when I get into the car and sit down at the table and observe that the meal is table d'hote—well! That's different. I'm feeling better, thanks. That cantaloupe sounds good, also the breakfast food. Suit mackerel doesn't listen so bad to a man who hasn't had a single morsel of food between supper and breakfast. What's the matter with that sirloin, with a couple of rashers of bacon, a cheese omelet, some French fried potatoes, a few more of those hot rolls, please, and some wheat cakes with maple syrup and a pot of coffee?

Yes, that's the way it works—the whole program from soup to nuts, and you don't feel particularly well fed even then.

Then sometimes it works out in the following manner:

(Before you have investigated.)
Come, feed with me, my gentle friend,
While the covered coaches fly.
Let's seek the car at yonder end
Of the choo-choos, you and I.
We'll down the doughty tenderloin,
We'll scorn the Boston bean,
For only a paltry bit of coin,
Oh, shame on the man that's mean!
Come, take with me a bit of cheer,
Thou loved of my hungriest heart,
For the dining car's in the rear,
My dear,
And the service is a la carte.

(After investigation.)
Nay; not today, my time tried friend,
For my tummy hurts me so.
The food van's on the hindmost end.
'Tis quite too far to go.
The things they serve on railroad trains
Are never the food for mine.
I dare not take a chance on pains
With viands too rich and fine.
Let's fast and be of chastened cheer,
Nor vulgarly play the goat.
Though the dining car's in the rear,
My dear,
The service is table d'hote,
I note—
The service is table d'hote.

It All Depends.

"Not much of the pace that kills about this slow town, is there?"

"Yes; the pace that would kill a nervous person who had to stay here."

YOUTHFUL PHILOSOPHY.

How Johnny Gave His Father a Lesson in Economics.

Little Johnny had been gazing thoughtfully at his book of animal pictures when he suddenly called out:

"Say, pa, does it cost much to feed a lion?"

"Yes."

"How much?"

"Oh, a lot of money."

"A wolf would make a good meal for a lion, wouldn't it, pa?"

"Yes, I guess so."

"And a fox would be enough for the wolf, wouldn't it?"

"Yes, yes."

"And a fox would make a meal off a hawk, eh, pa?"

"I suppose so."

"And the hawk would be satisfied with a sparrow?"

"Of course."

"And a big spider would be a good meal for the sparrow, wouldn't it, pa—wouldn't it, pa?"

"Yes, yes."

"And a fly would be enough for the spider?"

"Sure."

"And a drop of molasses would be all the fly would want, wouldn't it?"

"Oh, stop that chatter."

"But wouldn't it, pa?"

"Yes."

"Well, pa, couldn't a man keep a lion more'n a year on a pint of molasses?"

But just at this point it was discovered that it was time for little Johnny to go to bed.—Salt Lake Herald.

Heard in a Restaurant.

"Say, waiter, I'm in a hurry. What can you give me for breakfast?"

"Can't give yer nothin', but yer kin git him an' eggs for a quarter."

"Well, give me two poached eggs on toast."

Calling, "Adam and Eve on a raft."

"And, say, waiter, by the way, have the eggs turned."

Calling again, "Wreck 'em!"

"Oh, say, waiter, how long will my omelet be?"

"About eight inches, I guess."

"Waiter, why don't you put a button on that apron?"

"Asked the old woman to sew a button on last night. She couldn't find one, so she sewed up the buttonholes."
